“łę” (la) or “li” (li) are used to mean the following:

1) To express one’s right:
“الحمد لله” (al-hamdu-lillaah): only Allah has the right to be admired and praised (for His Attributes).

2) To be particular to someone:
“ولَمْ ماَيْشَوْن” (walahu ma yastahoon): they specially want things that they like (16:58).

3) To express possession:
“لَـهُ ماَيْشَوْن” (lahu fisawati fil ard): whatever there is in the highs and the lows of the universe belongs to Him. (1:33).

4) To express benefit or gain:
“واللَّهُ ماَيْشَوْن” (wa alannalahul hadeed): We made iron soft for him so that he could benefit from it (34:10).

5) To express reason: (in the meaning of ‘so that’):
“وانْذَكَرْنا الْغَيْبَ لِلْعُمَلِ ﻟِﻠَّذِينَ ﺗَأْسَرُّوا ﻓِي ﻣَوْعِدَ” (wa anzalna ilakaz zikra li tabayyinal linnaas): and we have revealed this Quran unto you so that you disclose it for the benefit of mankind (16:44).

6) To stress the negative:
“ماَكَـبَتْ ﻋَـﻠَـيْهِ ﻭَمَـاَكَـبَتْ ﻋَـﻠَـيْهِ” (as laha ma kasabat wa alaiha mak tasabat): whoever does good deeds will benefit from them and whoever does bad deeds will reap the consequences (2:286).

7) To mean towards as “ila”:
“كَيْلَانِ رَبُّكَ واَوَّلَى” (bi anna rabbaka au ha laha): because your Sustainer has sent him the revelation (99:5).

8) To mean “up to”:
“كُلُّ يَـجْرَى لِلْجَـرَاءِ مُـسَـمًّى” (kullun yajri li-ajalin musamma): everything is moving as per a defined period (13:2).

9) Sometimes “ę” (la) also appears for “علي” (ala) or “on”:
“كَيْلَانِ رَبُّكَ” (wa annasatul fala): if you indulge in bad things, then you will be the loser (17:7).

10) To mean “above” as “ala”:
“وَنَـضَـعَ ﺍَـﻟْـماَرِ ﺍَـﻟْـمَـلِّـيَّ” (wa naza-ul mawazeenal qista li yaumul qiyyamah): and on the day of the qiyyamat We will set up scales of justice (21:47).

11) To mean “عَنْدَ” (ind): as “to some”:
“إِفَامُ السَّلَاةِ لِلْمُكَـرِّمِ ﺿَـمَّ إِلَى ﺿَـمَّ” (aqimis sallata li dulukis shams-ila ghasaqil lail): (17:78).
(li dulukis shams-i): near dulukis shams or after the dulukis shams.

“ل” (la) often comes to mean from. Therefore this verse could mean from “dulukis shamsi” to “ghasqil lail” i.e. from the Sun’s decline to the darkness of the night.

12) To highlight the subject:

“لا تقولوا لمن يظلم” (la taqulu liman yuqta): do not say of those who are killed (2:154).

13) To lay stress:

“لا تقولوا لمن يظلم” (la-umruka innahum laf sakratihim ya’mahoon): swear upon your age that they were being blind in their drunken-ness or stupor (15:72). See heading (Ain-M-R).

“لا فول ربك لغماريم” (faura rabbika lanah shoran nahum): Swear upon your Sustainer “We will certainly gather them together and bring them” (19:68).

14) Sometimes it is additional e.g.:

“لا تقولوا لمن يظلم” (ma tu’adoon) also has the same meaning.

15) Sometimes it is used to begin a sentence (to mean ‘that’):

“لا فول ربك لغماريم” (iz qaalu li Yusuf wa akhu hu…): when they said Yusuf and his brother…. (12:8).

16) Sometime it is used to mean ‘certainly’ or for laying stress:

“لا مسجدان اسما على التقوى” (la mosjidun ussisa alat taqwa): certainly the mosque which has been based on taqwa i.e. righteousness (9:108).

La

“لا” (la) expressed negative command.

“لا تضرب” (la tazrib): do not hit.

It also comes to mean the following:

1) To mean negative:

| 2:2 | there is no doubt about it | لا يَنَبِيثُ فِيهَ | |

2) To mean “لا ليس” (laisa) or ‘no’:

| 10:61 | Neither bigger than this nor smaller. They are all in a clear book | لا أَسْتَفْرُ مِن ذَلِكَ وَالآخِرِ إِلَّا مِن كَبْسٍ قَبَّ | |

3) “لا الأجرم” (la jaram) is used as a proverb or saying and means “the truth is”, or “the fact is” (16:23).

4) Sometimes it appears as if someone is being replied to

| 90:11 | I present this city as evidence | لا القسم بِهِ هذِ الْبَلدُ | |

5) Sometimes it is redundant:

| 7:12 | when I had ordered you what kept you from genuflecting or performing the bowing | ما من شاهد إلَّا أَشْهَدْ إِذْ أَمُرُنَّكَ | |

If here “لا” (la) is not used then too the meaning will remain the same, as in (38:75).
Allat

(\textit{allaat}): it was the name of an idol in \textit{Ta-If} for the tribe of \textit{Taqeef} in days before the advent of the \textit{Quran}. It is feminine and therefore the idol it represents was most likely seen as a goddess (53:19).

---

Laat

This word is used to mean “no”. The Quran says:

\begin{table}[h]
\begin{tabular}{|c|c|}
\hline
38:3 & And when there was no more time left to escape \text{ \textit{ولاات حين مناخ}} \text{ \textit{laat hijin manaxi}}. \\
\hline
\end{tabular}
\end{table}

Some say that in “\textit{لاات}” \textit{(laat)} the “\textit{لا}” \textit{(la)} is to mean ‘no’ and “\textit{ات}” \textit{(ta)} is redundant. But this redundant appears only with “\textit{حين}” \textit{(heena)}. Some think that it is “\textit{نقشن}” \textit{(naqasa)} and has been made into “\textit{لاات}” \textit{(laat)}). Some say that it is a permanent word and means “no”.

---

(L-A-L-A)

\textit{لم اَلَا}: the woman brightened her eyes, made eyes.

\textit{لم النّار}: the fire flared up and became illuminated \{T,R,M\}.

\textit{لم الّؤَؤُ}: with plural “\textit{اللِّيَاءُ}” \textit{(laali) means “pearl”, because pearls are shiny \{T\}.}

Ibn Faris says basically it means to be shiny.

Surah \textit{Al-Hajj} mentions “\textit{لم الّؤَؤُ}” \textit{(lu lu’u)} as one of the things of adornment of \textit{jannat} (22:23).

It means golden bangles, pearl, silky dress, i.e. all accoutrements of a luxurious life. Hence (22:23) resembles \textit{jannat} to a society in which all things that signify power, luxury and comfort are present and are to be distributed and used according to the laws of Allah.

---

Li-alla

(Li-alla)

“\textit{ليَالاً}”: lest it so happens, so that no…

\begin{table}[h]
\begin{tabular}{|c|c|}
\hline
57:29 & so those with the Book know that… \text{ \textit{ليَالاً يَعلَمُ الْهَلَفُ الْكَبِيرِ}} \text{ \textit{li-alla youlamul helfu al-kibir}}. \\
\hline
\end{tabular}
\end{table}

Here “\textit{لم}” \textit{(laam)} is redundant.

---

(L-B-B)

\textit{لم بِالْمَكَانِ}: he stayed at so and so place \{T\}.

Ibn Faris says it basically means to remain collected and to be with, as well as to be pure and pleasant.

\textit{لم الّيَكِ}: I consider being faithful to you as mandatory for me. I owe allegiance to you.
Some say that it is derived from “داری تلّبّ دار” (daari talubbu daarah), i.e. “my house is facing his”. Therefore “(labbaika)” means “my face is towards you” {T}.

“لَبّ” (lubb): the pure part of anything, or the kernel.
“لَبْلَب” (lubbal lauz): he broke an almond (shell) and took out its kernel {T}.
“اللّبَب” (al-labab): part of the chest on which a necklace is worn {T}.
“لَبْب” (al-lubb): intellect. The plural is “اللّبْب” (al-baab).

Muheet says that this word is derived from the Syrian word “لِبُس” (libu) or Hebrew word “لِب” (lib) which mean “the heart”. In Arabic the heart is called “اللّبَب” (al-lub) because it is covered (like an almond - kernel within a shell) with fat.

Raghib says that “لَبّ” (lubb) means sharp intellect which is pure and free from any adulteration, i.e. which is free of emotions, which is not subservient to emotions.

The Quran says:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>3:189</th>
<th>for men of understanding</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

These are people who do not make the intellect subservient to their emotions and make their mind to work in the light of the revelation. Thus their intellect is used for the good of others. The selfish intellect shows man the way of attaining personal gains, and the intellect directed by the guidance of the revelation shows him the way to universal nourishment and development i.e. for the good of mankind (13:17). That is why the Quran has said after “أولي الألباب” (oolil albaab) i.e. “أولي الألباب” (allazeena yazkurunallah) in (3:189-190), i.e. “those intelligent people who keep the revelation in their mind all the time”.

A momin’s duty is to employ the intellect in the light of the revelation. If any of these things are missing then he cannot be called a momin.

L-B-Th

ل ب ث

“لّبّا” (at-talabbusu): to wait a moment, or to stay (33:14) {T}.
“لّبّا” بَلْمَكْأَان” (labisa bilmakaan): stayed at some spot resolutely, or stayed there permanently {R}.
“لّب” (libis): someone who stays. The plural is “الألّبّو” (labison) and “الألّبّين” (labisn) as in (78:23).

The opponents used to ask the Messenger Muhammad for the proof of his messenger-hood. The Messenger replied:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>10:16</th>
<th>I have spent a lifetime (before the messenger-hood) among you. Can you not judge whether this sort of life is of a man who speaks truth or tells lies?</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>

He said that “if you use your intellect and reasoning, then my life among you will be a proof of my being truthful and the nature of the revelation being a proof of my messenger-hood. I am not a stranger and you can well judge whether I am a liar or speak the truth”.

Note how great is this claim which the Messenger has used in support of his being a truthful individual. The proof of a truthful individual is that he can claim not among his friends but among his opponents that his previous righteous life is a proof of his honesty and truthfulness.
L-B-D

"labada bilmakaan\(^{\text{a}}\)" (labada bilmakaan): to stay somewhere and stick to that place.

"lubd\(^{\text{a}}\)" (libd): in which wool is stuffed.

"maalun lubd\(^{\text{a}}\)" (maalan lubd): abundant wealth, or large accumulated wealth {T}.

IbnFaris says it means for something to be collected on top of another.

The Quran says:

| 90:6 | I wasted a lot of the collected wealth |
| 72:19 | they pounced on him as a crowd |

"annaasu lubad\(^{\text{a}}\)" (annaasulubad): people gathered.

"labidal qaumu bir rajul\(^{\text{a}}\)" (labidal qaumu bir rajul): people surrounded him and did not leave him {T}.

L-B-S

"labas\(^{\text{a}}\)" (labas), "yalbis\(^{\text{a}}\)" (yalbis), "labsa\(^{\text{a}}\)" (labsa): to fuse things so that one thing cannot be distinguished from another. It also means to create doubt {T}. Hence it also means to hide one thing into another.

| 2:42 | Do not confuse the truth by mixing it with falsehood |
| 6:9 | the doubt in which they have thrown themselves |

"labisa\(^{\text{a}}\)" (labasa), "yllabse\(^{\text{a}}\)" (yalbas), "lubsa\(^{\text{a}}\)" (labsa): to wear.

"labisa\(^{\text{a}}\)" (labasa), "al-labas\(^{\text{a}}\)" (al-libas): that which is worn {T}.

"labisa\(^{\text{a}}\)" (labasa), "al-labas\(^{\text{a}}\)" (al-libas): husband or wife {T}.

The Quran says:

| 2:187 | husband and wife are each other’s dressing |

In means that they have nothing in between and are dependent upon each other.

"labisa\(^{\text{a}}\)" (labasa), "al-labas\(^{\text{a}}\)" (al-libas), "al-lalaboos\(^{\text{a}}\)" (al-lalaboos): the armour and weapon {T}. The Quran has said "san’atah labus\(^{\text{a}}\)" (san’atah labus) in (21:80) which means “to make armour”.

"labisa fulanun imra’ah\(^{\text{a}}\)" (labisa fulanun imra’ah): that man enjoyed that woman for a period (had sexual relations with her) {M}.

"amrun mulbis\(^{\text{a}}\)" (amrun mulbis), "mulabis\(^{\text{a}}\)" (multabis): doubtful matter {T}.

"at-talbees\(^{\text{a}}\)" (at-talbees): to hide the reality and to make things appear as opposed to reality.

| 50:15 | These people are doubtful about being raised again (they are confused in this matter) |
L-B-N

- "al-laban" (لالبن): milk {T}.
- "al-labin" (لالبين): the blocks (or bricks) with which a building is constructed.

The Quran says:

L-J-A

- "laja'a" (لاجأ): he sought sanctuary with him.
- "alaaahu ila kaza" (الله إلى كزا): forced him to it.
- "al-ja'a fulana" (الجأ فلانا): he saved him, or took him into protection {T, M}.
- "talajja minhum" (تلاجج عنهم): he separated himself from them and their group and leaned towards others {T}.
- "al-laja'u" (اللجأ): sanctuary or a place to be safe and to be protected {T} (9:57).

Ibn Faris says the basic meaning of this root is to return to its elements, time and time again.

L-J-J

- "al-lujju w", "al-lujjah" (اللجه): deep waters.
- "lujjul bahr" (لجه البحر): the deep spot in a river from where the river banks are not visible.
- "lujjatul bahr" (لجهة البحر): vast, wide river.
- "al-lajjaaj" (اللجأج): to continue and increase the quarrel even though one’s fault has been ascertained, or to insist in a quarrel, or continue to oppose {T, M}. For this, "لجه في الأمر" (لجهة في الأمر) has been used.

The Quran says:

L-H-D

According to Ibn Faris, the root basically means to move away from the centre to one side.

- "allahd" (اللخد): the hole that is dug width wise beside a grave which the dead are buried in.
- "zarreehun" (ضريح): is the hole which is dug in the middle.
“الحاد” (lahada ilaih): he leaned or bent towards him {T}. The same meaning is of “الحاد” (iltahada ilaih) {R}.

“الحاد” (alaahad): he turned away from the right Deen.

“الحاد” (al-ilhaad): to turn away, return, or to give up the balanced path and lean towards oppression and wrong {T}.

Surah Al-Airaaf says:

7:180 those who turn away from Allah and bend to one side

For example the Christians have a belief which associates blank mercy to God and have ignored the law of requital and its consequences. It is a deliberate diversion in Deen as revealed in the Quran (4:171).

The Quran says:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>41:40</th>
<th>People who practice ilhaad in teh revelation (give up the balanced path and move to one side)</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>22:25</td>
<td>Whoever display rebelliousness and oppression, and turn away from the righteous path and use kaabah for wrong purposes</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>16:103</td>
<td>Language of the one they refer to</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

In (16:103) “الحاد” (ilhaad) means to attribute something wrongly, that is, to move away from the path and to attribute.

“مُّلتَحة” (multahada): sanctuary towards which one goes for protection (by shunning his usual way) (18:27). It also means an underground pass or tunnel.

The above verse of Surah Al-Airaaf unveils a great truth. The complete verse says:

7:180 All attributes of Allah are duly balanced and proportionate. So call Him with reference to those attributes and leave those who turn away from Him. They will soon be recompensed for what they do

The Quran refers to the attributes of Allah in detail and thus defines Him as a model for each one of us for guidance. Each of these attributes which are applicable to us is infinitely balanced and proportionate and when accepted and followed gradually helps us in the self-development. The permanent values given in the Quran define the boundaries within which we live our life and work towards attaining these attributes with a view to establish a system for the good of mankind. Those who acknowledge those attributes but do not maintain proportion in them are “مُلحِد” (mulhid). You must have nothing to do with them. The result of their erroneous ways will soon be before them, so do not follow them.

Note that “مُلحِد” (mulhid) is not one who denies the existence of God or His attributes, but someone who upsets the balance in any of those attributes by going against them. This is a wrong way. Islam means to maintain the balance as explained in the Quran whether it is within the values or the attributes.

L-H-F

“الحاد” (al-ilhaaf): the clothes that we put over us to ward off the cold in winter or which we wrap around ourselves to keep warm. It can be used for a blanket, quilt, etc. which are put over all those clothes which we are already wearing {T}.

Ibn Faris says this root basically means to wrap, to stick to, or to be with.

“الحَاف” (lahafah): he put the blanket over him.

“مَلْحَف” (iltahafa bihi): he wrapped it around himself {T}.

QES-Norway Lughat-ul-Quran Volume IV Page 8 of 276
Surah Al-Bagrah says:

| 2:273 | they do not pester someone while asking |

Figuratively it means to do something with great exaggeration or intensity of force \( R \).
L-H-Q

“الْحَاقُ بِهِ” (alhaahu bihi): made him follow him or made them meet each other.
“الْحَاقُ” (al-mulhiq): the man who leaves his own clan and joins another. Therefore, it means to meet or join somebody.
“تَلاَحَقُتُ الرَّكَابِ” (tala haqat rikaab): the transports went on joining each other {T, R, M}.

Surah Al-Yusuf contains this prayer of Yusuf:

12:101 make me meet the saliheen (those who do good deeds) or make me one of the saliheen

Surah Al-Jummah says about the Messenger Muhammed and nations which have so far not met him i.e. coming later in the future:

62:3 Because Muhammed is a messenger for all mankind

In other words, his messenger-hood for the coming generations is the same as it is for the generation he was born in. Therefore to believe that any other messenger will come after Muhammed is wrong and totally against the Quranic teachings i.e. the revelation is completed and there is no need for a further revelation from Allah – this becomes evident when we study the Quran as directed and explained within it.

L-H-M

Ibn Faris says it means for one thing to enter another.

“لُحْمَة” (luhmah): closeness, relationship, or the weft of the cloth which along with the waft forms the cloth.
“الْحَم” (al-lahm): meat, because its elements are intertwined with each other.
“الْحِمَاثة” (al-malhamah): a fierce battle, or a big event of fratricide {T, R, M}.
“الْحِم” (al-lahim): the house where a lot of back biting is done {T, R, M}.

The Quran has likened back biting to eating a dead brother’s flesh (49:12).

The plural of “لَحْم” (lahm) is “لُحْم” (luhum) as in (22:37).

L-H-N

“الْحَن” (al-lahn) basically means to be detracted from the right path {T, R, M}

What it actually means is to change the context of a thing or way in which it is usually taken. One way of doing this is to fix secret meanings of words, and when those words are spoken, people take the usual meanings but those who know will take the designated secret meaning. Another way is to change the construction of the word. The third way is to change the meanings of the words or its connotation. A man who is very intelligent and comprehends the connotations is called “الْحَن” (lahin) {R}.

Ibn Faris says it has two basic meanings:
- To turn a thing away from its right path.
- Genius and intellect.

The Quran says about the hypocrites:
the way they twist the words gives them away

| 47:30 | the way they twist the words gives them away |

About the Jews Surah Al-Nisa says:

| 4:46 | (about the Jews) they say; ‘we hear and we disobey’, and ‘hear, you may not hear’ and with ‘Raina’, with a twist of their tongues... |

اللحن (al-lahn): also means language or dialect, and also to make mistakes while reading.

الحسن (la-hisn): someone who speaks wrongly.

قدلانا لحنًا (qad lahana lahu lahna): he spoke in such a way so that only he could understand him, i.e. through symbols and innuendos etc. {R}.

| L-H-Y | ل ح ي |

Ibn Faris says "لحي" (lahy) has two basic meanings. One is “part of the body” or “the jaw” and the second meaning is “to pare something”.

- لحيَة (allahyu): jaw or the place where the beard grows.
- لاحِين (lahaitu fulanun alhaah): I demeaned him, shamed him.
- المهْيَين (malhiyyun): the man who is demeaned.
- اللحنُ مِلَاحَةً (lahaahu mula haatan): he fought him, or they abused or demeaned each other:

The Quran says:

| 20:94 | Do not hold my beard (do not insult me) |
| 7:150 | He caught his brother by the head and pulled him |

Here along with verbal condemnation, movement of the hands is also referred.

اللادع (al-ladu): a man whose intent is very firm and he cannot be turned away from his purpose. It signifies a man who is very adamant and quarrelsome and does not listen to anyone. Plural is “للداع* (ludd).

اللادعاءان (al-ladeedaan): both sides of the neck which are below the ears, or both ends of the valley {T}.

للذَّيْنْ (ludd) would mean “removed from truth”. It is also used for those who do not listen to reason, or a quarrelsome man who is deaf in a way because he refuses to listen to what others have to say, but only keeps saying what he wants.

اللَّذَيْنْ (iltudda unhu): he moved away from it {R}.

اللذَاذَا (al-dudtahu): I found him very quarrelsome {R}.

Ibn Faris says it has two basic meanings. One is “to quarrel” and second is “the edge of something”.

The Quran says:

| 2:204 | he is very quarrelsome |
| 19:97 | A hostile nation |
Ladun

“لدَنْ” (ladun): near, or close by.

“ﻣِﻦْ لَﺪُﻥْ” (min ladun): from.

“ﻣِﻦْ لَﺪُﻥْ ﺣَﮑِﻴْﻢٍ ﺧَﺒِﻴْﺮٍ” (min ladun hakeemin khabeer): from God, the All-knowing (11:1).

“لَﺪَﺍ ﺍﳊْﺒَﺎﺀ” (ladal baab): near the door (12:25).

In Sufism (mysticism) there is a term “îlmi ludni” which means “knowledge which a man gets directly from God”. ‘kashf’ or ‘ilhaam’ are also mentioned under heading (L-M-H). As mentioned therein, the concept of ilhaam and kashf after the end of the messenger-hood and the messenger Muhammed being the last messenger is non Quranic. Whatever knowledge required for guidance is in the Quran. Nobody can otherwise get any knowledge directly from Allah. Direct knowledge from God is called Wahi and after Muhammed, Wahi has stopped and there is no need as the Quran is a complete book of guidance for all times

"لُدْى" (lada) appears to mean "لدَنْ" (ladun):

| 40:18 | (when hearts will come) up to the throats or near the throat. |

L-Dh-Dh

“اللﱠذَّة” (al-lazzah): wish, or the pleasure which one likes. It is the opposite of "اَﻟْﻢٌ" (alum).

"لَذَّةٍ” (lazzah), “لَذَّبِہٖ” (lazzabihi): he found it to be tasty {M}.

"وَتَلَﺬُ ﺍﻟْﻴُﻮْﻥ” (wa talazzul ain): and pleasing to the eyes (43:71).

The Quran says:

| 37:46 | pleasant or tasty for those who drink it |

Muheet says to comprehend that something is tasty or pleasant to one’s liking is also called “لدَنْ” (lazzah).

L-Z-B

“لَزَبٌ” (lazbun): for something to be stable, steadfast and to remain along with.

“لَزَبَ” (lazib): must {F}.

“لَزِبٌ” (al-luzuh): to stick to.

“طِﻴْﻦٍ لَزِبٍ” (teenil laazib): sticky mud (37:11).

“الـلَّزَبْ” (al-lalaazib): a thing which dries up with something, or sticks to it and solidifies with it.

“لَزِبِت” (lazbat tain): the mud dried up and became hard.

“لَزِبٍ” (al-lazbah): severe draught which seems to have stuck, because days of misery do not go away very easily {T, R}.

About human creation it is said in Surah Az-zaaafaat that man has been created from "طِﻴْﻦٍ لَزِبٍ” (teenin laazib) in (37:11). It says that when water mixed with soil, it created the first form of life cells. Scientists believe today that small life cells were created along the edges of water filled ditches. Life has evolved from these life cells. For details, see the book titled Iblees and Adam under the heading Insaan.
The Quran says that Nooh told his nation that the invitation to the guidance which has not clearly been made known to you:

11:28 Can I forcibly impose it upon you?

28:26 He put them on taqwa (the path of righteousness)

Surah Al-Taha says about the punishment from Allah:

20:129 it was one to come and stick to them

Or it may mean that he always held the revealed truth high and presented this truth to the world.

The Quran has described the difference of languages as signs of Allah (30:22). The research on languages of the world has in our times acquired the form of a philosophy which in Ernst Cassier's words is called "The Philosophy of Symbolic Forms". Also Dr. Bucke in his book "The Cosmic Consciousness" has analysed different languages and described the culture of different nations which reveals how the difference of languages are the signs of God.

It is only the beginning of this research: with the passage of time more research and evidence will come out which will put light on the truth about the Quranic verse (41:53).
changes that take place in the universe, where deeds are formulating their results. But all these changes are imperceptible. All this goes on in a very fine manner.

Surah Al-Anaam says:

| 6:104 | Human eyes cannot behold God, and he can see all because He is Lateef and All Knowing |

This means that He is viewer of fine details.

Surah Al-Kahaf says that the fellowship of the cave said that one of us should go to the habitation and bring something to eat:

| 18:19 | He should be careful lest someone comes to know about us |

Meaning of “لطف” (lutf’s) is also evident here, i.e. to do something imperceptibly without getting noticed by others.

"لطف" (al-laza): fire or flame of fire.

Raghib says it means pure flame of fire, i.e. which is not mixed with smoke.

"لطفان" (lazi-atun naaru), "تلطَث" (talazzat): the fire flared up {T, M}.

The Quran says:

| 70:15 | fire with flames |
| 92:14 | fire which is flaring up |

"لْعَابَة" (lu-aab): saliva of the mouth.

"لَعِبْ فِلْلَان" (laa-iba fulaan): he worked without the right aim {T, M}.

Muheet concurs and adds that it also means work which is useless. It also means to like improper matters and to derive pleasure from them, or to turn to useless things instead of engaging in fruitful things.

"لَعِبْ" (laa-ib): player {T, L}.

"لَعِبْ" (laa-ibh) is the opposite of "جِد" (jidd) which means to do something seriously. Therefore "لَعِبْ" (laa-ibb) means to be non-serious about a thing.

"لَعِبِيْنَا بَلْ مَوْجَ" (laa-iba minal mauj) is said when the waves do not take the boat towards its destination.

"لَعِبَ" (laa-ib) would mean movement but without result, useless word or deed.

"إِنَّمَا أَنتَ لَعِبْ" (innama anta laa-ib): you are not taking it seriously {T, L}. Also see heading (L-He-W).

Keys say that "لِحْوَا" (lahuwa) means to turn away from the truth, and "لَعِبْ" (laa-ib) means to turn to falsehood {M}.
Surah Al-Ma'idah says:

5:57 Those who take your Deen non-seriously, do not make them your friends.

6:92 So shun them and let them play with their nonsensical things

This is about those who think that life is merely a plaything, or a joke – do not take it seriously.

The Quran has directed us to keep our eyes on the future. The future covers many aspects of our life: for example thinking about the oncoming life instead of living it up in the present, the thought about the future generations, the consideration about the welfare of the entire humanity, the pursuit of the higher ideals of life as compared to the immediate benefits of this life, etc. Contrary to this is the way of not thinking at all about the life in the hereafter and live it for the immediate gains and pleasures of this life.

The Quran says this life is merely a plaything:

6:32 To devote all of one’s energies towards the luxuries of this life waste of efforts and time

6:32 those who wish to benefit in the hereafter must understand that the benefits of the future life are something for which they need to make an effort through righteousness

लहवा (lahwa): to turn a man’s attention from that which is essential to things which are useless and meaningless. This does not mean that the Quran thinks that the life of this world is lowly - not at all. It says a momin’s life comprises of the struggle to attain the pleasantness in this life and to conquer the forces of the universe. See heading (D-N-W). It simply means that one should not lose sight of the benefits of the future in favour of the immediate benefits of this life. It does not support existence merely on an animal level: it says whenever there is a clash of interests between the benefits of the future life and the benefits of this life then the latter should be sacrificed in favor of the former: nations which do not think of the future are destroyed: individuals too: the Quran always advocates to go for the benefits of the future: it does advocate acquisition of the benefits of this life but not at the cost of the future life: if you do not sacrifice the benefits of this life for the benefits of the future, when and if there is confrontation between the two, then it will mean that you take life non-seriously.

Surah Al-Ambia says:

21:16 And We have not created this system of the universe without reason

It is not without a serious purpose. It has a great purpose. It has been created as part of a great program.

21:18 Constructive forces continuously are battling destructive forces and destroying them

Thus this system is evolving. It is obvious that a thing which has been created frivolously cannot be like this. The Quran in this verse has also contradicted the belief which is prevalent among the Hindus according to which God has created this universe as a plaything. They say that their Eshwar (God) is also called Nat rajan which means “the king of plays”.

The Quran says that this concept is nonsense:

21:18 This sort of talk is the basis of destruction and ultimate regret

30:8 The universe has been created with truth (i.e. truly with a purpose).

As such, every matter regarding the universe or human life must be taken seriously. It should not be thought of as a joke and it should be kept in mind that there is a purpose to this life. This has broken Plato’s myth according to which the universe was merely a fraud or a sham, and with it demolished the structure of Waidaant or real Monasticism or rebirth and also monasticism. Materialism is also refuted which says life is only physical and materialistic.

La’al

 llama (la’al): creates the following meanings:

1) To mean “so that”.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Arabic</th>
<th>English</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>2:189</td>
<td>protect the laws of God (observe them) so that your fields (lives) are productive</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

It appears for expectation and hope. So in this light this verse would mean “it is hoped that…” or “it is expected that…”

The Quran has said that “كتاب” (kitaab) and “حكم” (hikmat) are both from Allah (2:231, 17:39, 4:113). “كتاب” means the laws and “حكم” means the reason for it which that law has been made for. “لا قا” (la’alla) appears to explain this “حكم” (hikmat) i.e. the reason behind an injunction.

wat taqul laaaha is the book (i.e. law or order) and “لا قاكم تلخون” (la’allakum tuflihoon) is the reason that law, or the result which will accrue if that law is followed.

2) To mean “perhaps” or “maybe”.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Arabic</th>
<th>English</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>42:17</td>
<td>So all of you may know the moment of that revolution may well be near</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

3) To mean as a rhetoric question.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Arabic</th>
<th>English</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>11:12</td>
<td>So you may abandon a part of the guidance (in order to please them)? (no, you will never do so)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

4) Sometimes it appears to mean ‘as if’ or ‘so that’.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Arabic</th>
<th>English</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>26:129</td>
<td>And you indulge in machinations as if you are to stay here forever</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

It may also mean “you go to all this trouble of creating things as if they will give you permanence”- note how the Quran refers to the human thought process.

لا عن (laa’un): to distance from somebody due to displeasure, to shun somebody {R}.

لا عن (la’anat) from Allah would mean for a man to be deprived of the happiness of life. Obviously this deprivation will be the result of living against the laws of Allah.

لا عن (la’nat) would mean to be deprived of the good things of life due to the natural result.

اللاعن (al-laeen): scare crow {T}.

The Quran has said about Iblees:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Arabic</th>
<th>English</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>15:34</td>
<td>Then surely you are expelled</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>15:35</td>
<td>And indeed upon you there shall be la’nat</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

راج (rajm): to throw something away. This too explains the meaning of “لا عن” (la’nat)
The Quran says the Jews claimed that the Quran’s teachings could never affect them, and that their hearts were covered and protected.

The Quran says:

| 2:88 | It is not that! Due to their denial and rebelliousness their hearts have been sealed (from accepting the Quran) |

And this has happened due to the natural consequences of not accepting the guidance – note here a reference is made to the human thought process which is affected by the nature of the values and their consequences.

Those who say that “Allah rains “العنْت” (la’nant) on those who refuse to believe are wrong: Allah never uses any execrable words. The term simply means the effect of the Law of Requital, which is that anyone who adopts the wrong path gets deprived automatically of the good things of life i.e. this as well as the hereafter. The result of this wrong path is called “العنْت” (la’nat) and those individuals or nations which do so are called “مُلْعَوْنٌ” (mala’oon).

L-Gh-B ل غ ب

"الْغَبَ" (laghab), "الْغَبْ" (lughba): to be very tired, exhausted {T}
"الْقَصَبْ" (an-nasab): bodily tiredness.
"الْغَحْبَ" (al-laghub): mental or psychological tiredness {T}.
"الْقُحْبَ" (sahmun laghib): the arrow with very bad feathers at its tail end.
"الْقُحُرُ" (rajulun laghib): weak and foolish man {R}.

The Quran contains the saying of those who dwell in the jannat:

| 35:35 | It will not tire body or mind {T} |

Note how high and fine are the next stages of life that the Quran promises us. There shall be no physiological tiredness or psychological tiredness. How this condition will prevail in the life after death we cannot say with our present level of knowledge, but obviously that life would be full of energy - the Quran has referred to these states in various verses.

L-Gh-W ل غ و

"الْعَنْت" (al-lugha): language
"الْغَهْبَ" (laghawti), "الْغَهْ" (laghwa): I spoke.

Some think that “الْغَهْ" (al-laghwu) means to throw or insert.
"الْغَهْ" (lahwun): speech because it is also cast {T}.

Muheet says it could have been derived from the Greek word ‘logos’ which means sentence or word {M}.

Ibn Faris says it has two basic meanings. One meaning is of an insignificant thing which deserves no attention. Second meaning is the prominence or ubiquity of a thing or to talk about it all the time.

Therefore as per the previous meaning “الْغَهْ" (al-laghwu) means the kids of a camel which are not acceptable as compensation, and as per the second meaning “الْغَهْ" (al-lugha) means language because everyone likes his language and uses it in speech.

"الْغَهْ" (al-lagha) and "الْغَهْ" (al-lughwu) mean the sound of a bird.
“at-tairu talgha bi aswatiha” (birds make their own sounds.

“laghwu” (meaningless talk or slips of the tongue). Raghib says “a speech which comes out thoughtlessly.

Khaleel says that (laghwu) is a speech that comes out without thought.

“kalimatun laghiyah” (dirty talk.

“lagha fi qaulihi” : he made a mistake in saying.

“al-ghaah” : he was unrequited, or made unsuccessful, or made useless.

“al-lagha” : a useless thing.

Surah Al-Bagrah says:

2:225 Allah doesn’t hold you to your superfluous promises (swearings). Holds you only to those which are truly from your heart.

This makes the meaning of “laghwu” clear, that is, the things you say without intent and that come out of your mouth meaningless. At another place after “a speech which comes out thoughtlessly.

5:89 The firm pacts that you make from your heart.

It means such a pact that is heartfelt, and that which you fully comprehend and decide with full intent.

This too makes the meaning of “laghwu” clear.

About the wine of jannat, it is said:

52:23 It will neither make man say useless things nor create stupor.

At another place it is said about the jannat:

19:62 It will have everything that promises peace and solidarity: there will be no laghwu.

In Surah Al-Ghaashia, “laghia” has appeared in place of “laghwu” in (88:11).

Momineen are said to be:

25:72 If they ever have to face something laghu then they pass by very seriously (or avoid it)

Here laghu means improper things.

The above examples make the meanings of “laghwu” clear, that is, useless or improper things, or talk that is not befitting a gentleman, or meaningless talk, or only sounds with no real meaning, or talk which is thoughtlessly indulged in, or work which does not produce any result. In a society of the momineen, no such thing will be found.

At one place in the Quran it is said about the kuffaar that they used to tell their colleagues that:

41:26 do not listen to the Quran

41:26 Wherever the Quran is being recited, indulge in useless talk.

Today, this advice is given to the Muslims i.e. they are advised not to go directly to the Quran but to other books!

This is the way to distract from the Quran: this will help you overcome them (those who invite to the Quran): because if the people ever hear the Quran then they will never be satisfied with your self-created religion.
As such anything, any talk, any concept, any thought, any deed, any ideology, that keeps man away from the Quran is "ﻟَﻐْﻮٌ" (laghu). We too have been indulging in "ﻟَﻐْﻮٌ" (laghu) things since centuries and till we cleanse our hearts and minds of these "ﻟَﻐْﻮِﻳﺎﺕ" (laghwiyats), we can never reach the pure Deen – as a consequence people will never benefit from the teachings of the Quran.

“الفتخ” (lafatahu), “اللفت” (yalfituhu): to detract someone from his way, or to turn him away from the direction he faces, or to return.
“اللفتخ: عن الشيء” (lafatahu unish shaiyi): turned him away from something or reverted him {T}.

The Quran says:

| 10:78 | Have you come to us to turn us away from the path of our forefathers and take us to another way? |

َAdresse| (lifitaat): to change direction {T}.

"لفتخ: معه" (lifitahu ma’ahu): he leans that way {M}.

"الفتخ" (al-lafuut): a woman with a child from the previous husband and due to the attention she gives him she cannot attend properly to her current husband. It also means a she-camel which continuously looks at the man who milks her and shouts a lot because her child has passed away {T}.

In Surah Al-Hoodh, Luut has been told to leave his nation and get out of there:

| 11:81 | And none of you should then turn around (leave everything and do not ever think of them again) |

L-F-H

“لفتخ” (lafh): very hot wave of air.
“لفتخ” (lafhun): every hot thing {Lissan-ul-Arab}.
“لفتخ” (nafkhun): every cold thing {Lissan-ul-Arab}.
“لفتخ: النار بحرًا” (lafhatun naaru harriha): the fire singed him {T, R, M}.

Muheet says with reference to Asma-e, that anything which is called “لفتخ” (lafah) will be hot, and anything called “لفتخ” (nafah) will be cold.

Surah Al-Mominoon says:

| 23:104 | Fire will devastate their faces |

L-F-Ze

Ibn Faris says the word means to insert or throw something.

“لفتخ: من فيه” (yalfizhu min feeh): he threw it out of his mouth {T, R, M}.
“لفتخ” (al-lalafizah): the sea because whatever is in it, it throws out on the beaches. It also means birds which feed their young ones because they feed them with whatever they bring in their beaks. It also means grist mill because whatever is put in it (wheat etc.) it throws out after grinding as flour. It also means a goat which stops grazing if a man arrives to milk her and she gets ready to be milked.
“لفتخ” (al-lalafazah): that which is thrown out of the mouth {T}.
“لفتخ” (lafz): the sound that comes out of the mouth.
“لفتخ” (lafzullah): it is not used but instead it is said “كلمة الله” (kalimatil laah) {M}.

The Quran says:

| 50:8 | he doesn’t say anything |
L-F-F

"اللف" (al-luff): to wrap. It is the opposite of "نشر" (nashr).

"لفش الشيء بالشيء" (luffash shaiya bish shaiy): he mixed a thing with another.

"الليفة" (al-liff): party or group, or congregated people, or crowd with different sort of people, or people of different tribes gathered together.

"اللفة" (al-lifaafoo): belt.

"اللفاف" (al-laffafoo): trees growing closely.

"لفاف الألفاء" (jannaat al-laffafoo): dense, thick, abundant trees in a garden (78:16).

Surah Bani Israeel says:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>17:104</th>
<th>We will bring you together from all around</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>75:29</td>
<td>intensity was added upon intensity (the difficulties kept mounting)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

"لف" (iltaff): for one thing to embrace another, or wrap around another.

"سااق" (saaq): means calf of the leg {T, R}.

L-F-Y

"اللفاء" (al-lafa'a): dust and any useless thing {T}, i.e. something which is begotten without any labour.

L-Q-B

"اللف" (al-laqab): a nomenclature which is not really one’s name but which is later used for somebody. Plural is "لف" (al-qaab) {T}. There is a concession of meaning in his but in "العلاء" (aalaaam) there is no concession of meaning {R}.

"لف" (laqab) is of three kinds.

"لف تشریف" (laqab tashrif), "لف تعريف" (laqab taarif) and "لف تسخيف" (laqab taskheef). The third kind contains an element of insult {M}.

The Quran says:

| 6:11   | do not call each other by bad names (demeaning names) |

See heading (N-B-Z).
L-Q-H

(‘liqaah): sperm of camel or horse.
(al-‘laqah): conception.
(laaqih): pregnant. Plural is (lawaaqih).
(laqihatin naaqaah): she camel became pregnant.
(‘al-fahatis ‘riyahus was-sahaab): the winds made the trees and the clouds fruitful \([T, R]\) (by bringing pollen from other trees and thus fertilizing the trees) and the clouds by vaporizing water of the sea \([Ibn Faris]\).
(wa arsalnar ‘riyaha liwaqi’a): we send fruitful winds \((15:22)\).
(ar ‘eehal aqeeem): stormy winds, or barren winds \((51:41)\).

L-Q-Te

(laqat), (yalqit), (laqta): to pick up some lowly or insignificant thing.
(al-‘laqat): anything that is lying on the ground and someone picks it up, or a newly born who is thrown away. It is also called (‘al-‘laqeeet) \([T, M]\).

*Ibn Faris* says it means to pick up something from the ground suddenly and of which there is no prior intent. But sometime it can also be with intent.

The Quran says that \emph{Yusuf}'s brothers said “put him in the deep well”:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>12:10</th>
<th>Some caravan will find him and take him along</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

About \emph{Moosa} it is said that when his mother set him afloat in the river:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>28:2</th>
<th>Pharaoh’s people picked him up</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

L-Q-F

(laqif), (yalqaf): to quickly take something that is thrown to you, or to take it or snatch it quickly.
(at-talqeef), (at-talaqquf): to swallow food.
(at-talqeef): while running for horses or camels to use front legs quickly and not let them go the full length towards the belly \([T, R]\).
(talaqqafash shaiyi): to take something smartly and quickly \([T, R]\).

The Quran says about the staff of \emph{Moosa}:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>7:117</th>
<th>It swallowed the reasoning of the opponents without any reaction</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

It means that the reasons could not stand up to him, or he stretched his hand and snatched them, or he snatched quickly whatever the sorcerers had made out. As the traditional translations go, it means that the fake snakes of the sorcerers were swallowed quickly by \emph{Moosa}'s python.
L-Q-M

“الَّذِي” (al-laqm): to eat quickly and fast:
“الَقِمَة” (laqimah): pulled it with his mouth and ate it quickly:
“الْفَقْم” (ultaqamah): he swallowed it in time {T, R}, i.e. first put it in his mouth and then swallowed it.
“الْلَقْم” (laqima) and “الْيَلْقَم” (ultaqam): to put something in mouth {Lisan-ul-Arab}.

Ibn Faris says it basically means to take mouthful to the mouth with a hand.

In relation to Yunus the Quran says:

| 37:143 | A big fish put him in its mouth |

“لاقِمَةُ الْطَرِيقَ” (laqam tareeq): he closed the entrance to the path {T, R}.
“الْقَمَةُ الْحَجَر” (al-qamahul hajar): in a quarrel or heated argument, he silenced his opponent {M}.

Luqmaan

The Quran has mentioned Luqmaan with reference to knowledge and hikmah i.e. wisdom.

| 31:12 | And indeed we gave hikmah to Luqmaan |

But he has not been called messenger, nor has he been described in detail. Only the advices he gave his son are mentioned (31:12-19).

Some say that he was the nephew of Ayyub (a messenger who is renowned for his forbearance). Some say he was born in the times of Dawud (another messenger). Some think that he was a Negro slave. Some think that he was the famous Aesop whose fables are so widely known.

Dr. Spanger thinks that it is the other name of Elxai of Abyuna. Professor Hitti supports this thought.

The Torah’s Book of Examples says that his tales resemble those of Yaqa’s son Ajwar (Example 30:1). The tales of Tawayal king (31:1) are similar to those of Luqmaan. Due to this guess he should belong to the Bani Ismael.

But all these are speculations. Further research may lead us to some definite conclusion in the future. But one thing is certain that if Luqmaan had access to the revelation (which the Quran has not mentioned) then hikmah would mean this guidance. If he was not given this guidance (as the Quran shows), then this would mean that he had the ability to comprehend the hikmah, or the laws of the revealed guidance.

In other words, hikmah is another name for the revealed guidance, and when this word is with reference to an ordinary human being’s own thinking, then it means wisdom.
Imam Raazi says “لقاء” (liqa’a) means for one body to touch another {T}.

Imam Raghib says touching is not necessary for “لقاء” (liqa’a), just to be facing one another is enough. Some say that to comprehend something by visual means or insight is “لقاء” (liqa’a).

"لقاء“ (iliqa’un): to put one thing in front of another {R}.

"لقاء“ (iliqa’un): war, when the forces are facing each other {M}.

Johri says that it is also said to mean to throw something away {T}.

Ibn Faris says it has three basic meanings.
- For two things to meet, or come face to face.
- To put something or lay something down.
- Crookedness which is called “للقوه” (al-laqwah).

The Quran says:

2:14 when they face the momineen

2:37 Hence Adam got the laws of Allah

15:19 And we casted within (earth) rigid mounts

This word has also been used to mean “to put” in (20:39).

Surah An-Namal says that Suleman gave a servant his letter and said:

27:28 put this letter in front of her (deliver it to her)

After this Queen Saba is recorded as having said:

27:29 A respected letter has been sent to me

Surah An-Nahal says:

16:68 tell him

Surah Al-Kahaf says:

18:110 he who wants that Allah’s law should come before him in a palpable form must be steadfast on the program presented by the laws of Allah and use all his capabilities as called for by this system and keep this free from any other emotion or selfishness

Therefore “لقاء رب“ (liqa’i rab) means for His system of Sustenance to manifest itself in palpable form, or for results of man’s deeds to manifest themselves according to the law of requital, and also for man never to forget that he is accountable to Allah through the Law of requital for every deed.

Finding inroads in “لقاء رب“ (liqai rab) means finding ways to avoid Allah’s law in one’s own practical life. Remember that according to the Law of requital the results of deeds manifest here in this life as well as the life hereafter, therefore “لقاء رب“ (liqai rab) is in this world as well as in the life hereafter. So far as the “لقاء رب“ (liqai rab) is concerned where man can see it manifest itself in palpable form the Quran asks man to conduct research and try to understand His system, and the law will manifest itself (13:2). But this will be done only by him who does not consider this life as the ultimate end (10:6-8). Such people are deprived of the blessings of Allah (29:32). From the context it can be determined as to what the Quran means by “لقاء رب” (liqaai rab); whether it means to see the reference to the sustenance system unveiled or to see the result of deeds which shape up according to the Law of requital whether in this life or in the life hereafter.

Some think that verses about “لقاء رب” (liqaai rab) mean that man will see Allah in the hereafter, i.e. he will see Him face to face. Here one must be reminded that God’s personality is not material nor do we know that in the hereafter what will be the condition of human life. Therefore, to believe that man and God will face each other in the hereafter like a man faces another man is this world, would be wrong. We do not know how “لقاء رب” (liqaai rab) would be in the hereafter.

Generally it is believed that God does “القاء” (ilqa) on a particular issue or thing to some elders. This is supposed to mean that the knowledge regarding a thing or issue was revealed directly by God through kashf or ilhaam to him. This has no certification from the Quran. Direct knowledge from God was received through the revelation in the past which has now stopped after the demise of the last Messenger Muhammad. If anyone says that somebody gets “ilqa” from God, it is like breaking the seal of the messenger-hood. Details of all this can be found in the heading (W-H-Y) and (L-He-M).

We often say that “a thought crossed my mind”, but such event has no connection with the revelation or “القاء” (ilqa) or any such thing. This is all the working of the un-conscious mind about which we are still learning. Revelation is entirely different from this. That was a definite knowledge which was given directly from God to the messenger. Through the detailed understanding of the Quran all these issues get resolved and one comes to the conclusion that this is the complete book which deals with the human self-development providing guidance to the human intellect and reasoning (as there is no inner guidance) and there is no need for any other guidance as the book has all that is required to deal with the human life. It also provides answers to all the questions which human beings can think of during the course of their physical life and it gives ample understanding of the life in the hereafter. The Quran deals with the human thinking and its issues at a fundamental level and since what is there in the Quran is not the way human beings think, therefore no human mind can produce what is there in the book. The concept of Allah referred in the Quran is unique and is from the Creator Himself - it is an objective standard which cannot be found anywhere else in the world as human beings do not think the way the Quran contains the unique concept of Allah serving as a model for human beings. This model for the human self serves as a standard for guidance which makes one free from all the inner beliefs and chains which restrict human thought and prevent an individual from utilising his free will to its fullest potential. We do not need to see Allah as we do not need to see our inner self which we know exists as we are self-conscious of our own strong sense of identity. Our strong sense of identity, meta cognition, and memory defines our self which has its own existence separate from our physical body. The Quran invites us to ‘meet’ Allah through the signs and the evidence in the world and the universe around us (10:6-7) which is created for each one of us to develop our self and leave this life for another life – the Quran is the book of guidance to help develop our self in order to be able to live beyond the constraints of the physical death.

“يُلْقَّى” (yulaqqa) means being given a capability

| 41:35       | And the capability for this (important work) is given to those who observe the laws of God. It can only be begotten by such people. |
| 10:15       | From oneself. |

Likn

likely

""Laakin" (laakin), "Laakinn" (laakinn) appears to mean ‘but’:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Quranic Verse</th>

</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>75:31</td>
<td>So he neither confirms nor adopts the right path</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>75:32</td>
<td>But denies and tries to find ways of avoiding (Allah’s laws)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Here if the word is translated to mean ‘rather’ then it will be more appropriate. This word appears both to mean “but” and “rather” or “instead”.

Surah Al-Bagrah says:

<table>

<th>English Translation</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>2:154</td>
<td>Instead the matter is that they are alive but this you do not understand at your present conscious level</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Here it means “but” or “instead”, i.e. they are alive but at the present level of your consciousness you cannot comprehend it.

Lum

likely

""Yalid" (yalid) means to give birth, but with “"Lum" (lum) as a predecessor it comes to mean the past tense and also the negative i.e. “no”, or “did not”, i.e. “did not give birth”.

Lumma

To mean “when”:

Sometimes it is also redundant:

<tbody>
<tr>
<td>43:35</td>
<td>And all this are the accoutrements of the physical life</td>

If “"Lumma" (lumma) is taken out then too the meanings will not change. Perhaps “"illa" (illa) here, as mentioned above in (86:4) {T}.

"لَمَحَّهِ (lamaha ilaith): to look at someone sharply.
"لَمَحَّةٌ (al-lamhah): to see quickly or to look at something quickly.
"الْمَحَتِّ (al-mahatil mar'atu min wajhiha): the woman gave a glimpse of her beauty and then hid it. This is done generally by a woman with her lover \(T\).
"لَمَحٍّ (al-lamh): flash of a lightning because that too shines for a moment and then there is darkness.
"لَمَحَةٌ (lamahal basar): for the eyes to rise towards something.

Ibn Faris says it means for something to shine.

The Quran says:

| 16:77 | (the imminent revolution) is an eye bat away or even nearer than that |

L-M-Z

"لَمْزرُ (al-lamz): actually it means to indicate with eye, head or lips, and say something secretly, or to criticize to the face. Some also say it means back biting.
"لَمْزرَةٌ (lumazat): a man who back bites and instigates two friends against each other \(T, M\):

Ibn Faris says it basically means a fault.

The Quran says:

| 9:58 | Those who criticize you in the distribution of the sadaqaat and thus try to create dissention in the party. |
| 49:11 | Do not criticize each other |
| 104:1 | those who criticize (finder of faults) |

Raghib says it means to find fault in others.

L-M-S

"لَمسَ (lamas), "يَلْمِسُ (yalmas): to touch, or to look for something here and there \(T, R\).
"إِلْتَمَاسُ (iltamas): to demand something, or search for something \(T, R\).

Surah Al-Jinn says:

| 72:8 | We searched the sky and made guesses as to the unseen. |

Ibn Faris says with reference to Ibn Dureed that basically it means to touch but later also came to mean a searcher.

Surah Al-Hadeed says:

| 57:13 | search for the light, to touch one another with the hand |

It is said metaphorically for copulation \(T, R\). The Quran says "أَوْلَمْ يُسْتَمِعَ النُّسَاءُ (au la mustumun nisa’a)" in (4:43).

“lummah”, “yalummuh”, “lumma”: he deposited it.
“lumma shu’as”: collected the dispersed elements and made them nearer.
“daru naalumah”: Our house is one to gather people and nourish them.
“rajulun milam”: the man who collects together a clan and a nation {T}.

Ibn Faris says the word basically means to congregate, become nearer, and to be joined.

Surah Al-Fajar says:

89:16 You alone devour the wealth that you get as inheritance

This expostulates that in a Quranic economic system there is no such thing as individual inheritance. The orders about inheritance contained in the Quran are for the interim period till a Quranic society is formulated. After the establishment of this system there is no need to leave anything in inheritance. Details can be found under relevant heading.

It can also mean that you leave out other heirs from the inheritance, or keep all for yourself. Such situation can exist in an Islamic system for an interim period. An Islamic society can continue with this division, for a short while or in an exceptional circumstance - aside from wealth, things of daily use can also be among the inheritance.

“al-ummar rajul”: that man came close to sin, i.e. he didn’t actually commit it, but had the intention of doing it.
“lamamun” means to make a mistake sometime, according to some, but does not repeat this.
“ilmaam”: to do something sometime but no repetition.
“ma yazuruna illa limaama”: he comes to our home sometimes.
“lamam” also means to kiss {T}.

Kalbi says “lamam” means to look at a person whom it is possible to get married by chance.
Johri says it means to come close to some sin but not to actually do it.

The Quran says about the mominen:

53:32 they abstain from big errors and dirty things except mistakes which man one can make without intent

Sometimes such errors are not sins but do take one closer to sin. One should be careful lest such things happen again. Note how gradually the Quran adopts psychological reform which is not implemented at once.

Lun

If it comes with a transient verb then gives the meaning of the future, creates the sense of the negative, and creates stress in this negative.

Such as “lun taf’alu” means that “you shall not do so at any cost”.

Abu Lahab was the title of the Messenger’s uncle i.e. of Abdul Azi bin Abdul Mutalib, probably due to his fiery temper. He was a very strong opponent of Islam. He died a few days after the battle of Badr due to some epidemic.

The Quran has mentioned him particularly because he represents a certain type of people with a certain mentality. He was the caretaker of the House of Kaaba and knew that Islam’s success meant the demolishing of his authority and benefits, because Islam was dead against monasticism. He was dishonest to the extent that a golden deer which may have been offered as worship at the kaaba was reportedly stolen by him.

He was reported as coward (as those who do no work) that he did not take part in the battle of Badr in which nearly all the Quresh leaders took part and sent somebody in his place to the battle because he was indebted to him. As such when he died his relatives didn’t even come near his corpse and slaves had to bury him. Biggest thing of all, being a relative of the Messenger did not do him any good, because in Islam the criterion for closeness is deeds not lineage/relation.

“لَہِث” (al-has), “لِہِث” (al-has): thirst.
“لِہِث” (alluhass): the intensity of thirst, not be able to even stick out one’s tongue due to thirst, to pant, be tired, be an outcast {T}.

Raghib says that “لِہِث” (lahas) means for the tongue to hang out due to thirst {R}.
Taj with reference to Raghib says that “لِہِث” (lahas) means to breathe heavily due to tiredness.

“لِہِثُ الكُلْبُ” (lahsal kalb): for a dog to pant with his tongue protruding {Ibn-e-Qateebah} (7:176).
The Quran says about the human psyche:

91:8 Man has been endowed with constructive and destructive attributes

Generally this verse is thought to mean that God has endowed man with the ability of distinguishing between good and bad, good and evil, light and darkness, but this is wrong. Excepting man, every other creature in the known universe has been instinctively granted guidance which it must follow. For example it is in the nature of water to flow downwards on a a slope, and a goat instinctively shuns eating meat and eats grass instead. If man had been taught to distinguish between good and evil in the same way, then he would instinctively follow what was directed by his inbuilt instincts. Then every man would follow the right path, like every goat eats grass only. But as we know that is not the case. Every man does not follow the same path and has a choice. This shows clearly that man has not been endowed instinctively to follow the right path and shun the wrong one.

It is believed that man has been given this instinct but the environment and education and upbringing distort this nature of man, and he becomes whatever his parents or society makes him. If he was not affected by external influences then man too, every man would have adopted the same or right path. This is wrong too. Children have been found in jungles that due to some accident were separated from their parents and human society and when they grew up they acted just like animals. Therefore the concept that man has been endowed with the natural instinct of distinguishing between truth and falsehood has been proven wrong. For more details see heading (F-T-R).

Verse (91:8) would therefore mean that man has been created with potentials in him by the use of which he can disintegrate his personality. See heading (F-J-R). He also has potentials that can save him from this disintegration through his own efforts if he desires so. See heading (W-Q-Y).

The "ہا" (ha) of "فُﺠُوْرہا" (fujuraha) and "تُﻗْوَہا" (taqwaha) clearly show that both are conditions of the self. Therefore this verse means that man has been endowed with these two (constructive and destructive) potentials. Thereafter it is up to man himself to develop these latent bilities and give them whatever shape he likes. Whether he utilizes them for the development of his personality or its destruction (91:9).

As far as the concept of some elderly person getting direct knowledge from God is concerned, note that it has no support from the Quran. According to the Quran there are only two fountainheads of knowledge. One is direct knowledge from God towards a designated messenger. This was particular only to the messengers and with the end of messenger-hood this system has ended. The other source is the human intellect which every man can share. After the end of the messenger-hood we have two things left with us. One is that knowledge which we have received through the revelation via messengers, and the other is human intellect. The right thing now to do is to make decisions as per the human intellect under the light of the revelation; otherwise to believe that anyone gets direct knowledge from God (through kashf or ilhaam) is to break the seal of the end of messenger-hood. As stated above, the Quran is not at all supportive of the concepts of kashf or ilhaam. Neither is there any mention of the terms kashf, ilhaam, wahi khafi during the period of the Messenger of Allah. All these terms have been created afterwards and are actually borrowed from other religions. See heading (W-H-Y).

If man develops his thought or intent according to a particular fashion then he can perform such feats as seem magical to ordinary human intellect. People begin to think these as miracles and one who possess the power to work them as a person who has kashf or ilhaam and master of spiritual forces. But these things had nothing to do with Deen, but as said before these are elements of will power which any man without any discrimination of color, language or religion can develop and perform these ‘miracles’. It is a fact that nowadays, in the West, especially in USA, these things are thought to help in overcoming psychological problems and veritable academies for teaching this art are being established.

It must be understood once more that direct knowledge from God could only be had through the revelation and this was done via messengers only. Since now messenger-hood has come to an end, therefore no man can acquire direct knowledge from God. Revelation is not the same as ilhaam, nor should one believe that any man can acquire knowledge from God directly.

L-He-W

“lahu” (lahu) and “la-ib” (la-ib) are both words with same meaning. See heading (L-Ain-B), but linguist scholars have differentiated between them [T]. They say that thing that is similar between them is the meaning that man engages in useless pursuits and meaningless things and pursues emotional and temporary pleasures, but “lahu” (lahu) is more common than the word “la-ib” (la-ib). Some say that “la-ib” (la-ib) means to attain pleasure quickly and to enjoy it while “lahu” (lahu) means the pleasure which engages a man’s thought and mind.

Tarsusi says that “lahu” (lahu) means transient pleasure that detracts man from important things towards unimportant things, or work which has no clear or right direction [T].

Raghib too says “lahu” (lahu) means work which detracts man from important work [R].

Ibn Faris says it has two basic meanings.
- For the attention to move away from something due to some other thing.
- To let something go.

The Quran says that human life is very precious as it has a great purpose and therefore it must be taken very seriously. Thus any temporary pleasure which detracts from the real purpose of life is “lahwun (lahwun) or “la-ib” (la-ib). The Quran has termed the transient benefits of this life as “la-ib” (la-ib) and “lahu” (lahu) in (47:36). The Quran gives a lot of importance to the life here too. It says any transient pleasure that detracts from the great purpose of life is “lahu” (lahu) and “la-ib” (la-ib).

It says that all that is “lahu” (lahu) and “la-ib” (la-ib) for which a man leaves the right path in order to be engaged in transient pleasure making in other words is equivalent of living at an animal level and not living at a human level. These have been described as “lahwun hadees” (lahwun hadees) in (31:6). If “lahwun hadees” (lahwun hadees) is taken to mean the Quran, then “lahu” (lahu) and “la-ib” (la-ib) would mean things which make man oblivious of the Quran.

The points of view which make man take life frivolously or non-seriously have been called “laahiyatam qulubuhum” (laahiyatam qulubuhum) in (21:3).

“al-haa”: to keep busy, to engage, to shun the real purpose and engage in other things.

The Quran says:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>102:1-2 Takaasur</th>
<th>Takaasur has diverted your attention from the important things of life and you keep following that path till you reach your graves</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

Takaasur means the wish to exceed in wealth. Note how the Quran in a few words depicts the entire human history. Now look at those who have acquired enough for their lifetime needs as well for their children, but still they are chasing wealth like mad.

Why do they do this? Simply to compete with others with a view to accumulate more than others. This will to accumulate and exceed others is the basis for all issues in the world. For individuals as well as nations, man does have the competitive spirit in him and the will to excel. The Quran also supports this instinct but in a different field.

It says:

2:148 If you have to excel one another, then do it in righteous deeds in which everyone’s welfare is included

"탈하 عنو" (talah-ha unhu): to remove attention from him and look the other way (80:10).
"لالو" (al-lahwu), "لالو" (al-lahwa): the woman who is meant for pleasure. Later "لالو" (lahwun) came figuratively to mean woman {T}.

Taj-ul-Uroos says that "لالو" (lahwa) in (21:17) means woman {T}.
Ibn Qateebah says "لالو" (lahwa) means son, woman and wedlock {Al-Qurtain}.
Raghib says that those who think this word means woman or son have taken this word’s meaning as particular instead its common use.

Also see heading (L-Ain-B) along with lahwn to get the whole picture.

Lau

"لو" (lau) means “if”:

26:102 So if we are allowed to return just once, then we will become momineen

Note that “لو” (lau) generally is used for things which cannot possibly happen, i.e. it is said only to express an inequitable wish, as in the verse above where their return is not possible. If its translation is done as ‘supposing’ then it will also be befitting.

It also means “only if” along with “if”, in order to express a wish (15:2, 26:102).

To mean “that” as in:

26:102 Those with the Book include many who want to turn you into disbelievers after that you have believed “لا” (la) also comes with “لو” (lau) to mean the negative, such as:

34:31 if not for you we would be momins surely

To mean “why not”, as in:

25:7 why wasn’t some angel sent to him

“لاـلا” (lau la) as meaning ‘no’:

10:98 There is no such dwelling which…

Sometime instead of “لاـلا” (lau la), “لاـلا” (lau ma) is used:

18:7 If you are from among the truthful then why do you not bring the malaikah (angels) to us?
The important basic meanings of this root are “to appear” i.e. “to be evident” and “to shine”

“الآخ البقُو” (alaahal burq): the lightning shone {F}.
“اللْوَح” (al-lauh): any wide wood or bone. The plural is “الوَاح” (al-waah) {T}.

Surah Al-Airaaf says:

| 7:145 | We have made mandatory the morals of all matters for Moosa which are written on the tablets, or which we had gathered together for Moosa |

Nooh’s boat has been called:

| 54:13 | that which is made up of boards and nails |

About the Quran it is said:

| 85:22 | In evident safety |
| 56:78 | A book well-guarded |

This Quran is not only safe with God but is in book form with us too. The knowledge from God that is safe from all types of external influences and change and destruction “اللْوَح” (al-lauh) means to shine as well as to see.

“الآخة” (lahahu bibasari hi lauhah): he saw it then it disappeared (or hid), i.e. he saw only a glimpse of it.
It also means thirst {T}.
“اللْوَحُ بالنارِ لَوْيِحًا” (lawwahahu binnari talviha): heated in the fire.
“اللْوَحُ” (lawwahun): that which burns and changes its colour due to the burning {T}.

About the fires of hell, the Quran says:

| 74:29 | That which changes the color of the skin |

Ibn Faris has said that “اللْوَحُ الْحَرُ” (lawwahul har) means “heat burned it and turned it black so that he could be identified at a distance”.

“اللْوَحُ الرَّجُلُ لَوْيِحًا” (lawwahar rajulu talvihaa): that man pointed from afar {M}.
“الآخ البقُو” (alaahal burq): the lightning struck.
“الآخ البقُو” (laahun najm): the star shone or twinkled {T}.

As such, “اللْوَحُ” (lauh) has an element of light and brightness. Every revealed Book has light and brightness as in (4:275). The Quran and the Torah have been called as noor or light in (6:92).
L-W-Dh

 Longitude

“(al-lauzu bish shaiyi): to hide behind something and thus be safe.

“(al-lauz): the edge of a mountain, or a turn of a valley.

“(al-malaaz): sanctuary, fort.

“(al-malawazatu), “(al-liwaaz): to hide behind one another or to scheme and avoid \{T, R\}.

The Quran says:

24:63 Those among you who quietly slip away

Zajaaj says the next few words of this verse show that this word means “to oppose” \{T, R\}.

But in the former meaning too “avoiding the orders” are clear as “to slip quietly away” is a sort of attempt to avoid orders.

 Loot

 Loot had migrated to Palestine. He was a messenger and God had ordered him to go towards Sodom, along the shores of the Red Sea. An old trail of ancient caravans goes up to Aqba etc. after passing through Hijaz and Madyan.

 Sodom was situated along this very trail. It is thought that this area was near the present Dead Sea and a big part of it came below this sea due to an earthquake. The people toward whom Loot was sent as messenger lived in this area. From the Quran it can be understood that many messengers had come to these people before Loot and he too was so long a resident that he was called their akhuhun or brother (26:160).

This nation was indulging in the shameful act of homosexuality (26:165). Besides that, it was also involved in crimes of piracy and highway robbery (29:29). He told them to desist from these shameful acts but they paid no heed to him, and as a result this nation was destroyed.

The area of the Sodom was full of volcanoes and mines of sulphur. When volcanoes erupt they spew out smoke and rocks which go afar. It appears the nation of Loot was also destroyed in this way. The sulphur mines caught fire and earthquakes took place due to which the land collapsed and habitations was buried under the Dead Sea.

The Quran has related these details in different ways:

7:84 We made heavy rain on them

11:82 We rained stones on them which were cooked in the fire

15:73 a dreadful sound overtook them

53:34 We sent a storm of stones towards them

As to how natural phenomenon become the punishment of God, see the heading Nooh in the book titled Jooyi-e-Noor.

“(laatash shaiyi biqalbi): thing stuck to my heart (mind) \{T, M\}.

 Ibn Faris says this is its basic meaning.
“لام” (laam): to scold someone, to shame him, to give someone a dressing down {T, M}.

“لوامح” (laumah): insult.

“لاعيم” (lai-im): one who scolds.

14:22 Do not scold me, but blame yourself

5:54 They do not fear anyone who calls them bad names or blames them

“لوامه” (laumah): insult.

“لاعيم” (lai-im): one who scolds.

Ibn Faris says the basic meanings of this root are “wrath” and “to insult” and “to remove”.

The Quran says “النفاس اللوامة” (an-nafasil lawwama) in (75:2). For its detailed meaning see the heading (N-F-S). It will suffice to mention here that there is no such force in man that tells him what the truth is and what falsehood is. Only the revelation can guide in this matter. See heading (L-H-M). There is a feeling and thinking (guilt) in man which admonishes him when he does something bad in reference to some standard or belief. This is the force which we call “conscience”. The voice of the conscience however cannot distinguish between truth and falsehood. It will support you on what you think is right and will admonish you for what you think is bad. It will be happy if the son of a muslim eats meat but admonish the son of a vegetarian for eating the same sort of meat. Therefore the voice of the conscience cannot be the standard for good and evil. “Fatwa” or decree as to how to act should always be sought from the revelation and not from one’s own mind. The conscience of robbers never admonishes or scolds them for robbing people. Highway robbers have no problem in robbing innocent travellers. The robbers barons of today’s world are those in power in strong nations, and are never bothered by their consciences for building palaces with the blood and sweat of weaker nations. Therefore only the guidance of God i.e. the Quran can decide between right and wrong, not man.

“لون” (laun): any characteristic that makes one more prominent than others, as kind or type {T}.

Since the most prominent or visible characteristic of anything is its color, therefore “لون” (laun) came to mean colour {T}.

“الون” (ilwun): became colourful.

“اللونون” (almatalawwin): that which does not stay in one color, or keeps changing color.

The Quran has said that the difference of languages and “الوان” (alwaan) or colors is a manifestation of truth for those with knowledge and insight (30:22). Here “الوان” (alwaan) means races, research on which is a big area of human study. But if “الوان” (alwaan) is taken to mean colour, then too this verse points to a great truth. Modern research says if you have to judge the mental level of a nation in some era then you must find out as to how many colours that nation recognizes. The more colours it could identify, the higher is its mental level. That means, distinguishing colours is connected to the development of the mind. For details, refer to Dr. Bucke’s book Cosmic Consciousness.

Surah An-Nahal says:

16:13 And whatever He has multiplied for you in the earth of different kinds
L-W-Y

"لىوی“ (lawal habla yalvihi laiyya): twisted the rope and doubled it.
"لىوی“ (lawa bi raashi): he turned his head away i.e. he avoided {T}.

Ibn Faris says that its basic meaning is to turn something away.

In (63:5) "لىوی“ (lawa lisaanuhu bikaza) is a reference to fabricating lies and guess work {R}.

The Quran uses these words for “to mince words”, or “to lie”, or “to exaggerate” (3:77, 2:46)

"لیت“ (laatah), "یالیت“ (yalitihu un kaza): turned him away from something.
"لیت“ (laatah), "لیت“ (aalatuhu): reduced it, or did not give its full right {R}.

Ibn Faris says “اللیت“ (al-leetu) means “one side of the neck” and "اللیت“ (al-laitu) means “to reduce” and that no guess work can be done in case of these meanings.

Surah Al-Hijraat says:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Verse</th>
<th>Meaning</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>49:14</td>
<td>He will reduce nothing from your (good) deeds</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>52:21</td>
<td>And We will not deprive their deeds in any way</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Some think that it is from "لیت“ (alat) and "لیت“ (laat) and that "لیت“ (alat) have the same meaning.
Some say it is from "وَلْتٌ“ (waltun) so it has been mentioned therein too.

Lait

"لیت“ (lait): only if...
"یالیتِنیْ مِتْ قَبْلَ هَاذا“ (ya laitani mitttu qabla haaza): only if I had died before this… (19:23).

Lais

"لیس“ (lais) appears to mean ‘no’.
"الیس الیران“ (laisal birra un…): it is not the way of righteousness … (2:177).

This verb is used only to express the different forms of past tense such as "لیست“ (lasta), "لیست“ (lastu), "لیست“ (lastum), "لیست“ (lastunn) etc.

"لیل“ (al-lailu), "اللیل‌ی“ (al-lailah): night which is the time from sunset to sunrise {T}.

The Muheet says that in Hebrew lail means night and in Syrian it is called lilya.

Its plural is "لیالی“ (liyaal) and "اللیالی“ (al-liyaali).

Surah Al-Maryam says about Zakaria:
19:10 Do not talk to any person for three nights

This means not three nights but three days and nights, i.e. three continuous days which also include the nights. This is because in (3:40) the same thing has been called "talaata ayyaam" (تَلَاата َالَّيْمَ)، which means "days". But there is a fine difference between these two.

3:20 You shall not speak to any person, except with gestures

As you see, there is no illa ranza or “except with gestures” in (19:10). Therefore the order for the days was different from that for the nights.

Surah Al-Ibrahim relates the purpose of the Quran’s revelation:

14:1 So that you can (through it) bring the mankind out of darkness into light

Thus this means that before the advent of the Quran the era has been called night or lail, i.e. an era in which there was darkness (ignorance) all around. There was no light of enlightenment anywhere. The Quran was revealed at such a time and introduced new standards of morality to the world. In darkness there are dangers lurking for man, whether in reality or in conception, because of the light of enlightenment these fears were dispelled and security was achieved. Later this enlightenment was completed in a way so as not to leave any portion of darkness behind.

"ﺏَيِّنَ ﺧَلْقِ ﻣَهْدِ ﻣَﻼِكِ ﻣَآءٍ“ (hatta matla-il fajr): entire world was illuminated by God’s light (97:1-5). Therefore, this dark era turned into an enlightened era for man due to the advent of the Quran (44:3).

L-Y-N

"الْآنَ ﺍِﻟْـِّيْـِﻟَّيْـِنَ“ (lanashae’i): a thing got soft.
"الْـِّـيْـِـيْـِنَ“ (al-liyin): softened him/it up {T, M}.
"اَﻟْـِّـيْـِـيْـِنَ“ (allabbin): soft.

About the messenger Muhammed the Quran says:

3:159 You dealt gently with them

3:159 And if you had been rude and harsh in your heart…

Also see heading (F-Zd-Zd) and (Gh-L-Zd): This softness was for those who had joined the Messenger and had willingly bowed before the truth. Those who were engaged in opposing the truth found the Messenger and his companions to be tough and hard.

About Dawud it is said:

34:10 We made the iron soft for him

It means that he got the knowledge of softening iron (either by melting or heating).

Surah Al-Taha says:

20:44 You two talk to him (the Pharaoh) softly.

"اَﻟْـِّـيْـِنَ“ (al-leenah): date palm {T, M}.

Taj says that it means the date trees except two kinds which grow high quality dates. Most scholars have listed it under the heading (L-W-N).
This word is used in various contexts as noted below:

1) To mean “whatever”:
   16:96 whatever you have will be gone

2) To mean “which”:
   4:22 do not wed women that your fathers have wed:

3) To mean “what thing”, or “which thing”:
   20:17 And what is this thing….

4) To mean “a condition”:
   9:7 Till they respect the agreements made with you, you also abide by them.

5) To mean “how” and expressing surprise:
   2:175 so isn’t it surprising for them to remain on the wrong path?

6) To mean “as far as”:
   64:16 As far as you can, observe the laws of Allah (i.e. the Quran).

7) To mean “no”:
   2:16 so their commerce was not beneficial or profitable

8) Sometimes it is redundant:
   7:10 very few of you are thankful

   Although “ما” (maa) here may also mean what “الذين” (allaazi) or “those who”.

Note: sometimes instead of “ما” (maa) only “م” (m) appears:

9) “مذا” (maa za) means ‘what’:
   2:215 They ask you as to how much they should keep available?

   Only “ما” (za) has been added to “ما” (maa) as in (3) above.
Zamkhashri says it is derived from “maal ait-ul-jild” which means “I spread out the skin”.

And a hundred is indeed a sizeable number.

Ibn Faris says this root means “hundred” as well as to create chaos in a society.

It is probable that “maal ait” meant hundred because in those days a man with hundred deenars or camels would be considered a rich man or a capitalist type, and would be the cause of conflict or chaos in society, as rich men often are.

---

Refer to “Yajojoj” in heading (A-J-J).

---

Ibn Faris says it means to benefit from something for long, and also the profit in which there is an element of pleasure or which has an element of evolution and development. To obtain benefit is common between the two meanings.

The Quran has called the earth as “maal” in (2:36), probably because it is the source of providing the means of sustenance for a man’s life. Every man can benefit from it but cannot seize it. It is “sawa-in lis sa-ileen” in (41:10), i.e. open for all the needy.

Since there is an element of upkeep in “maal”, therefore “maal” means everything which is better and longer lasting than others, which has been developed in a good way. It also means a well woven rope as well as dark red wine. The day progressed.

M-R-T (maal-rooth): a barren desert which has no vegetation.

M-T-Ain (maal-tau): things that are needed, anything of utility (16:80). Basically it means all those items which are enough for a journey.

Therefore “maal-tau” means a thing from which a little benefit can be had but it is not enduring. The things needed in a journey. It also means the life’s expenses that a woman gets from the man (her husband) after divorce is also called “maal” (mut’ah). It also means earning to break even.

Malooj (maal). See heading Haroot.
“mata’al habl” (mata’al habl): the rope became hard and strong.
“at-tam’ti-u” (at-tam’ti-u): to prolong, to extend the age, to habitat. The dictionary has other meanings for it too. From it “mata-un” (mata-un) can be derived which means to give benefit {M}.

“afara’aita inn matta’naahum sineen” (26:205) have you noted that if they are given years, for benefiting from this life.

“al-mata’u” (al-mata’u): secret plan {T}.

“amta’a unhu” (amta’a unhu): he became free from his needs or requirements {T}.

The dictionary has other meanings for it too. From it “mata’un” (mata’un) can be derived which means to give benefit {M}.

“The Quran says:
7:183 my plan is very stolid, strong and intense (nobody can break it)

As such Allah is also called “al-mateen” (al-mateen) in (51:58). This verse means that His laws are well established in the Universe i.e. He is well established and provides strength to others as well who follow His guidance. Some say that “zul-quwwat” (zul-quwwat) is one whose strength also affects others, and “mateen” (mateen) is one who is steadfast and stolid in his own personality {T}. But I think that “mateen” (mateen) can mean both things.

“mataa” (mataa): “when”.

33:29 When will this promise be fulfilled?

Sometimes “mateen” (mataa) means “then”, where it is conditional.

“misl” (misl): like or similar or equal to somebody.
“masal” (masal): is a description of something which is related to compare it with something.
“misaal” (misaal): the way, style, form, shape or model according to which something is made. It means a pattern according to which something is measured or cut out. It also means example {L, T, M}.
“amsal” (amsal): better. The feminine is “mulaa” (mulaa).
“at-tareeq al-mulaa” (at-tareeq al-mulaa): the way which is according to the truth and justice and which it resembles.
“tamseel” (tamseel): picture something.
“tamassul” (tamassul): to become like someone.
“imtaa” (imtaa): to follow someones’s path fully.
“masular rajul” (masular rajul): that man stood erected. It also means to hug the ground {T}.

The dictionary has other meanings for it too. From it “mata’un” (mata’un) can be derived which means to give benefit {M}.

“مُﺜْﻠَۃٌ” (muslah): to kill somebody and amputate the body and distort it \{T\}.

“مَﺜُﻠَۃٌ” (maselah) and “مَﺜْﻠَۃٌ” (maslah), plural is “مَﺜَﻼَﺕٌ” (masulaat) means lessons of history or punishments which stand out historically \(T\) (13:6).

“تِﻤْﺜَﺎﻝٌ” (timsaal): concept. Its plural is “تَﻤَﺎﺛِﻴْﻞُ” (tamaseel).

Taj-ul-Uroos says that the Quran uses “تَﻤَﺎﺛِﻴْﻞُ” (tamaseel) to mean picture (of events) of the messengers \(T\).

But the Christians think that “تَﻤَﺎﺛِﻴْﻞُ” (tamaseel) mean statues, and picture means paintings \(T, L, M\).

The Quran says “مَﺜَﻼَﺕٌ” (masulaat) in (2:17). It means “examples” or “similarities”. When it says “مَﺜَﻠٰۃٌ” (misliha) in (2:106), then it means “which is similar to it”.

Surah Ar-Raad says:

13:35 The example of the Jannah which is promised to the righteous is like …

Here “مَﺜَﻠٰۃٌ” (masal) means an allegoric description.

Surah Taha says:

20:63 The path which is close to the truth, justice, balance, and proportion.

Aqrabil Muwarid says with reference to Keys that here “مَﺜَﻠٰۃٌ” (masal) means the beneficence, i.e. increased and overwhelmed. Thus “مَﺜَﻠٰۃٌ” (amsal) came to mean “better” and “overwhelming”. The feminine is “مُﺜْﻠٰﯽ” (musla). As such “بِﻄَﺮِﻳْﻘَﺘِﮑُﻢُ ﺍﻟْﻤُﺜْﻠٰﯽ” (btareeqatikumul musla) would mean “a way which is overpowering on other ways”. Every overpowering or strong nation thinks its way or religion is better and overpowering as compared to that of others, no matter how wrong or false that may be.

“ﺍَﻣْﺜَﻞُ” (amsaluhum tareeqah): means a man who is on a way of high quality (30:104).

Surah An-Nahal says those people who do not believe in the life of the future have a very weak character.. For them it has been said:

16:60 similitude of evil is applied to those who do not believe in the hereafter; To Allah applies the highest similitude...

Surah Al-Ambia calls the idols (or statues) which were worshipped by the nation of Ibrahim as “تَﻤَﺎﺛِﻴْﻞُ” (tamaseel) in (21:52). This makes it clear that “تَﻤَﺎﺛِﻴْﻞُ” (tamaseel) means statues. Therefore when in (34:13) it is said that Suleman used to have “تَﻤَﺎﺛِﻴْﻞُ” (tamaseel) made then it means statues.

Surah Maryam says:

19:17 the angel came before Maryam in the shape of a balanced human being

The likely explanation is that it was a dream, i.e. Maryam saw all this in a dream.

Surah Aal-e-Imran says “مِﺜْﻠَﻴْﮩِﻢْ” (mislaihim) in (3:12) to mean “double than self”.

The Quran says:

2:23 Whatever we have revealed unto our messenger, if you have any doubts about it, then make and bring one (single) verse like it.

2:24 but you will not be able to do that

This challenge has been reiterated at other places too, see (11:13), (10:38).
beings do not think like the Quran and cannot think like it, because they have a free will and desires as a default status. The continuous arousal of desires makes them emotive in thinking and most human beings follow their desires, which only direct them to think for their own good. To counter this default position, individuals need to think hard and overcome their desires and emotions and question the purpose of their life at some point in life. The Quran explains this inner human state in detail and invites us to overcome this default position by studying the Quran using the intellect and reasoning in the light of the present evidence from a social set up. The Quranic writing and their meaning and interpretation both are unique because the concepts and realities revealed are beyond human ability to think and reproduce. The human intellect cannot think of these meta-physical facts which are gradually coming to light with the passage of time. According to one Prof. H.A.R. Gibbs, the Quran cannot even be translated truly into any language of the world [Modern Trends in Islam].

The truth is that the Quran’s style is unique. It is neither poetry nor prose, neither is there any such instance in Arab literature, earlier than the advent of the Quran or later. Therefore one has to concede that the Quran is from God and God alone and is unique. There can be no other example like it.

M-J-D

(المجد) (al-majd): actually means abundance \{M\}. It is derived from “مجدّات الإبل” (majazatilo ibl) which is used or said when the camels enter a very green grazing land which has fodder in abundance \{R\}.

Ibn Faris says it means to reach the peak in good qualities like kindness and gentleness etc. He says “مجدّات الإبل” (majazatilo ibl) means “the camels neared a full stomach”.

(امجادان فلان): that man gave us so much hospitality that it was not only enough for us but there was some to spare.

(امجادالا): gave him abundant charity.

(امجاد الإبل): gave camels stomach full of fodder \{T\}.

The Arabs considered largesse as a very good trait and they called “المجد” (al-majd) the highest trait \{R\}. Scholars say that “مجد” (majd) and respect are the same and include the trait of forefathers, but the Quran has called Allah as “مَجيِّدٌ” (majeed) and never “شَرِيفٌ” (shareef). This shows that this trait is only personal and has no bearing of the forefathers.

The Quran has said “مَجيِّدٌ” (majeed) is one of the traits of Allah (85:15, 11:73) i.e. one who gives abundantly whether it be the accoutrements of life or guidance, or one who creates vastness and abundance, or one who takes to extremes. As such he is “حَمِيْدٌ” (hameed) i.e. one who deserves all praises.

M-J-S

(المجوسية) (al-majoosia): an ancient religion which was revived by Zartasht. The followers of this religion are called “مجوسي” (majoosan) \{T, M\}. After Zartasht died, this religion became distorted. Two forces of good and evil, i.e. Aharmun and Yazdan were acknowledged. The Quran has mentioned “مجوس” (al-majoos) in (22:17) along with the Jews and the Christians. They have not been further introduced by the Quran because in that era (when the Quran was being revealed) the followers of this religion existed and the Arabs were well aware about them. Nowadays they are generally said to be ‘Parsi’.

Ibn Faris says that majoosi is a Persian word.

M-H-Sd

(المحسن) (al-mahs): to remove faults of a thing \{R\}.
"mahasaz zahaban naar": melted gold over fire and removed its impurities and purified it {M}.

"mahasas sinaan": he honed the spear, or made it sparkle {T}.

The Quran says:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>3:153</th>
<th>so that the it removes the impurities that you your hearts have</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

"hablun mahis": a rope which has become smooth due to use and thus becomes soft.

"farsun mahsun" and "mumah'his": a strong bodied horse {T}.

"mahsun": make strong and sturdy.

In Surah Aal-e-Imran this word has been used against "mahq" in (3:140).

"mahsun" and "mahqun" both have the element of reducing (impurities or faults), but "mahsun" has the element of removing or reducing something’s faults or weaknesses and thus making it strong.

"mahqun" has the element of obliterating something. See heading (M-H-Q).

Raghib says it means to be reduced. Ibn Faris says this too.

"al-mahaq", "al-muhaaq" and "al-mihaaq" are the last few nights of the lunar month when the moon is not sighted.

Surah Al-Bagrah says:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>2:276</th>
<th>Allah’s law reduces or destroys the wealth that has been acquired due to interest</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

A society which is based on interest can never (ultimately) be successful. Here "yamhaqu" (yamhaqu) has come opposite "yurbi" (yurbi) which means “to increase”.

Surah Aal-e-Imran says "yamhaqu" (yamhaqu) against “yumah’his” (yumah’his) in (3:140). See heading (M-H-Sd).

About Allah the Quran says:

13:13 who holds accountability strictly

In other words it means “a strict punisher”, or “someone who holds accountability with strictness”, or “whose consequential law is very strong and who compiles results of deeds honestly and strictly” and “who makes no concessions”. There is an element of strength here with strictness.

"مَهْلِنِيْ يَا فُلَانِ " (mah hilni ya fulaan): O man, give me strength {T, R, M}.

Some say that "مَخَالٌ " (mighalan) is actually derived from "خُوَلْ " (hawl) and "حِيْلَةٌ " (heelah) and the "م " (m) is additional. See (H-W-L).
“mahn” (mahn) actually means to lash.
“امْتِ�认” (al-mihnatu) is a noun and the plural is “مِحنٌ” (mihan), i.e. those trials which are meant as tests.
“مَحنَ الْبَئْرَمَاحْنَا” (mahanal bi’ra mahna): he cleaned the well by taking out the mud {T}.
“مَحنَ الأَديم” (mahanal adeem): he softened the leather, or pared it and made it clean, or he stretched the leather and made it expand.
“مَحنَ الْفِضْحَة” (mahamal fizzah): he purified the silver by heating it over the fire and cleansed it {T}.

The Quran says:

49:3 These are the people whose hearts Allah has cleansed and purified to receive taqwa

Surah Al-Mumtahanah says:

60:10 O you who believe! When momin women come to you after question them about their matters

“Ibn Faris” says it means to take something away and make it disappear.

The Quran has used “مَحْوٌ” (mahv) against “ثْبَاثٌ” (isbaat):

It means that He destroys that which has destructive results and gives room to that which has constructive results (42:24) i.e. that which is beneficial for mankind (13:17). This law of requital can be seen operating in every part of the universe and it is also working among nations. That is, the existence of the beneficial that which is good or beneficial for mankind exists (13:17).

It will be noted that the law of survival or existence of that which beneficial for mankind is much superior than what the Darwinian observed in the physical evolution i.e. the Survival of the Fittest. The former is the right principle for the mankind to follow in this life:

13:17 Only that thing is allowed to exist on this earth which is beneficial to mankind

In other words, the concept or ideology which is beneficial to the entire mankind and not to any particular group, party, nation or country is allowed, so that all men of the world can benefited from it.
The Quran says:

16:14 And you see the boat ploughing through it

Here "مَواَخِرٍ (mawakhir) is the plural of "مَاخِرٌ (maakhirah) which means that which splits the body of water to proceed (e.g. like boats).

Surah Al-Maryam says "الْمَاخِﺽُ (al-makhaas) means labour pains (19:23).

Some scholars think that "مَدَدٌ (mudd) is mostly used for things that are bad and "إِمْداَدٌ (imdaad) for things which are good {R}. "مَادْدَةٌ (maaddah): anything that increases another thing {T, M}. Scholars say it also means "الزِّيَادَةُ ۚ ٱلْمُتَّصِلَةَ (az ziyaadaa tul muttasilah), that is “anything which increases with its elements”. This word is used to mean “matter”. The Quran has not used this word.
The Quran says:

مراع: مدن (madna bil makaan): he stayed at that place.
"المدينه" (al-madinah): big town (36:20). The plural is "مداين" (madaeen) which means “many cities” as in (7:111). It also means “fort”. Some say that it has been derived from "دين" (deen). See heading (D-Y-N).
"مداين" (mada-in) was the name of a big city in Persia near Baghdad.
"مديان" (madyanu) was the name of Shoaib’s area {T, M, R} as it says in (7:85).
"تماديئار الرجل" (tamadyanar rajul): the man became well-to-do.
"تماديئ الرجل" (tamaddanar rajul): he adopted the ways of the city dwellers and was no more uncouth and became civilized.
"ماديئات مدينة" (maddantu madinah): I built a city i.e. populated it {T}.

Madyan

مراع: مدين (madian): big town (36:20). The plural is "مديين" (madien) which means “many cities” as in (7:111). It also means “fort”. Some say that it has been derived from "دين" (deen). See heading (D-Y-N).
"مدين" (madyan) was the name of Shoaib’s area {T, M, R} as it says in (7:85).
"تماديئ الرجل" (tamadyanar rajul): the man became well-to-do.
"تماديئ الرجل" (tamaddanar rajul): he adopted the ways of the city dwellers and was no more uncouth and became civilized.
"ماديئات مدينة" (maddantu madinah): I built a city i.e. populated it {T}.

M-R-A

مراع: مرأ: مرأ (al-mar’oo), "مرأ" (al-mur’oo), "مرأ" (al-mir’oo), "مرأ" (oomroo): human being or man.
"مرأ" (al-mar’at) and "مرأ" (al-imra’at) means woman.
"مرأ" (murua’tun): humanity, manliness.
"مرأ الطعام مزايدة" (mari at-tu’ama muru’ah): the food became delicious.
"مريي" (haniyun): delicious food.
"مرأ" (marri’un): food which has a fine result (4:4).
M-R-J

marj: to mix together, or to merge. Raghib says “المرجح (al-muruj)” also has this meaning.

maraj: tribulations. It also means chaos and disharmony {T, R}.

Surah Al-Qaf says that these people deny the truth:

| 50:5 | They are in a complex situation. They are confused and troubled. They are in confusion which leads to disbelief. |

al-marāj: a mixed thing, high and intense flame {T, R}, but marj also means to make free. al-marāj would mean a flame of fire with no obstruction in front.

Surah Al-Rahman says:

| 55:15 | Mixed flame or flaring flame of fire |

al-marj also means vast grazing land and open space where the animals graze freely probably because in grazing freely the animals mingle together {T, R}.

amrajahaa: he left animals to graze freely.

maraj: camels which are grazing freely without anyone shepherding them.

marj: to issue, and to let roam free {T, R}.

Ibn Faris says the basic meanings are to come and go and be troubled.

The Quran says:

| 17:37 | Do not walk preening on the earth |
| 40:75 | These people pride themselves or preen because of no constructive work |
| 3:187 | They want praise for good work which they have not done. |

M-R-H

marah: the sort of happiness in which due to intensity a man becomes out of bounds. It also means to preen.

farsan mimrah: a horse which is drunk with its own power.

qausan marooh: strongly strung bow which shoots arrows very fast {T, R, M}.

The Quran says:

| 17:37 | Do not walk preening on the earth |
| 40:75 | These people pride themselves or preen because of no constructive work |
| 3:187 | They want praise for good work which they have not done. |

M-R-D

marad, yamrud: to rebel.

marada alash shaiyi: he became habitual to it, he kept on performing it.

tamarrud: to become fond of and be habitual of {T}.

The Quran says:

| 9:101 | they have become habitual of hypocrisy |
QES-Norway   Lughat-ul-Quran   Volume IV   Page 52 of 276

“al-marda’o” (a woman who has no hair on her head) [T].

Ibn Faris says it means to shave off the hair at the top of something.

“al-amradu” (a young man who has not grown a beard yet. The Quran has called the shaitaan as “marred” in 4:117. According to the earlier meaning it would mean “rebellious”. “al-mareed” (a date immersed in milk to soften it.

Raghib says it has been derived from “shajaratan marda’o”) which means a tree which has no leaves. This would mean he, who has been deprived of all good things. These meanings are the same as that of “rajeem” and “la-een”). See heading (R-J-M) and (L-Ain-N).

Ismaee says it means anything which is rubbed till it softens up.

The Quran says “sarhun mu arrad” in 27:44 which means “smooth” or “polished”.

Ibn Faris says it also means a tall building.

“at-tamreed fil binaa’i” means to polish and plaster a building, or to plaster it.

“al-maarid” means high, rebel, devoid of goodness [T] (37:7).

مرر

“marrah”, “marra alaih”, “marra marra”: went past him, or went close by him.

“marrah”, “marra marra”: once.

“marra marra”: twice.

“marra marra”: every time.

“marra marra”: first time.

“marra marra”: bitter [T].

“istamarrash shaliyi”: the thing remained forever, remained continuously, proceeded on the same path [M].

“sihrun mustamirr” in (54:3) means the same as “afkun qadeem” in (46:11), i.e. “same old lies”.

Surah Al-Bagrah says:

2:229 Divorce can only be given twice

This is generally taken to mean that if a man says “talaqq” twice or announces it for two months consecutively then it does not mean that the “talaqq” has been effective or taken place, but can be reverted. However if a man says it thrice then the matter is decided. Thereafter if these (former) wife and husband want to re-wed, then it is necessary for the woman to wed another man first and have conjugal relations. This is called halalah or teheleel. This concept and the method of divorce or “talaqq” is against the Quran. According to the Quran there is a defined process for divorce or “talaqq”. First try for mutual understanding, then an effort at reconciliation through their advocates or arbitrators must take place. Then a decision through the court must be issued. If matters reach this stage and there appears no chance for reconciliation then the man and woman can separate. This is the process of “talaqq” as explained in the Quran. Even after this if the man and woman want, they can re-wed, but this can happen only twice in the lives of this couple. If there is a need for divorce for third time in their lives, then these two cannot remarry each other. It is another matter if the woman weds another man and becomes a widow or divorcee, she can remarry the same man again (which is very unlikely in a woman’s lifetime). This is what the Quran means when it says “talaqq”. (at-talaqqu marraatan). Until two persons are freed from wedlock, they cannot be said to be divorced. Therefore “talaqq” (at-talaqqu marraatan) clearly means that freedom from wedlock can be gained only twice within which one can revert. The third time one gets divorced, he or she cannot revert to the same individual.
"ﺍَﻟْﻤَﺮﱡ" (al-marru) also means rope.

"ﺍَﻣْﺮَﺭْﺕُ ﺍﻟْﺤَﺒْﻞَ" (amartul habl): I twined the rope.

"ﺍِﺳْﺘَﻤَﺮَﺑِﺎﻟﺸﱢﯽءِ" (istamarra bish shaiyi): he became capable of lifting the thing.

The Arabs say "ﺍَﻟْﻤِﺮﱡﺓُ ﺍَﺭْﺟَﯽ ﺍﻟْﻐِﻠْﻤَﺎﻥِ ﺍﻟﱠﺬِی ﻳَﺒْﺪَاءُ ﺛُﻢﱠ ﻳَﺴْ‏ ﻛُرَ‏" (arjal ghilmaanil lazi yabda-oo bihumqin summa yastamirr) which means that the most promising lad is one who acts foolishly in the beginning but rectifies later. Thus "ﺍَﻟْﻤِﺮﱡﺓٍ" (al-mirrah) means moral strength, intensity and cleverness {T}.

Al-Ashqaaq says that "ﻣِﺮَﺓٍ ﺍﻻِْ ﻧْﺴَﺎﻥِ" (mirratu insaani) means the strength of a man.

Surah Al-Qamar says:

In a time of intensity (a time which is continuously detrimental)

In surah Al-Airaaf the words "ﻓَﻤَﺮﱠﺕْ ﺑِہٖ" (famarrat bihi) mean to feel harshness or intensity (7:189).

Surah An-Najam calls Allah "ﺫُﻭْﻣِﺮﱠﺓٍ" (zumirrah) in (53:6). It can mean the One who possesses power and wisdom and “One whose intentions are firm and schemes are strong”.

And also one who possesses (is the Sustainer) of the many paths of life. Because "ﻣُﺮُﻭْﺭٌ" (muroor) means to pass by, Muheet says "ﻣِﺮَﺓٍ" (mirrah) means a condition which one follows constantly. As such it would mean “the laws of Allah which never undergo change”.

M-R-Zd

M-R-Zd

"مَﺮَﺽٌ" (maraz): for imbalance to be created so that some sort of weakness, or decrease in strength takes place.

"شَﻤْﺲٌ ﻣَﺮِﻳْﻀَۃٌ" (shamsun mareezah): the sun when its light has dimmed due to dust, etc.

"ﺍَﺭْﺿٌﻤَﺮِﻳْﻀَۃُ" (ardun mareezah): such land which is weak in strength, or which gives little produce. It also means a land where there is lack of peace or there is chaos.

"مَﺮَﺽٌ" (marazun): also means darkness or doubt {T}.

The Quran uses "مَﺮَﺽٌ" (marazun) against "شِﻔَﺎءٌ" (shifa’un) in (26:80). Here it means bodily disease.

"ﰲَ ﻗُﻠُﻮْﺑِﮩِﻢْ ﻣَﺮَﺽٌ" (fi qulubihim marazun) has been used in (2:10) where it means psychological disorder. As such whether it is bodily disease or psychological confusion or disorder, the word "مَﺮَﺽٌ" (marazun) has been used.

Surah Al-Baqrah says "ﰲَ ﻗُﻠُﻮْﺑِﮩِﻢْ ﻣَﺮَﺽٌ" (fi qulubihim marazun) in (2:10) to those who pursue their emotive desires or vested interests and labels this kind of mentality as a sickness. It is a kind of disease of the psyche or mind about which human knowledge was unaware in the era before the 20th century.

The Quran says about itself:

It has the cure and treatment for the mind.

If this disease is not treated with the revelation then this disease increases at its own with time (2:10). The Quran presents a very simple and effective solution in creating a balance in human thinking when the guidance is followed within the domain of the permanent values as explained.
M-R-W

“safa” and “marwah” are two hills outside the Masjid-i-Haraam in Mecca. “safa” which is the plural for “safah,” means white stones or rocks and “marwah” means white pebbles. With regard to Hajj, they are among the “shanab Allah” (2:158).

“sha’ir” are the symbols, in ceremonies, of a state or system, for example, the flag may be the “sha’a’iri” of some state. The respect for the flag means respect for that state. The things proclaimed to be “sha’a’rillah” are those which are meant to represent the Islamic state and the respect of which is actually the respect for the system of Allah. These symbols have no more significance other than that. See heading (Sh-Ain-T).

M-R-Y

“maran naaqatah yamriha marya”: to caress the teats of a she-camel to induce it to produce milk. “al-miryah”, “al-maryah”: the milk which is obtained in this way. This led to the word meaning to find out about something with effort and difficulty. “miryatul fars”: the walk that a horse adopts after being coerced with a whip, etc. {T}. “mira’a” therefore came to mean tribulation in something. It also means doubt and quarrel.

Raghib says these are its meanings and expression of doubt is especially related to this word {R}. Manawai says “mira’a” means to interject with a sarcastic remark and it is done only to belittle. Fraa says “tatamaara”: to treat as a lie {R}. “imtara feehi”, “tamari”: to doubt.

Maryam

Maryam is a Syrian word which means high breed or rank. Some say that one who says something very strange is called “ya maryam” by the Arabs.

“al-maryamu minan nisa’i” means a woman who likes to be friendly with men but shuns objectionable or execrable acts {T, M}.

The Quran has said that Isa’s (Jesus’) mother was called Maryam. She has been called “imra’atu imran” in (3:34) which means the “wife or woman of Imran”.

Surah Maryam says in (19:28) that her people called her “ya ukhta haroon” which means “Haroon’s sister” which could have two meanings. One that her brother’s name was Haroon and secondly that she was so called in respect of her forefather, the brother of Moosa.

Surah At-Tehreem calls her “ibna’ata imran” in (66:12). Before her birth, her mother had pledged her to the Holy place of the Jews. Hence after her birth she was handed over for the service of this Jewish temple (3:35-36). For details see heading (H-R-R).
Jesus has generally been referred as “ابن مريم” (Ibn Maryam) or “the son of Maryam” in the Quran.

Renaan in his book “Life of Jesus” writes that He (Jesus) belonged to the common people. His father Yusuf, and mother Maryam both belonged to a poor family and handicraft was their profession. His father died early and thereafter Maryam was the head of the family. That is why when someone wanted to single out Jesus from others of the same name, he was called Jesus son of Maryam. Details about Maryam’s life can be seen in the book titled “Shola’i’Mastoor”.

The Quran says about momineen:

76:5 they drink from a cup which has a tinge of kafor

The first rank of an organized group imposes self-discipline on itself, and then they endeavour together in the establishment of Deen. For this it is said:

76:17 They drink from a cup which has a tinge of zanjabeel

By creating balance between these opposing forces, hot and cold, the character of the momineens is developed. This is what is said as reflecting the “الأسماء الحسنة” (asma-ul hasana) or “the attributes of Allah”, i.e. to reflect these attributes in oneself with a particular balance and proportion.

The Quran says:

34:7 When you will become disintegrated

This can encompass both the weakness and disintegration of a nation or one’s physical disintegration after death.
"muznah": a piece of such cloud which has rain water in it {T}.

"fulanun yatumazzan": that man is like a cloud, i.e. is a big philanthropist {R}.

The Quran says about water:

56:69 Is it you who bring it down from the clouds?

In other words, all sustenance is from God only.

Abu Zaid says that in Arabic “masah” (masah) also means to wet or wash, i.e. to cleanse with water.

Ibn Faris says “masahtu yadi bil ma’i” (masahtul yaadi bil ma’i): I took a bath {T}.

Surah Saad says about Suleman that when his horse came in front of him:

38:33 Then he caressed their calves and necks (like riders tend to do over the horses they ride)

Ibn Faris says the basic meanings are to spread something out and to make something traverse some path.

Ibn Faris says that kings and astrologers were anointed in those days and since Isa too was anointed, he was called “maseeh” or the Anointed one {M} see also heading where you will find that “maseeh” (maseeh) is a non-Arabic word.

The name of the sect was Essenees, for details, see the book titled “Shola-i-Mastoor” where Isa has been discussed.
Here “wamsah” (wamsah) has appeared separately with “faghsilu” (faghsilu), therefore it won’t mean “to wash” but just “wipe”.

Further ahead it is said that if you are ill, or traveling, or have come from the loo or you have been copulating or touching women:

| 5:6 | then go for the clean soil |

The indication is that you must wash whatever part of the body that has been soiled. This part must be cleansed with dust. In addition you must wipe your hands and face with it.

In performing abolition one cleans hands and feet, but it also brings about a psychological change which is essential before performing any task. In the absence of water the purpose of washing hands and feet cannot be fulfilled but with “tayammum” (tayammum) that is, performing abolition with dust does make us psychologically ready for the “salaat”.

“al-maskh” (al-maskh): to change somebody’s form or distort it, that is, make it uglier than it was before {T, R, M}.

The act of deterioration continues in the body as well as in morals too: but in both cases, it entails ugliness.

“al-maseekh unin naas” (al-maseekh unin naas): a man who has no good points or who is weak and foolish.

“lahmun maseekh” (lahmun maseekh): meat which has no taste {T, M, R, F}.

“tu’aamun maseekh” (tu’aamun maseekh): food, which has no salt, or color and has no taste.

“insimakhul hamaatil fars” (insimakhul hamaatil fars): for the horse leg muscle to become weak.

The Quran says:

| 36:67 | we will make them weak and deprived despite their being powerful |

The meaning here is of firm grip of the Law of Requital which is applicable to all for all times without any exception.

“al-masd” (al-masd): to twist.

“masadal hab” (masadal hab): he twisted the rope.

“al-masad” (al-masad): the strands of the date palm which are twisted together to make a rope, or a rope made in this way {T, R}.

The Quran says:

| 111:5 | a rope made of date palm twine |

The meaning here is of firm grip of the Law of Requital which is applicable to all for all times without any exception.
"muss": to touch, or to reach something \(T, R\).

Raghib says that "muss" (muss) is of the same meaning as "lams" (lams). The only difference is that "lams" (lams) also means to search and grope although it is not necessary to find the thing that is being searched for against "muss" (muss) which is used when that thing has also being comprehended.

The initial effect of a thing is also called "muss" (muss).

"wajad fulanun mussal humma": he felt the initial feeling of fever.

"lum yajid massan minan nasab": he did not feel any tiredness at all, or anything that befalls and any pain is called "muss". Figuratively it also means craziness \(T, R\).

"at-tamaas": to mutually touch one another. Indirectly or as a passing reference it also refers to copulation \(T, R\) (58:3).

For copulation "muss" (muss) and "maas" (maas) are used as well \(T, M\). For copulation "tamassuhun" (tamassuhun) has been used in (2:236).

Surah Al-Taha says the Samri who had created the golden calf for the Bani-Israeel was punished:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>20:97</th>
<th>he was made to say “I did not touch anyone so nobody should touch me” (T)</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

He was ostracized and had become an untouchable, i.e. all had severed social relations with him.

Muheet says "lams" (lams) particularly means “to touch with hand” and "muss" (muss) is a common touch, i.e. to touch with a hand as well as with any part of the body.

The Quran says:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>56:79</th>
<th>except those who are pure in character and in thought</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

Here by touching the Quran does not mean only touching it but to be aware of its truths \(T, M\). This meaning is also supported by Ruuh-ul-Mu’aani. Actually in order to grasp the message of the Quran, purity of the mind and heart are essential. A man who approaches it with pre-conceived non-Quranic thoughts, will never comprehend its real meaning. The heart or mind which is full of non-Quranic thoughts, beliefs, and ideas can never be illuminated with the light of the Quran. Only he who comes to the Quran with an open mind when his mind is searching for the truth can benefit from it. Only the pure one can therefore touch or benefit from it.

"al-musk": skin which encompasses bones and flesh, and skin used for making water bags. "masaka bihi", "amsak", "tamsak", "istamsak", "tamassak", "massak", "al-imsaak": to be miserly \(M\). "musk", "musak": a kind of perfume taken from the navel of the deer because it is created from the blood that stops in the deer’s navel \(T, M\).

In Surah Al-Baqrah, "imsak" (imsak) has been used against "tasreeh" (tasreeh) (2:229). In other words, it means “to keep within wedlock”.

In Surah Bani Israeel it has been used against “infaaq” (infaaq) in (17:100).
In Surah Al-Faatir it has come against “فتح” (fatah) which means to disclose something (35:2). In (35:41) it has come against “زال” (zaal) which means “for something to move away from its place”.

In Surah Saad verse (38:39), it has been used against “من” (mann) which means miserliness.

Surah Al-Tatfeef says about the “wine” of jannât:
83:26 it has been sealed with mushk.

Surah Al-Ma'idah says about hunting animals:
5:4 eat the prey they hold

“المساء” (al-masa'u): evening time. It is the opposite of “صباح” (sabah) which means morning.
“مساک فلان و اسماء و مسی” (masaaka fulanun wa amsa wa massa): that man promised you but delayed in fulfilling his promise.
“مساک الله بالخير” (massakal laahul bilkhair): may Allah grant you a good evening.
“المسی” (al-mus'u) and “المسی” (al-mis'u): evening time {M}.
“امس” (amsa): he entered the evening time.

Ibnul Qatwiyah says that “المساء” (al-masa'u) is the time between asar and maghrib prayers.

Muhammed says that “المساء” (al-masa'u) is used for two timings, as when the sun starts setting and second when it has set {M}. The Arabs figuratively use “مساء” (masa'u) to mean destruction and the word “صباح” (sabah) for pleasantness {M}.

The Quran says:
30:17 So it is purity for Allah when you enter the evening and when you do it in the morning

This is the traditional translation.

The meaning of the above verse is that Allah is above time. Morning and evening are distinctions for you, while Allah is above these limitations.

Maseeh

Maseeh” (maseeh) is another name for Isa (Jesus), as used in (3:44). For details see heading (M-S-He) and Isa. His life details can be seen in the book titled Shola-e-Mastoor.

“مشج” (mashaja bainahuma): he mixed these two together {T, R}. Ibn Faris too says this is the basic meaning.
“شیء مشج” (shaiyun masheejun) and “مشج” (mushf): a mixture or joined thing. Plural is “امشاج” (amshaaj) {T, R}.

The Quran says:
76:2 We created man from a matter which has a mixture of different potentialities

This creates genes in the ovum of the mother

"mashy" (mashy): to walk:

Raghib says that "mashy" (mashy) means to transfer from one place to another intentionally. Figuratively "mashy" (mashy) means to get guidance and to seek guidance {T, M}.

"al-mashiya" (al-mashiya) with plural "al-mawashi" (al-mawashi) means four legged animals like camels, goats, etc.

Taj-ul-Uroos says that "masha" (masha-un) means abundance and to develop.

"imra'atun maashiyah" (imra'atun maashiyah): a woman with many children {T, M}.

Ibn Faris says its basic meanings are “movement of a man” and “develop and abundance”.

The Quran has used "qaamu" against "mashyun" in (2:20) i.e. “to walk”.

Surah Al-Airaaf says:

7:159 Do they have legs to walk on?

Surah Al-Qalam says:

68:11 a man who takes the news from one place to another a lot (who backbites a lot)

"al-misr" (al-misr): the border or partition between two things.
"misrun" (misrun): a town, because it is limited.
"mumsoor" (mumsoor): it has borders around it.
"misr" (misr): some town or area.
"misr" (misr): a country (Egypt). It also means “red earth” {T, M, R}.

The Quran uses "misr" in (2:61) to mean “a city” or a limited dwelling place as against the unlimited open spaces.

"al-musgha" (al-musgha): a piece of flesh. It can also mean a piece of other things too.
"muzgha minal lahmi" (muzgha minal lahmi): amount of meat which can be put in mouth to chew, i.e. “a mouthful”.
"al-mazaghu" (al-mazaghu): thing which is chewed.
"mazga", "yamzagh", "mazgha": to chew something with teeth {T, M, R}.

Ibn Faris says the basic meaning of this word is to chew.
The Quran has described one of the different stages of the genes in the ovum as “\\textit{مُﻀْﻏَۃً} (muzgha) (22:5) i.e. the state in which the gene is like a lump of chewable flesh and the bones in it are still not hard.

The sword (which is sharp) cuts whatever it strikes {T}. "الأَمْضَيِّنِي (al-maazı): lion, because due to its courage it stays in front and does carry out its intentions.

The Quran says:

8:38 The practices of former nations (historical events)

M-Te-R

"المَطْرُ (al-matar): the rain as in (4:102) {T}. "الأَمْطَارُ (al-imtaar): the rain of punishment {T}.

Raghib says it means a rain whose effects are good, and "أَمْطَارِ (amtar) is rain whose effects are detrimental (bad) {R}. Ibn Faris says "أَمْطِرٍ (umtir) appears only for punishment.

The Quran says about the " (azaab) that the nation of Luut faced:

7:84 And We made it rain on them

M-Te-W/Y

"مَطْاً (mata), "مَطْوً (matwa): he exerted in walking and walked fast. "مَطْوً (mutawa’u): to stretch and yawn. Mostly it means a stretching that comes at the time of fever. "مَطْا (matawa) and "تَمْطَيْنِي (tamatta): to increase, to become long, to extend. Ibn Faris says these are its basic meanings. "تَمَطّْي (tamattan anhar): the day stretched, that is, after the sunrise it progressed. "تَمَطَّي (at-tamatti): to walk proudly, to extend hands and to spread them while walking {T, R}.

Raghib says "الْمَطِرُ (al-mata) means back and "تَمَطَّي (tamatta) means to raise and extend one’s back. This is the condition when one walks rakishly.

The Quran says:

75:34 He went to his companions triumphantly (in a preening way)
Ma’a مَعَ

“مع” (ma’a): “with”, “along with”, both physically and figuratively.

To mean “being with physically” the Quran says:

12:36 two young men entered the prison along with him
8:66 Allah is with those who are persevering

It means, Allah’s help is with those who are persevering.

It sometimes appears to mean “عنده” (inda) or “near”.

“جلت من مع القوم” (je’tu min ma’a-il qaum): I came near (close to) the nation.

M-Ain-Z مَعْزَ

“معز” (ma’az) with its plural form “معاز” (maa-iz) has appeared in 6:144.

“المعاز” (al-maa’iz): a man with a strong body

“المعاز” (al-m’aaz): a goat, because in comparison to “ضأن” (zaan) (sheep) it has a kind of hardness.

Ibn Faris says it basically means solidity and intensity in something.

M-Ain-N مَعِنَ

“معن” (al-ma’an): insignificant and lowly thing.

While it means “short” and “a little” on one hand, on the other it is also used to mean “long” and “abundant” as the water that flows on the surface of the ground.

“المعون” (al-ma’aoon): any good deed, as rain because it is received from God without any effort.

Anything that is benefited from; anything which cannot be stopped by those who ask for it; things of nurturing or development.

“معن الفرس” (maa’nal fars): the horse went past while running.
“معن الماء” (maa’nal maa’u): the water flowed.
“معن النبت” (maa’anun nabt): the plants had enough of water.
“معن” (maeen): open water that is flowing {T, M, Lataif-ul-Lugha}.

Ibn Faris says that it means ease in flow or walk, or something which is done easily.

The Quran says:

23:50 Land which is smooth (even) and in which water flows

Surah Al-Ma’on says:

107:7 They hold back things which Allah has given for the benefit of all

This means things of nourishment must be kept like flowing water, available to all, whoever needs those things must be able to take them and fulfil his needs.

Some say that “معن” (maeen) has been derived from “عين” (ain) {T}. As such, it has also been mentioned under the heading (Ain-Y- N).

The Quran in verse (47:15) says that hot water in jahannam will be annihilating instead of life-giving "faqatta’u am’ihaam" and will cut their (the people’s) intestines to pieces, their life will be terminated, or will be deprived of things of sustenance. (Note that intestines are a major source in turning the food into assimilative product to become a part of the body).

The Quran states that you want longevity or permanence, you want your memories to last, you want life forever, you want your deeds to always be remembered. For that the basic principle is:

In the world, “The Survival of the Fittest” is the principle which rules, but here it is the “Principle of the Most Beneficial that survives”. So if you want your name to be remembered then do something beneficial for humanity. Whatever you do in this vein must not be limited to any particular group, individual or nation but it should be beneficial equally for all mankind. This is what the Quran and Islam wants because Allah is Sustainer (Rabb) of the Universe.

Surah Bani Israel says:

Surah An-Namal and Surah Al-Qasas say:
(al-makr): secret plan, scheme.
(at-tamkeer): when grain, etc, is secretly hoarded at home.
(al-makr): war planning or scheming (T).

Al- manaar says that “مَﮑْﺮٌ” (makr) is such a secret plan in which targeted person is taken to a stage which he cannot even conceive or imagine (T, Al-manaar).

The Quran terms the schemes of the opponents as “مَﮑْﺮٌ” (makr), and the reply from the group of momineen or the results of their own wrong deeds according to Allah’s laws is “مَﮑْﺮٌ” (makr) as well (T, R).

8:30 They were scheming against you and Allah’s law was scheming against them. Allah’s schemes are best, very powerful and effective.

M-K-K

(makk al-azm): he sucked the bone and removed all its marrow (T, R). Ibn Faris says this is its basic meaning.
(makkal faseelu maa fee zar-i ummihi): the camel kid sucked all the milk that was in its mother’s teats.
(makkah): he killed him, decreased him (T, R).

Yaqoob says that “مَﮑْﮑَةَ” (mecca) means the entire mosque.

There is a difference of opinion as to why the place is called mecca:
1) for example one opinion is that it is called mecca because it decreases or destroys sins
2) since water was scarce there, its inhabitants sort of used to suck all its water.
3) since this city attracts people towards it and absorbs them it is called “مَﮑْﮑَةَ” (mecca).
4) just as “بُكَّةٌ” (buck) means a crowd so does “مَﮑَّةٌ” (muck) mean a crowd.
5) “مُﮑَﺎﮐَةَ” (mukaak) and “مُﮑَﺎﮐَةٌ” (mukaakah) means bone marrow (T, R), which is in the centre of the bone and since this city is in the middle of the world it is called mecca.

The Quran has used mecca to mean the city which holds the mosque of Ka’ba (48:46). The same city has also been called “بَﮑَّةٌ” (bakka) in (3:95). See heading (B-K-K) too.

Mecca

It means Mecca. See heading (M-K-K) and (B-K-K).

M-K-N

(al-makinah): grandeur and power or authority
(al-muknah): the ability.
(al-makaanah): peace and respect.
(al-makaan): a place which is overpowering and encompassing something (T).

Ibn Faris says “مُﮑَﺎﮐَةَ” (al-muknaat) means the nests of birds.
Some think that the root of "ﻣَﮑَﺎﻥٌ (makaan) is (K-W-N), and it also means the method or direction.
The Quran says:

14:17 death will come towards it from all sides

وَ ﻳَﺎَﺗِ ﻣَﻮْتسَ ﻣِﻦْ ﻛُﻞﱢ ﻣَﮑَﺎنٍ

This is from the root \(K-W-N\).

The Quran says:

4:20 a wife in place of another wife

زَوْجٍ زَوْجٍ ﻣَﮑَﺎنَ

10:28 to stay in its place

ﻣَﮑَﺎﻧَﮑُُْ

19:57 and We granted him a lofty place

وَرَﻓـَﻌْﻨٰ ﻣَﮑَﺎﻧًﺎ ﻋَﻠِﻴّﺎً

6:167 do what you can as per your power

اِﻋْﻤَﻠُﻮْا ﻋَﻠٰﯽ ﻣَﮑَﺎﻧَﺘِﮑُُْ

36:27 despite their strength we annihilate them (reduce their power to weakness)

لمََِﻠَـْﺤْﻨـٰ ﻣِﻦْ ﻣَﮑَﺎﻧَﺘِﻬُِْ

24:55 Thus we granted Yusuf the authority in the land

كَﺬَاﻟِﮏَ ﻓِﯽ اﻻَْرْضِ ﻣَﮑﱠﻨﱠﺎ

The Quran has related three methods of verifying the truth of its claims. One is to deliberate upon the truths or knowledge of the times, or historic truths as to how the nations which adopted the wrong path had been destroyed. The third is the pragmatic test which means “let the system establish itself through human efforts and produce its results” (10:39). The results will speak for themselves.

The Quran believes firmly on its claims that it exhorts taking this pragmatic test as its proof. Therefore, the Messenger Muhammed tells his opponents repeatedly to continue working as per your strengths.

6:136 soon the results will decide as to who is successful

فََِﻮْفَ ﺗـَﻌْﻠَﻤُﻮْنَ ﻣَﻦْ ﺗَﮑُﻮْنُ ﻟَﻪٌ ﻋَﺎِﺒَﺘَﺔُ

6:136 You will see that the nation that slackens in giving humanity its due rights and rebels against Allah’s laws, can never succeed

This was the way, through which Islam’s truth was established, i.e. to tell the world through its practical results that this system is without parallel. This was the Islamic claim. Nowadays the situation is such that even if some people want to turn to Islam by being impressed by its universal appeal, they are turned away by seeing the practical despondence of the muslims, and think that a religion whose followers face the ignominy that is done by the muslims presently, can never be the harbinger of emancipation to humankind at large. Even so, if the muslims are told that they are not following the Deen which Allah had ordained (but something similar to it) then they get so angry that they are ready to fight you. This is because they have refused to test deeds through their results as per the Quran. Now they have no criterion whereby they can judge whatever that is being done by them is right or wrong.

There is only one criterion and that is whether the result of the deeds that the Quran has told us are being produced accordingly or not. If our deeds are producing the said results then the deeds are being done correctly. If they are not producing the said results, then the deeds are not being performed correctly. It is correct that result of all the deeds will not be manifested before death but there are some results which will definitely be manifested. According to the Quran some results will be manifested in this life too, and they can determine if the deeds we are doing are being done rightly. The ignominy and deprivation in this world means the punishment by Allah, and if we are doing the deeds according to the Quran, these deprivations cannot remain with us.

Ibn Faris says this means by putting the fingers in a particular way in the mouth and whistle.

Raghib says “مَﮑَﺎ الطُّﯾْر” (mukat tair) means “to whistle like a bird” [R].

“مَﮑَﺎ” (maka) is to whistle {T}.

Ibn Faris says this means by putting the fingers in a particular way in the mouth and whistle.

The Quran says about the Arabs of the dark period (i.e. before the advent of the Quran):

8:35 Near the House of Ka’ba, their salaat is nothing but some meaningless sounds and meaningless movements

This means their prayers in which some words are recited and some acts performed (i.e. soulless praying). Just think and observe that today’s prayers where we simply recite some words whose meanings we do not know, and do some movements about which we do not know why these are performed? Although the Quran had directed to establish salaat which is a means of bringing change of minds and thinking and the source of bringing a revolution in a society, the society where every man would be aware as to what he was doing and why? And what will be its result? Every aspect of Deen has a purpose and helps attain the high ideal of humanity. But when the real purpose of Deen becomes obscured then these life giving links of that program (Deen) are reduced simply to being a custom, part of a meaningless worship, and the rituals are then performed thinking as if these are the very aim. At this juncture Deen (Way of life) is reduced simply to a religion.

The Quran has used “الْمَلَا” (al-mala’o) in these meanings too:

23:33 who had abundance of life’s accoutrements

The Quran says that the rich people of the entire nation, whom the messengers were sent to oppose them:

34:34 It has never occurred that We have sent a warner to a
It is obvious then that the Messengers came with a message that hurt the rich people the most. That is why they opposed the message so vehemently. If the matter was confined only to worship then they would not have opposed the message in such a manner because then it would not be hurtful to them at all. They on the other hand support these programs and give to charities. The Quranic verses are witness to the fact that the program which the messengers brought all entailed the program of snatching the holds on things of sustenance or the resources from the rich and privileged and put them under the law of sustenance as ordained by Allah. This was the reason that particular group of people oppose the revelation because its success meant the elimination of human exploitation and equitable distribution of wealth in a society.

This has been the case since long and will continue to be so. Today too, wherever the revolutionary message brought by the Quran is mentioned, it will be opposed tooth and nail by this group of people, and religious monasticism will be hand in glove with it.

See heading (Te-R-F).

M-L-H

الملح (al-milh): salt, very salty (brackish) water.
الملاح (al-mallah‘u): one who sells salt. It also means “sailor” as he is always at sea (or in brackish water).

The Arabs used to hold salt in great esteem and therefore الملح (al-milh) was also used to mean responsibility and courtesy, and for fine and aesthetic sense too.

Ibn Faris says it means to be white, and salt is so called because it is white.

The Quran has used “ملح” (milh) to mean very brackish water.
حاذا مالح أجاع (haaza milhun ujaaj): it is very brackish (25:35).

M-L-Q

ملقم (malaq), يثملق (yamliq): obliterated, softened.
الملاجع (al-malaq): the wooden board with which land is cultivated, or which is used as plough to smooth or made even.
ملقل الأرض تميقلها (mallaqal arda tamleeqa): to even out the land with the wooden board.
ملقل (tamalluqu) and ملق (malaq): to soften or smooth someone.
تمبلق (inmaalq): to be smooth.
الملافحة (al-malagah): smooth stone {T, M}.
الملق (al-malqi): weak and feeble whom the vicissitudes of time have made so.
الملق (al-mumliq): a man who has nothing, is a pauper.
أملقه مامى (amlaga mamahu): whatever he had, he spent it, and kept nothing back.
رجل الملق من المال (rajulun amlaqu minal maal): a man who has no wealth left {T, M}.
أملق (imlaaq): poverty.

Ibn Faris says it means to be deprived of something and something to be softened.

The Quran says:

| 6:152 | due to the fear that you will become a pauper, do not kill your children |

QES-Norway Lughat-ul-Quran Volume IV Page 73 of 276
In a Quranic system, it will be the responsibility of the system to arrange for your sustenance and your children too. Responsibilities that Allah has said as his own are fulfilled by this system which is established to implement His laws.

6:152 Do not kill or do not deprive them of education

In a Quranic system, it will be the responsibility of the system to arrange for your sustenance and your children too. Responsibilities that Allah has said as his own are fulfilled by this system which is established to implement His laws.

M-L-K

“ملک” (mulk): to have the capacity, to have the power, to dominate and be overpowering {M}. It also means authority and intent, firm basis, the support on which something is established.

That is why water and food and other such things are called “ملک” (milk) because they support the life on earth.

The Arabs say “لَيْ فِی ٱلْوَادِیَ مَلْکٍ” (li fil waadi milk) which means “this valley has grazing land, water and cattle and every other thing”. In the desert, water is the greatest life sustaining thing, so it is called “ملک” (milk).

“لَيْسَ لَمْ بِمَلْکٍ” (laisa lahum milk): they do not have water.

The Arabs have a proverb which says “الماء ملك أمره” (al-maa’u malak amruhu) which means “water rectifies everything, or takes care of every matter” i.e. one who has water is independent and everything is sorted out for him {L}.

Anything with which any matter is set right and reaches its peak is called “ملاك الأمر” (milakkul amr).

“ملاك” (maalik) also means plaster {T, F}, because with it stones, etc. are set right.

“ملاك العجين يملك” (malakal ajeeana yamlikhu): to knead the flour well, so that all its elements become homogenous or mixed well {T, F}.

Nawab Siddiq Hassan Khan says that the characteristic of this root (M-L-K) is strength and intensity {Al-ilm-ul-Khafaq}.

“ملاك الطريق” (malakul tareeq), “ملاك الطريق” (milakul tareeq): the limit of a path, and also the middle or big part of a path {T, F}.

“ملاك” (malakuut): respect and authority, government and statehood. This word is also used to mean “a great country”, but the word is particular to mean “Allah’s authority”, because complete authority in the universe belongs to Allah. He alone supports the universe and is the basis for it and all operations therein are due to Him.

“ملاك” (maalik): a man of authority and right.

In Surah An-Nahal verse (16:73) “لا يملك” (la yamliku) i.e. not have power has been further elaborated by the term “لا يملكو” (la yaqaddiru ala shaiyin) in (16:75) i.e. on which there is no authority or right.

Similarly “ملاك” (mumlook) has been explained by “لا يقدر على شيء” (la yaqaddiru ala shaiyin) in (16:75) i.e. on which there is no authority or right.

Surah Yasin has clarified that “ملاك” (maalik) is one who is obeyed by another.

Surah Al-Bagra (in respect of Taalot) has said:

2:246 appoint some commander for us (so that we fight under his command)

A commander is one who has authority. In the verse adjacent to it, the meaning of “ملاك” (mulk) is also authority.
The promise we made to you, was not broken intentionally {T}.

The above explanations make it obvious that while by “مالكك” (maalik) it is meant that Allah has complete right and authority, it is also conceived that it is thus so that the system of the universe proceeds rightly and according to His laws not for some oppressive purpose, and so that everything continues to get what is essential for its existence.

The Quran uses a term “مالكك ايمانك” (maa malakat aimanukum) which literally means “whom your right hands possess”. This phrase has been used to mean several things, for example to mean subordinates who work according to someone’s plan. Household servants etc. are also included in this category. See (30:28, 24:58, 24:31, 16:71, 4:36). It also means the women who have entered wedlock (33:52).

In Surah Al-Nisa verse (4:24) if “muhsinaatu” is taken to mean chaste women then:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>4:24</th>
<th>Chaste women are prohibited for you except those who enter your wedlock</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>والمحصنة من النساء إلا ما ملكت إيمانكم</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

If ‘muhsinaat’ means ‘women with husbands’ (see heading H-Sd-N) then this verse would mean:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>4:24</th>
<th>All women with husbands are forbidden for you, except the slave girls or women who are already in your slavery (although they may have husbands somewhere)</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>إلا ما ملكت إيمانكم</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

But in Surah Al-Mumtithina it is said that if the women of the unbelievers come to you then do not make them return to the unbelievers but give them (the unbelievers) the money they have spent on the women and wed them (60:10). These are the ‘women with husbands’ with whom wedlock was allowed. In this vein verse (4:24) could also mean “these women who were married in this way”.

These words have also been used to mean slave girls in other verses like (33:50), (70:30), and (23:6). Before the advent of Islam the Arab society permitted keeping slaves and slave girls. When Islam arrived these slave girls were not turned out and allowed to stay where they were, because turning them out would have caused a lot of ills in the society due to economic reasons. The Quran has used these words to mean these slave girls too.

In Surah Muhammed clear directions were given that these prisoners were to be freed either as a favour or after receiving some compensation. Thus Islam ended the major source of slavery, to purchase a human being for keeping him or her as a slave is very much against the teachings of the Quran which advocates respect for human beings (17:70), leave alone allow one man to be master of another and order him around as a slave (3:78).

These explanations make clear that wherever the phrase “مالكك” (maa malakat) has been used to mean slave girls, it has been used for slave girls as were there in Arab society before the advent of Islam. These slave girls were gradually absorbed as individuals of the free society and since the system of making new slaves had been prohibited by the Quran. Therefore the system of slavery or slave girls ended from among the muslims. As such, those who cite “مالكك ايمانك” (maa malakat aimanukum) as an instance for keeping slaves are mistaken and do injustice to the Quran. The benefit of this phrase in the Quran nowadays is that if a nation in which slavery is still prevalent enters or accepts Islam then this verse would provide guidance and direction to end it.

With reference to “مالكك ايمانك” (maa malakat aimanukum), also see heading (Y-M-N).

For the meaning of “ماليك” (mala'ikah), see heading (A-L-K).
Raghib says "밀라" (milah) has been derived from it. As such, "밀라" (milah) means “written law”.

(tareequn maleel): that clear path which is much used.

"밀라" (milah): method, way or path.

Abu Ishaq also supports this meaning and Asaas too supports it.

"밀라" (milah) has been derived from it because it means a place where bread is baked and at such a place footprints make their mark from much comings and goings.

"الملاح" (al-mallah): hot sand over which bread is sometimes cooked {T}.

Manavi says "مالال" (malaal) means the tiredness and frustration that is created by doing something continuously {T}.

Ibn Faris says it means to become tired of something and to be tired.

The Quran has used the word “밀라” (milah) to mean the path or the way, as in:

2:140 Until you follow their way (deen)

Islam has been called "밀라 ابراهيم" (millata ibrahim) in (2:135), i.e. “the way which as per Allah’s directions Ibrahim had followed”.

"إملا" (imla’un): to extend (to give more time or show laxity).

"مالاوات من الذبر" (malaawat minaddabri), "ماليامين من الذبر" (maliyamin naddabri): a very long period of time {R}.

"المالييون" (al-maliyyun): a long period of time. Ibn Faris says that this is its basic meaning

The Quran says:

19:46 get away from me for a long period

Surah Muhammed says about the shaitaan or rebellious forces:

47:25 He keeps making tall promises to them (gives them false hopes)

7:183 I give them time.

"밀لات الكتاب" (am lait-ul-kitaab): I dictated the book.

"밀لات": dictation {R}.

The Quran says:

2:282 Should get it written down

25:5 And they are dictated to him

See heading (M-L-L).

"من" (min) is also used to mean “in”:

62:9 When you are called to prayers in Friday

"من" (min) is also used to mean “from” or “of”:

21:97 We were unaware of them (from their side)

"من" (min) is also used to mean “for him” or “over him”:

58:17 Against Allah, their wealth and progeny will do no good for them

"من" (min) is also redundant sometimes:

6:59 No leaves fall without….

It can also mean to put emphasis on something.

M-N-Ain

Ibn Faris says "من" (man'a) is the opposite of "إعطاء" (i'ta'un), i.e. “to not give”. Raghib too supports this claim.

"من" (mun'a): to intervene between a person and the thing which he wishes to obtain.

"إعطاء" (imtana'a), "إمتانة" (imitina'a): to abstain, to stop, forbid, one who prevents [T].

"منع" (mannaa'un) and "منع" (manna'anun) are more exaggerated than "منع" (maanih), i.e. “one who stops very much”.

"منع" (maanih), "منع" (mannah'un), "منع" (manoo'o): miser who stops and does not let go of anything {R}.

"المنع" (al-mun'a): to stop, to be safe.

"منع الرجل" (manu ar rajul): the man became safe.

"منع الحصن" (hisnun manihi): safe and strong fort.

"الممانعة" (al-mumana'ah): to struggle or quarrel to prevent one another {T}.

The Quran says:

2:114 Who can be more oppressive than one who prevents others from reciting Allah’s name (or word) in the mosques

Here mun'un means “to hinder” or “intervene”.

Surah Al-Nisa says:

4:141 Have We not protected you through the believers?

Surah Al-Ma'on says:

107:7 They hinder things which should be free like flowing water, and possess them personally

Surah Al-Ma'arij says about man’s psychological make-up:

70:21 when a man gets wealth, then instead of keeping it open (or available for others, he keeps it for himself

The next verse says that this mentality can be cured through the system of Salaat. Verse (29:45) also says so. The same thing is reiterated in Surah Al-Qaf by using the words “منع” (manna'i lil-khairi).
Against this we have a heavenly society will have life’s edibles in abundance (50:25), and where nobody will stop it, from being available to everyone (20:118, 20:35) and will be available for the sustenance of all (17:20, 107:7)

 mamma

 mamma: to obtain any beneficence from God with no major effort.

 mamma alaih: did him a favour, i.e. granted him something without any labour.

 mamma: grant something without any labour.

 mamma: to assert or remind of a favour which is not thought to be a good act.

 al-manoon: one who asserts favours too much. It also means “era” and “death”.

 raibul manoon: the vicissitudes of life.

 al-mannan: one who grants too many rewards.

 The Quran says that the Revelation too is “mamma” because it has been granted by Allah without any effort on our part (14:11). This “mamma” is for the Messenger, and for the Messenger to come to the people with this revelation is “mamma” from Allah (3:163). For the nation of Bani Israel to be liberated from Pharaoh’s oppression was Allah’s “mamma” (28:5).

 About the prisoners of war, Surah Muhaamed says that they should be allowed to go as “mamma” or “fidyan” i.e. against some compensation (47:4).

 In Surah Saad, this word has been used opposite to “imsaak” which means obstruction (38:39). Thus it is obvious that prisoners of war will have to be released, whether in exchange of compensation or for free.

 Surah Al-Mudassar says:

 74:6 do not do a favour in expectation that you will get better returns

 This makes the meaning of “mamma” very clear.

 Surah Al-Momin says that those who spend in the path of Allah do so because:

 2:262 They neither expect any return nor be the cause of any mental torture by stressing their favour

 “mamma” is actually quite weighty , thus stressing the favour means to burden someone with a heavy weight.

 “mamma” also means “to make tired”, or “to exhaust”, or “to weaken” or “enfeeble”.

 mamma naaqaah: weakened the camel because of the stress of the journey and enfeebled it.

 Hence it became weak by walking too much.

 mamma sairu fulana: made it weak by walking so much.

 zahaba bi munatihi: wasted its strength.

 al-manneen: weak rope or weak man.

 saubun maneen: weak and feeble cloth.

 al-minanah: spider.

 mamma shaiyi: the thing decreased.

 manoon: death or era.

 mamma habl: cut the rope.

 Ibn Faris says the basic meanings are

 1) to cut
 2) to do a favour.

 The Quran says:

 95:6 Such returns await them which will not be decreased at all (they will get full return and not an iota less)

 Also see (84:25) and (41:8).
Hence it means “uncut” or “continuous”. In evolution something can proceed ahead but cannot revert, either it will stop or proceed ahead. It can also mean that this return will be received by them not as a favour but as a matter of right.

52:30 The vicissitudes of time

| "ـَـْـَـْـَـْـَ~
| (unmiyyah): the reading of the book, whatever is read [Ibn-Qateebah, F].

Taj-ul-Uroos has cited verses to prove this meaning.

Ibn Faris says by reading one can estimate the purpose of the book.

The Quran says:

| 2:78 |
| uneducated are included among them who can only recite the book (but cannot understand its meanings) |

| 22:52 |
| And any messenger before you that We sent to, then (after him) it so transpired that the book he recited from was interfered with. Thus another messenger was sent by Allah who would remove the |
In this verse God relates how people used to change the Revelation after a messenger and thus another messenger was sent to restore the original message. This continued till the advent of the Quran which was guaranteed safe keeping (from amendments and changes) by God Himself. Now nobody can make any changes in it. This is the true meaning of this verse, but many elaborators have translated “uminiyatihi” as “wish”, and thus created a difficulty for themselves. Then in order to get out of the difficulty and contradiction, they concocted a story to support their transgression.

There are different kinds of death:
1) for the strength of growth to be lost, as in:

30:19 Allah enlivens the land after its death

2) for the feeling to be lost:

19:23 Maryam said “If only I had died before this and was forgotten and wish I was unable to feel this ignominy and pain”

3) the deterioration of intellect and consciousness:

27:80 You cannot make the dead listen (those who do not employ their intellect)

4) fear and apprehension which can cause life to be blemished, i.e. difficult situations like poverty, ignominy, a life of subjugation etc.:

14:17 Difficulties from all sides will be approaching but death will not arrive. Only so much will be furnished as charity that will be enough to sustain life barely

The Quran has used “maut” against “ḥayat” which means “life” (2:28). Just as life is not merely breathing but it has many aspects, death is not just to stop breathing but it has many aspects as well. The worst sort of that is collective death in which they are neither dead fully nor alive. This sort of life is hellish.

87:13 The message of the Quran is life giving only for those who have the ability to live on

36:70 To warn he who is alive

Wherever these words have appeared in the Quran, it will have to be determined with reference to the context these contain at that place. At every place “maut” will not mean physical or clinical death. Also see heading (H-Y-Y).
M-W-J

maal: wave.
maaj al-mauj: the wave rose maaj: the tribulation of the sea waves.
maaja yamuj: surprise and wonder {T, M, R}.
maujash shabaab: the swing of youth, the height of youth.

Ibn Faris says that its basic meaning is “tribulation”.
The Quran uses the word “maal” (maul) to mean “sea waves” in (10:22).

M-W-R

maarash shaiyu yamoor: for something to come again and again.
al-maur: to turn around as “wave” and “tribulation”. It also means to flow with speed on the ground and be quickly mobile.
maara maura: he started coming and going.
al-maur: much traversed, smooth path, fast pace, quickness and soft treading.
al-moor: dust blown by the wind {T, R}.

The Quran says:

52:9 With revolution, those on high ranks will be removed from their place and become very troubled

This meaning is derived from the figurative meaning of “sama’a” (sama’).

Moosa

moosa: razor.
maasa raasahu: he shaved off his head with a razor {T, R}.
Moosa/Moses is a Hebrew word which has been Arabised and it means “that which has been pulled out” {T}.

Since the Pharaoh’s people had pulled Moosa out of the river when he was a child, he was named so {M}.

Ibrahim’s grandson Yaqoob had the title of Israel. His descendants are called the Bani Israel. One of his sons was named Yahuda. The Yahuda and Binyamin tribes were settled in Palestinian area Judea. These two tribes were therefore called Yahudis and the rest of the descendants as Bani Israel. Later this distinction was removed and now Bani Israel and Yahudis are all referred as Jews.

Yaqoob’s country was Kanaan (Palestine), but Yusuf (Joseph) who had reached Egypt as per God’s will.
See heading Yusuf were it is described that he had called his kith and kin to Egypt. Thus the Bani Israel were settled in Egypt and gradually turned into a nation by multiplying.

The Pharaoh’s ruled Egypt. Pharaoh was the title of the Kings there and is not used for any particular Pharaoh. Egyptians worshipped many gods and “Aamn Ra” (the Sun god) was the biggest of their gods.

The kings of Egypt were thought to be the awtar or representatives of the gods. They were called the awtaar of the Sun god. Three thousand years ago, thirty generations of the Pharaohs ruled Egypt. During the time of Yusuf, Hyksos’ family ruled Egypt and they were called Umalaqah.
In Egypt the Bani Israel had started out as a respected lot but gradually they became subjugated by the Pharaohs and began to be treated like slaves. When oppression reached its peak, Moosa, who was a great messenger of Allah and a revolutionary, was born among them.

Though he was born in a family belonging to the subjugated Bani Israel, God arranged that he was brought up in the Pharaoh’s palace and thus became aware of the ways of kings (28:7-13). From here he reached the area called Madyan (28:22) where he wedded.

On return from Madyan he was endowed with messenger-hood on the mount Toor (20:12-13) and he was directed to go to the Pharaohs and deliver the Bani Israel from oppression. Along with his brother Haroon he reached the Pharaoh (20:43-44, 28:34). There were battles (struggles) with the Pharaoh and his religious people and at last he came away with the Bani Israel to Palestine (20:77) and educated them there. God made the Bani Israel the lord of the east and west in that blessed land (7:137). According to the Torah he died in the land of Mo’aab at the age of 120 years. See Istasnaa (34:5). Haroon had died earlier. The Quran has not discussed these details as these are irrelevant.

He was succeeded by Joshua according to the Torah. Thereafter the nation of Bani Israel rose to new heights. This was the era in which the grandeur of Dawood and Suleman was inherited by them. Later they stopped following the way of Allah and ignominy pursued them.

They were first destroyed by Bakht Nasar of Babylon in 99 B.C. He demolished Jerusalem and enslaved the Jews and took them to Babylon. Within a hundred years three Persian kings i.e. Cyrus (Zulqarnain), Dara and Artakhshashta agreed to help them and they were able to come and settle once more in Jerusalem. Surah Al-Bagrah mentions this destruction and rehabilitation allegorically in verse (2:259). In 332 B.C. Alexander of Macedonia attacked their centre i.e. Jerusalem. Then in 320 B.C. Batlimos attacked them by way of Egypt. He attacked Jerusalem and seized it. During the period of Antigonus, this area came under the Greeks and the Jews were badly persecuted. In 66 B.C. their last destruction had begun to take place. Pompeii of Rome advanced towards Palestine and seized it. In this battle, about 12 thousand Jews were killed. Then in 01 B.C. in another battle, about thirty thousand Jews were enslaved. Allah tried to redeem them and sent Isa (Jesus) to them for salvation but the way he was treated by them is known to the whole world. After him the moment of reckoning for them had arrived. Titus, the Roman Governor attacked them so badly in 70 A.D that they were destroyed as a nation.

Surah Bani Israel talks about the first destruction at the hands of Bakht Nasar and this last destruction (17:4-7).

Moosa was Allah’s messenger. He was endowed by Allah with a celestial Book:

2:52 \quad \text{Haroon was a messenger too, he too received the book}

As such, about Moosa and Haroon it is said:

37:117 \quad \text{And We endowed both of them with a clear Book:}

The Quran mentions no separate book for Haroon nor is it named (5:44), but Torah is actually the name of the group of books which were given from Moosa to Isa and all the messengers between them. This group of books is called “The Old Testament”.

The Jews had defined it literally (4:46) and figuratively (2:75). Plus they had also made their own additions to it (2:79) and thus their religious book became a mixture of the truth and fabrication (3:71) and therefore bitter controversies had arisen over it (11:110). They were explained by the Quran when it made its advent (5:15). Also see heading Torah.
Ibnul Ayeer has said that actually “maal” (maal) means gold and silver in your possession. Later a collection of things in your possession also came to be called “maal” (maal), however the Arabs used to call their flock of camels “maal” (maal) because they were wealth to them. “rajulum maseel): a very rich man.

“multuhu (multuhu): I gave him wealth.

“amwaal (amwaal): “I became rich”.

To establish a divine system on earth man has to bear some losses in which “naqsin minal amwaal) in (2:155) is included. That is the loss of wealth and riches. But after this the group of believers is made the owner of the wealth of the opponents and they enjoy proliferation of all kinds (33:27). Therefore the proliferation of wealth is the necessary result of establishing the divine system, and the benevolence of Allah. But the wealth that is under the charge of the system of sustenance for the entire nation (9:111) and if every individual collects wealth for his individual benefit then that wealth continues to prepare hellfire whose flames engulf the heart (104:72). The name of this system is Capitalism which the Quran has been sent to humanity to eliminate (9:34-35).

The Quran says:

11:7 Allah’s throne is on water

For the meaning of this verse, see heading (Ain-R-Sh).

Taj-ul-Uroos with reference to Raghib says it figuratively also means “to expand or increase wealth and rank”. In other words, it means to make life soft and luxurious.
Surah Al-Bagrah calls jahannam as “بَيْنَ الْمِہْدَّ” (bi’sal mihaad) in (2:206). Here it means a place to stay or live in.

The Quran calls Allah as:

<table>

<td>51:48</td>
<td>And We have spread out the earth, and a good provider of luxuries We are, or provider of an abode</td>

Surah Maryam says that Maryam along with her son Isa came to the worshippers of Jewish temple. These worshippers got angry because in their opinion she had given up a life of celibacy and was living a normal marital life (as she had a child). In their opinion this was against the rule of monasticism.

Instead of replying, she pointed to the child (which was Isa) that he would answer them. At this, the priests said sarcastically:

<table>
<thead>

<th>Verse</th>
<th>Translation</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>19:26</td>
<td>How can we talk to someone who is inexperienced? (He is hence beneath our standards)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

This makes the meaning of “الْمِہْدَّ” (al-mahd) as cradle clear. This is the concept of “تَکَالُومُ فِي الْمِہْدَّ” (takallum fil mahd), i.e. talking about the universal truths at a young age, towards which has been pointed in (3:45, 5:110).

The reply that was given by Isa to the priests also shows that it was not a reply from the cradle, i.e. was not the reply of a child. Isa said:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Verse</th>
<th>Translation</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>19:30</td>
<td>I am on a mission of Allah. He has given me the Book, and made me a messenger</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

This shows that this is from a period when Isa has been endowed with messenger hood. For more details, see the book titled “Shola-i-Mastoor”.

M-He-L

- “الْمِہْدَّ” (al-mahd): peace, contentment, softness,
- “الْمْهْل” (al-mahl): “الْمْهْل” (al-mahal), “الْمُهْلْ” (al-muhlah): peace, contentment, softness,
- “الْمِهْلْ” (amhalah): treated him softly or gently, did not treat him harshly, granted him more time, gave him more time.
- “الْمْهْلْ” (tamah hala fi amalihi): he did not hasten in his work, did it peacefully and with equanimity.
- “الْمِہْدَّ” (al-mahd): aplomb and honour, to proceed in a good deed.
- “الْمْہْل” (al-maahil): fast, one who goes ahead (T, R).

Surah At-Talaq says:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Verse</th>
<th>Translation</th>

</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>86:17</td>
<td>treat these opponents gently and give them some time</td>

</tbody>
</table>

There is a time interval between the deeds and their effects to show up (16:61). This is what extending the time limit means. This takes place according to the Law of requital in the moral world.

Probably due to peace and stability, every metal is called “الْمِہْل” (al-muhl). Some say that it means molten zinc, copper or iron. Others think that it means olive oil and its dregs. Also this is supposed to mean ash and small bits of ambers which fall off bread when it is taken out of an oven. The Aamir tribe says it means poison, however the element of destruction is predominant in this word.

Surah Al-Ma’araj mentions this word in verse (70:8). Here if the word is taken to mean “molten metal” then it will be appropriate, i.e. the power of great leaders will turn to water or nought. The water that will be provided to those in jahannam will be like “مْہل” (muhl). Here if the word is taken to mean “poison” then too it will be appropriate and if it is taken to mean “molten lava” then too it will be fine.
Surah Al-Kahaf says:

18:26 Things that support life will also prove deadly for them.

Mahma

“مَهْمَا” (mahma): anything. Some think that “مَهْمَا” (mahma) is a compound of “مَا” (maa) and “مَا” (maa), but “مَ” (A) of the first “مَا” (maa) has been changed to “هَا” (he).

7:132 they said whatever signs you bring

M-He-N

“مَهْنَ” (mahana): he used it very well, exploited it fully.
“مَهْتَنَا” (intahanahu): he employed it in his service and thus weakened it.
“مَهْتِنْ” (al-maheen): a camel which has been so weakened with hard labour that it is not useful to sire a camel so that their children may not be born weak as well.
“مَهْنَ” (al-maahin): slave and servant.
“مَهْنَ” (al-mihnah): cleverness and expertise in serving.
“مَهْنَ” (al-maheenu minar jul): lowly being, mean man of unimportant opinion and of weak manners {T, M}.

Ibn Faris says it basically means non importance or insignificance and hatred.

The Quran has said:

32:8 (the creation of man happens through) weak and insignificant liquid that is ejaculated (sperm)

This has been said as a comparison, i.e. to create such a fine human being out of this insignificant water is a manifestation of God’s creative power.

M-Y-D

“مَدَا” (maada qaumahu): he brought food for his nation
“مَدَا” (maadahum), “مَنْدَدِ” (yameeduhum): gave them the goods of sustenance.
“مَدَا” (al-mumtaad): someone who takes the goods of sustenance.
“مَدَا” (midtuha) and “مَدَا” (amidtahu): I granted him.
“مَدَا” (maadan fulaan): he did me a favour {T}. Raghib says it also means “he fed me”
“مَدَا” (maada): to move with intensity. It also means “to bend”.
“مَدَا” (maadat bihil arda): the earth revolved along with it.
“مَدَا” (al-ma’idah): food, no matter if a spread accompanies it or not. Some scholars say it means a spread on which there is food. If no food is spread out then the spread is called “خُوَاان” (khwaan).

Abu Abeed says the spread is called “منَذ” (maa’idah) because it is given to the guest as a gift and favour {T}. Ibn Faris says the basic meanings of these words are “movement” and “to benefit”.

5:112 He should endow us with the spread from the sky

Like every messenger Isa too told the people that if they followed the laws of Allah, then He would grant them good sustenance and successes in this world. But the way that nation was facing difficulties indicated that it could never get the accoutrements of life in abundance. So he felt that these people should be free of bondage to human beings for their sustenance and get it directly from Allah. Then perhaps they would change their ways and follow Allah’s laws.

Isa said to his followers that “you are momins and you should observe Allah’s laws” (5:112). Allah said that He would create such a system (whereby they would get sustenance directly from Allah, i.e. this would be the definite result of their following.

As such, “"maa'idatan minas sama'i" (maa'idah) also has the element of vastness or openness.

As such, “"maa'idatan minas sama'i" (maa'idah) also has the element of vastness or openness.

M-Y-R

""al-meerah": edibles which somebody carries over.

""maara iyaalahu yameeru maira": he brought edibles for his family {T, M}.

Meekaal
Surah Al-Bagrah mentions “جِبْرِيلَ" (Jibreel) and “مِيكَالَ" (Meekaal) in (2:98). The Jews consider the angel Meekaal (Michael) to be friendly.
“maal” (maal): he bent.

“maal ilaih” (maal ilaih): he bent or leaned towards him, was attracted to him, was attentive to him.

“maal alaih” (maal alaih): he leaned against him, oppressed him, or attacked him (4:102).

“maal unil haqq” (maal unil haqq): he left the path of justice, or avoided it.

“amaalahu” (amaalahu): bent it, made it bow.

“maalatish shams” (maalatish shams): the sun leaned towards the west, started setting.

“mayyala binal amrain” (mayyala binal amrain): he was divided between two deeds as to which to perform, i.e. his heart bent to one thing first then to another to perform {T}.

“mailah” (mailah): to bend once {T}.

“al-meel” (al-meel): a mile, or a fixed distance on land. There is difference of opinion as to its length. It can mean a light house, an unlimited distance on land, or the needle of a blackish substance applied to the eyes to make them look beautiful and healthy {T}.

Raghib has listed “maal” (maal) under “meil” (meil) and said that “maal” (maal) is said so because it is bent towards one sometime and then to another, i.e. “maal” (maal) or wealth keeps changing hands {R}, but I have not agreed to this interpretation. See heading (M-W-L).
See heading (N-W-N)

N-A-Y

“نايت” (na aituhu), “نايت عن” (na aitu unhu): I distanced myself from him.
“نايت” (naaya bihi): removed him to one side, distanced him, moved him {T}.

The Quran says:

4:26  they stay away from it (the Quran) and keep others too away from it

“المنتا” (al-munta‘aa): a distant place.
“النهاي” (an-naayu): a ditch which is dug around a tent so that rain water does not come into the tent, but stays away from it. This also means separation {T}, as well as “to ignore” {R, F}.

The Quran says:

17:38 Took himself away while abiding and being rebellious, avoided it.

Na

1) This pronoun (for two) appears for every plural, masculine and feminine i.e. for all.

2) It appears for first person plural and is used both as masculine and feminine “ازالنا” (azzal laana): these two misled us.

The Quran says:

41:29  and those who are kaffir will say “O, our Lord, show us those (point to us) among men and Djinn who misled us”

14:45 what deal we cut with them …

Ibn Faris says it basically means to come to one place from another.

“نباون” (naba‘un): to give the news.
“نبا” (naba‘u): “news” because it travels from one place to another.

Raghib says “نبا” (naba‘u) is not any news but that which is beneficial and which is knowledgeable or at least which makes the listener aware. This piece of news must be free of lies, like news given by God or the Messenger {T, L}, but this rule is not correct.
The Quran says:

29:4 If some mischievous person brings you some news, then investigate it (whether that is true)

Here a news item brought by a “faasiq” is also called “naba’un”.

“anba’a” and “nabba’a” mean to give news {T, L}.

“nabbi ibaadi”: tell my servants for a fact (15:49).

“watlu alihim naba’a Ibrahim”: tell them about the news (tales) of Ibrahim (26:69).

“naba’a”, “nabba’un”: to rise or a high ground as a plateau.

“an-nab’ah”: high land.

“an-nabi”: a plateau or evident path which rises to be evident {T, L}.

In Arabic language, there also is a word called “nabu” based on root (N-B-W).

“nabwun” and “nabwah” means to rise, be lofty, to be a plateau {T, F}.

“an-naba’a”: land which is higher than other lands. It also means “lofty landmark which gives guidance” {T, L}.

The Quran has used the word “an-nabiyu” to mean “messenger”. Some think that it is derived from the word “naba’u” and therefore means “one who gives news”, but this is a concept propagated by the Torah. Nabi was the name of a particular rank of an official of the religious order of the Jews, who used to make predictions. That is why in English, nabi is translated as prophet, i.e. one who makes prophecies. But from the Quranic concept of messenger-hood or “nabuwwat”, one can see that it is derived from “nabawah” which means a lofty place. Thus, “nabi” means “someone who is at a higher place where he can see things clearly”.

Kitab-al-Ashqaaq says that a person called out to the Messenger Muhammed as “nabi-allah” since he meant that the word “nabí” had been derived from “nabi” (naba’a), but the Messenger said: “lastu binabi – il laahi wala kin nabi-ullah” which means “I am not a nabi’ of Allah, but a nabi sent by Allah.

This shows that this word has been derived from “nabawah” which means someone who stands at the lofty place where he is shown both the real and meta-physical universe. He can witness the basic truths of the universe on one hand through the revelation, and delivers these truths to the human world on the other hand. He then implements these truths in the real world of humans.

This was the fact that the Messenger Muhammed made when he announced his messenger-hood to the Quresh tribe of Mecca. He stood on a high place and asked the people whether they would believe him if he said that a forceful army was ready to attack them from the other side of the mountain? They said surely they would believe him because he had never lied in his life, and also because he was standing at a point where he could see on the other side of the mountain as well and tell what was transpiring. He said “then believe me when I say that your deeds are advancing towards you as a forceful army of destructive results and hence you should give up this way of life and adopt the righteous way”.

This depicts the right picture about “nabuwwat”, i.e. the nabi (the messenger) is placed at the high place of knowledge where he (through the revelation) witnesses the truths about the universe. This is the right place of “nabuwwat”. Then he comes to the people with this knowledge of the revelation so that the people are made aware about the truth, and practically demonstrates how to live as per the Quranic guidance.

This is the duty of a “nabi”, i.e. to deliver the revelation to people. This process ended with the messenger Muhammed. Now no human being can receive the revelation from God, because whatever guidance was needed has already been given and contained in the Quran.
As far as the duty of messenger-hood is concerned i.e. demonstrating on how to act according to the revealed guidance and transmitting it to others, this duty was entrusted (after the Messenger Muhammed) to the nation or followers who have inherited the Book of Allah. It will be called "tableegh" i.e. accepting the Quranic guidance and then communicating to others for their own good and "aqamat-e-deen" (risalah) because "risalah" can produce confusion as the use of word messenger can be misconstrued. This system will continue till the last man on this planet.

Generally it is thought that Rasul is a messenger which is given a Book by God and Nabi is a messenger who is given no book. This is a wrong concept and is due to absence of an understanding. The Quran has clearly said that Allah gave a book to all messengers (2:213). The same phrase has been used for the Rasuls (57:25). These very books of the Nabis have been called (ma ootiyan nabiyyuna mir rabbihim) in (2:123). People have been invited to have faith on them.

Isa had said:

19:30 Allah has given me the Book and declared me a messenger (nabi).

These explanations show that every nabi is given the Book of guidance. As mentioned earlier "nabawah" and "risalat" are two faces of the same coin. Thus the Nabis have been called Nabi at some place and people have been asked to follow them (65:1), and Rasul at other places (48:29), so much so that about Ismail it has been said:

19:54 A messenger whom we had endowed with messenger hood

The end of messenger-hood means that nobody can receive knowledge directly from God anymore as it is not required. Whatever knowledge for the human guidance was meant to be revealed through the revelation has been completed and is now safe in the Quran -. Therefore the concept of receiving knowledge directly from God through meditation is contradictory to the concept of “The end of messenger-hood”.

We have said earlier that the word “nabi” is derived from “nabawah” (nabuwah), but if it is held to have been derived from “naba’un” then too it will encompass the connotations of high rank and making knowledgeable about things of which are unknown. This would mean that this “unknown knowledge” can only be received via revelation to messengers from God, rather than predictions, claimants to which are found even among the non-Muslims. See heading (Gh-Y-B).

N-B-T

- (an-nabt), (an-nabaat): anything that grows from the earth {R}.
- (al-munbit): the place to grow.

This root also has the connotation of being growing, appearing, and evident.

- (alled nabata sadul jaariyah): for a girl’s chest to become evident or developed.
- (nabatat aanahu ghulaam): for a boy to attain maturity.
“anbatal ghulam” (anbatal ghulam): for a young boy to attain maturity
“at-tanbaitu” (at-tanbaitu): to nurture, upbringing {T}.

Ibn Faris says it means “growth” in something.

The Quran says:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Surah</th>
<th>Verse</th>
<th>Passage</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>22:5</td>
<td></td>
<td>The earth grows all kinds of good things</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3:36</td>
<td></td>
<td>(her Sustainer) brought her (Mariam) up very well</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Here the physical upbringing of Mariam, as well as moral upbringing is referred.

About mankind it is said:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Surah</th>
<th>Verse</th>
<th>Passage</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>71:17</td>
<td></td>
<td>Allah nurtures you or brings you up like the plants</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

It can also mean that Allah has spread mankind over the earth like the branches of a tree which have one trunk and root. It also means figuratively that Allah has raised man from the earth like he nurtures the plants – in any case the physical life wholly depends on what comes out of the earth. At other places in the Quran it is said that man has been created initially from earth, and thereafter the whole thing advanced. Details about the creation of Man and the Evolution Theory can be found in the book titled Adam and Iblees.

N-B-Dh

Ibn Faris says it basically means to throw away or put away.

“nabaz” (nabaz): to throw something away because it is found to be valueless.

“al-munbuz” (al-munbuz): a child which has been abandoned on the road {T, R} (i.e. an illegal birth).

Therefore it means something that is not valued or hated because it is valueless.

“nabazal ahd” (nabazal ahd): violated the agreement.

“nabazal amr” (nabazal amr): to leave something useless {M}.

“al-initibaaz” (al-initibaaz): to move to one side, to give up on (19:16).

“an-nabz” (an-nabz): to put dates or dried grapes with water to one side so that they become “nabeez” (nabeez) or filled with water {M}.

<table>

For the meaning of “hutamah”, see heading (H-T-M).

Surah Al-Anfaal says about the pacts between nations:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Surah</th>
<th>Verse</th>
<th>Passage</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>8:85</td>
<td></td>
<td>if you fear violation of agreement from some nation then if you are equal to them then lay down the agreement to one side</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

It means that you must not violate an agreement simply on apprehensions of violation from the other side, neither think of hurting them, but as you dealt with them while making the agreement, tell them clearly that you have no more faith in them and therefore we will no more abide by any agreement.

“ala sawa-inn” (ala sawa-inn): treat them as equals or if in breaking the agreement suddenly they stand to bear some loss, then justice demands that they be spared this loss. This justifiable approach can only be advocated by the Quran.
Conversely, before the advent of Islam those with the book would:

| 2:100 | whenever they entered into an agreement then one group would debunk the agreement |

[2:100]

اَوَﮐُﻠﱠﻤَﺎ ﻋٰ ﺩُوْاُﻫَ ﺩاً ﻪْ ﻋَ ﻧـَﺒَﺬَﻩٌ ﻪُ ﻓَﺮِﻳـْﻘٌﻤِﻨـْ

These verses clearly denote the difference between “nabaza” and “nabaza ala sawainn”).
N-B-Z

- "انْبَزَ" (an-nabz): to characterise someone (negative connotation), give somebody a bad nickname.
- "اتَنَابَاوُذ" (at-tanaabooz): to shame one another, to call each other by shameful nicknames.
- "انْبَثَ" (an-nabeez): to have disagreeable names for each other.
- "انْبَزَ" (an-nibz): the upper covering of a date palm {T, M, R}.

The Quran says:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>49:11</th>
<th>Do not call each other by sarcastic and hateful names</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

This also means not to think on these lines in the first place as our thoughts precede our actions and as per the Quran we must be aware of our thoughts on a continuous basis e.g. (11:5).

N-B-Te

- "انْبَثَ" (an-nabat): when water is initially struck while digging a well.
- "انْبَثَ" (ambatil haafir): the digger reached the water while digging. It also means to dig something out and make it evident {T}, or to reach the truth after investigation and then make it evident.

The Quran says:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>4:83</th>
<th>Those among them who can reach the truth after investigation.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

Zajjaaj says the word means conclusion {T}.

Ibn Faris too says this is what it means, i.e. to draw conclusion from the available facts or to reach its basics or bottom line.

N-B-Ain

- "انْبَثَ" (an-naba): to gush forth from the spring.
- "انْبَثَ" (al-yunbuh): spring, fountainhead, the place from where the water comes out.
- "يَنْبَعْ" (yanabih): plural form.
- "مَنْبَعٌ ﺍﻟْﻤَﺎءِ" (manba-ul maa-ee): fountainhead {T}.

The Quran says:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>17:90</th>
<th>bring forth a spring from this land for us</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>39:21</td>
<td>then let it (water) flow as springs on the land</td>

N-T-Q

- "نَتَقَ" (nataq), "يَنْتِقَ" (yantiq), "يَنْتُقَ" (yantuq): to move something violently or to shake {T}.

<table>

</thead>
</table>

Raghib says it means “to pull something so that it becomes loose”.

QES-Norway  Lughat-ul-Quran  Volume IV  Page 98 of 276
Ibn Faris says this word means “to pull, to shake or uproot”.
N-Th-R

(“nasar,” “yansur,” “nasran” and “nisaara”): to scatter something.
(“fantasr”): so it was scattered.
(“un-nasar”): to disseminate secrets, to talk too much.
(al-muntassar): a weak man who has no good points in him.
(al-minsar): a date palm out of which unripe dates fall off, i.e. the fruit falls off even when it is unripe and is therefore useless {T, M, R}.

About the deeds of criminals the Quran says:

25:23  We will render them without any result and useless

In the scales of the Law of requital they will carry no weight. They will disintegrate in air, i.e. they will not be able to produce any constructive results (this is what result-less means) e.g. (18:105).

Surah Al-Infitaar says:

82:2  When the stars will scatter (when they will be scattered around)

N-J-D

(“un-najd”): the part of land which is high and hard. It also means “high and open road” and “an expert leader” {T, R}.
(najadal amru yanjud): the matter became evident and was disclosed {T, R}.

The Quran says:

90:10  we showed man both the paths (of truth and falsehood)

Thereafter he has the right to choose (free will) whichever path he wants

The paths of truth and falsehood have been shown by the Revelation. Man inherently does not have the ability to distinguish between right and wrong without the help of the Revelation. See heading (L-He- M) and (F-Te-R).

Also only Allah shows the way, through the Revelation, but does not makes one choose the right way. It is up to man himself to choose the right or wrong path. This makes man responsible for every deed he performs and by judging these very deeds he can be said to be on the wrong or the right path. The Quran has clearly sign posted both the paths and we can judge our thoughts and deeds using the criterion explained in the book. The change in our thinking and our conduct in the light of the Quran can be compared and contrasted with our past and with others especially who do not follow the guidance.

N-J-S

(“an-najas”): it is the opposite of pure, i.e. “impure”. See heading (Te-He-R).
(qad najis saubihi): his cloth was soiled, became impure.

Raghib says there is impurity which can be seen with the eyes, i.e. physical and the other which can be felt with insight like the impurity of inner self.

In these meanings the Quran has said:

9:28  those who attribute divinity to others are surely full of impurities (e.g. weaknesses)
The Arabs used to make their children wear a taaweez (a sort of holy charm) to drive away evil from them. These taaweez were generally comprised of impure things, such as the bones of the dead or the cloth which had been used to clean menstruation. These were called “at-tanjees” (Gharib-ul-Quran).

It is also possible that since this act was done to drive away evil forces, it was called “at-tanjees”.

N-J-M

“an-najm” (a star when it can be seen. The plural is “an-jum” or “nujum”). It also means a plant without a trunk or stalk and which spreads out on the ground {T, M}.

55:6 And the stars and the trees both prostate

Ibn Faris says the basic meaning of this root is “to appear” and “to be evident”.

“un-najmah” (sentence {T, M}.

“an-najmah” is generally used to term the gradual revelation of the Quran {T, M} but the Quran has not used it to mean this.

“nazara fil amr” (to deliberate on a matter as to what to do about it).

Surah Al-Saa’faat says:

37:88 Then he glanced a glance at the starts

Here it means “to deliberate” {T}, but I think that the right meaning is the one which I have mentioned under the heading (N-Z-R), i.e. to criticize or to find fault.

The Gharib-ul-Quran says that “an-nujum” means the elite of a nation or small states, as against “ash-shams” (the state of Persia (81:102). In today’s term we can relate it to super power(s) of present time.

N-J-W

“naja-un”, “najatun”, “najayah” (najwah) which means “high place” or “height”.

“najwatun” (high place which is safe from flood waters due to its height).

Raghib says that “naja’a” actually means for something to be separate: come apart.
Ibn Faris has given two meanings for this word which are opposite to each other.
1) To pare something off and open it and
2) To hide, but at the same time he has said that it (the word) should be used concerning height.

Keeping the basic meanings in mind, one can glean the Quranic meaning of this word. Other religions present the concept that man is imprisoned in the prison that this world is.

The Hindu religion believes that man has come into this world to atone for the sins in his former life, to be liberated from this punishment is “نجاة” (nijaat). To liberate from it is “نجاح” (nijaat).

The Christians believe that every child of man comes into this world accompanied by the sins of the first father and mother, and he cannot be freed of these sins till he believes in the atonement of Christ.

Vedaant or the belief of the Hindus is that the human soul has been separated from its whole and is therefore anguished. For this part to be reunited with the whole is “نجاح” (nijaat) or deliverance. A similar concept is harboured by the Buddhists who believe that every wish or desire is the forerunner of some calamity and by giving up desires a man can be free of these calamities. They call it nirvaan briefly. The religion says that man before coming to this was in a good state. He was engaged by calamities when he entered this world. Now to be free of these difficulties and to regain his former state is the purpose of life.

The Quran categorically refutes all these concepts and declares such beliefs as chains which affect the human conduct and prevents them from using their potentials to the maximum (7:157). It says man does not enter this world either to atone for his former sins nor is burdened with the sins of his first parents when he enters the world. The world is not a prison, liberation from which is the purpose of life. The human soul is not part of God and reuniting with it after getting out of the quagmire of materialism is not the ultimate goal. It says instead that the human child is born with a clean slate, but it has immense realizable potentiality to make these potentialities a reality, and that is the purpose of human life so that it can evolve to a higher form of life through his own efforts. The purpose of life is not being ‘as you were’. Life is for living and developing and getting ahead. The life on the earth is man’s training ground. Here his personality develops where he can find all the happy things of life and this life also prepares him for the next evolutionary step. Therefore to be free of this world is not the purpose of life. To conquer the forces of this world and obtain the good things of life in a manner ordained by the laws of Allah so that his own personality is developed and the betterment of mankind is achieved, is the real purpose of life.

Skirmishes with the forces of evil are essential in this life. This very struggle solidifies and accentuates the human personality. The group or nation which lives as per Allah’s laws is kept free of oppressing forces and free from destruction.

For this the Quran has used the word “نجاح” (nijaat). Sometimes it so happens that a nation falls into the grip of oppressive forces because of its wrong ways, but after that reverts back to the laws of Allah, it is delivered from these oppressive forces. Here too the word “نجاح” (nijaat) is used. Just like this the Bani Israel got “نجاح” (nijaat) from the Pharaoh’s oppression.

As far as “نجاح” (nijaat) from jannaham after death is concerned, the Jews have the concept that due to the sins of their forefathers they will be put in jannaham only for some time, but after they have paid for their sins i.e. when the impurities are removed from them, they will be put in heaven (3:23). They think that they will go to jannaham for some time, or if they live a pure life then they will go to heaven. This they think is “نجاح” (nijaat). These two concepts are also against the Quran.

According to the Quran man is not put in jannaham for a limited time’s punishment, nor is jannaham a laundry where sins are washed away so that then man can enter the jannat in a pure state.

The Quran’s concept is that when man lives as per the revelation and his potentials are developed enough to evolve to the next stage, then it is called a life of jannat or heaven, but if he lives a life according to other laws than the revelation, then his development ceases, and it is called a life of jahannum. He, whose development ceases, is not capable of traversing the evolutionary stages of mankind and is unable to go to the next stage of development i.e. the life in the hereafter. He stays stagnant at one place {T}.

Note that a life of heaven or hell exists in this life too and in the life hereafter also. Here the life of hell and heaven that is being mentioned is in the life hereafter. Therefore, there is no question of ever getting out of jahannam. As such, the concept that man will spend some time in jahannam and thereafter having atoned for his sins (or his parents’ sins) he will go to heaven, is also proven false as per the Quran. Details about jahannam and jannat will be found under relevant headings.

najwa (najwa): to whisper secretly.

Raghib says it means to whisper because people used to conspire secretly out of town.

Some say that it has been derived from najwaa (najwaa), therefore najwa (najaat) would mean to help each other in getting rid of some misery.

intaja (intaaj): to sit at some high place {T}.

najiyi (naaaji): someone who shares a secret (19:52).

naaja (najiyya): confidante.

tanaaji (tanaaaj): to whisper mutually.

Surah Yunus says about the drowning of the Pharaoh:

| 10:92 | Although Pharaoh was drowned, his body or corpse was preserved so that it could be a lesson to later generations. |

Kitaabal Ashqaaq says that here “nunajjik” (nunajjik) means “to throw at some high place”.

From the pyramids of Egypt, corpses have been discovered in which the Pharaoh of the times of Moosa is also found. Since this is a relatively recent discovery, therefore the writers and historians (from the past) of the Quran could not earlier translate this verse correctly. This is the reason that even Kitaabal Ashqaaq translates the word “badan” (najbar rajulu yanhub) as meaning armour, i.e. the Pharaoh’s armour was thrown out of the water, at some high place, but the recent discovery has made it clear that it here means the Pharaoh’s corpse {T}.

About its own facts, the Quran says that as more discoveries are made in man’s person (human self and psyche) as well as in the universe, the Quranic truths will be proven through evidence (41:53). One way these facts come to light is for historic truths to be discovered, like the Pharaoh’s corpse.

N-H-B

“an-nahb” (an-nahb): the pledge about which it is decided that it is compulsory {R}.

“najbar rajulu yanhub” (najjar rajulu yanhub): the man made a pledge {M}.

“at-tanheeb” (at-tanheeb): to work diligently and continuously.

“an-nahb” (an-nahb): death, gambling and games of chance, because in the latter wagers are made which must be fulfilled compulsorily.

“an-nahb” (an-nahb): great danger, or to cry loudly {T} {Lissan-ul-Arab}.

Ibn Faris too says these are the meanings.

The Quran says:

| 33:23 | These include those who have fulfilled their pledge, and |

The text is a faithful representation of the document's natural text.
gave their life for the truth.
N-H-T

_{nahata_}, _yantouta_ and _yanhit_: to pare something and make smooth {T}.
_{an-nahth_}: for a carpenter to pare wood {Lissan-ul-Arab}.

The Quran says:

| 7:74 | You build houses by cutting and paring the mountains. |

N-H-R

_{nahrus sadr_}: the upper part of the chest, the part of the chest where a garland is worn.
_{nahral ba-eera yanharihah nahra_}: he hit the spear on the spot adjacent to the chest where the throat begins. Camels are slaughtered in this way {T}.

Ibn Faris too says that this root has several meanings. It also means the chest as well as to split the chest open.

The Quran says:

| 108:2 | So follow your Sustainer and do _wanhar_ |

Here the writers/interpreters from past who translated the Quran have written many explanations of _wanhar_ such as:

1. To push the chest out while standing for prayer.
2. To put the right hand over the left in prayers.
3. To slaughter the animals of sacrifice.
4. To wrap both hands over the chest in prayer.
5. To lift the hands up to the ear when saying and starting a prayer.
6. To stand facing towards Mecca direction in prayer.
7. To kill desires
8. To stand facing Mecca in the morning {T}.

_{nahara_}: to create reach, to dominate something very well, to obtain something very well, to comprehend some matter thoroughly {M}.
_{nahartush shay’a ilma_}: I got expert about some matter through its knowledge.
_{nahara al-amora ilma_}: He got the complete knowledge of the matters.
_{an-nahru_} and _an-nehr_: expert, clever, experienced someone who comprehends everything and oversees everything and one who acts upon something very firmly {M}.
_{wanhar_}: to act firmly on something after understanding all its aspects; after dominating it in every way (108:2).

But if _wanhar_ in this verse is taken to mean the slaughter of camels, then it points to another fact.

After migration when the Messenger Muhammed came to Medina, the condition of the group of the Muslims was very weak and poor. The Jews were very much calling the shots there. In such conditions weak groups tend to seek the support of strong groups, and even go so far as to sacrifice their principles for this. For the Jews, camels were forbidden but allowed for the Muslims. The Jews thought that the slaughter of camels was forbidden. They thought that due to their dominance in Medina the Muslims will abstain from slaughtering of camels.

At this juncture, the Quran ordered the Muslims to go ahead and slaughter the camels, i.e. in matters of Deen do not compromise with the Jews. In a few days this weak group of Muslims became so strong that the Jews (who did not desist from their machinations) had to leave Medina.
Some say that in the Hebrew language, “kosher” means “allowed” and that “ﺍَﻟْﮑَﻮْﺛَﺮَ” (al-kausar) in (108:1) is derived from it. Hence verse (108:1) would mean “We allowed you to slaughter camels”, but I do not subscribe to this meaning. See heading (K-T-R).

Raghib says it means a flame which has no smoke.

"ﺍَﻟْتجديدْ" (nahas): the sky has become red. The Arabs thought that this was a bad sign {R}.

Raghib says that “ﺍِيﱠﺎﻡٍ ﻧَﺤِﺴَﺎﺕٍ” (ayyamin nahisaatin) means “very cold days”.

Ibn Faris says it basically means the opposite of “goodness”.

The Quran says “ﺍَﻟْتجديدْ” (nuhaas) in (55:35) to mean smoke or sparks as the punishment in jahannam.

Surah Al- Qamar says about the punishment which the nation of Aad faced:

"يَﻮْﻡِ ﻧَﺤْﺲٍ" (yaumi nahsin): a compound addition.

At another place it is said:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>

<td>41:16</td>
<td>laborious days</td>

These explanations show clearly that “سعد” (sa’ad) and “تجديد” (nahas) do not hold the meanings that we generally hold them to have. For example, we say that Tuesdays are “تجديد” (nahas) or unlucky. This is purely a Hindu concept and based on superstition. No day or moment is either lucky or unlucky. If some misery befalls someone due to his own wrong deeds then that day becomes unlucky for him, and the day he encounters successes is good for him. As such, lucky and unlucky results are dependent upon man’s deeds and their consequences. See heading (S-Ain-D).
“nellal” (an-nahal): honey bees \( \{T\} \) (16:86).
“niallah” (an-nihlah), “nuallah” (an-nuhlah): the gift that is given not as some compensation or return for anything \( \{R\} \).

Surah An-Nisaa says:

| 4:4 | Give the women their mehar as a gift and not as a compensation |

This means that mehar (the sum given by man upon wedding a woman) is given by a man to a woman (upon wedding her) without even a thought of it as a return \( \{T\} \). The meaning of “al-ata’u bila iwaz” is this as the Lataif-ul-Lugha, Ibn Faris and Taj-ul-Uroos say.

Raghib says that this word has been derived from “nellal” (nahal), i.e. just like the bee gives us a precious gift of honey without any compensation for it, so “nihlah” is that precious gift which is given to the woman without thought of any compensation or return. This is the fact about mehar.

The Quran has not used this word, i.e. it is not a fixed sum which is mandatory as remuneration, but it is a gift which is given not as compensation but as an expression of love. Its purpose is to give the woman some weightage and importance and value her as an equal partner.

Nahnu

“nell” (nahnu) is used to mean two masculine or feminine, and for plural first person.
“nell rajulaan” (nahnu rajulaan): we are two men.
“nell amra’ataan” (nahnu amra’ataan): we are two women.
“nell rajalan” (nahnu rijaal): we are all men.
“nell niswah” (nahnu niswah): we are all women.

Surah Al-Bagrah says:

| 2:14 | We are joking |

N-Kh-R

“nakhir” (nakbara), “yankhur” (yankhur): to sniff.
“nakheer” (nakheer): the sound that is emitted from the nose.
“nakhir” (an-nukhrah): the nose itself.
“nakhir al-anf” (nukhratul anf): the front part of the nose and its end, that is, the nostril: \( \{T, F\} \)
“azmu nakhir” (azmun nakhir): an old bone which is hollow inside \( \{T\} \).

The Quran says:

| 79:11 | old bones |

“nakhiratul shajaraa” (nakhiratish shajarah): there was a sound from the hollow tree. This happens when the tree becomes moth eaten and hollow from inside and develops holes, and when the wind passes through the holes it produces a sound \( \{R\} \).

Ibn Faris says it basically means to select and like.

Ibn Faris says that it means “to be different and chaotic”.

The Quran says that Allah creates means of sustenance for you:

This complete verse relates to the aspect of sustenance provision in this life. The Quran refers to the earth and the heavens and its produce as evidence and then relates to Allah as the creator of all the sustenance which man uses for his benefit. Then the Quran addresses man that having recognised this evidence why does man not follow the guidance revealed by Allah and associates others beside Him.

The same Surah says a little ahead:

And among the mankind there are those who take others to be equals of Allah. They desire them as they should desire Allah.

(QES-Norway) Lughat-ul-Quran Volume IV Page 108 of 276
“نادمة” (nadamah): the regret that is over change of opinion over a matter which has now become irredeemable \( \{T, R\} \). It also means to regret something which man has done and say if it had not been so done then it would have been better to repent, to regret \( \{T\} \).

“نادم” (naadim) with its plural is “نادمين” (naadimeen) means “someone who regrets or suffers” \( \{5:31\} \).

“ناديم” (un-nadeen): one who drinks together, a drinking companion \( \{T, R\} \).

Surah Yunus says:

| 10:54 | They will hide their regret and chagrin (or the regret will be evident) |

- N-D-M

“نداة” (nadaa): dampness, dew.

“نداة الأرض” (nada al-ard): the dampness of the earth.

“شجر ندىان” (shajrun nadyaan): a tree which is fresh and green \( \{T, R\} \).

Ibn Faris says its basic meanings are “to gather” or “to collect” as well as “dampness”.

Since a man whose mouth is damp talks of fine things, and his voice too is high pitched. Therefore “نداة” (an-nidaa) is also “to raise the voice”. It also means “sound that is high pitched and which has no words” \( \{T, M, R\} \). Later it began to mean “talk at a get together”.

“نداة مونادة” (nadaahu munadah): sat with somebody in some meeting.

“نادي” (an-nadiyyu) and “نداة” (an-nadwa): a place where a nation gets together and has mutual discussion.

“نداة” (un-nadwah): a group.

“نداة الأرض” (daarun nadyah): a house in which the Quresh tribe used to get together.

“نداة” (un-naadi): tribe which was called on for help, companion.

“نداة” (un-nadwa): philanthropy and favour or kindness.

“المنديةات” (al-mundiyaat): demeaning work by doing which the forehead breaks out in sweat (due to shame) \( \{T, M, R\} \).

“نداة” (tanaada): to call out mutually and call each out to others. This is “يوم النداة” (yaumit tanaad) which means “the day when everyone will be concerned about himself and will not respond to someone’s call for help, will not even heed his call for help”. The Quran has used “نداة” (nidaa’un) to mean sound \( \{2:171\} \) and “نداة” (nidaad), “نداة” (yunaadi), “نداة” (nida’un) to mean “call out” \( \{10:52, 18:52\} \).
“نذِّرٌ” (nazār): something that is self-imposed in order to be safe from some loss, a pledge.

“نذِّرٌ” (nazār): to promise something if a certain condition is met. If someone affirms that if my child recuperates then I will do such and such thing, is also called “نذِّرٌ” (nazār).

Raghib says it means “to impose some non-mandatory act upon you if something expected takes place”.

Ibn Faris says it means “to fear and put the fear into that which becomes mandatory”.

“nazira bish shayi’:” knew about something and was wary of it.

“إِنْذَارٌ” (inzaar): to make aware and fear the harmful effects of something beforehand.

“نْذِرِةُ الْحَجُّ” (nazeratul hijj): advance party, as in the army.

“un-nazār”: someone who makes aware or warns. It also means the sound of a bow because that makes the prey aware of the danger.

“نَذِيرُ” (nazzar): old age, because it warns of imminent death {T}. As such, “نَذِيرُ” (nazzar) means “someone who warns against the destructive results of traversing the wrong path”, as in (76:7), (22:29). It refers to those matters which are imposed on self.

“إِنْذَارٌ” (inzaar): to warn of destructive results, as in (36:11), but the Quran has made it clear that this “إِنْذَارٌ” (inzaar) or warning can be effective only for those who are ‘alive’ (36:70). For those who do not have the ability to be ‘alive’, it is no use warning them (2:6). “إِنْذَارٌ” (inzaar) is only for him who self-imposes something on himself and doesn’t fulfill it. He can be told what harm will come to him if he fails to keep his pledge. But there is no use warning one of the dangers of not fulfilling a pledge if he has not pledged anything at all, or for telling a person who is bent upon suicide that to jump in the river will kill him. Only he who wants to avoid destructiveness heeds this sort of advice. Such a person is called “مُتَقِي” (muttaqi).

The plural of “نَذِيرٌ” (nazzar) is “نَذُرٌ” (nuzur) as used in (54:23, 54:5).

“منزِرٌ” (munzar): someone who is made aware or warned. The plural is “مُنْذِرِينَ” (munzareen) as in (37:73).

The Quran has said that messengers are “بَشِيرٌ” (basheer) and “نَذِيرٌ” (nazzar). It was their duty to tell the people, (as per the Revelation) that living as per the Quran can produce very constructive and delightful results. This is called good news or bashaarat and how destructive is their violation, which is called warning or inzaar. Those who avail of the warning are called muttaqeen, and by availing of the Messenger’s warning they adopted the right way. Those who were heedless of the destruction would not care about these warnings or inzaar.

It has been said about them:

| 2:6 | It is the same for them if your warn them or not warn them. They will never believe. |

Today the duty of a basheer or nazzar is performed by the Quran as a book which is available to all those who wish to follow it. It has stated clearly through reasoning and evidence that such and such way of life has such and such result, and declared afterwards that you can adopt whichever way you want.
“ﻥﺰﻉ” (naza): to uproot something from its place or dig it out from its embedded place. It also means “to pull”. “ﻱﻨﺰﻉ” (intaza) also means this.

“ﻱﻨﺰﻉ” (intaza): “to dig out” and “to be uprooted”.

“ﻥﺰﻉ ﻓِﯽ ﺍﻟْﻘَﻮْﺱِ” (naza’a fil qaus): pulled the bow.

“ﻱﻨﺰﻉ ﺍﻟﺸﱠﯽْءَ” (intazash shaiyi): he abstained from something.

Surah Al-Airaaf says:

7:27 made them take off their clothes (pulled away their clothes)

It also means “someone that pulls strongly”, or “that which takes out by pulling”.

“ﻭﺍﻟﻨّٰﺰِﻋٰﺖِ ﻏَﺮْﻗًﺎ” (wan-naazi-aati gharqa): pullers (79:1).

Ibn Dureed says with reference to Abu Abeedah that “ﻟﻨّٰﺎﺯِﻋٰﺖُ ﺍَ” (an-naaziaat) and ”ﺍَﻟﻨّٰﺎﺷِﻄَﺎﺕُ” (an-naashist) means “these are the stars which rise and shine at a place and then go away and rise and shine at another place” {T}. Maulana Obaidullah Sindhi says that these mean “those revolutionary groups which help to pull out latent abilities within people and make the society righteous”.

“ﻱﻨﺰْﻉٌ” (naza’un): to snatch. It is opposite to “ﺍِﻴْﺘَﺎءٌ” (eeta) which means “to give” (3:25).

Surah At-Toor says about the life in heaven:

52:23 they will there exchange one with another a cup

If it is taken literally then it paints a picture of informal friendliness in which things are shared freely between people and friends. This is the condition in a heavenly society between friends.

As a further explanation of the above this verse would mean “they (the people in the group of the momineen) will take the cup of life from each other”. Heavenly life is not individualistic in which every man is for him only. There everyone shares with others (the good things) which nurture and furthers their self-development. The Quran directs to avoid the sort of conflict in which one wants to keep everything for himself (8:46). In a heavenly society all this “give and take” would be done willingly through an inner desire and to promote each other. But in a wrongful society the intent of every man would be to snatch from others and keep everything for him.

“ﺍَﻟْﺫَﺭَاءِﻉُ” (an-naaza’u): the winds which blow but away from their rightful path, and keep striking or hitting against one another {T}. This makes clear what conflict is and there is no conflict in an Islamic society, rather mutual harmony and an atmosphere of "ﺍَﻟْﻒَ ﺑَﻴْﻦَ ﻗُﻠُﻮْﺏِﮑُﻢْ“ (allafa baina qulubikum) (3:102) i.e. camaraderie.
“نزّغ” (nazah): to pinch, prick or push into or to criticize {M}. Therefrom it came to mean “to enter into something in order to spoil it” or “sabotage” {M}.

“نزّغ بَيْنَھُمْ نَزّغا” (nazga bainahum nazgha): created disharmony or chaos among them {T}.

Ibn Faris says the above stated are its basic meanings.

The Quran says:

“نزَف” (nazf) means for something to be “cut off” or be “terminated”.

“نزَفّ مَاءَ الْبَيْر” (nazafa maa’al bi’r): he pulled all the water out of the well.

“نزَفّ البَيْر” (nazafatil bi’r): the well became empty of all water.

“نزَفّ فَلَان” (nuzifa fulaan): that man became devoid of intellect, he became drunk and unconscious.

“نزَفّ الرَجُلْ” (anzafar rajul): the man became drunk and lost consciousness. The spring of his intellect became dry.

“الْمِنزَاف” (al-minzafah): the small bucket which is tied at the end of a stick and then this stick is tied to another stick which is embedded in the ground for pulling out water from a well {T, M}.

The Quran says:

N-Z-L

“نزَل” (nazal): to descend from a height.

The Quran says “نزَلَ،” (nuzool) as against “عُرْوُج” (uroof) which means “ascent” (34:3).

“نزْلَا” (nuzul): destination. It also means the things with which a host is shown hospitality. It also means expansion and gift (18:102, 3:197). It also means “the growth of the crop”.

“نزْلَة” (an-nazalu): rain.

“نزَلَة” (nazlah): land which gets much used for cultivation and where a lot of crops grow.

“نَزِيْل” (nazeel): guest (26:192).

“نَزَلْنَ” (manzil): the place to descend. The plural is “منازِل” (manazil).
The main difference between "ﺍُﻧْﺰِﻝَ (anzila)" and "ﻧُﺰﱢﻝَ (nuzila)" is that the later one is used to mean “descend gradually and steadily”, while anzila does not have this condition of slow descend [Lataif-ul-Lugha].

29:63 The rainwater descend gradually from the sky (it does not all descend at once)

Ibn Faris says that “ﺍَﻟﺘﱠﻨﱠﺰِﻳْﻞُ (un-nazaeel)" means “to put” or “arrange” something in its proper place.

In the Quran it has come to mean not only “descent” but also “to give”.

"وَ اَﻧْﺰَ ﻟْﻨَﺎ ﺍﻟْﺤَﺪِﻳْﺪَ (wa anzalnal hadeed): We gave iron (57:25). It has also come to mean “several things to be discovered”.

Surah Al-Hijr says that:

15:21 We have treasures of different things with us but We let them be discovered according to a measure

Obviously the things which are not present in the universe, to reveal or make them descend would mean that man should discover them with his efforts and quest. Therefore “ﺍِﻧْﺰَﺍﻝٌ (inzaal)" at such places would mean “to provide man with the means whereby he can obtain these things”. The treasure troves of these things are present in the universe and man only has to discover them. Their attainment depends on man’s efforts to obtain them.

The Quran has mentioned the word “ﺗَﻨْﺰِﻳْﻞٌ (tanzeel)" and it is meant “to convey that the Revelation” which has been revealed to the Messenger is not a figment of his imagination, i.e. it is not a subjective thing but an objective thing. Therefore Revelation cannot be obtained with one’s effort. This can only be granted by Allah. In the material world, man reveals things by discovering them with his own effort, but in Revelation the truth reveals itself to the Messenger. Therefore the word “ﺍِﻧْﺰَﺍﻝٌ (inzaal)" has been used for it, i.e. man himself does not rise to the truth and unveils it but the truth itself descends and reveals itself to him. This is a particular characteristic of the Revelation. But since the process of Revelation has ended with the Messenger Muhaammed, therefore this knowledge can now only be obtained by man in two ways. One is by the truths as contained in the Quran, and the other is to discover truths in the physical world. There is no third source of knowledge. The claim of meditation is actually a claim to achieve Revelation in different words. There is no mention of meditation in the Quran. Therefore any such claim is against the Quran. There are some forces in man (like the power of intent or thought) that if developed can develop characteristics that are not normal in a person. People tend to think that they are the manifestations of meditation and consider them to be spiritual gifts. Although spiritualism has no connection with this, nor has Deen any connection with it, because any man of any religion can become capable of this with a little practice. Even non-believers and atheists can do this, but the purpose of Deen is to turn out righteous human beings, not to create such “magic”.

“ﺗَﻨَﺰﱠﻝٌ (tanazzul): to descend slowly. “ﺗَﻨَﺰْﺭَ (tanazzal)" has been derived from it (97:4).
N-S-A

Nasun (nás’un): to scold, to drive, to move back.

Nasaash shaytān (nasaash shaytān): to move something back.

Ansah (ansa’ah): moved him away.

Nasaatuhul bai’ah (nasaatuhul bai’ah): in trade I dealt in credit and thus deferred the payment.

Attansi’ah (attansi’ah): to delay a deal in which the payment or the thing is delivered later than planned.

Al-minsa’ah (al-minsa’ah): stick with which animals are driven back (33:14).

Ibn Faris too subscribes to all these meanings.

Surah Tawbah says:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>9:37</th>
<th>Surely forgetting is an addition of denial.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

Al-nisyo (an-nisyo): a special thing in Arab society. The Quran has explained it by saying:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>9:37</th>
<th>One year they declare it as haram and the other year they declare it as halal.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

But it is necessary to understand the details of this above verse. The lunar month was observed among the Arabs. Rabih, Jamaadi, Ramadan etc. are the months that are said to be linked to the seasons, but the same month could occur in the same season only if the month is solar not lunar. In case the months are lunar, the same months occur during different seasons. The Arabs did not like this and wanted that the month of Hajj should occur during the same season every year. For this they used to skip a month every three years (following the Jews) to adjust the months according to the seasons.

This month that they used to leave out was usually after the month of Zilhajja. This moving of the month forward and backwards was called nasa’ah (nasa’ah), i.e. to bring the year back by one month.

Also four months during the year (i.e. Rajab, Zi Qadah, Zul Hajja and Muharram) were sacred for them in which murder and robbery etc. were forbidden. To adjust the calendar was the duty of the group of Banu Kanana which was called nasa’ah (nasa’ah). This nasa’ah (nasa’ah) sometimes changed these sacred months like saying instead of the month of Muharram this year the month of Rabi’al Awwal will be the sacred month. Sometimes they moved the month of the third year back or forth. This created chaos in affairs of the society and those who had fore knowledge of this change would profit from it. This too was called nasa’ah (nasa’ah).

The Quran put an end to both these kinds of nasa’ah (nasa’ah). On one hand it announced:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>9:26</th>
<th>According to the laws of Allah, there are twelve months in an year. And to leave a month every third year is a meaningless thing.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

After this announcement (in 10 A.D.) the Arabic calendar began to have 12 months, although this remained lunar. This meant that although these were named as before these do not fall in the seasons as before, such as Ramadan, which means “hot summer”; but now it also occurs in winter.

If the solar year is followed, this month falls every year in the same season, and twelve months of the year are completed even so, i.e. the period in which the earth completes its revolution around the sun is divided into 12 months. But the Quran does not limit one to follow the lunar or solar calendar (17:12, 10:5, 6:97).

The Quran ended both kinds of nasa’ah (nasa’ah), and has called the extending of the year as “” (ziyadatun fil kufr) in (9:37). Thus society was established on a sound basis.

The Quran’s principle is workable still now, that during the month of Muharram, war must be ceased in any part of the world. There are many benefits of thus delaying or temporary stoppage to war. In many cases the ceasefire may lead to the end of a war. All nations are expected to cease fire during this period because then it will be akin to “نَسِيء” (nasii) which the Quran has declared to be denial or the refutation of practical instructions.

N-S-B

“نَسِيء” (an-nasab), “النسبة” (an-nisbah): relationship, especially among the forefathers. It also means the similarity between two things.

“نَسِاء” (an-nasaah): ants, when they are travelling in a line, i.e. behind each other, hence it also means “the path of the ants” [T, R].

“نَسِيب” (an-nasib): family relationship.

Ibn Faris says it means a relationship of one thing to another.

The Quran has used “نَسِيء” (nasaba) to mean “relation” in (25:54). The plural is “النِسَاب” (ansaab) as in (23:101).

N-S-Kh

“نَسِخ” (naskh): cancel or delete or remove a thing and replace it with another, to replace something {Ibn Faris}.

“نَسِختِ الشَمْسُ الظل” (nasakhatish shamsaz zilla): the sun removed the shade and brought light in place.

Hence it also means “to change into something”.

“نَسِختِ الرياح الأثار الديّار” (nasakhatir rehu aasaarad dyar): the wind changed the signs of habitation, i.e. the ancient remains or ruins were covered with sand and thus were obscured.

“نَسِخُ الكتاّب” (nasakhal kitaab): to copy a book and create a similar book.

“نَسِخة” (an-nuskha): a copied book {T, M, R}.

The Quran says:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>45:29</th>
<th>We used to have it written</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

This word has been used to mean “wipe out” and “remove”:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>22:52</th>
<th>God obliterates</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

As such “نَسِخ” (naskh) means “to replace one thing with another”. This word is important because this word has a special place in our Deen. A wrong meaning uproots the Deen and the right meaning establishes the Deen.

The general belief is that there are about 500 verses in the Quran which are obsolete, although these are still read (& recited). This means that these are only read for ‘reward’ but have no practical meaning anymore since the orders contained in them are obsolete. Some of the orders have been cancelled by other verses and some have been cancelled by the hadith. At the same time there is a belief that some verses are not contained in the Quran but their orders are there, such as that of rajam or to stone adulterers, etc.

The following verse is translated as commonly reported:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>2:106</th>
<th>We replace the verses we cancel or make forget. Do you not know that Allah is dominant over all things and can do anything?</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

This is a traditional translation based on the interpretations written during the dictatorships from the past.
This essentially means that Allah ordered something and after some time he thought that this order should be cancelled. Hence he revealed another verse which cancelled the former verse. This order was better than the former order. Note that the new verse never contained the information as to which verse was to be cancelled. That is why the so-called cancelled verses are also present in the Quran. This distinction as to which verse is cancelled by which verse has been made by the traditional writers of the Quran either through tradition or by their own thoughts, but not the Quran. Therefore there is always a difference in the number of such verses.

As far as forgetting the verses is concerned, it is believed that Allah revealed the verses but the Messenger Muhammed used to forget some of them, so they were replaced by similar verses. This is what “أو ننسى” (au nunsha) is taken to mean.

The verse that is presented in support of this is:

| 87:6 | We will teach you to read, and you shall not forget except that which Allah wants |

Note that these concepts create negative impressions (& create doubts) about the Quran, Allah, and His Messenger.

- About Allah the concept is that He issues some order but then reviews it because the former order was weak. He cancels the order to issue another in its place.
- About the Quran it is thought that many verses are obsolete but despite this the verses are still recited, and it is nowhere shown which verses are cancelled. It has been left to the people to decide this.
- About the Messenger Muhammed it is thought that he used to forget some verses revealed by Allah!

All of this is false as the Quran is a complete book and nothing is cancelled. The right meaning of “ناسخ” (naasikh) and “منسوخ” (munsookh), i.e. “cancelled and in force”, will be mentioned ahead. For the right meaning see heading (N-S-Y), where it has been fully explained.

Now we will analyse the correct interpretation of this verse. The Ahl-e-Kitaab (those with the Book) especially the Jews used to raise many objections to the Messenger Muhammed. The Quran answers these objections. One of their important objections was that when God has revealed His orders through other Messengers (such as Moosa), what was the need for this new messenger and this new Book. They were told that it is right that God is guiding man since Nooh but a part of these orders given in the earlier books have been period specific or pertaining to a certain period only, and they were relevant in the context of the nation to which they were sent. They were to be implemented during the period that they were sent in. Later, when that nation ceased to exist or the situation had changed, then another messenger used to replace him and he used to bring another set of orders based on the same permanent values. Thus the new Revelation used to replace the former Revelation. They themselves were witnesses to this kind of change of many orders of the Torah which, Isa had changed.

Secondly, human intellect and reasoning is evolving as the time progresses and the revelation from God is according to the evolutionary stage attained by people of a generation. Orders higher than their intellectual level were held back until another nation replaced that nation which would be certainly higher in the evolutionary and intellectual level. Those orders or laws which had been ‘held back’ earlier were then revealed. This principle has been operative in the disclosure of the Revelation throughout.

It has also been seen that after a messenger passes away, his nation gave up certain sections of his teachings or ignored some part of the Revelation. Therefore these ignored parts (which did not need any amendment) were reinvigorated through the Revelation of the messenger that came later. In the period prior to the Quran it was difficult to preserve the contents of the revelation and this led to changes in the text through human hands.

The Jews were told that this had been the practice with the Revelation. Now the time had come when human consciousness and mind would attain higher level of maturity. As such it had now been so arranged that all such orders that were given to the earlier messengers in accordance with their times, and which were particular to their nation were cancelled, and current laws were sent. Since the system of Revelation was coming to an end (with the Quran), and the laws were to stay unchanged for man till the end, therefore these orders and laws were definitely better than the earlier orders. We should note here that the permanent values noted in the Quran never changed; these remained the same from the appearance of the first man to the last man leaving this world e.g. equality as a human being, accountability, justice, warning, etc.

The laws that were held back because human intellect had not reached the stage where it could understand them or implement them properly, were now too revealed or implemented because the Quran would match man’s highest intellectual level till the end of the world.

All such laws that had been ignored by nations of the former messengers or given up or which had been modified/changed were renewed i.e. that orders like them were given.

This is the need for which a new messenger (the Messenger Muhammed) and a new Book was sent, and this is the reason why belief in all previous books should be replaced by a belief in the Quran and which must be followed.

Now there is no other guidance except the Quran:

| 2:137 | If they believe (as you) then these people will be able to receive guidance, but if they avoid this path then they will be going opposite to Allah’s guidance |

This is the right meaning of these verses. Now we will see how the literal meanings reflect the figurative meanings.

We have seen what “نسخ” (nasakh) means, i.e. “to replace something”. When the Quran says “verse” it does not only mean the verse of the Quran. Every messenger’s Revelation has been called the verses of Allah. For example, in the story of Adam, in Surah Al-Baqrah it is said that Adam was told:

| 2:38 | whenever guidance (or instructions ) from Me are received and whoever follows those instructions will have no fear or grief |

This shows that wherever instructions have been received from Allah, they have been termed as verses of Allah.

Verses or instructions do not only mean the instructions given in the Quran, but the change of or replacement of the verses of a former Revelation by the verses of a later Revelation, as it is mentioned in Surah Al-Nahal:

| 16:101 | And when we replace one verse by another. |

“نسخ” (nunsiha) has been derived from the word “نسيى” (nasi’a) which means “to give something up”, or “to ignore it”. See heading (N-Y-S). This word encompasses the fact that former revealed books were not allowed to stay in their original state. As such, the Quran says that after every messenger passed away, rebellious people added something to their books themselves, but Allah kept replacing these adulterated verses or which were given up by those people, through a new Book and a new messenger (22:52). This too clarifies that new verse in place of a former verse means instructions of the former Revelation were replaced, not that one instruction of this Quran is replaced by a new instruction within it.

“نسيى” (nasi’a) also means to leave something as it is in its former state. Thus "نسخ" (nunsiha) of verses would mean that the verses We thought should not be changed were incorporated by Us in the new Revelation as they were before.
Thus the Quran is in this way the “muhai’un” (of all Revelations of former messengers (5:28), i.e. all those laws have been embodied in the Quran, and on the other hand, it completes all the laws that were necessary for mankind:

6:116 Neither is there need for any change or amendment in it by Allah nor can any man change it

Allah Himself has taken upon Himself to keep it intact and safe (15:9).

The question that arises was why did Allah keep the system of Revelation as such? The reply that was given is:

2:106 Allah knows in what proportion (way) things are required (to be done)

Therefore He knows when man needs what kind of instructions and when he should receive complete code of conduct. All this occurs according to His estimates upon which He has full grasp. This is the right meaning of naasikh and munsookh. As far as the Quran is concerned, not one word in it is munsookh or cancelled. Every instruction contained in it is unchangeable and un-cancelled, although every order is imposed according to particular circumstances. When a situation changes, the orders change as well. For instance, there is the order for ablution, but if water is not available or a man is sick, then he can perform “tayamom” in place of “wuzoo” as said in (5:6). When water is available or the sickness is cured, then the order for ablution will be restored and the order for “tayamom” will recede into the background.

Or for example, the Quran has fixed a punishment for a thief and a rapist etc. Obviously if in a society these crimes take place then the Quran’s orders (about the punishments for these crimes) will not be implemented. Or if a society does not contain poor people, or beggars then the relevant orders will not need to be implemented, or if a man does not leave any inheritance then the laws about inheritance will not need to be implemented. Obviously these affairs do not have anything to do with naasikh or munsookh, but these orders remain in place (lest the situation arises where they need to be implemented). Munsookh or cancelation means to be cancelled for ever and never to be implemented. There is no such order in the Quran.

If in (2:106) the verse with “manansakh” or the verse (16:101) in Surah Al-Nahal, the word “aayah” is taken to mean universal events (which the Quran calls the signs of Allah at many places), then “naskh ayaats” or cancelled verses would mean for one universal event to replace another. Scientists are well aware of this phenomenon, but we think that the former meaning is preferable, although the second meaning does broaden the scope of the meaning.

But no matter which meaning among the two is taken, the fact remains that no verse of the Quran stands cancelled. Every word of this unchangeable book is stolid in its place and will remain so.

N-S-R

انّ النَّسْرُ: vulture, but the Arabs have different names for different kinds of vultures. A vulture has sharp eyes and can fly over long distances. Researchers say “nasarun” was also the name of an idol of the tribe zil kulaah in the land of hammeer {T}. The Quran has mentioned this word in the context of the nation of Nooh (7:23).

Ibn Faris says the basic meaning of this word is “to grab” or “snatch”, and that “an-nasr” means vulture. The Quran has however used it to mean the idol of the nation of Nooh.
N-S-F

"nasafal bina’a yansiflu": he uprooted the building.
"al-minsafah": the implement with which a building is uprooted.
"nasafat tu’aam": he thrashed the crop.
"alsinsaf": foam.
"nasafatir rechush shaiya": the wind blew a thing away, uprooted it and scattered it.
"nasafal ba-eeru arda bi muqaddimi rijlihi": camel raised dust with its front foot (T).
"an-nusafah": that which flies off by thrashing.
"al-insaf": sieve.
"nasafa shaiyi": to pass something through the sieve.
"an-naseef": the mark which is produced by spurring the camel on.

Ibn Faris says its basic meanings are “كشف” (kashf) or “to open and make obvious”.

Surah Taaha says:

N-S-K

"nasakas saub": he washed the cloth and thus cleaned it.
"ardun nasika": green land on which it has rained recently {R}.

Muheet says the real meaning of this word is “to wash and make clean”. All other meanings are related to this meaning. This basic meaning leads to its meaning “to right” or “correct some matter”.

"nasakas sabakha": he corrected the salinity of the soil.
"asaka ila tariqatin jameelah": he adopted a better way and stuck to it {R}.

In Arabic, "مناصك“ (mansak) is any place to and from which people are habitual or are familiar with, whether the path leads to evil or good. Later "مناسك“ (manasik) came to mean the customs of the Hajj (pilgrimage) and "مناصك“ (nusak) or "مناصك“ (naseekah) meant the animal which is slaughtered or the blood {R}. Thereafter it came to mean anything that has been made mandatory by Allah. Thus "مناصك“ (manasik) came to mean the obligations towards Allah {M}.

Ibn Qateebah says it means anything which takes man closer to Allah.

Shah Abdul Qadir, Shah Rafiudin and Maulana Abulm Kalam Azad in their translations have translated “مناصك“ (nusak) as “worship” or “the elements of Hajj”. The latter has translated “مناصك“ (nusuk) as “my Hajj”.

The Quran has said in the context of orders related to Hajj:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Verse</th>
<th>Meaning</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>2:200</td>
<td>When you are free of (performing) the obligations of hajj</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2:162</td>
<td>its compensation will be fasting, or sadaqah or animals for slaughter</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Ibn Qateebah has said that here "مناصك“ (nusuk) would mean the animals for slaughter {R}.
Ibn Faris too says that it means “animals for slaughter” and “to attain closeness to someone”, but its meaning should not be restricted to the “animals for slaughter”. It can mean any good deed that one may pledge to do.

Surah Al-Anaam says:

6:163 Tell them that my salat and my nusuk (my life and my death) are all dedicated to establish/follow the system of Allah

Obviously here “صلوة” (salaat) has come to mean “the complete code of life (i.e. Deen) according to the Quran” and “نُسُﮏٌ” (nusuk) means “every practice in life” {M}.

Surah Al-Hajj contains a comprehensive verse:

22:67 We had formulated a path for every nation which believed in the messenger of their time and which way it was supposed to follow. Therefore these people should not quarrel regarding its commands. As such, keep on inviting them to the ways of your Sustainer

This shows that “أمر” (amr) is an unchangeable law which has always remained unchanged, and “مناسك” (manasik) the peripheries or the customs and practices of this system that are adopted to meet the needs of the times in establishing the system. “مناسك” (manasik) have been varying but “أمر” (amr) cannot differ or be controversial. The invitation that Islam held out was basically towards this unchangeable “أمر” (amr) but people instead of adopting this, considered the fundamentals of Deen to lie in the peripheries or the “مناسك” (manasik) – the evidence for this is all around us and we can relate to it by seeing that these religious practices which do not solve the human problems as the Quran has directed. This is the truth that is not found anywhere except in the Quran – the Quran since deals with the human thought process, therefore it directs our mind to the true reality behind all human issues i.e. makes us see through any human issue. As it takes time to get our thinking in line with the Quranic thinking, the Quran tells us unambiguously that do not doubt this guidance because you are:

22:67 Indeed your are on the straight guided path

But it is obvious that if one agrees with this then he will also have to act on the details as proscribed by the Deen as an Islamic System. We have to take the Quran as a whole and accept it as a complet book of guidance which provides details of the permanent values which are applicable for all times. While the permanent values remain unchanged the ‘مناسك’ can vary and can be modified through mutual consultation as these relate to the collective physical conduct to carry out the issues of the daily life. This is a must to establish the system otherwise it will be disrupted {R}.

By this count it must be understood that if “مناسك” (manasik) can change during different era then they can also change in different lands according to the different circumstances if they have not been fixed or made mandatory by the Quran. But if the circumstances so demand, this change will be brought about by the system of the Quran and not by individuals.
The progeny is called “nasl” (nasal) because it comes out of its forefathers, or because the forefathers die and it lives on or proceeds ahead.

The Quran says:

2:205 Destroy land and animal life

لِيَدَّرْكُنَّ الْجَنَّةَ وَالْحَيَّةَ النَّاسِلَةَ

“nasl” (nasal): creation, progeny and human population. As such, it means “to destroy human generation or crops (without being justified) is forbidden”.

Surah Al-Ambia says:

21:66 They will come out fast like the waves in a storm

وَيَنْبِئُونَهُمْ مِنْ كُلِّ حَدَبٍ يَنْسِلُونَ

36:51 Will come out fast and rush towards their Sustainer

بَيْنِ رَّبِّ يَنْسِلُونَ

“an’niswatu”, “an’nisaa’a”, “an’niswanu” are all plurals of the word “al-mar’atu” (al-mar’atu) which means “one woman” and “an’nisaa’a” (an’nisaa’a) which means “more than one woman”.

This word only exists in plural form as “الْنساء” (an-nisa’a), “الْنساء” (an-niswah) and “الْنساء” (an-naswan), and their used singular form does not come from the same literal root.

The Quran has used the term “نساء” (nisa’a) to mean “common women” as well as “wives”.

2:187 your wives

إِلَيْ يَسَاءَكُمُ
“nisyaan” (nisyaan): leave or give up. It is also used for a person who forgets about protecting something which is kept with him for safety, i.e. “to leave protecting or stop protecting something”.

20:115 and verily We had ordered Adam first but he gave it up and We found no determination in him

Verily, We ordered Adam: “Verily We gave you a garden of all that is in the earth, you and your wife, eat therein according to your desire. But when We warned you to remember your Lord but you forgot them till We made a trial with you.”

Here nasi (nisyaan) means “to give up” because accountability cannot take place upon forgetting something, plus there is no need for intent and determination in remembering something – it just becomes part of our memory system.

9:67 They ignored the guidance of Allah so as a consequence Allah gave up their protecting them

While verse (33:1) says: “Indeed, We had warned him that he should remember his Lord but he turned away.” Hence nothing shall escape from it and everything shall be compiled in one place. Its safety is ensured and referred at another place:

See details under heading (N-S-Kh). Likewise verse (87:7) means that “in this way We shall preserve the revelation so you will not be able to give up anything”. Hence nothing shall escape from it and everything shall be compiled in one place. Its safety is ensured and referred at another place:

Surah Al-Baqrevelation to earlier messengers:

2:106 if We cancel a former command then We replace it with a better command and that which We leave as it is then We give a similar command through the Revelation to the next messenger

See details under heading (N-S-Kh). Likewise verse (87:7) means that “in this way We shall preserve the revelation so you will not be able to give up anything”. Hence nothing shall escape from it and everything shall be compiled in one place. Its safety is ensured and referred at another place:

17:86 If We want We can take away something from the Revelation (but Our Will is not such)

87:7 only if the Will of Allah was like this, then anything could be taken away (but this is not the Will of Allah)

Therefore nothing in it has been forsaken (17:86), also see (5:101) {T).

The author of the book Al-minaar has said that even if this is taken to mean “to forget something” then the phrase “إِلَى مَالِكَةَيْنَ” (illa masha’allah) nullifies it. This means that as has been said before, it will never happen – the proof of this lies in the reading, understanding and analysing the Quranic guidance in relation to the human issues and their solutions.

At another place it is said:

11:108 they will dwell therein, for all the time that the heavens and the earth endure, except as your Lord wills; a gift without break.

To give up protecting something means that the thing was thought unworthy of protection, or that it was thought without importance. Therefore “nasi’o” (an-nasi’o) means something which is not thought important and thus given up. Its plural is “an-nasao” (an-nasao). Therefore at the time of departure of a caravan, the Arabs used to say “تَتَبَعُوا أَنْسَاءَ عَكْمَ” (tatabassa’oo ansa’aakum) which means “collect your small things which you generally think unimportant” {T). On account of this non-importance, the word acquired the meaning of “forgetfulness”.

"ansa'oo iyyahu": he forgot him.
"nasaoon": one who is very forgetful \(\{T\}\).
"nasyan mansiyyan": long forgotten (19:23).

N-Sh-A

(\(nasha\)), (\(yansha'o\)), (\(nash'atan\)): to be alive, to be new, to be manifested, to be highlighted, to be lofty, to increase, and to develop gradually, to grow.

"nasha'atis sahabtun nasha": the cloud rose.
"an'naashi": a boy or girl who is leaving childhood and entering adulthood, or is near that stage.
"an'naashi'atu": every moment in which a man keeps standing i.e. does not sleep. This also means "to rise after sleeping" and "every event that happens at night".
"tanasha fulanun lihaajatihi": so and so man rose for his work and left.
"al-munsha'o": high sign or flag.
"al-jawaril munsha'aat": boats with high sails (55:24).
"an'nessho": to invent something and to train it \(\{R\}\).

Ibn Faris says it basically means to be lofty.

Surah Al-Anaam says:

6:99 Allah has created you from a single nafas (cell)

The details can be found in the book titled Iblees O Adam.

Surah Al-Waqiya says:

56:35 We developed them in a particular way (developed them with great finesse)

56:91 you may be given a new form of birth of which you are unaware

\(ma la ta'lamoon\) makes it obvious that as far as human knowledge is concerned, we cannot know the condition in the hereafter. This has been likened to a new creation at other places (17:39, 17:98, 32:10).

Surah Al-Waqiya a little further on says:

56:73 Do you make that tree grow and develop or is it We who continuously do so?

The Quran says:

43:18 Who is brought up among jewellery (refering to the environment in which women were brought up)

13:12 He who raises big dark clouds from the sea into the air

55:24 boats with high sails

73:6 The rising in the night

To nurture or develop, to progress gradually, to make grow, are all the traits of Allah who is the great Sustainer. Everything in the universe follows the laws of Allah and gradually is developed towards its end. This will have to be done by the humans in this world too, i.e. the development of every individual and beyond in a Society. Every believer will have to strive to enable the development of other individuals of the society and mankind. This is the very purpose of Islam.
“an-nashru”: the air, fragrant air or wind, fragrance. The element of spreading all over is predominant in this word {T, M, R}.

Ibn Faris says this means “to open something and for that thing to branch out”.

“an’nasheeru”: the crops that have been cut but not taken away.

“an’nisharatu”: saw dust that falls while splitting wood.

“an’nashbiru”: to open something, or to spread.

“nashar al khashabah”: he split the wood.

“al-minsharu”: the saw.

“nsasharit arzu nushura”: with the advent of spring the land became alive i.e. plants grew up bountifully.

“an’nisharatu”: saw dust that falls while splitting wood.

“an’nashru”: to spread the news, or for the leaves to spread. It also means for the trees to be full of leaves.

This word has been used by the Quran to mean everything stated above.

The Quran says:

In Surah Al-Furqaan it is said about the helplessness of the idols:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Verse</th>
<th>Meaning</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>25:3</td>
<td>they do not possess the power of life or death or of new life after death</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

This new life can be seen in the dead land receiving some life giving water and the latent greenery spreads out on the land. As such, after explaining such condition of land it is said:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Verse</th>
<th>Meaning</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>35:9</td>
<td>In the same way your new life will be given</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Imagine how explicit this example is of new life, i.e. that thing does possess the ingredients of life, but in their latent form and only with the help of a new process (of creation) that sleep or latent-ness is replaced by awakening.

Those who deny a life after death say:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Verse</th>
<th>Meaning</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>44:35</td>
<td>we cannot get new life (once we die)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

But it is said that this thinking is completely wrong. Allah is one who can give new life to man after he dies in this life:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Verse</th>
<th>Meaning</th>
</tr>

<tbody>
<tr>
<td>80:22</td>
<td>A dead body is stagnant and still, but a live person grows and develops. The symbol of life is to grow and spread out.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

“an-nashr”: anything that does not grow and hence is devoid of life. The nation which is stagnant and does not move ahead is practically dead.
"N-Sh-Z" ن ش ز

"انْشُرْ" (an-nashzu) and "انْشَرْ" (an-nashaz): a high and lofty place.
"انْشُرَ" (nashaza): he climbed the high place and became safe.
"انْشَرَ الْرَجُلُ" (nashar rajul): the man who was sitting stood up.
"انْشَرَ بِالْخَصْوَمِ" (nashaza bil qaumi fil khusumah): he stood up or was prepared to fight the nation {T, Ibn Faris}.

Raghib says that "انْشُرْ" (nashaza) means for something to move away from its place. This has led to "نُشْرُ" (nushuz) which means for the husband or wife to start opposition, e.g., to be abhorrent, to fight, to misbehave, to oppose each other, for the woman to stand opposition to the man (3:34) and for the man to oppose the woman (4:128).

In Surah Al-Mujadlah this word has appeared to mean “for one to leave a meeting” or “to stand up in a meeting” (58:11).

In Surah Al-Baqrah it has appeared to mean “to lift” the bones, or “to make them lofty” and “to highlight” them (2:259).

"N-Sh-Te" ن ش ط

"انْشَتَلْ مِنَ الْمَكَانِ" (nashatal minal makan): he went out of that place, i.e. he left the place.
"انْشَتَوْتْ" (an-naashitu): the wild ox that goes from one place to another.
"انْشَتَلْ" (anshatal uqdatah): he opened the knot {T}.
"انْشَتَلْ الْبَيْزِرَمِ مِنْ ياَقَالَ" (anshatal ba’eera min iqalihi): he opened the tether of the camel and freed it {M}.
"انْشَتَن" (nashtun): to tie a knot that can be opened easily {R}.
"انْشَتَ" (nashitu), "يَانْشَتُ" (yanshatu), "انْشَتًَا" (nashata): to be happy at being given some work, or to be happy or prepared to, to be interested in that piece of work. It also means (figuratively) for the knots of the heart to open {T}.

Ibn Faris says it basically means to swoon and to move.

The Quran says:

<table>

"تَنَاشُطَتُ الْقَاطِيَّةُ فِي سَبُورٍ" (tanash shat tin naaqah fee sairihi): the camel was very fast {T}.
"تَنَاشَطَ الْحَبْلَ" (intashatil habl): he pulled on the rope till it opened.
"تَنَاشَطَ الدَلْوَمِنَ الْبَيْر" (nashatad dalwa minal bir): he pulled on the well bucket {M} i.e. without moving the wooden frame.
"وَالْانْشَاطَاتِ نشاطا نشاطا" (wan-na’shitatin nashta): is a hint at the mutual gravity of the planets, i.e. which revolve quite fast and also maintain their gravitational pull. In other words “they are free or their knots” and are “untied” but at the same time the gravitational pull binds them together.

There is speed and expansion and discipline in it too. In this one word “نشاط" (nasht), the whole world of these planets or stars is reflected.

Maulana Obaidullah Sindhi says that "وَالْانْشَاطَاتِ نشاطا نشاطا" (wanaa shitaati nashta) means that the obstacles in the way of man’s development are removed by this revolutionary group of the believers. This group has a mission to remove the obstacles in the way of mankind.
Ibn Faris says it basically means “to keep something straight”.

“النصب” (an-nasb): to support something to stand erect, to highlight something {R}.

“النصب الشجارة” (nasabash shajaratah): to plant a sapling in the earth {M}.

“النصب” (an-nusib) and “النصيبة” (an-naseeb): anything which is embedded and becomes a symbol or sign. The plural is “النصاب” (an-nasab) {T} which was also used for “raised stones”. Later it came to mean “fixed share” {R}.

“النصب” (ansaab) are also the stones embedded around the Ka’ba on which animals were slaughtered. This led to the word meaning “fixed share”.

“النصب” (an-nisb) and “النصابة” (an-nasbun): sickness, misery and trial & tribulation {T}.

The Quran says:

15:48 They will not feel any tiredness, labour or any kind of trouble in Jannah.

Here this has appeared to mean “share” (4:7, 2:202)

Surah An-Nisaa says “النصيبة” (naseebun) and “كَفْلٌ” (kiflun) as alternatives in (4:85).

The Quran says:

5:3 The stone or place where sacrifices are made in the name of others than God

70:43 as if they are running towards these (sacrificial) places

88:3 The people who are tired after hard labour

Every work entails effort. If the labour is done rightly then one gets the desired result, and this sort of hard work does not create any feeling of tiredness, but if the labour is done towards wrong paths then the labour fails to produce the desired result, and the labour creates a feeling of tiredness or futility.

These deeds are “عَامِلَۃٌ ﻧَﺎﺻِﺒَۃٌ” (aamilatun naasibah) as used in (88:3). They did not work or act according to Allah’s laws, and therefore did not produce the desired results and led to tiredness and deprivation.

Surah Saad says that Ayub called out to Allah:

38:41 A snake has bit me due to which I am in extreme pain

Surah Al-Faatir uses “النصاب” (nasabun) and “الغَوْب” (laghub) in (35:35) i.e. physical labour and tiredness.

Surah Al-Ahzaf says that Moosa said to his companion:

18:62 I am tired due to this journey

Surah Al-Inshraah says:

94:7 Now that opposition has been removed, the second part of your program should begin for which you have to struggle further “(nasiba),” “yansubu fil amr): to struggle {M}.

Ordinarily a program is completed if there is no more opposition but the establishment of Allah’s program demands that after the opposition ends, the second part of the program begins. The end of opposition is the first or ‘la’ part. After it the ‘illa’ part (that is, the constructive phase) starts. Thus the entire life of this group of momineen is spent in making effort.

N-Sd-T

“(nasatar rajulu): the silent man.
“(ansat) is more expressive as compared to “(nasata) and means “to become silent”, “to be quiet”, “to quieten in order to listen to someone” {T, M}.
“(wansitu): when the Quran is recited then be quiet and listen to it (7:204).

N-Sd-H

“(nasih): to sew and to purify or cleanse honey.
“(nasahat shaiyi): the thing became pure.
“(an-naasih): pure honey.
“(nasahal khayyatus saub): the tailor sews the cloth very expertly or well {T, M}.

Ibn Faris says it basically means “to bring two things together” or “create harmony between two things”.

The messengers used to tell their people:

| 7:62 | I have come for your correction to correct you or mend your ways |

In other words the messengers said that they were all trying with all sincerity to mend the ruptured cloth of humanity and asked their nations to return to Allah’s guidance so that they may not be misled and go astray. These messengers told their people to adhere to this path (Allah’s guidance) very sincerely and adopt it to draw its benefits which will never end.

“(ardun mansoorah): the land where rainfall has taken place.
“(un-nawasir) is the plural of “(naasir) or “(naasirah) and means “the water courses that have flowed into a valley from afar”.

Abu Haneefah says that “(nasirun) and “(naasirah) means “the water which comes a long way and helps the flood advance” {T, M}.

Ibn Qateebah says that “(nasrun) means “to provide sustenance”.

Ibn Faris says this root basically means bring “to give good things”.

“(an-nasru) has also been said to mean “gift” or “award”. Thus it means “the cultivation which makes the land green”.

The Quran calls the group which lives according to the laws of Allah as “muflihoon” as in (2:5), i.e. “those whose fields are green, whose crops are successful”. See heading (F-L-H). Allah’s law is that rain which makes their deeds bear fruit. This is why “nusrat” (nusrat) means the victory which God provide. Those deeds which are not according to Allah’s law are like the labours of a farmer which are unsuccessful because they lack rain water. These have been called “akhsareena aamala” and “zalla sa’yuhum” in (18:103-104) i.e. “those whose efforts were unsuccessful, and their trade gave them a big loss” while they thought they are going in the right direction.

Surah Aal-e-Imran has “nassara” as against “khazala” which means to leave someone’s side. Therefore “nassar” (nassara) means “to side with someone”.

Since water helps crops to grow, “nasrun” means “to help” and “to assist”.

Muheet has explained the difference between help and victory.

“(nusrat) particularly means to get rid of bad things and “ma-unat” is general assistance.

“istinsaar” (to call for help).

“istansara ala fulanun”: asked him for help against someone.

“intasir”: he was safe from the oppressor’s oppression, he obtained justice, he was avenged {T, M}.

Surah Al-Ambia says:

21:68 speak highly of your idols

It has been mentioned earlier that Allah’s “nusrat” or help means the fruits that are acquired by adopting His laws. Thus Allah’s “nusrat” or help is not received by merely sitting around and doing nothing.

The Quran says:

47:7 Those with conviction, if you help Allah then surely He will help you

Helping Allah means to establish His system in this world and follow His laws. If you do so then the benefits of this system will certainly accompany you, and this will result in:

47:7 He will steady your legs: you will be granted stability by him

Those who refuse to follow His laws:

47:8 their deeds will remain go waste despite making effort

Surah Al-Hoodh says:

11:30 Who is able protect me from Allah’s punishment?

If I violate the laws of Allah then who can save me from the destructive results of those deeds?

The Quran says:

42:39 When somebody commits excesses against them then they protect themselves

47:4 to avenge oppression

54:10 I am overpowered (and cannot do anything) so you avenge
The Quran has used “الأنصار” (al-ansaar) against the “the migrants” in (9:100). It means the believers of Medina who helped the migrants and thus Allah’s system was established there. Generally “الأنصار الله” (ansaaru-llaah) means those who assist the way of Allah (3:52).

Nasara

“النصاري” (nasara): the followers of Isa (Jesus) as described in (2:111). The singular is “النصارى” (nasraaniyyu) as in (3:66). The plural of “النصارى” (nasraan) and “الأنصار” (ansaaru-llaah) means those who assist the way of Allah (3:52).

N-Sd-F

“النصف” (nisf), “النصف” (nasf), “النصف” (nusf): one equal part of something divided in two, or one of two equal parts of something, i.e. “half”.

The Quran says:

4:11 for them it is half

فَلَأَنْهَا أَلْصَفَتْ

"الأنصار في المعاملة" (al-insaafu fil mu’aamala): to provide as much benefit to somebody as one receives from him, to justify your salary, if he demands rights then let him discharge his obligations too [R].

The Quran has used the words “العدل” (adal) and “القسط” (qist). It has not used the word “الإنصاف” (insaaf) which we today use for “justice” or “justified equal share”.

Ibn Faris says “الأنصار في المعاملة” (al-insaafu fil mu’aamala) means “to be content with half”.

N-Sd-W

“الأنسية” (an-naasiyah): the front part of the head or the further most hairlines on the front part of the head [T]. But most dictionaries do not stress the front part of the head. It also means “the hair near the forehead”. The plural is “الأنواسي” (an-nawasi). Figuratively this word is used to mean “respect” and “honour” [T].

"فُلَانُ نَأْسِيْيَةَ قَوْمِهِ" (fulanun naasiyatu qaumihi): he is the leader of his nation or people [R].

Ibn Faris says it means “to select the better thing” or “a thing to embody grandeur and importance”.

"أخذُ بِالْأَنْسِيَةِ" (akhaza unaasiyah): to catch hold of the forelocks, to make someone helpless and seize him.

Surah Hoodh says:

11:56 And every living thing is within Allah’s grasp.

(His law is over everybody, nobody is beyond his law, everyone is bound within His laws)

Surah Ar-Rahman says:

55:41 They will be held by their forelocks and their feet: they will be in full grip.
"النَّضْجُ (nazajas samara): the fruit ripened fully.
"ثَوْبُ نَضْجِ الزَّامِ (huwa nazeefur raaya): he has firm and mature opinion {T}.

Ibn Faris says it means “to ripen something to the ultimate limit”.

Figuratively this word is used to mean “very mature”. This word is also used to mean “cook by fire”.

"النَّضْجُ الطَّالِبِيُّ الْلُّحْمِ (anzajat taahil lahm): the chef cooked the meat so much that it gave way and its elements separated from each other {T}.

Surah An-Nisa says:

| 4:56 | their strength and solidness will end | كلّمَا نَضْجَتْ خَلْوَذَهُمْ |

Here “النَّضْجُ (nazija) doesn’t mean “to reach maturity”. It means “to soften” or “disintegrate by being cooked”. For details see (J-L-D).

"النَّضَّخُ (nazakhal ma’u): for water to boil with a gush, for water to gush forth from a stream.
"عينَ النَّضَاخَةُ (ainun nazzakhatahu): a stream which gushes forth {T, M}.

Ibn Faris says it means “a stream with abundant water”.

The Quran while speaking of the gardens of Eden has said they contain:

| 55:66 | Streams which gush forth. | عَيْنٌ نَضِّامَةٌ |
|       | (Those fountains which take one to loftiness with their internal strength) |

"الأَلْنَضْدُ ﻣِﻦَ ﺍﻟْجِﺒَﺎﻝِ (al-anzaad minal jibaal): rocks or mountains which have layers.
"الأَلْنَضْدُ ﻣِﻦَ ﺍﻟْسﱠﺣَﺎﺏِ (al-anzaadu minas sahaab): the clouds which are over one another in layers {T, M, R}.

Surah Hoodh says:

| 11:82 | We rained continuously stones on them in layers | وَ اَمْطَرْنَاهُ عَلَيهِ جَحاً مِّن سَحَابٍ مُنْضَوَّدٍ |

Hence this root basically means “layer upon layer” (56:29, 50:10).

Ibn Faris says it means “to put some things according to a certain order along with other things, whether they are kept straight or width wise”.

"الأَلْنَضَّدُ ﻣِنَ الأَلْجِبالِ (al-anzaad minal jibal): rocks or mountains which have layers.
"الأَلْنَضَّدُ ﻣِنَ السَّﺣَابِ (al-anzaadu minas sahaab): the clouds which are over one another in layers {T, M, R}.

Surah Hoodh says:

| 11:82 | We rained continuously stones on them in layers |

"النَّضْراَةُ (an-nazrah): happiness and well-being, earnings, strength, beauty.
"an-nazaarah": the beauty and brightness of the face.
"an-nazir": anything which is dark green in color.
"an-nazar": the pure element of gold etc.
"qad anzar shajar": leaves of the tree turned green \{T, M, R\}.

*Ibn Fari*s says the basic meaning of this root is “beauty and purity”.

The Quran says:

This is the situation with those in the heaven.
The Quran says it is forbidden to partake.

N-Te-F

“an-nutfah” (clear water, rather abundant or little, but this word is particular to mean little water for the Arabs.

“an-nutfah” (sperm, sea or river.

“nutfal ma’i” (the water flowed or spilled, or dropped in small parts {M}).

Ibn Faris says it basically means “wetness and humidity” and said it is figuratively said in order to become muddy, and it is used mostly in an execrable sense.

“shaiyun nutfah” (a faulty thing.

The noble Quran has said at a place about the creation of man that it has been created from “nutaf” (nutfah).

N-Te-Q

“nutq” (to make loud sound with words which give a clear meaning.

The sound of animals is not called “nutq” (nutq) but “saut” (saut).

“antaqahul laah” (Allah called him to Him {T, M}.

Muheet says that “nutq” (nutqis) particularly means “human speech”. It is also said to make something understandable.

“nataq al-kitaba” (the book made the matter understandable.

“an-naqitah” (womb.

“an-nitaq” (that ribbon, band or belt which is worn around the waist.

Raghib says “nutq” (nutq) is such a word that encompasses the meaning of something.

Ibn Faris says it has two basic meanings:

1) Speech or something similar
2) A sort of dress which encompasses one’s waist.

The Quran says:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Verse</th>
<th>Translation</th>

</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>21:63</td>
<td>If they talk</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>45:29</td>
<td>This Book of Ours clarifies everything with the truth.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

At another place it appears that those who will go to hellish conditions say to their bodies “how dare you present evidence against us” they will say:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Verse</th>
<th>Translation</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>41:21</td>
<td>We have been granted the power of speech by Allah who has enabled others to speak</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Obviously here "nutq" does not mean “to talk” but to somehow “express the truth”, just as we say that “every move that we make, speaks…”

Surah An-Namal says that Suleman was taught “منطوق الطير” (muntiqat tair) in (27:16). It is usually taken to mean “speech of the birds”. It may figuratively mean “the rules of a horse brigade”. See heading (Te-Y-R). If it is taken to mean “speech of the birds”, it will mean the movements and sounds with which man can understand what birds are saying. This thing can be obtained by observation and knowing about how the birds behave, but generally we prefer the literal meaning.

The Quran says:

| 15:37 | He (Iblees) said “my Sustainer, give time till the day of the rising”. (God said) “You are among those who have been given time”. |

Surah Al-Baqrah says that if the borrower is "توفظرة إلى مسرة" (fanziratun ila maisarah) i.e. hard pressed, then he should be given more time (to repay the loan) (2:280).

In Ibrahim’s case, it has been said:

| 37:88 | That nation worshipped the stars |

Ibrahim deliberated on the stars and told the people what faults they have due to which they could not be gods, i.e. the stars are themselves dependant on something to rise and fall. Thus those who are self-sufficient and independent could never be gods. They are bound to sink. After this he said:

| 37:89 | I reject (am frustrated with) such gods |

Despite that “نظر” (nazar) also means “to reflect” but it has been used by the Quran for its basic meaning, that is “to see”. This is why Quran has distinguished the meaning of "نظر" (nazar) and "بصرا" (basar).

The Quran says:

| 7:198 | You shall see that they will be looking at you, but will not be reflecting upon your words. |
Such ‘seers’ are called “الْعُمْيٍّ” (al-ummi) by the Quran i.e. “blind” (10:43). Those are people whose eyes of the mind go blind (22:46).
N-Ain-J

“النعْجُ” (an-na‘aj): to be plump.
“نَعِجَﺖِ ﺍﻟِّﺑْﻞُ” (na‘ijatal ibl): the camels became plump.
“النعْجةُ” (an-na‘ijah): soft and smooth land which gives good product.
“النعْجةُ” (an-na‘jah): female sheep, a doe, or mountain goat {T}.

The plural is “ئاَﻟْﻨِعَﺎﺝُ” (ni‘aaj). The Quran has used it both as singular and plural in (38:23) and (38:24).

N-Ain-S

“النِعَﺎﺱُ” (an-nu‘aas): the silence and quiet that is produced due to heaviness of sleep {M}.

Muheet says with reference to Keys, that sleep or “نَوْمٌ” (naum) is a condition where the senses become suspended and “النِعَاـﺱُ” (nu‘aas) is the initial stage of that stupor. Some say that “سِنَﺎﺕُ” (sinatun) is a condition when the head feels heavy due to sleep.

“نَوْمٌ فَﻠِيْن” (naum faliyn) is felt when the eyelids become heavy and “نَوْمٌ” (naum) is that heaviness which is felt in the heart {M}.

Raghib says that “نِعَاـﺱٌ” (nu‘aas) is felt when the eyelids become heavy and “نَوْمٌ” (naum) is that heaviness which is felt in the heart {M}.

The Quran says:

8:11 when Allah cast nu‘aas over you to create peace and contentment

Also in (3:153) it means peace and contentment, not stupor.

N-Ain-Q

“نَعْقَ ﺍﻟِّﺭَﺎﻉِ بِﻎَﻨَـﻤِهَ” (na‘aqar raahi bighannimihi), “يَنْعِﻖُ” (yan‘iq), “نُعَﺎﻕٌ” (nu‘aaqa): for the shepherd to scold or talk harshly to the herd in order to drive it forward {T, M, F}.

Surah Al-Baqrah talks about the people who move on with their eyes and ears closed and blindly follow their elders without thinking. They have been likened to a sheep or goat herd which heeds the call of the shepherd rather than their own intellect. Even the shepherd’s voice is a sound and not anything else which has no meaning as such. Those who follow blindly also do not know any meaning of this sound. Whatever they are told about the old traditions and customs, they just follow it.

17:1-2 The unbeliever is like someone who is being called but who does not understand anything beyond the call or its sound (those who follow blindly without exercising their intellect)

Note how correctly the Quran has depicted what we call our ‘deen’ today. The masses are like the sheep who have a shepherd at their back (or the mullas) who make them follow blindly what their forefathers have told them and they keep reciting them (the verses) without understanding them, and the masses follow them blindly.
Ibn Faris says، "نانل (naal) basically means for something to be steep or the lower part.

Surah Taha says that Moosa was told:

| 20:12 | Take off both your shoes (sit comfortably and listen with equanimity) |

For details, see heading (Kh-L-Ain).

N-Ain-L

Ibn Faris says، "نانل (naal) basically means for something to be steep or the lower part.

"نانل (an-naal): shoe or anything that protects a foot from touching the ground {T}.

Surah Taha says that Moosa was told:

| 20:12 | Take off both your shoes (sit comfortably and listen with equanimity) |

For details, see heading (Kh-L-Ain).

N-Ain-M

ناعمةٌ (na'imah): encompassing freshness and evergreen (8:88).

ناعمةٌ (na'imah): the condition in which a man feels pleasure {T, M}. It also means happiness, wealth, wellbeing and or philanthropy {T}.

These meanings expostulate that “نعمةً (ne'mat) means for every facet of social life being soft (or easy), delightful, happy, high and away from any difficulty or misery.

Surah An-Nahal says after talking about the paraphernalia of life:

| 16:81 | Thus He completes his favour upon you. |

This makes the meaning clear.

Surah Luqmaan calls these the paraphernalia of life as “نعمة الله (ne'matullah) which is taken from one place to another by boats (31:31).

In Surah Aal-e-Imraan the victory and spoils of war have also been called “نعمة (ne'mat) (3:173).

In Surah An-Nahal, the word “ضرر (zarar) which means “loss” or “harm” has been used against “نعمة (ne'mat) and this makes the latter’s meaning clear, i.e., to stay away from the miseries and difficulties of life.

Surah Ad-Dukhaan calls all the good things in life as “نعمة (ne'mat) (44:27).

Surah Al-Ghashia uses "ناعمة (na'imah) against "خاشعة (khaashia) and "ناصبة (naasibah) which mean "frustration" "sadness", "demeaned and "insult". Therefore "ناعمة (na'imah) means "good things in life".

Surah Ibrahim uses "نعمة الله (ne'matul-laah) against "كفر (kufr) in (14:28) which may mean non-acknowledgement or ungratefulness for life’s pleasanties. Hence this word refers to loftiness and guidance from Allah.

"ناعمة (na'imah): encompassing freshness and evergreen (8:88).
The word “نعمة” (ne’mah) has also appeared to mean mental benefits as well as physical (68:2, 52:29), and also to mean physical health and cleanliness (5:1).

The Quran has said that the nation which is at the pinnacle of life is “نعمة الله” (muni’m alaih), and prayers have been taught to human beings to be able to follow in their footsteps (1:6). By keeping all the above mentioned traits in mind, one can very well glean how a nation with “نعمة” (ne’mah) would be – the Quran has explained it. People of such a nation have been said to be mumin. Therefore those who do not possess all this or who do not struggle to acquire all these cannot be considered to be mumin according to the Quran.

The word “نعمة” (ne’matun): benevolence, kindness and favour (26:22). The plural is “اَﻧْﻌُﻢٌ” (anum). Everything in the universe that has been subjugated to human beings is “نعمة” (ne’mah) (14: 32-34).

The Quran has said that the nation which is at the pinnacle of life is “نعمة الله” (muni’m alaih), and prayers have been taught to human beings to be able to follow in their footsteps (1:6). The word “نعمة” (ne’mah) has also appeared to mean mental benefits as well as physical (68:2, 52:29), and also to mean physical health and cleanliness (5:1).

The Quran has included all four domestic animals in the meaning of this word, i.e. camels, cattle, sheep and goats (39:6, 6:144 -45).
those which are too small for this purpose, or are close to the ground. See heading (H-M-L). Verse (43:13) says about the “ﺍَﻧْﻌَﺎﻡٌ” (an’aam) that you travel on their backs.

In Surah Yasin, all these benefits of the “ﺍَﻧْﻌَﺎﻡٌ” (an’aam) have been described together by saying:

| 37:72 | So they ride some of them and eat some of them. |

This verse mentions the benefits from these animals, i.e. about eating them (their flesh), for carrying goods and other benefits.

Surah An-Nahal describes the animals which the Arabs used to take out for grazing mornings and evenings (16:6) and the beasts of burden are mentioned separately (16:7).

About the “ﺧَﻴَﻞٌ” (khayal) (horses), “ﺑِﻐَﺎﻝٌ” (bighaal) (asses) and the “ﺣَﻤِﻴْﺮٌ” (hameer) (donkeys) is said:

| 16:8 | They are used for traveling and used for embellishment too |

Surah Aal-e-Imran mentions:

| 3:13 | That is marked or cultivated horses and cattle |

Surah Al-Mumin says:

| 40:79 | Allah has created four legged animals for you so that you can ride some of them and some you use for eating (their flesh) |

From these explanations, one can glean that “ﺍَﻧْﻌَﺎﻡٌ” (al-in’aam) means “those animals which graze and their milk is consumed”. They are used for riding and for carrying weights, their wool is used to make woollen cloth, their skins are used for making tents, they are used for embellishment, i.e. for pride, and their flesh is used for eating. These are the things the Arabs of those times used the “ﺍَﻧْﻌَﺎﻡٌ” (in’aam) for. Except the ones the Quran has declared as forbidden, all other “ﺍَﻧْﻌَﺎﻡٌ” (in’aam) are permitted to be edible. Also see heading (H-R-M).

Na’am

“نَعَمْ (na’am): yes.
“نَعَم”(na’em): they said “yes”, this has happened (7:42).

It is a word which is used to agree.

For “نِعْمَ” (ni'im) and “نَعِمْ” (na'imma), see heading (N-Ain-M).

N-Gh-Zd

“نَغَﺾَ”(naghaz): made something move.
“نَغَﺾَ”(naghazun): ostrich, because when it moves its head moves a lot (T, R). Ibn Faris also says this.

“نَغَﺾَ”(naghaza): he shook his head, moved his head.

Akhdash says that to move shaky means “نَغَﺾ”(naghaz).

“نَغَﺾَ”(naghzun): ostrich, because when it moves its head moves a lot (T, R).

“نَغَﺾَ رَأْسَه”(anaghzun rasahu) is said when somebody shakes his head in denial. Some say it means to shake one’s head in surprise or in making fun of something (T, R).
The Quran says:

| 17:51 | They will shake their heads with alacrity by way of making fun of you (denying what you say) |

It also means “to shake one’s head in wonder”.
N-F-Th

“نفث” (nafasa), “ينفث” (yanfusu): to blow with the mouth slowly so that the spit does not flow out.

Ibn Faris says this root means for something little to come out of the mouth with a small sound. If it is more than that then it is called “تنفّل” (tafl).

“نفث الشيء في القلب” (tufatash shaiya fil qalb): to put something (to suggest) quietly in someone’s heart or mind.

“ينفث الشيء في القلب” (imra’atun naffasah): a sorceress who blows on knots to prepare magical talismans or items {T, R, M}.

“نفث” (nafs): to blow on knots, to create a spell, to put something in the heart or mind {T, R, M}.

The Quran says:

| 113:4 | From the evil of the blowers in the knots. | من شر النفث في العقد |

“عقد” (qadun): strong knots.

“نفثsatun” (naffasatun): those people who create doubts in people’s hearts or minds, those which blow on firm intent or weaken them.

Maulana Obaidullah Sindhi says it means those groups who create obstacles in the natural development of men through false propaganda. He has also said any act through which or by which the Arabs’ resolve was weakened was called magic or sorcery {Al-Muqaam-ul-Mahmood}.

N-F-H

“نفح” (nafhun): for something to move ahead or to lift {Ibn Faris}.

“نفح الثوب ينفح” (nafhat tiyyahu yanfahu): the fragrance or spreading of a fragrance.

“نفحت الزين” (nafhatul reen): the wind blew.

“ريح نفخ” (reehun nafkha): fast moving wind.

“نفح” (nafhun): any cold wind.

“لفح” (lafhun): warm air, hot wind.

“نفحة من الريح” (nafhatu minar reeh): a gust of wind.

“نفح الدم” (nafhatud dum): blood which starts flowing the very first time speedily {T, R}.

The Quran says:

| 21:46 | One phase of the punishment of Allah (a part or a glimpse of it) | نفحة من العذاب |

N-F-Kh

“نفخ” (nafkha), “ينفخ” (yanfukh): to blow with the mouth.

“نفخ في النار” (nafkha fin naaar): he blew on the fire {T, M}.

Surah Al-Kahaf says “نفخوا” (unfakhu) which means “to stoke”.

“نفخ الشيء” (intafash shaiya): forgot the thing {T, M}.

“نفخ الشيء” (intafakhan nahaar): the day moved ahead or progressed {R}.

“النفخ من الأز” (an-nafkha-u minal ard): high land.

“النفخ” (an-nuffakah): the stones which are above the surface of the water. It also means bubbles {T, M}.
Ibn Faris says the root means “to swell” and “to rise”.

The Quran says in connection with the creation of man:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>

<tbody>
<tr>
<td>32:9</td>
<td>Breathed into him from His spirit</td>
</tr>
<tr>

</tbody>
</table>

As has been mentioned under the heading “زوخ” (rooh) which means “the power to decide or intend” which is man’s personality, and has only been given to man among all the creatures. Therefore, “نفخ زوخ” (nafkhi ruhi) means not just “to blow” but “breathe soul or the forces” in man, through which a man can attain a high place.

In Surah Aal-e-Imran, Isa has said to his people that:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Verse</th>

<tbody>
<tr>
<td>3:48</td>

</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The Quran says “نفخ صور” (nafkha suur) at several places, as has been said under the heading (Sd-W-R). It also means a bugle or trumpet which used to be sounded in times of war. This word is also the plural form as per the former meaning “نفخ صور” (nafkha suur) would mean the declaration of war between right and wrong. According to the latter meaning it would mean to impart a new life, to endow with new strengths, which can help attain loftiness (69:14). See heading (Sd-W-R).

N-F-D

Zamkhishri says the words which have “فاء” (fa) in them mean “to end gradually” and “be obliterated”, such as “نفاد” (nafada), “نفاد” (nafaza), “نفر” (nafar), “نفاث” (nafasha), “نفاذ” (nafaza), “نفاذ” (nafaqa) etc. {T, R}.

“نفاد الفوم” (anfadal qaum): the people’s supplies and wealth ended {T}.

The Quran says:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Verse</th>
<th>Translation</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>16:96</td>
<td>That which you have will come to an end, and that which Allah possesses will last</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

This “بقى” (baaq) has been explained at another place, i.e. that which does not end.

N-F-Dh

Ibn Faris says the root basically means to pass through something.

The Quran has thrown light on the possibilities of human evolution. Surah Ar-Rahman says:
55:33 O group of ins and jinn! If you have the capability to pierce the ends of this earth and the universe (go beyond it) then do so

“الناس” (ins) are people who live in the cities and “الجَن” (jinn) are those who live in desolate places (rural dispersed communities)

But remember:

55:33 You cannot do so without sultan (the capability)

The Quran has said that man can go out of the limits of this physical universe, but he needs to have a certain capability for this which can overcome physical realities. This strength can be had by following the Revelation. Therefore the Quran has called the Revelation as “سُلْطَانٌ” (sultaan). See heading (S-L-Te). That is, by following the Revelation man can develop the capability to reach the next stages of life and then live forever. At the usual level life is like that of animals but to live on the human level (i.e. on the levels of momineen) can make man capable of life beyond the limits of this life and attain the life beyond. Here the meaning of getting beyond the universe does not mean getting out of the physical universe. Man can fly as high as he wants, but he cannot go beyond the realms of his personality and will always remain within the parameters of the human personality: It is impossible for humans to go beyond the limits of this physical universe in this life. It can only be possible after dying and moving on to the life in the hereafter. Those who claim to go beyond this physical universe on the strength of their spiritual powers only think and they do not really do so. You can go anywhere you want in your thoughts because then you do not need any sultan (or capability) to do so. According to the Quran, man can only go beyond this physical universe after death. He can attain eternal life only in the life hereafter.

N-F-R

“انْفَرَ” (an-nafir): to be restless and get up and move from one’s place {R}. It also means to separate, to part {T, M}.

Ibn Faris too says that this word means to part and move away. Therefore it means to ignore something and to part from it.

“انْفَرَ” (nafara ilash shaiyi): to go towards something speedily {T, M}.

“انْفَرَ” (nafaratid da abbahu), “انْفَرَ” (astanfarat): for an animal to be afraid of someone and move away.

“انْفَرَ” (naffar), “انْفَرَ” (istanfartuhu): made him frightened and caused him to go away.

“انْفَرَ” (mustanfir): one who runs away worried or frustrated {T, M, R}.

The Quran says:

74:50 The donkeys who balked

“انْفَرَ” (nafaru lil amr): they came out for this purpose (4:71) {T, M, R}.

“انْفَرَ” (an-nafar): the group which stands to help someone (18:34).

“نَفِيْر” (nafeer) also means this very thing, as in (17:6) {T, F}.

“نَفُور” (nufar): to scamper away frightened, to hate (67:21).

“انْفَرَ” (al-munaafarah): pride, because people used to say “يا أَعْرَانْفَرَا” (ayyuna a-azzu nafara) i.e. power gives pride {T, M}.
Taj-ul-Uroos says that "نفَسٌ" (nafas) has many meanings. This word is used to mean the collection of a man’s internal and external characteristics. It also means the force which distinguishes (awareness and feeling). It also means knowledge and the mind \(T, Lissan-ul-Arab\). It also has similar meanings as of "عين الشيء" (ainush shaiyi), such as "ja'al'ni maliku binafihi" which means “the king came to me in person”.

It also means greatness, courage, honor, intent and punishment.

"نفَسٌ" (nafas) also means comrade or a brother \(T, Lissan-ul-Arab\). It also means the same blood.

"نفااس" (nifaas): the blood that women bleed after childbirth, as well as the childbirth itself \(T, Lissan-ul-Arab\). The plural is "انفاسس" (infaas).

Ibn Faris says it means the exit of soft and light air.

"نفَسٌ" (nafas) also means vastness and broadness and width or expansion. It also means one sip or smoke, and also a long thing.

"نفِيِسٌ" (nafees): abundant wealth.

"شَيْءٌ نَفِيِسٌ" (shaiyun nafeesun): the good things to which man is quickly attracted.

"تَنَافِسٌ" (tanaffus): to breathe.

"تَنَافِسْ الْصُّبْحُ" (tanaffasus subih): for the morning to be evident and bright (81:18).

"نَافَسَ" (naafas) and "تَنَافَسْ" (tanaafus): to excel in some good deed (83:26) \(T, Lissan-ul-Arab\). It also means “with me”.

Taj-ul-Uroos quotes the example of a verse from Surah Al-Ma'idah:

5:116 O my Sustainer! Whatever there is in my heart is known to you, but I do not know what you have in your mind.

It also means the punishment for bad deeds, as in:

3:27 And Allah warns you regarding himself.

This does not mean that God wants you to be frightened of Him or His Personality. This means that God makes you aware of the results of your deeds that will formulate as per the law of requital, without any external intervention.\(T, Lissan-ul-Arab\).

"نفَسٌ" (anfus) also means “compatriot” or “brother” as in (2:84), and also one’s “self” as in (2:42). At such places it is used as in English they say “me”, or “yourself” or “himself” etc.

This word has also been used by the Quran to mean “human personality” or “ego”. This meaning requires further explanation.

It will not be an exaggeration if one says that the basis of Deen is accepting the existence of a Self. One of the concepts of life is that human life consists merely of the physical life, that man lives as per the physical laws. His body follows these laws, grows according to these laws, and finally dies according to these laws. This means as soon as he stops breathing then he ceases to exist. This is called in modern terms the Materialistic Concept of Life which is e.g. generally what western culture mainly believes in. According to this concept one does not have to have belief in Allah as explained in the Quran, nor will feel the need to acknowledge that Revelation is the word of God. Even if the followers of this concept agree to there being a God, they will acknowledge only that God has created this universe and it is progressing according to His laws, but obviously this sort of belief has no effect on a man’s conduct in this life.

If one man says that this universe has been created by God and another says no, this has all come into being by accident or coincidence then this difference of opinion does not really affect their individual or collective behaviours. This is why the Quran does not give any credence to these sort of beliefs and does not consider them as a faith which will bring any change in the human Self. See (29:61-64, 23:84-88, 31:25, 39:38, 43:9), etc.

One who says that life ends with death in this world i.e. there is no hereafter, then the criterion for good and evil is also self-made. Good is something that is beneficial to him or which is appreciated by a society, and evil is something which is hurtful to him or which is thought to be execrable by a society. He believes that there is no law above those which he imposes on himself or which are imposed by a society in which he lives. The purpose of his life is the acquisition of personal happiness and nothing else. The Quran calls it a life of an unbeliever.

Quran calls this sort of life at an animal level:

Conversely the other concept of life is that life is not just this physical existence, and that there is another thing beside the human body which is called its Self (consisting of strong sense of identity called ‘I’, ability to think about thinking, emotions, and memory) or “نفاس” (nafas). It is not governed by physical laws and does not end with death. For example in (23:14) the Quran declares, ‘We created out of it another creation’ – human Self emerged with the ability to make choices. This is which is addressed by the Quran from the beginning to the end. This lives even after physical death. If lived within the domain of the permanent values, human life can develop the ability to evolve to the other stages of life. Human Self is developed according to the guidance given by God through the messengers and which is now detailed in the Quran. This means that the Quran deals with the issues of the human Self-development or deals with the human thinking. Thus it is seen that the belief in human Self is compatible only with the belief in God, Revelation, messenger-hood and life after death – as this is what is required to bring change in human behaviour which helps to develop inner Self which will bring change in this life and will have the ability to.

What is a human personality? It is not possible to explain, because it is non physical i.e. non visible. Human personality can be gleaned by its attribute of possessing a free will and through its use. Thus we can say that personality contains an ability to choose and is not material. The infinite free will and the ability to choose belong to Allah alone and has been bestowed to a limited extent to man by Him. That is why God has called it "روحانی" (rouhana), i.e. “Divine Energy”. See heading (R-W-H). If man follows Allah’s guidance as preserved in the Quran then to a certain extent Allah’s attributes are reflected in him. This is what development of the human personality means. It must be noted here that the human personality is not a part of Allahs’ personality. Personality, whether it be of God or man is an indivisible whole which cannot be divided into parts.
Since every one of man’s deeds is based upon his intent, therefore, his every deed affects his personality, even the thoughts which pass through his mind (40:19). This is what constitutes his accountability details of which hang around his neck as per the Quran (17:13).

It will be read by him at the time of the manifestation of result (as to what has he been doing):

17:14 Read your book (results), your own self is enough to hold you accountable by seeing the results

See also (75:15).

This proves the individuality of a human being’s personae (that it is not dependant on any other thing) (19:95, 6:95), i.e. every human act affects man’s own personality and no one else’s. No other can be a partner to it.

6:165 Every individual has to be accountable for his own deeds and no bearer of burdens can bear other’s burden

In this context the following verses can also be referred (6:105), (10:108), (17:7), (17:15), (27:92), (29:6), (30:44), (31:12), (35:18), (39:41), (41:46), (45:15), (35:18), (39:7), (53:38).

When the human personality is developed by following the Quran, then it develops the ability to reach the next evolutionary stages of life and this is called the life of jannat or heaven. But the personality which does not develop becomes stagnant and its development stops. This is the life of jahannam or jaheem. See heading (J-N-N, (J-H-M) and Jahannam.

Generally following the values contained in the Quran is required (and this can be done by being a part of the Quranic society) but in this context the Quran has mentioned a point which is very important. A man’s body is nurtured by everything he eats or takes in. The development of human personality takes place by all good we do for others.

92:16 He who gives whatever he has or his wealth for the development of others is protected from jahannam

92:6 He who gives and attains taqwa

Also see (59:9), (64:16).

Human Self is a potential, ability, a possible force which is neither good nor bad in itself – our inner thought process gives us the ability to think, evaluate and then make decisions. Whatever we think and do goes into our memory and contribute to our self-concept. The way we make decisions using our thinking process makes it good or bad i.e. the consequences of our thinking and deeds. When man uses it for the higher ideals of life within the permanent values of the Quran, it becomes the instrument of good, and this nurtures a man’s own Self. And when man uses this force for selfish ends or evil purposes then it turns bad or evil. In this connection to make distinction between bad and good the human Self which follows bad is called “ego” i.e. when it does bad and this occurs at an animal level and the Self related to good occurs at a human level.

When human emotions follow the ego, the Quran calls such behaviour as ‘hawa’. This root has the connotation of lowliness. See heading (H-W-Y). And when intellect serves the ego, it is called deception and intrigue. When emotions and intellect remain subservient to the human Self within the permanent values, these become the highest forms of humanity, and the human society becomes a model of heavenly life as detailed in the Quran.

When ego pushes back some permanent value and goes for some lowly benefit, it is called in the Quran as (nafasi ammara).
This term has been borrowed from the Quranic verse where this saying of the wife of the minister of Egypt has been quoted that:

12:53 Verily nafas keeps tempting to do wrong (base desires)

This does not mean that nafas is completely bad, not at all. This is being said about the ego. After that it is said:

12:53 Excepting the one on whom God is merciful (who enjoys the kindness of God)

This is the level of nafas that we term as “human Self”.

Sometimes the human nafas feels ashamed of doing something. This is in fact a struggle between the ego and the Self. It has been called the nafas lawwama (nafsi lawwama) by the Quran in (75:2), i.e. the nafas that scorns (feeling guilt at doing something). Here it must be understood that the human personality does not have the ability to differentiate between good and evil. This can only be done with the help of the revelation as an external standard. We do not have inner guidance due to the ability to make choices. “nafsi lawwama” can only admonish for what it thinks is execrable, but it is not necessary that which it thinks to be bad is in fact bad, and that which it considers commendable is truly commendable – as there is nothing within us which can help us to make a decision. For details see heading (L-H-M) and (F-T-R).

When man follows strictly the permanent values of the Quran then the struggle between the ego and the Self ends. The developed Self overcomes the lowly emotions by recognising them and then over ruling these temptations using the criterion provided by the permanent values of the Quran (39:29) – this makes it necessary to know the permanent values of the Quran which must be in the human memory. If these are not in our memory we cannot use these values. This has been termed by the Quran as the nafas mutma-innah (nafsi mutma-innah) in (89:27) – using these values as an external standard one can then evaluate own contact as detailed in the Quran. A life being lived within these permanent values is termed heavenly or jannah (89:29). In modern language the developed Self using the permanent values as a criterion and with the concept of Allah as a model, will be called an integrated Self – such Self will be free from the inner confusion of multi Self problems. Against this will be the disintegrated Self called Ego. These two conditions of the nafas have been called by the Quran as the fujuruha wa taqwaha (fujuruha wa taqwaha) in (91:8-10). For details see heading (L-H-M). The Quran terms the development of the Self as the purpose of life and its success and fulfilment is the reason for the creation of the heavens and the earth (45:22).

Since human personality is given to every new born equally, therefore every human being is respectable for being born with it. At the Self level all human beings are equal and all the visible universe including this world is for this Self.

17:70 We have created every human being as respectable

This means that no man should be subjugated by another human being. The attribute of free will (the freedom to choose) is a permanent value and is a basic human characteristic. Therefore to usurp someone’s freedom to choose is slavery which is the same as depriving him of human respect. The creation of the conditions on the planet which curtails human freedom to do good is against the Quran and is equivalent of setting up other gods. The Quran says that man should only be subservient to its permanent values which will give him the true freedom – the freedom available within the domain of the permanent values provides infinitite thinking ability and choices at the Self level. This is what true ‘worship’ is. See heading (Ain-B-D). This obedience is not the obedience imposed externally by some oppressive ruler or of man made laws. A man accepts to work within these permanent values to help own self–development after using his intellect and reasoning and by carrying out a comparison with the relative values and then accepting the permanent values as a better option. It means to impose some limitation with the willingness of the heart, and it is imposed for self-discipline and for the development of the Self as this leads to change in behaviour with a view to work for the good of mankind on a universal basis.
This very thing i.e. the limits imposed by the revelation develops his Self and does not curb his freedom

See heading (K-L-F).

A Quranic system creates a society in which nobody is subservient to anybody and human Self is not bound by any constraints and its thinking perspective changes to universal level. Thus a man gets heavenly life in this world as well as in the life hereafter.

Regarding the phenomena of sleep the Surah Az-Zumr says:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Verse</th>
<th>Quranic Statement</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>39:42</td>
<td>Allah suspends the nafas in death and in those who are not dead but are sleeping makes the nafas so, and for those whom the time for death has come holds the nafas back and for those who are to live for a fixed time sends the nafas back</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

What does nafas in this verse means, which is suspended in death and in sleep but if the man is not dead and awakens from slumber, it is sent back or restored? In the case of death it is not sent back. As far as sleep is concerned we know that everything is present except the consciousness during sleep. So much so that even the sub-consciousness is also present in sleep. Therefore obviously nafas is the conscious state as both in death and sleep a man’s consciousness is taken away. When the sleeper awakens then his consciousness starts working again. Consciousness to work again after death is called the life hereafter.

At the present level of our knowledge we cannot say how consciousness works, because at this point of time our consciousness is activated only through our bodies. At this point of time we cannot even conceive of consciousness out of our bodies. The Quran has not clarified as to how consciousness works in the life hereafter, nor is there any cause or benefit for doing so because there is no point in explaining or stating a thing which we cannot comprehend at our present level of intellect and consciousness. But still it mentions consciousness after death as a veritable reality. This area requires further research in the field of human psychology from the Quranic perspective e.g. looking at the physical self from the developed human Self’s perspective.

ﻥ-ﻑ-ﻉ (an-naf‘u): the opposite of loss.

ﻥ-ﻑ (naf‘u): through which some pleasantness is reached (T). Everyone knows how a shepherd’s staff is used to make the herd reach pleasantness, hence his staff is also called “ﻥ-ﻑ-ﻉ” (naf‘u).

The Quran has used this word against “ﺽ-ﺭ” (zarar) which means “loss” (2:102), and also against “ﻙ-ﻁ” (ismun) in 2:219. As such “ﻥ-ﻑ” (nafhun) would mean both internal and external benefits.

“ﻡ-ﻑ” (manaf‘u): benefits or useful things, as in 2:219. Singular form is “ﻡ-ﻑ-ﻉ” (manfa‘ah).

N-F-Q

ﻥ-ﻑ-ﻕ

“ﻥ-ﻕ” (nafqun): a tunnel with both ends open.

“ﺱ-ﺭ” (sarab): a tunnel which has no exit.

“ﻥ-ﻕ” (an-nufqah) and “ﻥ-ﻑ-ﻕ” (an-na`fqa): one of the holes from among many of a desert wild rat, at the mouth of which is a thin film of mud, and which is opened by striking its head against it when some adversary is after it in the tunnel.

“ﻥ-ﻑ-ﻕ” (neefaq), “ﻥ-ﻑ” (nifa): the tunnel of cloth through which the waist band passes with both ends open. Some think that it has been derived into Arabic from the word “ﻥ-ﻑ” (neefah).

“ﻡ-ﻑ-ﻕ” (manafaq): a person who ensures that there is a way out before entering some society or group.

“ﻡ-ﻑ-ﻕ” (nafaqati ibl): when the wool of a camel falls off due to plumpness, i.e. is scattered and dirtied and is wasted.

“ﺵ-ﻕ” (nafaq): keep one’s wealth open, to make it available, not to hold on to it (T, F).

The Quran has made its meaning clear in (17:100) by bringing “ﻉ-ﻙ” (imsaaak) which means “to preserve” against it.

“ﺵ-ﻕ” (nafaq): to decrease, or to end, since keeping one’s wealth open is the negation of capital (T, F).

“ﻉ-ﻕ” (anfaqatil ibl): when the wool of a camel falls off due to plumpness, i.e. is scattered and dirtied and is wasted.

The Quran says “ﺵ-ﻕ” (infaaq) to basically mean “to keep the fruits of one’s labour open or available for mankind”.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>2:219</th>

</tr>
</thead>
</table>

Surplus money which is the basis of capitalism should be left open for others use, and should be available for the sustenance of mankind. It should not stay in some individual’s ownership.

This is Quran’s basic point and is a permanent value. A momin’s earning has both ends open and this earning is in the hands of the Quranic system i.e. in control of the system. Every individual contributes to this according to his earnings and the Islamic system spends from it for the benefit of mankind. Since the responsibility for looking after the needs of the individuals is on this system, therefore no one need keep any surplus money with him. Neither does he need to have any worry about his own future or that of his children. All these responsibilities lie with the system which is set up according to the Quranic values.

At these places “ﺵ-ﻕ” (infaaq) would mean to keep open rather than to spend. “To keep open” would mean “to keep in the custody of the Islamic system for mankind’s sustenance”.

“ﺵ-ﻕ” (nafaqah): anything that is kept open in this way (9:121). At some places though, “ﺵ-ﻕ” (infaaq) would mean “to spend”.

“نافِقٌ” (naafiq): to be a hypocrite (3:166). Hypocrites are most dangerous for a society. On one hand there are those who with full leaning of their hearts adhere to the system of Allah. These are called momin. On the other hand there are those who openly reject this system and stay out of it. They are called kaafirs. The third group is of those who join the momins due to some exigencies. They stay with the momins as long as there is some benefit in doing so, and part with them whenever there is the slightest chance of some trial or loss, or spread disenchantment or chaos within the group. These are called munafiq and are the worst of creatures. That is why the Quran says they will be in the lowest part of the jahannam (4:145). After the Surah Al-Fatiha (which is the first Surah of the Quran) the Quran has mentioned these three groups of people (i.e. momins, kaafirs and the munafiqs). Thereafter these groups are discussed in many verses of the Quran. These groups were not confined to those times only, but these will always be there in a society as they have always been. For further details see relevant headings.

“نَافِلٌ” (an-nafl): every act that is more or addition to the mandatory.
“نَافِل” (an-nafal): spoils of war, share, gift. The plural of both is “نَفَالٌ” (anfaal).
“نَافِلْةٌ” (naafilah): the same as “نَافِلٌ” (nafl).

The Quran says:

17:79 Get up at some part of the night (to recite the Quran)

This is “نافِل” (nafal) for you

“نَافِلْةٌ” (an-naafilah): paternal grandson, because the son is the real thing and grandson is additional (21:72).
“نَافَال” (un-faal): some think it means the spoils of war and some think that it is other than that (8:1).

Ordinarily it is taken to mean “spoils of war”, or “share” or “gift” \{T\}, but I think that it need not be linked with war only. It can mean all the income of the state which is over that which is due to it (in the shape of taxes etc).

“نَافَال” (un-naufal): river, sea, gift, a man who is a great philanthropist \{T\}.
“نَافَالْ فُلاَانٍ” (nafala fulaan): gave something to that man as a gift for which no return was sought \{T\}

Ibn Faris says its basic meaning is “to give something as a gift” as well as “gift” itself.

N-F-Y

“نَافِ” (nafa), “نَفَي” (yanfi), “نَفْي” (nafya): to put to one side, to extract, to separate, to remove \{T\}.

Ibn Faris says it means to remove something from another thing.

“نَافِي” (an-nafiyyu): that which comes out of a pot as it comes to boil, like the pebbles etc. which are pushed to one side at the feet when the animals move or walk. It also means the dirt which the winds lay at the bottom of trees. It also means a part of an army which gets separated from the main body.
“نَافِ” (nafa sherun fulaan): that man’s hair was dishevelled, or fell off.
“نَافِ” (nafas sailul ghusha’a): the flood took away the garbage etc.
“نَافِ” (nafa): to deny, refuse.
“نَافِ” (nafal abul ibn): the father refused to acknowledge the son as his own \{T\}.
In traditional sense the Quran says that those who try to disrupt the system of Allah or create chaos in it, should be killed, or hung, or cut their hands or feet. See heading (Q-Th-Ain). But according to the above given meaning of “نَفْيٌ” (nafyu), such verses are talking about exile, not killing (5:33).

Muheet says that “نَفْيٌ فَﻼَﻧً” (nafa fulaan) also means to imprison someone {T}. With the addition of “مِنَ الْأَرْضِ” (min-al-ard) it would mean “exile” or “to make devoid of freedom and other benefits”. Thus removing someone from the earth would mean to separate him from the rest of the population, not to kill him.

Ibn Faris says “نَقْبَةٌ” (nqab) means to move in the narrow paths or passes between the mountains.

- “نَقْبَةٌ” (an-naqeeb): a flute, because of its holes.
- “نَقْبَةٌ” (an-naqqeebu): the watchman of the nation, guarantor, leader, someone who keeps himself aware of the conditions of the people, someone who investigates {T}.

“نَقْبَةٌ” (an-nuqbah): hole. It also means face, perhaps because it has many holes.

- “نَقْبَةٌ” (an-niqaab): the mask that a woman wears to hide her face.
- “نَقْبَةٌ” (al-munqabah): matter of pride, high achievements, quality, good trait {T}.

N-Q-Dh

ن ق ذ

- “نَفْذَ” (naqqzar rajul): the man was liberated and was safe {T, M}.

Raghib says this word is used to be rid of some great misery or difficulty.

- “نَفْذَ” (naqzan lak) is said when a person slips or commits an error, i.e. “may Allah keep you safe from harm”.
- “نَفْذَ” (an-naqqeezah): the horse that is liberated from an enemy {T, M}.

The Quran says:

“ناقر” (naqarah), “نقر” (naqra): hit him with a “منقار” (minqaar) – for meaning see below.

“انقر” (an-naqr): to work a slab or grind a wheel.

Ibn Faris says it basically means to hit a thing on the head so that it causes holes or ditches to appear on that which is stroked. Later this word acquired greater meaning.

“المنقار” (al-minqaar) is the instrument which is held while grinding a wheel. It also means “the beak of a bird” since when beak strikes something it produces the sound of “khat, khat”. Hence this word came to mean “sound”, especially a sound in which the tongue sticks to the base of the mouth. This sound is used to spur a horse onwards, or the sound of the fingers (snap).

“انقر” (an-naqer): a sound like a whistle {T}.

Lissan-ul-Arab says that “النافور” (naaqr) means “bugle”.

The Quran says:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>74:8</th>
<th>When war will be announced (declared) against the rebellious forces</th>
<th>ﻓِذَا ﺛَـ أَتَـ َـٓ ﻣُدَـ َـٓٓ ﺪَـ ﻥُـ ﻣُقَـ َـٓٓ</th>

</table>

“انناقره” (an-nuqaarah): that little thing which a bird can pick up in its beak {T}.

“انقر” (an-naqer): the small point that appears on the back of the seed of a date {T}. It actually means a small and insignificant thing.

Surah An-Nisa says:

| 4:53 | They will give nothing to people | ﺍَــ ﻣُـنَـ ﻣُـ | ﺍَــ ﻣُـنَـ ﻣُـ |

N-Q-Sd

Ibn Qataa says that “انفس” (naqsun) means for something to complete and then for something from it to decrease.

“الانفس” (an-naqs): for the share to decrease.

“انفسان” (an-nuqsaan): the amount that is decreased from a thing.

“الانفسات” (an-naqeesatuh): fault {T}.

“انفس السانِي” (tanaqasash shaiyi): the thing decreased gradually {M}.

“انفس” (naqas), “ینفس” (yanqus): decreased it, decreased. It appears both as transitive and intransitive verb.

The Quran says:

| 2:155 | For wealth to decrease | ﻟَـ ﻣُـنَـ ﻣُـ | ﺍَــ ﻣُـنَـ ﻣُـ |

One of the losses a momin group faces in establishing Allah’s system is also the loss of wealth, but after this system is established all sorts of abundance accrue to the group. If some other system results in the lessening of sustenance then that decrease is Pharaonic and punishment from Allah (7:130). To face difficulties in establishing an Islamic system is to be understood in the context of the Quranic guidance. The results of the Quranic system are visibly good event though the opponents create a lot of expected difficulties. These difficulties can include the loss of material and wealth.
N-Q-Zd

“ناقص” (naaz): to cover, to break, to open, to break an agreement {T}.
“انْتَقْصٌ” (an-niqz): a destroyed building or its ruins. It also means a camel that has become weak due to traveling constantly.
“انْتَقَصٌ” (an-naqceez): the sound of a person’s joints {T}.
“اللَّذِي اَتَقَصَّ مُنَكِّرًا” (al-lazi antqaza zarak): the burden (responsibility) which broke your back (94:3).
“انْتَقَصُ” (tanaquz): the opposite of “تقص” (naqaz) which means “each other’s opposition” i.e. “where one thing refutes the other”.

The Quran has generally used the word “تقص” (naqaz) to mean “breach of agreement” as in (61:91), (2:27).

N-Q-Ain

“انْتَقَعُ” (an-naq'u): good land with pure soil in which water accumulates, or the water that accumulates somewhere, or the dust that rises {T}.

Ibn Faris says it basically means for some liquid to stop (accumulate) at one place, and a type of sound.

This word has many other meanings too, but the Quran uses it to mean “raise dust” as in:

100:4 the horses of the challenging party which enter the ranks of the enemy raising dust with their hooves

N-Q-M

“انْتَقَمُ” (an-naqam): the middle of a way, the middle portion of a path {T, R}.

Ibn Faris says this root means to declare something as unfavourable and think it to be faulty.

“ینتِقَام” (intiqaam) would mean to “call a spade a spade” and take revenge on someone who does bad. “أنْتَقَما” (an-niqmah): to punish a crime {T, R}. This is what “the Law of requital” is i.e. “tit for tat”.

Allah has been called “ذُو اَنْتِقَامٍ” (zuntiqaam) in (3:4). He is the one according to whose laws the good deeds are rewarded and bad deeds get punished. We use the word “outcome” quite differently, therefore while using the word for Allah we should not attribute the usual meanings of “revenge” to it, but rather the natural turn of events.

Surah Al-Airaff says about the nation of the Pharaoh:

7:136 We punished them for their wrong doings

Surah Al-Sajdah says:

32:22 we give the criminals the return for their deeds

“انْتَقِمَ” (naqam): to dislike something, some matter, to think bad about it, to criticize it (5:59).

Surah Al-Buruj says:

85:8 And these unbelievers dislike the believers because the latter believe in Allah. (they think bad about their being believers)
N-K-B

- "nakaba unhu" (nakaba), "yunkubu" (yankabu), "nakiba" (nakiba) and "yankab" (yankab): to move away, the path that moves away from the real destination, not to stay in the right direction.
- "tareequn yankuub" (tareequn yankub): the path that is different from that of the real destination.
- "annaka'o'o": every wind that blows away from its (right) direction \{T, R, F\}.
- "al-man'kibu": the corner of anything, plus the shoulder.
- "manakibul arz": the curve of the land \{T, R\}.

The Quran says:

Some have translated it to mean “mountains” because “al-ankabu” is said about a person whose one shoulder is higher than the other \{M\}.

N-K-Th

- "an-niksu": old blankets or warm clothes which are unwoven so that they can be knit again.
- "nakal ahd": broke the pact.
- "nakasal habal": untied the rope.
- "an-nakisatu": reneging on a promise. It also means the weave of a rope \{T\}.

Ibn Faris says it basically means “to break a thing”.

The Quran says:

N-K-H

- "nakah": to gather and make to meet \{M\}, but “make meet” in the way “the eyes meet sleep”. As such it is said “nakahun na'aas" which means “sleep intermingled with his eyes” or the way in which raindrops get absorbed in the ground.
- "nakah matarul arza": the rain water was well absorbed by the ground; This is said when the rain water passes through the dry exterior and reaches the land’s interior which is soft and damp \{T\}.

These examples illustrate what the Quran designates as a family matter between man and wife through wedlock which is called “nikah”. It means that a relationship between a husband and wife should be like the relationship of eyes and sleep. Husband and wife should figuratively be absorbed into each other as sleep gets absorbed by the eyes, or the way in which the rain water is absorbed by the ground. This sort of relationship can last a lifetime only if the couple’s values and beliefs are the same and their way of thinking is alike. This is the basic condition for a successful “nikah”. For details see the book titled “Letters to Tahira”.

It is obvious that mutual consent is necessary for such a relationship, and the Quran has also explained that mutual consent is necessary (4:3, 4:19). Mutual consent between a pair can only be possible when the husband and wife are adults. In verse (4:6) it has been explained by saying “بَلْغُوا النِّكَاحَ” (balughun nikah) which means “mature matrimony”.

In verse (17:35) and (6:153) this has been explained as “حَتّٰٰ ﻲَﺒْﻠُﻎَ اَﺷُﺪﱠﻬٌ” (hatta yablughu ashaddahu), and “الْشُّدّة” (ashaddahu) has been explained as the age between childhood and old age i.e. “adulthood” (40:67). Therefore the question of someone getting married before adult age does not arise, nor can anyone else’s consent on behalf of a girl or a boy be considered.

Raghib has said that the word “الْنِّكَاح” (nikah) appears for “wedlock”, and for “coupling” the word is used only as a metaphor.

The Quran says:

| 2:235 | The knot of nikah (wedlock) |

Surah Al-Yajidun says:

| 24:33 | the arrangements for wedlock or the goods of nikah |

It can also mean “relationship” and also “those expenses that are necessary for a household”.

It also means the gift money for a wife. As far as the expenses of wedlock are concerned, they are merely a custom and not a requirement.

According to the Quran, “الْنِّكَاح” (nikah) is the agreement between two adults, a man and a woman of good sense, that they will live together to fulfill all the rights and responsibilities as defined by the Quran. For this the Quran has neither reserved any custom nor ceremony. Customs and traditions are only a man made social requirement, however in order to avoid later complexities that may arise, it is necessary for this pact of “الْنِّكَاح” (nikah) to have witnesses and a formal social registration.

The basic meanings of this word are “lessening” as well as “hardship”.

Ibn Faris says it means “to get one’s demands after hard labour”.

The Quran says:

| 7:58 | bad lands produce very little (they require much labour and produce very little) |

The basic meanings of this word are “lessening” as well as “hardship”.

(fahsha’o) also means “stinginess”. See heading (F-H-Sh).

(munkar) means “the deceit of one’s own intellect which advises it to look after its own interests only” i.e. “to be selfish and let others fend for themselves”.

These meaning are made clearer by the verses (70:23-24) where it is said that if man is left to own intellect and desires only, i.e. without the revelation, then his condition is such that in pain or difficulty, he cries out and in good stead becomes stingy.

But this is not the state of the musalleen i.e. of the people who always hold themselves accountable before Allah and follow the system of salaat - there is a known share in their income for the needy and the deprived and those who ask for. This fact is known to others as well.

\text{ﻳَﻔَﺮَﺡٌ}
\text{Farahoon}

(nakroon): a thing which is not of good tiding, that which the heart does not accept, that which is displeasing (Ibn Faris).

This word has appeared against (farahoon) which means “happiness” (13:36).

Surah Al-Kahaf says:

18:74 you have done a very displeasing thing

\text{ﻻِْﻧْﮑَﺎﺭُ}
\text{الْﻔَﺮْﺡَ}

“(ankaar): very displeasing (31:19).

“(un-nakeer): refusal (T).

Surah Ash-Shura says:

42:47 You will not be able to refuse

\text{مَـﺎﻟَﮑُُْ}
\text{ﻣِﻦْ}
\text{ﻧَﮑِﲑٍْ}

It also means “the punishment for going against the truth” i.e. destruction.

“(nakeer) also means “to change something which seems bad” (T).

22:44 So how was My punishment? (how was My reaction to their bad deeds?)

“(un-nakruatu): not to recognize something.

“(al-inkaar): the opposite of (irfanun), i.e. “not to recognize” is the opposite of being “familiar”.

Surah Yusuf says:

12:58 Yusuf recognized them (his brothers) but they were not recognizing him

11:70 he thought of them as strangers (he expressed surprise at them)
Surah Al-Hijr says:

| 5:62 | unknown people or strange people |

“نَكَرُونَ” (nakkara): to change something in a way that it cannot be recognized as its former self (27:41) \(T, R, \text{Ibn Qateebah}\).

The Quran has mentioned “نَبِي عن المُنْكَر” (nabi unil munkar) and “أَمَر بِالمَعْرُوف” (amri bil'maroof) quite often as in (3:103). The right meaning of these words i.e. “مَعْرُوف” (maroof) and “مُنْكَر” (munkar) has been detailed under heading (Ain-R-F). In short a Quranic or Islamic society formulates laws and rules under the permanent values of the Quran for its society.

These are called “مَعْرُوف” (maroof), i.e. “recognized as acceptable by that society”. Things which are not acceptable to this society are called “مُنْكَر” (munkar). These two words describe all acceptable, favourable, pleasant and unpleasant things or deeds.

The concept that “مَعْرُوف” (maroof) means “all those things and deeds which are natural” and “مُنْكَر” (munkar) are “all those things which are unnatural” is not a Quranic concept. There is nothing within man which can differentiate at its own between right and wrong. If there was something in him like the instinct within animals then there was no need of the revelation at all. See heading (F-Te-R) and (L-H-M).

“مَعْرُوف” (maroof) is that which is acceptable and “مُنْكَر” (munkar) is something which is not pleasant according to the revelation. These include governmental laws and rules and actions and the norms of the society, customs, etc.

The revelation, except in some cases, has not provided a list of all things that are “مَعْرُوف” (maroof) and “مُنْكَر” (munkar) and we have to decide about them under the given guidance and assess is these within the domain of the permanent values. The Quran has merely provided the overall principles under which a Quranic society makes its own list.

As such, “مَعْرُوف” (maroof) is that which is recognized by a Quranic society and “مُنْكَر” (munkar) is that which such a society does not recognize as acceptable. As such, it is said in Surah Al-Moomta'hina that any list of “مَعْرُوف” (maroof) will not brook any opposition or disobedience to the Messenger (60:12). This means that everything that a Quranic society recognizes as, will be treated as law, and a Quranic society can only recognize those things as law, as are under the guidance of the Quran. Anything that is against the Quran shall be deemed unlawful, and will be “مُنْكَر” (munkar) not “مَعْرُوف” (maroof). This is the basis on which “مَعْرُوف” (maroof) and “مُنْكَر” (munkar) are determined and defined.

“نَكَسَ” (nakasa), “يَنْكُسُ” (yankus): to overturn something, to turn it over.
“يَنْتَكَسُ” (intakasa fulanun): so and so flipped.
“الْمُنْكَسِ” (al-munakkis): the horse that walks with a hung head due to some weakness, the horse which cannot keep up with other horses in a race.
“الأَنْكَسِ” (un-naakis): one whose head is hung \(T-R-M\).

Surah Al-Ambia says that the messenger Ibrahim had made the leaders and elite of his people understand through reasoning as to why idol worship was beneath human dignity. They accepted his reasoning too, but later their vested interests forced them to revert to their old ways. This has been mentioned by the Quran:

| 21:65 | After reaching the loftiness of high understanding they fell flat on their faces (they reverted and fell back in the depths that they were languishing in before) |

Also see (36:86), (16:70) and (22:5).

This weakening of the limbs is a general statement and may vary from person to person.

N-K-Sd

- “ذكَّنَ عن الأمر” (nakasa unil amr): to hesitate from doing something, and to move back.
- “ملك على عيب” (nakisa alik baihi): turned away or reverted. It is said that this word means “to turn away from good” but generally means “to come back” \( \{T, M\} \).
- “مالك على عيب” (nakasa alaqi baihi): to revert or to turn back on one’s footsteps.

Ibn Faris says this encompasses the meaning of “turning back due to fear”. With reference to Ibn Dureed says that this word is used to mean “to turn back from goodness”.

N-K-F

- “نُكَفْ” (nakaf): to cut something or to separate it and move it to one side \( \{R\} \). Ibn Faris too supports this meaning.
- “نُكَفَتِ الدَمْعَ” (nakafatid dam'eh): to separate tears from eyes or cheeks, i.e. to wipe the tears \( \{R\} \).
- “استنَكَفْ” (istankaf): to stop, to be shy of some work, to think the work bad and beneath one’s dignity \( \{T\} \).
- “رجلٌ نَكْفُ” (rajulun nikfoon): the man who is hated.

The Quran says:

| 4:174 | Jesus or Maseeh (which Christians think is the son of God) did not flinch from the fact that he was on the mission of Allah. |

Thus here it is a case of the witness being more interested than the plaintiff, so to say, because Jesus as a human being is proud of being on the mission of Allah, and you are bent upon making him your God?

N-K-L

- “نُكَلْ” (un-niklu): very strong and hard fetters or leg irons. The plural is “نُكَلَان” (ankaalu) i.e. “a very hard rein or the iron in a rein. This has led to the word “نُكَلْ” (nakkilih) meaning “to stop someone from following the path that he is currently treading”.
- “نَكَلَة مَع” (nakala unhu): to turn in one’s step, or change one’s direction.
- “نَكَلَة بِهٖ” (nakkala bihi): he received harsh punishment for the crime, because punishment is a deterrent to further crime, and it is an example for others to learn from too \( \{T, F\} \).

The Quran says about the opponents in the Quresh tribe:

| 73:12 | We have very hard fetters for them | إنَّ لَهُمَا أَنْتَكَايَا |
Obviously these fetters are that which the opponents were made to wear in the battles of Badr and Hunain i.e. “they were killed and defeated” or all the ways in which these opponents were stopped from their opposition. These fetters shall be for those to wear who oppose the truth, and these fetters shall be an impediment in their evolutionary process in the hereafter. This is what is called hell or jahannam.

Surah An-Na’zi’at says by punishing Pharaoh that Allah made him an eye opening example for posterity. Here “أَخَذُ” (akhaz) will mean the same as “أَتَّخِذَ أَنْعَمًا” (attakhaza).

As said above, “نَكاَلُ” (nakalan) will include all the ways in which a man is stopped from traversing the wrong path and he shall be punished severely.

As such, Surah Al-Baqrah says that those among the Jews who defied the orders of observing the Sabbath were given such punishment that they became nakala or examples (2:69).

In the same way it is said about the crime of Sirqa or theft that the Quran has suggested such punishment as would stop the criminal from further crime, i.e. the punishment will serve as deterrence for similar crimes, i.e. the purpose of punishment is to prevent the crime happening in the first place.

Deterrent punishment after a crime has been committed is also a sort of deterrent, and in agreeable conditions the criminal can be pardoned, if the criminal is ashamed or repentant over what he has done. (5:36-39). This includes both these possibilities.

N-M-R-Q

“النَّمْرُقَة” (an-numruq), “النَّمْرُق” (an-numruqah): cushion or pillow which the rider lays down below the saddle on the back of a horse or a camel [T].

The Quran says:

88:15 Lined up cushions

Ibn Faris says the “ﻕ” (qaf) in this word is additional. The real word he says is “نَمِرَةٌ” (namirah) which means “a lined blanket”, probably because the cushions were made of such blankets.

N-M-L

“النَّمَل” (an-namal) is the plural of “نَمْلَة” (namlah) which means “ants” [T, Qamoos].

The tale of Suleman says:

27:18 Until they came to the valley of namal, then a namlah said, oh you namlahs, enter your dwellings

According to Taj the valley of Namal is between Jabreen and Asqalaan. Some say that this valley is in Syria, but if this valley was situated on the road to the country which led to the land of Queen Saba, then it would be situated near Yemen. However, the valley of Namal is not a place where ants lived, as generally believed and quoted in many translations. It is the name of a residential place of a tribe, and “نَمْلَة” (namlah) is the name of this tribe. “نَمْلَة” (namlah) is the name of a woman of that tribe. It seems women were the head of that tribe, i.e. their culture was matriarchal e.g. like the Queen Sheba of Yemen.

“النَّاَمِل” (anaamil) is the plural for “النَّمُلَة” (anmulah) which means “tips of the fingers” (3:118).
N-M-M

“انْم” (an-nam): to incite, instigate, to garnish a lie further.

“انْمِيْمَة” (an-namimah): snide, a whisper, the sound of writing something.

“انْمِمْ” (an-nammam): movement.

“انْمم” (an-nammam): someone who cannot hold on to a secret and talks about it here and there.

The Quran says:

68:11 one who conveys news from one place to others (in mischief)

Here “نَمِيْم” (nameem) meant what “نَمِيْمَة” (nameemah) means, that is, “tremendous lies to create chaos among people” and “one who exaggerates for this purpose”.

N-W-A

“نَآءَ” (naa'a), “يَنُوءُ” (yanu'u), “نَوْءً” (nau'un): to get up with difficulty.

“نَآءَ بِاَلْﺤِمْﻞِ” (naa'a bil himl): he got up with difficulty under the load.

“نَآءَ بِهٖ ﺍَلْﺤِمْﻞُ” (naa'a bihi himl): the load burdened him and bent him {T, M}.

The Quran says about the treasures of Quaaron:

28:76 A powerful group could lift them with difficulty

Ibn Faris says “نَآءَ” (naa'a) meant that “he lifted the burden with difficulty”.

N-W-B

“انْنَآب” (an-naub): for something to return time and again.

“نَآب” (naub): honey bees, because they return to their hives time and again.

“نَآبِيَّة” (naabiyah): an event or accident. The plural is "نْوَآبٍ" (nawab), “نَآبَة” (nabah): turn, rather a turn to drink water.

“لِمَنَآبَة” (al-manaab): path to go towards the water, because people pass by it by turns.

“نْيَآب” (niyab): to replace, turn over.

“انْآبَة” (anaaba): Zaid replaced himself with a lawyer (represented himself with a lawyer) {T, M, R}.

It is a special term of the Quran:

39:54 a honey bee travels far and wide in search of honey

30:31 it searches for honey in different gardens and valleys, but returns to the hive every time with its payload of honey

Wherever a bee goes it returns to the hive or the centre and wherever it may be the hive remains the centre of its thoughts. It does not disappear even for a moment. It is the qibliah of all its attention. In the journey of life this condition is for a momin too. Wherever in the world it may be and in whichever department, the centre of his attention remains the Quranic values and their establishment. For every decision in his life he refers to these values and refers to these values as a reference for every vent of his life:

2:154 And wherever you are, focus your attention on this centre
About the bee it is said:

16:96 Suck the honey from all the fruits (and flowers) and keep faithfully traversing the path ordained by your Sustainer.

A momin gains knowledge on a global basis and becomes expert in science and technology, but his centre is always the Quranic values. Then he uses his skills for the benefit of mankind according to the dictates of the Quran. This is what "inabatillaah" means, i.e. “to refer to the revelation at every juncture of life and to take guidance from there.

The Lataif-ul-Lugha says “taubah” means for expressing shame or regret when committed a mistake, and to be protected against such mistakes in future, i.e. in “taubah” a man reverts to the right path after traversing the wrong path, but in “taubah” he deliberates over which step to take and then takes the right step. Hence it is not only preventive (against future mistakes) but also curative (against past mistakes).
"ناه" (naah): he cried loudly.

"نوه" (nauh): the women who gather for wailing in this way.

"النياهة" (an-niyahah): to lament in this way.

"الناووهة" (an-naawuh): to be in front of each other the way women are while wailing or doing the "نوه" (nauha) {T, R}.

Ibn Faris says that its basic meaning is “to be in front of each other”.

"لويح" (nouh), or Noah, as in (7:59). It is a non-Arabic word. Some say that this is the title of the messenger Noah because he used to plead a lot (before God) {T, R}, but the better of the two reasoning seems to be that it is a non-Arabic word.

The Quran has started the stories of the messengers with the mention of Nuuh.

Surah An-Nisa says:

Although at one place, Noah has been mentioned along with Adam. See heading (A-D-M). This shows that the guidance to human beings had been imparted since the time of Noah. Scholars have been debating now for a long time as to which part of the world mankind began in and from which descendants, but now the direction of research is that mankind was begun from Arabia where the Saami generation was the original human generation. Noah was sent towards this nation about six to seven thousand years ago from now. The Quran in this context argues neither about the place where it all began nor the time. It focuses instead on the life and death (or the rise and fall) of nations. It does not concern itself with such historic details as it is not a book of history – the Quran deals with the human self and its development individually as well as in a collective system. The Quran refers to the relative and the permanent values and spells out the consequences of following these values.

Noah was an individual in his nation. Therefore the Quran has called him the brother of his nation:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>26:106</th>
<th>When their brother Nuuh said to them…</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

Although the Quran talks about messenger-hood with the mention of Noah, it appears that other messengers before him had also been sent to these people.

The Quran says:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>25:37</th>
<th>When the nation of Nuuh denied the messengers, we drowned them</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

It seems that humanity was still in its infancy in those days, and they were unable to fulfill even small requirements of a civilized life. Therefore Noah was told or taught how to make a boat:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>11:37</th>
<th>We sent our guidance to Nuuh…so that under our guidance he could make a boat.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

Noah’s message was also that which the teaching of Allah is i.e.:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>7:59</th>
<th>O’ my people, obey Allah. There is no God except Him</th>
</tr>
</thead>
This nation used to worship many idols or gods (71:32). If Noah’s message was only to worship Allah and no idols, then the entire nation would obviously oppose him. However, the Quran says that the lower strata of society welcomed his message (26:111) and the big-wigs of the nation opposed it (11:27). This means that the message was such that the big-wigs saw annihilation in it for them and the poor saw it as livening for them. This was the section of society which was hated by the rich community because they were thought to be lowly (11:27, 26:11).

The big-wigs opposed the message tooth and nail, and went so far as to threaten Noah (54:9), and the opposition increased so much that Noah feared being overwhelmed (54:10). Then a storm occurred (54:11-12). The opponents were drowned and Noah along with the faithful who followed him climbed the boat he built and reached safety.

The Quran has mentioned in this connection that the ‘others’ who believed in the revelation became his “own”, while his own son and wife (who had not believed in his message) were declared to be not from his family (121:46, 66:10). This shows clearly that from day one the revelation had declared that the muslim nation is based on an ideology and not descent or any other blood relation.

About Noah, the Quran says:

29:14 He stayed there fifty less than one thousand years

This is taken to mean that Noah’s age was about 950 years, but in olden times a ‘king’s life’ meant the duration of his family’s reign. According to this, Noah’s 950 years mean the period when his laws and orders prevailed. The other meaning is “سنن” (alaf sanat) or “the one crop out of the four in a year”. As such “الف سنن” (alfa sinatin) means 250 years. Now if 50 years are taken out, then that leaves 200 years which is not feasible. For more details, see (S-N-W) and (Ain-W-M).

The difference will only be between “ضياء” (zia) and “نور” (noor) if they are used against each other at one place. That difference is that “ضياء” (zia) is self-evident and illuminates other things {T}.

Allah has called His Book (the Quran) as “نور” (noor). Surah Al-Ma'idah says:

5:15 Verily the light (the Book) has come to you

Light is reason for itself, i.e. it is not dependant on any other thing for making itself evident. Therefore the Quran is so distinct and self-evident that it needs no illumination or any external light. The other characteristic of light is that it fixes everything in its place. That is, everything can be seen clearly in their places in the light.

In other words, the Quran relates what place everything enjoys and what be its true value. This is what is called “guidance”, i.e. “to distinguish between what is right and what is wrong”. As such, while Allah has declared the Quran as “نور” (noor), He has also related what He means by it:

5:16 Allah guides anyone who agrees with His laws towards security and completion of personality and thus brings them out of the darkness towards the light and thus guides them to a straight path
This means that “He guides them towards the balanced path of life”.

These people take this beacon of light with them everywhere they go.

(6:123) "This means that “He guides them towards the balanced path of life”.

Some say that “النور” (an-naar) and “النور” (an-nuur) are actually the same (2:17).

Taj-ul-Uroos says that “نار” (naar) and “نور” (noor) sometimes are used in the same meaning, but the reasoning for doing so is not very weighty.

The Quran has said in verse (38:76) that “أبلس” (Iblees) has been created from “نار” (naar). Therefore wherever it has been cautioned or exhorted to avoid “نار” (naar), it means to avoid the ways of Iblees who is the embodiment of evil forces.

(38:76) "ذابب النار” (azaabin naar) clear, i.e. the result of destructive deeds of man which burn life to a cinder, as against jannat where canals are flowing. Here the depiction of the opposition of fire and water explains the meanings. See heading (N-H-R). This includes the destruction in this life as well as in the life hereafter.

Maybe it is said that it was created out of "ناور (naar) or fire just as it has been said that man was created from soil/dust.

Surah An-Noor says:

| 24:35 | Allah is the light of the heavens and the earth. |

This is generally taken to mean that this is a similarity about God himself, but this is not right. Man cannot even visualize about the personae of God. Here Allah has said "مثال نوره (masali noorhi), i.e. the example of that "نور (noor) is like (as expostulated ahead).

"نور الله (noor-ullaha) or (God’s noor) is a very comprehensive word or phrase and has been used at several places in the Quran. Its comprehensiveness can be understood by saying that wherever there be light in the universe God is the source of that light, the light of the intellect, the light (emancipation) of knowledge, the light (Revelation) etc. All are given by God, and this light includes the Quran.

The Quran says:

| 34:52 | How can they believe now as this opportunity has gone far out of their reach? |

Ibn Faris says this root means “to come and go”.

The Quran says:

| 38:3 | There was no time for turning back and seeking refuge | ولَأَلَّا تَحْيَينَ مناصٍ |

"مناص (manaas): the place which one runs way from and also to run away.
N-W-Q

N-W/Q

"an-naaqaḥ": a she-camel when it attains maturity (almost in the fourth year).
"an-neeqaḥ": to make the food and dress very exquisite, fine-ness (finesse), expertise.
"qanawwqa wa fil amr": to excel in something, to employ fine-ness (finesse) in some work.

Taj-ul-Uroos says with reference to Ibn Faris that this word has been derived from "ناقة’ (naaqah) because the Arabs consider a she-camel to be a very fine animal. Just as "جمال’ (jamal) and "أجمل’ (ajmal) are derived from "جمال’ (jamal) which means the most beautiful, "المنوع’ (al-munawwaq) and "النوع’ (tanawwaq) have been derived from "ناقة’ (naaqaḥ) which means "a cleaned husk (or cover) of the date"

Ibn Faris says that the basic meaning of this root is “to rise and be lofty”. Perhaps a she-camel or camel is called "الناقة’ (an-naaqaḥ) because of its height.

The nation of Samood had shortage of water. See heading (Te-M-D). Whatever water was accumulated was reserved by the big-wigs of the nation for themselves and their animals, while animals of the poor died of thirst. Messenger Saleh told these people that to reserve the water for a section of the people which has been provided by God free of cost for all creations is unjust. He told them to desist from this path or they would be destroyed. Thus after a lot of argument they agreed that everyone should water their animals by turn.

Saleh agreed and presented a camel which he would let loose and see whether it was allowed by them to drink water in its turn or not. If it was allowed to drink on its turn then it would mean that they were sticking to the agreement, but if they did not, then it would mean that they had made the agreement only superficially. They as expected, did not stick to their agreement and killed the camel without considering the consequences.

The Quran calls it "ناقة الله’ (naqaṭatul laah) in (7:73), i.e. “the camel among Allah’s creatures” which was a symbol "لکعم ایتہ’ (lakum ayatan) to determine whether they, (the people) stuck to the agreement they had made with Allah or not. The manner in which Allah has called the "کعب’ (ka’ba) as “Allah’s house”, this she-camel has been called "ناقتة الله’ (naqatil laah) or “Allah’s camel” in the Quran.

"an-nayl": the gift or benevolence that man receives.
"an-naa’il": the gift or benevolence that man receives.
"lan": he received.
"ناالا من عدووو و مطلوب’ (naala min aduwwahi matlubahi): wanted to hurt his enemy and he did it {T, M, R}, and thus got what he wanted.
"نالت’ (naltuhu), "نيؤو و نالت’ (iyyahu wa niltuhu): I made him acquire something, or made to reach him.
"مزااال روهي’ (maalar raheel): the time for departure approached closer.
"تنوول’ (tanweel): to bestow.
"اناال و انواال’ (an-nawaal): the river Nile.
"انناال’ (an-naaal): the river Nile.
"عظام’ (izlam): a tree used to make the washing blue {T, M, R}. This word is Arabized from the word "Nile’.

Surah Al-Baqrah says:

Those who are rebellious to Allah’s guidance and take away from the human rights, they do not have His promise that they will lead mankind.

“ان نَوْم” (an-naum): sleep (2:255, 78:9).

“منام” (manaam): the place or time to sleep, or sleep and dream (39:42, 37:102). It also means “the eyes” because sleep is in the eyes {T}.

Surah Al-Anfaal says:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>

</thead>
</table>
| 8:42  | Allah made you all appear few in their eyes (to them) | ﻷلَّذِي ﻴْرِيَكَ ﻷن ﻓِي ﻣَنَاءٍ ﺑِرْحالا | He made you appear few in their eyes.

Here some scholars have taken the word to mean “the eye” {T}.

“نَامَت ﻣَنَاء” (naamatir reeh): the wind went to sleep or became motionless.

“نَامَت ﻣَنَاء” (naamatin naar): heat of the fire and its intensity decreased.

“نَامَت ﻣَنَاء” (naama un haajathi): he became heedless of his need.

“ان نَوْم” (an-numah): he who is not considered worth attention, he who is considered valueless.

“نَامَت ﻣَنَاء” (an-naweem): the man who is unmindful of his things. It also means “anonymous” {M}.

“نَامَت ﻣَنَاء” (istanaam ala fulaan): he was satisfied at reaching there.

Ibn Faris says it basically means “static” and “for movement to stop”.

N-W-N

“نَون” (noon) is the pronunciation of the Arabic letter “N”. It is N in the Syrian and Hebrew languages too.

It basically means “a big fish”, because the ancient form of this letter resembled a fish {M, Lissan-ul-Arab}.

The Quran has called messenger Yunus as “ذَا ان نَوْم” (zun noon) in (21:87) as well as “صَاحِبٌ الْحُوتِ” (saahib-ul-haut) in (68:49) i.e. “the man of the fish”. In Surah As-Saffaat he has been called Yunus (37:139).

As per Taureefat (Definitions) s (noon) means “potential knowledge”, which means “inkpot”, because the letters that are framed by the ink are potentially present in the inkpot. This means that the literal meaning of this word is “inkpot” but the figurative meaning is “potential knowledge”.

Surah Al-Qalam says:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Page</th>
<th>Verse</th>
<th>Arabic</th>
<th>English</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| 68:1  | whatever the pen (and the inkpot) write (knowledge is witness to…what they write) | ﻭَأَنَّ ﻏَلَمَ وَما يَنْسَؤُون | Whatever they write is witnessed.

“نَون” (noon) here may be from the terminated words.

Taj-ul-Uroos and Aqrab-ul-Muwaarid say that the meaning of “ان نَوْم” (noon) is also “the sharpness of the blade of the sword”. Verse (68:1) would then mean “the sword and whatever the pen writes are witnesses to the fact that Allah’s Deen will at last triumph”. Here sword resembles the power to implement and ink resembles the power of written knowledge of the laws of Allah i.e. the revelation.
The Quran and the sword are the argument or evidence which cannot be matched by anything as reason (which cannot be reasoned against), and no claim of the Quran can remain without reason.

Surah Al-Hadeed says in this context that Allah sent the messengers and sent the Books of guidance with them as well as the sword:

| 57:25 | Which has strong power and many benefits for mankind |

Note that by saying “the Quran” and “the sword” together does not mean that the Quran will be made acceptable on the basis of the sword. It means that a society will be established in which Quranic laws will be implemented. This force has been symbolized by the sword. The force that is responsible for enforcing justice in this world and which is used against the destructive forces of evil.

ن و ي

"نَواَى الشَّيْءَ يَنْوي" (nawash shaiya yanwih): to decide or intend something, to decide firmly, and to really be attentive towards it.

Ibn Faris says it has two basic meanings:

- The intent about something.
- The seed of anything.

"النَّوي" (an-niyatuh): the direction in which one travels {T}, to intend firmly to do something, some think it means to be ready to do something for benefit and to get rid of the loss {M}.

"نَواَكَ اللَّه" (nawakal laah): may Allah be with you in your journey and may He protect you.

"النَّوًى" (an-nawi): companion, or a companion during a journey with the same intent {T}.

"النَّوَات" (an-nawat): seed. The plural is "النَّوَات" (an-nawa) as in (6:66).

"نَواَتُ التَّمْر" (nawatut tamr): the seed of a date.

N-He-J

"النَّهَج" (an-nahj), "المَنْهَج" (al-minhaaj): clear path.

"النَّهَجَ الطَّارِقَةَ وَالْأَمَرَ" (an-hajat tareeqat wal amr): the path and the matter became clear.

"النَّهَجَ الْأَمَر" (nahajal amr) also means the same thing as above.

"فُلَانُ استَنْهَجَ طَرِيقَ فُلَانٍ" (fulanun istanhaaj tareeqa fulanin): that man followed that way {T, M, R}.

The Quran uses "المَنْهَاج" (minahaja) in (5:48). For its detailed meaning, see heading (Sh-R-Ain).

N-He-R

Ibn Faris says "نَهْر" (nahr) basically means for something to open up.

"النَّهَرَ الطَّمْ" (anharatud dum): I opened the wound and let the blood flow.

"نَهْر" (nahr): the place where water is allowed to flow from. Some think that "نَهْره" (nahr) actually means "water" and the place it flows along is called "نَهْره" (nahr) too. The plural is "النَّهَار" (anhaar).

"نَهْر" (nahr): vastness and expansion:

The Quran says:

| 54:54 | The righteous will be in the paradise and will have abundance of everything |

QES-Norway Lughat-ul-Quran Volume IV Page 170 of 276
“an-naheer“: abundant and prolific {T}.
“an-nahaar“: day (light), i.e. the opposite of “lail“ (night).
“an-nahrah“: to snatch something away.
“naharar rajulu nahra“: the man attacked in the daytime {T}.
“naharar rajul“: he scolded (talked harshly) that man.
“al-manharah“: the open space in front of a house where garbage is kept or thrown {T}.

The Qur'an talks time and again about the jannah:

<table>

<tr>
<th>Verse</th>
<th>Meaning</th>
<th>Arabic</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>2:25</td>
<td>Canals will be flowing beneath those gardens</td>
<td>بَلْ مَنْ أَتِيَ تِلْدُوسُهُ بِالْشَّهْرَاءِ</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

In Arabic, “la nahr“ (la nahr) means the body of water which flows between two pieces of land. This may include river or the sea or canals which irrigate fields and gardens {L}.

Wherever jannah refers to an ideal worldly society, its canals mean that it shall always be flourishing:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Verse</th>
<th>Meaning</th>
<th>Arabic</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>13:35</td>
<td>Its fruits and benefits will be everlasting</td>
<td>أَكْبَرُ ذَوْوَطِنَّهَا</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>14:25</td>
<td>it keeps producing its fruits (benefits)</td>
<td>النَّهْرَ</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

And jannah means the life hereafter and all its details that are related and are symbolic only (47:15, 13:35). Therefore the canals mentioned there are also not those that come to our mind as we think of canals in this life.

The Qur'an has said that water is life (21:30) and everyone knows this for a fact. Therefore in a society where there is abundance of water, there will be a flourishing of life. For canals to be flowing in the gardens is an allegory to flourishing life.

For the meaning of "sidrah," see heading (S-D-R).
He

“ﺱ” (ha): this pronoun is used at the end for the singular non-present subject.

“یَﻨْﺼُﺮُﻭْنَہٗ” (yansaroona): those who would help him (28:81).

“ﻣَﮑَﺎﻧَہٗ” (makaanah) in (28:82), its place:

This pronoun is pronounced “ﺉ” (hi) or “ﺏِ” (bihi), “ﺱَابِیْہ” (maahya) and “ﮎَتَﺎبِیْہ” (kitabiya).

Ha (verb)

“ﺏ” (ha): this is used for singular, feminine subject that is not present, as “ﺍِﻧﱠﮩَﺎ” (innaha) (2:71) and “ﻟَﻮْﻧُﮩَﺎ” (launaha) (2:69).

Ha

“ﺏ” (ha): is used to mean “catch it”.

“(haa-umuq kitaabiyah): here, read my book (69:19). Here “אד” (oom) has been increased to mean plural.

It also comes to mean “admonish”.

“(haa antum oola-i): yes, you are the one.

When “ﺏ” (ha) appears after “ﺍَیﱞ” (ayyu), then it comes to mean “call upon”.

“(ayyuhar rajul): O man!

Often before “ﻱ” (ayyuha), “ﻱ” (ya) is added, like “ﻱﺍ ﺍَﻳﱡﮩَﺎ” (ya ayyuha).

The Quran says “ﻱﺍ ﺍَﻳﱡﮩَﺎ ﺍﻟﻨﱠﺎﺱُ” (ya ayyuhan naas) to mean “O’ you people”.

"haakaza": like this, such as this.
"ahaakaza arshuk": was your throne similar to this? (27: 42).

Haaroot

"al-hart": to pierce with the spear, to tear up a cloth to pieces.
"al-harat": for the ends of the mouth to be wide.
"al-hareet": someone with wide ends of the mouth.
"rajulun hareet": the man who is abusive and keeps nothing undisclosed {T}.
"haroot": story tellers have made up many stories about Suleman. One of them is that there were two angels, named Haaroot and Maruut. They used to teach sorcery. The Quran has refuted these fabrications (2:102).

It is a non-Arabic word. Also see headings Maruut and Babel.

Haroon

"Haroon": this is a non-Arabic name. It was the name of Moosa's brother and a messenger of the Bani Israel.

In pure Arabic language, "al-hairoon" means “a fine quality date” {T}.

In support of their contention that there are messengers without a book too, some present the case of Haroon as evidence. They say that Moosa was granted a Book and Haroon was with him as messenger but was not granted a book. The Quran has clearly stated that the revelation as a Book was given both to Moosa and Haroon jointly:

\text{37:117 And we gave them both the clear book} \\
\]

For more details see the heading (N-B-A).

Haamaan

The Quran says that Moosa was sent towards the Pharaoh, Haamaan and Qaaroon (40:24) and these were among those who were to be destroyed (29:39) i.e. the system which they represented.

If we look at the history, we will find religious monastic more dominant than kingship anywhere. A king used to be a king only but a religious entity used to play god, a domination in which the king too was his subject. In Egypt Aaman Ra (the Sun God) was thought to be the greatest god. The high priest of his temple occupied a very prominent place in their society.

Dr. Standrof in his book “The Religion of the Ancient Egyptians” writes: “The head astrologer (priest) of the Aaman god was called the first nabi (messenger). He was also an officer of the Works Dept. {probably religious buildings are referred here}. He was also responsible for the embellishment of the temple. He was also the general of the soldiers of the temple. He was also the administrator of the treasury. He not only was the undisputed ruler of the temple of Aaman but he was the chief officer of all the temples of Thebes and western Egypt. It may be noted that Thebes’s city alone had ten percentage of all land in Egypt. Such was the grandeur of the head priest of the temple of Aaman Ra.

This very high priest is what is referred Haamaan in the Quran which is a change from the name Aaman over a period of time (just like the name Aaron changed to Haroon). Under the heading “Egypt”, the Encyclopaedia Brittanica says: “From the time of the 18th family of the Pharaohs, the priests of the temples had attained a great importance. At this time the conquered areas of Asia had been dedicated to the priest of Aamam Ra (which was situated in Thebes) due to which he (the high priest) was the owner of immense wealth and power”.

Dr. Brestead too in his book “The History of Egypt” has written that the High Priest of Aaman had a large army under him.

Thus one can understand why the Quran mentions the armies of Haamaan along with the Pharaohs (28:6) and why had the Pharaoh asked the Haamaan (or the high priest who was in charge of the building department) to build a high building or tower by climbing which he could peep at Moosa’s God (40:36).

The fact is that whenever the message of the revelation was pronounced for the good of people at large, it was never opposed openly by the dictatorships of the time e.g. king, ruler, political leader, etc. It was the priesthood as a religious representative who raised the opposition and the political leadership took the backseat. The reason was that religious priesthood controlled the emotions of the masses who blindly followed the hierarchy. This is what the Pharaoh did. He kept in the background and forced Hamaan and his sorcers to go forward to confront Moosa, but the staff of Moosa foiled all their aims:

Dictatorships (human laws in all forms), priesthood, and capitalism, all three are great evils for mankind. The Quran has mentioned all three in detail while relating the events about the Bani Israel. The Pharaoh was the embodiment of oppression, exploitation, and cruelty.

Haamaan is the representative of the evil deeds of monasticism and Qaroon the embodiment of the evils of capitalism. The guidance through the revelation delivers mankind from all these three evils. The cure for these evils is in establishing a Quranic system in which there is no slave of any other human being and neither dependant on any other man. This is the true freedom which the Quran has advocated for a human being through the acceptance and the implementation of the permanent values.
“ﺍَﻟْﮩَﺒْﻂُ” (al-habt): loss. This word also means “to fall into ignominy” and “evil”.

“(habeet)” (al-): a weak camel [Ibn Faris].

“ﮨُﺒُﻮْﻁٌ” (hubut) means “the change from one state to another while the second state is inferior than the first state”.

The story about Adam in the Quran says that if men live as a single nation according to the guidance provided by the revelation, then this is the success of mankind, but if they live like enemies then it will be a return to a lower place.

2:36 We said now you go towards a lower place from this high place: now you will be each other’s enemy

From this “ﮨُﺒُﻮْﻁٌ” (hubut) means that “mankind can return to the former high state if they live their lives according to the revelation (2:38). Details about this can be found under the heading (A-D-M) and (Sh-J-R).

He-B-W

“ﺍَﻟْﮩَہَﺎءُ” (al-haba’u): haze caused by dust, a very thin haze which looks like smoke in the atmosphere, or the fine dust which is seen as sunlight peeps in some dark room. It also means the dust raised by the hooves of horses {T, R, M}.

“(habwah)” (al-habwah): dust.

“(ghubaar)” (habal ghabar): the dust rose {T, R, M}.

“(yatahabba)” (ju’a yatahabba): he came empty handed raising dust.

“(haabi)” (al-haabi): the earth which falls into the grave (while burying a dead person) {T, R, M}.

The Quran says in the scale of the Law of requital - the (good deeds) of the criminals will have no weight, no good result will be formed for them:

25:23 then We will make him turn to dust

He-J-D

Ibn Faris says that the basic meaning of this root is “to stay put at some place”.

Lata-iful Lagha says this word has opposite meanings.

Raghib says that “ﺍَﻟْﮩَﺎﺟِﺪُ” (al-haajidu) means someone who sleeps.

Muheet says “ﮨُﺠُﻮْﺩٌ” (hujudn) means “to sleep in the day” and “ﮨُﺠُﻮْﻉٌ” (hujuh) means “to sleep at night”.

“(Haajid),” (at-tahajjud): sleeping, as well as waking [T].

“(tahajjud),” (hajjatuhu fatahajjad): I removed his sleep, or I drove away his sleep so he woke up.(Like “marraztu”) (marraztuhu) means I removed his sickness, or looked after him [R].

The Quran says:

17:79 Waken or stay awake for some part of the night (with the Quran).

73:2 stand at night but a little part of the night

In the early days of the Quranic program, a lot of study, discussion, and planning is required to work out the details. There is a need for education and training the new entrants into the fold of Islam. The program demands total commitment from the pioneers and will require long working hours. In today’s world the developed nations work round the clock to keep their supremacy.
(al-hajr), (al-hijraan): to give something up, to abstain from something, to separate, to cut off, to cut off relations with, or to avoid.

Raghib says the word means “separation” whether it be personal, physical or of the heart.

Ibn Faris says the basic meanings are “to cut off or separation” and “to fasten tightly”.

The Quran says:

<table>

<tr>
<td>73:10</td>

</tbody>
</table>

(haajiraat): bad things, dirty things or talk, things which demean, things which should be given up.

23:67 (The arrogant people) speak evil about it by night

Some say that “tahjiroon” (tahjiroon) means “to talk nonsense”.

(al-hijrah): to travel from one area to another.

(haajar) is a verb derived from this root.

Azhari says that for the desert dwellers to transfer to the cities, was called “al-muhaajirah”.

Then a man who gives up his residence and goes and resides in another place was called “muhaajir”.

The Quran has used it in particular meaning. According to the Quran a messenger’s duty or a momin’s duty in life is to establish the system of Allah on earth. He begins with the place he resides in, but if he sees that the atmosphere there is not conducive then he should not stop his efforts. Instead he should leave that place and migrate to some other place where the atmosphere is conducive to his struggle. A momin cannot remain attached to a particular land as the earth belongs to Allah and the momin is a right heir. His world is everywhere, he is not born to live and die at a particular place; he is born to establish Allah’s Deen. For this purpose he gives up readily whatever he has e.g. wealth, grandeur, power, relatives, country, etc. Giving up all this is called “hajrah” (hajrah), and one who does so is called “muhaajir” (muhaajir).

The Quran says:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Verse</th>
<th>Translation</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>2:218</td>
<td>giving up is also part of the struggle</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

(hijrat) or “migration” is not the name for escape from difficulties. This means “to shift to a conducive atmosphere for attaining one’s purpose” (that of establishing God’s Deen (system of life) on earth).

The Quran says:

25:30 And the messenger will say before God: O, my sustainer, my nation has turned the Quran into a “mahjur (gave up)" cannot take even one step freely (and cannot thus run away). An animal tied this way is called “مَﮩْﺠُﻮْﺭٌ” (mahjur), and “الﮩِﺟَارُ” (al-hijaar) is the rope which is used to thus fasten the animal {T}.

The messenger of Allah will appeal to Allah that the Muslims had left the Quran (left abiding by it) and turned it into a “مَﮩْﺠُﻮْﺭٌ” (mahjur) of self-created ideas, beliefs, thoughts, customs, traditions, laws, values, etc. without which man could not lift even one step freely. They had not really given up the Quran, but had usurped all the independence it had granted, and it was only allowed to move only so far as the rope of their self-created religion allowed them to move and the Quran was made subservient to these self created chains. This is the real meaning of making the Quran “مَﮩْﺠُﻮْﺭٌ” (mahjur).

Ibn Qateebah says “ہُﺟْﺮ” (hujr) also means “to talk crazy” {Al-qartain}. Thus the above verse would mean that they had turned the Quran into some sort of “mantra”.

He-J-Ain

- "الﮩُﺠُﻮﻉُ" (al-hujuh): sleep at any time but especially at night. Sometimes it means “not to sleep but just to rest”.
- "الﮩُﮩِاَﻟْﮩِﮩِاَﮩِاَﮩِ" (an-nahja): nap.
- "رَﺟُﻠٌ ﮨُﺠَﻌَۃٌ" (rajulun huja’a): a foolish, happy-go-lucky, ignorant, and carefree person {T, M, R}.

The Quran says:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>51:17</th>
<th>He used to sleep very little at night</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| كَـاَﻟَـاَءُ ﻫِّـا مِّـا ﻩِـا ﻤَـا ﻝِـاْ ﻤَـا ﻤَـا ﻤَـا

This is in reference to the preparation for the great change the messenger was to bring and the work which he had taken upon himself in the light of the Quranic guidance. He was willingly engaged day and night and spent a little time at night in sleep (73:4).

He-D-D

- "الﮩَﮩِاَﮩِاَﮩِاَﮩِ" (al-hudd): to drop something very hard with a sound, to demolish.
- "الﮨَﮩِاَﮩِاَﮩِاَﮩِ" (al-haad): the sound of the sea which to those at the coast sounds like a boom, and sometimes this sound is the precursor of an earthquake.
- "الﮩَﮩِاَﮩِاَﮩِاَﮩِ" (al-haad’ah): boom (of the clouds) {T, M}.
- "الﮩَﮩِاَﮩِاَﮩِاَﮩِ" (al-huddah): the sound of something falling.
- "ﮨَﮩِاَﮩِاَﮩِاَﮩِ" (hadat tul-baqrah): I threw the cow on the ground to slaughter it.
- "ﮨَﮩِاَﮩِاَﮩِاَﮩِ" (al-hidd): that which has fallen {R}.
- "ﮨَﮩِاَﮩِاَﮩِاَﮩِ" (hadadahu tahdeedah): he threatened him and made him frightful {T, M}.

Surah Maryam says:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>19:90</th>
<th>the mountains will fall loudly and be torn to pieces</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| وَﻟِوْدُ ﻫِّـا ﻤَـا ﻢَـا ﻝِـاْ ﻤَـا ﻢَـا ﻢَـا

"الﮩَﮩِاَﮩِاَﮩِاَﮩِ" (al-hudhud): the pigeon who makes a lot of noise, or any bird which speaks too much. It also means a particular bird {T, M, R}.

The “ﮨَﮩِاَﮩِاَﮩِاَﮩِ” (hudhud) mentioned in the tale of Suleman was an officer of his army (27:20). In those days men and even tribes were named after birds. This continues till today among the Christians. The names Fox and Lamb can still be found in abundance. Even among the Hindus names like Tota (parrot) and Chuhamil (rat) are still found. The Lissan-ul-Arab says that “ﮨَﮩِاَﮩِاَﮩِاَﮩِ" (hadahid) was the name of a Yemeni tribe.

Taj-ul-Uroos says that “ﮨَﮩِاَﮩِاَﮩِاَﮩِ" (hadad) was the name of a king of Hameer who was a contemporary of Suleman.
“الْﮩُﺪْﮨُﺪَ” (al-hud hud) in the Quran has appeared along with “ﺍَ ﺍَﻟْﮩُﺪْ ﮨُﺪُ” (al-hudhud) and “ﻝ” (laam). This leads one to think that this was not the name of a man, but he was so called in respect of his tribe.

He-D-M

“ﺍَﻟْﮩُﺪْ ﮨُﺪُ” (al-hudm): to demolish a building.

“ﺍَ ﺍَﻟْﮩُﺪْ ﮨُﺪُ” (at-tahdeem) also means the same as above, but it contains a lot of intensity.

“ﺍَﻟْﮩُﺪْ ﮨُﺪُ” (al-hadm): to break the back.

“ﺍَﻟْﮩُﺪْ ﮨُﺪُ” (al-hudaam): sea sickness.

“ﺍَﻟْﮩُﺪْ ﮨُﺪُ” (inhadamal bina’u): the building fell down.

“ﺍَﻟْﮩُﺪْ ﮨُﺪُ” (tahaddamal bina’u): the building fell down little by little.

“ﺍَﻟْﮩُﺪْ ﮨُﺪُ” (dima’uhum hadam): their blood got wasted {T, R}. In (22:40) the places of worship are demolished or may also mean desecrated.

He-D-He-D

For “ﺍَﻟْﮩُﺪْ ﮨُﺪُ” (al-hudhud), see heading (He-D-D).

He-D-Y

“ﺍَﻟْﮩُﺪْ ﮨُﺪُ” (huda) basically means “to be prominent and light up”, and “to be in the forefront” and “to lead others”.

“ﺍَﻟْﮩُﺪْ ﮨُﺪُ” (huda): the day.

“ﺍَﻟْﮩُﺪْ ﮨُﺪُ” (haadiyah): raised rock which can be seen from afar at sea {T, M}.

The Quran says:

| 20:128 | Was it not made evident, and clear to them? | اَﻓـَﻠَُْ ﻲـَﻬْﺪِﳍَُُْ |

Ibn Faris says it has two basic meanings as “to go ahead in order to show the way” and “to send a gift”.

“ﺍَﻟْﮩُﺪْ ﮨُﺪُ” (haad) was actually “ﺍَﻟْﮩُﺪِﯼٌ” (haadi) and means “the front part of something” because it can be seen from afar first. The neck of animals is called “ﺍَﻟْﮩُﺪِﯼٌ” (al-haadi) because it is in front, in relation to rest of the body.

“ﺍَﻟْﮩُﺪْ ﮨُﺪُ” (hudyun) and “ﺍَﻟْﮩُﺪِﯼٌ” (haadiyun): the animal which was taken to the kabah for slaughter during Hajj, because that animal was kept in front.

“ﺍَﻟْﮩُﺪْ ﮨُﺪُ” (haadiyyah): a gift, i.e. something which is given without expecting the return or payment for anything. It is given in such a way that it reaches there earlier than when it is actually needed.

Sometimes “ﺍَﻟْﮩُﺪْ ﮨُﺪُ” (hada) means the guide himself as in “ﺍَﻟْﮩُﺪْ ﮨُﺪُ” (au-ajidu alan naari huda) (20:11)/{T}.

Surah Al-Baqrah says:

| 2:196 | The animal which is slaughtered at the time of Hajj in Mecca. | ﺑُداَءِ ﺍﻟْﮩُﺪْ ﮨُﺪُ ﺍﻟْﮩُﺪِﯼٌ ﺍﻟْﮨُﺪًی |

All types of goods that are sent there.

“ﺍَﻟْﮩُﺪْ ﮨُﺪُ” (haadiyyah): gift (27:35).

“ﺍَﻟْﮩُﺪْ ﮨُﺪُ” (muhtad): he who has received guidance (57:26).
Deen is based on this basic fact that the human intellect cannot formulate the permanent values nor reveal them and as a consequence cannot achieve required self-development. These values are received from Allah and the guidance is called the revelation (The Quran). The Quran was revealed to the Messenger Muhammed and is a complete book of guidance i.e. what is required by mankind for all times is within the book. Human intellect needs the Quran just as the human’s eye needs the light of the sun (in order to see). If human life is lived under the guidance of the Quran, then the present life on earth will become a heavenly life. Otherwise it will be chaotic and hellish and the mutual conflicts will continue and will never get resolved. This guidance of the Quran is called the guidance from God which takes man towards the balanced way of life.

2:120 Indeed, this guidance of Allah is the only guidance

As against it, the guidance devised by human beings is not guidance but waywardness (2:16). This is the right path and all other are wrong paths(3:7). The messengers came into this world with this Divine guidance, but they were responsible only to make the people aware of this guidance, not to make the people follow the right way (28:56, 2:272). Man can traverse the right path only out of his own will. He cannot be forced by anyone to traverse this path, because there is no coercion in Deen (2:256).

Allah Himself has made the path bright and evident for humans. He has not created them so that they follow only the right path automatically:

76:3 we have made the road evident for him: he can either adopt it or reject it

The word guidance itself testifies to the fact that there is no coercion in this matter. The way is shown only to those who want to undertake the journey to reach the destination and want to avoid the difficulties of being misled. These people are called muttaqeen. The Quran has called itself “( hudal lil muttaqeen)” in this sense (2:2) i.e. “those who want to avoid the wrong path, it is guidance for them to the right path”.

He-R-B

- (herb), “yahrub”, “haraba”: he ran away.
- “haraba fil ard”: he went far on this earth.
- “harrabahu”: he made some other man run away.
- “haraba minal watadi nisfihu”: the peg was pushed halfway.
- “aqraba fulaan”: that man was engaged in that matter, immersed in that matter.
- “ahrabatir reeh”: the wind blew the dust {T, R}.
- “yahrab”, “yahrab”: he went far (a distance) on land {M}.

The Quran says:

72:12 And we think that we cannot defeat Allah by running away or escaping (we cannot defeat him by running away from the Law of equital)
He-R-Ain  ﻩ ﻉ ﻲ

(al-hara), “al-ihraa” (al-ihraa): to drive harshly, to make run fast \(T, R\).

(hara-i ilaih): reach him eagerly and speedily.

(al-ihraa): the intensity of eagerness.

(al-muhri): lion \(T, R\).

Ibn Faris says the basic meaning of this root is “movement” and “tribulation”.

Uhrir Rajul says it means “he trembled with fear”.

“The nation of Luut:”

11:78 His nation came towards him running with eagerness ﻫُ ﻉ ﻲ ﻢ ﺗ ﻰ ﻬ ﻣ ﻲ

(yuhra-oon) includes the intensity of eagerness and fervent-ness. This one word, therefore, depicts their real emotional state.

(yuhra-oon): their emotions were instigating them to do so.

He-Z-A  ﻩ ﺗ ﻲ

(hazeeyun), “hazwa”, “huzuwan” and “huzuwa” mean “make fun of”.

(rajulun huz’ah): a man who is made fun of by people, laughing stock.

(mafazatun haazi’atun bir rakb): a desolate jungle which makes fun of riders (due to whose vastness and awe people are belittled) \(T\).

The hypocrites used to tell their party leaders in private that they had told the muslims that they had believed, but it was done only jocularly (that there was no sincerity in their words) (2:14).

The Quran says in answer to them that the Law of requital is in fact making fun of these people. They think mirages are for real and struggle to get to them and finally find out that their efforts were useless. For them to be deceived is itself a joke with them. The law of Allah gives them time which allows them to proceed with their wrong ways and make a joke of themselves in a world of reality:

2:14 We are simply mockers ﻫُ ﻉ ﻲ ﻢ ﺗ ﻰ ﻬ ﻣ ﻲ

Surah Al-Hijr says that the people who think that someone else is also authoritative in the universe beside God or some other law is also at work in this universe, then these people are in way playing a joke on God:

19:95 We are sufficient to deal with on your behalf with the people who worship other idols beside Allah ﻫُ ﻉ ﻲ ﻢ ﺗ ﻰ ﻬ ﻣ ﻲ

This makes it very clear that “to joke with Allah” means to share His stature with others, or to take the concept of God lightly, and not to reflect on the realities of life seriously.

Surah Al-Baqrah says:

2:67 They asked “are you joking with us?” ﻫُ ﻉ ﻲ ﻢ ﺗ ﻰ ﻬ ﻣ ﻲ
He-Z-Z

“_phræ“ (hazzah), “_phrai“ (yahuzuhu), “_phro“ (hazza): to move something (either by pulling, by pushing, or by moving to the right or left).

Raghib says that “_phræ“ (hazun) means “to move with intensity, to move violently“ \{T, R\}.

Surah Maryam says:

| 19:25 | move it hard towards yourself |

“_phræ_ahadai ibla hazza“ (hazzal haddi il ibla hazza): the haddi maker made the camels pleased with his haddi, therefore they became happy and started walking lightly.

“_phræ“ (al-hizzah): stupor (which makes man swoon with happiness).

“_phræ_nabaat“ (ihtazzun nabaat): plants began to swoon in the wind \{T, R\}.

The Quran says:

| 22:5 | when We make it rain then the plants swoon (due to the rain |

At another place this word has been used opposite “_khaashiah“ which means “downcast“ (41:39).

He-Z-L

“_phra“ (al-hazl): not to take some issue seriously, i.e. take it jocularly or lightly.

“_phre“ (hizzil): one who jokes a lot.

“_phra“ (al-huzaalah): joke.

“_phra“ (al-huzaal): weakness \{T\}.

Ibn Faris says it basically means “feebleness“.

Raghib says that “_phra“ (al-hazl) means everything which has no use or which is of no consequence (not important) \{R\}.

The Quran says about itself:

| 86:14 | This is a decisive reality, not just something for amusement |

The Quran discusses the realities of human living and needs careful and serious attention. Every word in it must be very seriously deliberated upon. These should not be taken lightly nor must it be thought that these contain only advice. The Quran is a proven reality. Whatever is said in it is a fact not just make-believe or something to frighten. It answers all the possible questions which all human beings for all times can possibly think e.g. the purpose of their creation, the issues of their lives, interaction, death, their thinking and the related issues, the permanent values, the concept and attributes of Allah, human weaknesses and strengths, etc.

He-Z-M

“_phrm“ (hazm): to press a dry thing to breaking point \{R\}. Later the word came to mean break \{T\}.

“_phrm_aharu“ (ta hazamatil qaus): the bow broke with a loud noise.

“_phrm_aharem“ (al-hareem): boom with a cutting edge in it.

“_phrm_aduwwu“ (hazamal aduwwu): defeated enemy \{R\} (2:251).

“_phrm_mahzoom“ (jundun…mahzoom): defeated army (38:11).

Surah Al-Qamar says:
54:45 this party will be defeated

He-Sh-Sh

(‘hash) to move. It is close to the meaning of “‘ha’za” (‘ha’zza) and is generally said for soft things, like moving leaves etc. {R}.

(‘hushal waraq) to shed leaves from the trees {Ibn Faris}.

It also means “to be happy”.

“Ana bihi ‘hush-un bash-un” I am very happy with him.

(al-hasheesh) a philanthropist who is very happy when someone asks him for something {T}.

Surah Taha says that when Moosa received the revelation, Allah asked him about his opinion about the message and he replied who will support him and guide him throughout his life.

20:18 through this I will create nutrition for the soul of my flock of sheep (the Bani Israel)

The literal meaning of this verse is “with this (staff) I bring down (shed) the leaves of trees for my flock of sheep”.

He-Sh-M

(al-hashm) to break a dry thing or to break anything that is not difficult to break.

(al-hasheem) broken, the grass which has dried and broken into little pieces (like sawdust), dry grass or trees {T, R, M}.

Surah Al-Kahaf says:

18:45 It becomes dry (brittle) and breaks into small pieces

Surah Al-Qamar says:

54:31 It became rubbish like the rubbish which falls off a fencer’s fence (totally useless, or waste)

(tahash shaman naaqah) he milked the camel with his full hand (milked the teats dry).

(haashim) someone who breaks bread or one who breaks it into small pieces. It was the title for Umr-ul-Ala who was the father of Abdul Muttalib because he used to make caps for the pilgrims to earn his living. Hence it means “to put broken pieces of bread into the curry, or have a mouthful”.

(al-hashim) a philanthropist.

(‘al-hazeem) soft, fine, solid, delightful, a thing which has penetrated another thing partly {T, M, R}.

He-Zd-M

(hazm) to trample or break a soft thing, to reduce something.

(hazama fulana) he oppressed that man, oppressed him and usurped his rights.

(al-hazzaam) lion.

(hazamahu haqqahu) he reduced his right.

(al-hazeem) soft, fine, solid, delightful, a thing which has penetrated another thing partly {T, M, R}.
Ibn Faris says these are its basic meanings.
The Quran says:

He-T-Ain

“بَطْعٌ” (hata’), “بَطْعْ عَ” (hatan) and “بَطْعٌ عَا” (hutu’a): to move fast, and fearfully towards something, or to move towards something with the gaze fixed on it and unwavering. “بَطْعٌ” (ahta’u) also means this.

“أَبْطَعُ الْبَعَرُ فِي سَيْرِهٖ” (ah tua’al ba-eeru fi sairihi): camel straightened his head and stretched his neck while walking {T, M, R}.

The Quran has depicted the harassment during battle and said “مُﮩْﻄِﻊَ” (muhti-een) (14:43) which means people will be so frightened that they will not be aware of the whereabouts. They will be fearful and running straight (without being aware what is to the left or the right) {T, M, R}.

Ibn Faris says it has the connotation of facing something, moving towards something, to obey and follow something.

Hal

This word appears to ask something:

In (55:60) the Quran says, ‘Is there any reward for doing good other than good?’ This means the reward for doing good is inbuilt within the deed itself i.e. one gets further self-development by doing good to others.

He-L-Ain

“الْﮩَﻠَ𝕻ُ” (al-hala’u): tribulation, impatience, too much, to cross the limit, and the worst kind of fretting, sadness and gloom.

“الْﮩَﻠُﻮْ排骨” (al-haluh): greedy and extremely miserly, narrow minded, one who displays impatience.

“ﮨَﻠِﻂَ” (halia), “ﮨَﻠِﺡْ” (yahla’a): he became hungry {T, M}.

When a man is greedy, as well as hungry, then a situation is created that the greed doesn’t subside even if a lot is eaten and he keeps wailing about it being not enough.

Ibnas Sakeet says that “رَﺟُﻞٌ ﮨُﻠَﻌَۃٌ” (rajulun hal’atah) means a man who loses patience and hope quickly and cries out in desperation {F}.

The Quran says:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Verse</th>
<th>Translation</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>70:20</td>
<td>if man is left to his own devices then his greed is never satiated</td>

</tbody>
</table>
It is only the system of salaat which creates satiation in him and removes his wailing of insufficiency (70:22). The Quran helps us change our thinking towards the good of mankind and thus moves us away from our selfish desires (28:50).

---

Halak (halak), "(yahlk): to die, although the people use it to mean “a bad death” {T, M}.

Ibn Faris says it basically means to break and fall.

Raghib says that “بلاغ” (halaak) means punishment, fear, and poverty.

The Quran has mentioned the fall of nations (or civilisations). There is no doubt that in ancient times some dwellings may have been completely destroyed by a natural calamity, as earthquake, or volcanic eruption, but generally fall of nations means their ignominy and weakness and subjugation, i.e. if some nation enjoys good standing then its falling from this position is akin to its destruction.

This is the destruction about which the Quran says:

Sometimes a nation suffers due to some natural calamity, but as soon as the calamity is over it recovers. This is called its renaissance or new life or “نِشَائِتُ ثَانِيَة” (nishaat-i-saaniah), as has been said in the story of Bani-Israel:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Verse</th>
<th>Translation</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>2:56</td>
<td>We gave you new life after your death</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

In Surah Al-Isra the first condition has been described as “punishment” and the second condition as “annihilation” (17:58, 21:95), but this is not a rule. There are exceptions to this.

Surah Al-Qasas says:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Verse</th>
<th>Translation</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>28:88</td>
<td>It is taken to mean that the entire universe will be destroyed and only God will stay intact</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

In support of this meaning, the following verse of Surah Ar-Rahman is presented:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Verse</th>
<th>Translation</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>55:26</td>
<td>Everyone who is on it, shall perish.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>55:27</td>
<td>But the face or the Sustainer shall remain who is the owner of the Majesty and Honour.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

But this is not the right meaning of these verses (and the words) (55:27)

“بلاغ” (haalik) in the first verse and “فَأَن” (faani) are both noun-verbs, and till noun verbs are specifically linked to the future, they reflect the present i.e. as it is happening now. For instance, “الَّذِي جَآءَتِهَا فَأَن” (inni ja’ilun) does not mean “I will make”, but rather “I am making it”. As such, “بلاغ” (haalik) and “فَأَن” (faani) do not mean that “this universe will one day come to an end” {T}. It means that (the termination) is taking place now. Everything in the universe is going towards its termination. Termination does not mean “to be obliterated”, but “to undergo change”, i.e. not “to stay in the same condition”. “بِلاَکَت” (halakat) (i.e death) too means “for the force (power, strength, energy) to be reduced”, therefore this verse means that “nothing in the universe remains in the same state”. That is, “it undergoes change every moment in time”. There are changes in things which take place all the while. Their strength or force is reduced every moment, but the universal law of Allah which leads to universal development, is unchanging. It is safe from the effects of any change. This is what permanent value means. Therefore this verse means that everything in the universe is subject to change, excepting the permanent values which are determined according to the laws of Allah (as noted in the Quran), and which result in universal development, or in Allah’s sustenance. Therefore, the ideology, the system of life, the nation which can be safe from such change, is that which adheres itself to the permanent values. The nation which does not do so, is bound to be weakened in its strength till it is eliminated completely.

Surah Al-Haqqah says:

My power was gradually lost, my strength gradually turned into weakness.

In the verses quoted above, the reference to “wajha rab” (55:27) may also mean Allah {T}.

What will be end of the universe is a mystery as much as the beginning of the universe is – this question does cross our mind as we go through our life. At our present level of understanding we cannot fully comprehend these matters. However, we know that God has created the universe and it is sustained according to His laws and the universe will end according to His laws as well. The universe is not permanent, i.e. not permanent like the permanence of the existence of God. For us, it is also a futile thing to worry about as to what will be the end of the universe, because we have to depart from this present life one day anyway – our life’s timescale is tiny as compared to the age of the universe. The best thing for us to do is to add to the world’s beauty while living within the permanent values as long as we live in this life.

He-L-L

Raghib says it was a high sound that was made at the sighting of the new moon. Later it was used to make any sound {R}.

“ﮨَﻞﱠ ﻝ ﻝ” (hullar rajul): the man screamed.

“ﺍَﺳْﺘَﮩَﻞﱠ ﺍﻟﺼﱠﺒِﯽﱡ” (istahalas sabiyyu): the child started crying as soon as it was born.

“ﺍَﮩِﻼَﻝُ” (al-hilaal): the first and second day of the moon. Some say that it is also used to mean even the third day or up to the seventh day of the moon (also referred to the 26th / 27th night of the moon in a lunar calendar).

“ﮨِﻼَﻝٌ” (hilaal): new moon, because when people sight the moon they announce to others about it {T}.

Ibn Faris says it basically means “to raise the voice”.

“ﺍَﮨَﻠﱠﺍﮯ” (ahlash shajr): sighted the moon for the month {T}.

“ﺍَﮨَﻠﱠﻹ” (al-halaal) and “ﺍَﮨَﻠﱠﻹ” (al-hilaal): the first rain but a rain which falls with a sound {T}.

“ﺯَﮨَﻠْ” (hallal): the brain of an elephant about which it is said that is veritable poison {T}.

“ﮨِﻼَ媛” (hillaal): to say as we say la “ﮨﻴﮟ ﻻَِﻟٰہَ ﺍِﻻﱠ ﷲُّٰ” {M}.

The Quran says in respect of forbidden things:

Anything which is sacrificed or given in a name other than Allah's
As per the Quran anything which is dedicated to anyone else other than Allah, is forbidden. According to the Quran any other concept (the idol) except Allah is shirk for a momin. This aspect needs to be understood as to why this prohibition has been detailed in the Quran. For example a sheep is a permitted animal for human consumption, but since it has been dedicated to someone other than Allah, it becomes forbidden. Similarly when it is said that this food is “niyaaq” or “dedicated to” so and so, then the food, although it is pure and permitted, becomes forbidden because it has been dedicated to other than Allah. Because “shirk” is reflected in such a dedication, it is against the concept of “the oneness of Allah”. The Iman as defined in the Quran deals with human thinking where beliefs and concepts are formed which ultimately direct our physical self to carry out daily living (2:177). Whatever we do, is preceded by our thoughts and these decisions manifest themselves as visible acts. The acceptance of any deity other than Allah at a thinking level means that our thought process has been affected and which in the long run will divert us from the righteous path. The Quran is the book which deals with the human thought process which precedes our decision and any ‘contamination’ at this level will lead to influencing our Iman. This will compromise our conduct in real life and we will not be able to carry out the righteous deeds within the domain of the permanent values and will fail to establish a system based on these values.

The Quran wants to keep man’s beliefs free from any shadow of “shirk”, because “shirk” leads to the downgrading of human self which possesses free will.
“الحمود” (al-humud): for the fire to be extinguished.

“خمدت النار” (khamaditan naar) is said when flames of a fire die out.

“بمدت يمود” (hamadat humuda) is said when flames die out completely.

“بابينو” (haba yahbu): it is said when a fire turns into ashes.

“الحمود في الأرض” (al-humudu fil ard): for life to be extinguished from the earth, i.e. for it to be minus vegetation and for no rain to fall in it {T}.

The Quran says:

He-M-R

“hamaral ma’a yah’mirhu” (he spilled the water, or dropped it).
“haarad dam’a” (he shed tears).
“inhamarad dam’u wal matar” (tears and rain flowed).
“al-hammaar” (a cloud which rains profusely).

He-M-Z

“al-hamz” (to pinch, to push and beat, to bite.
“al-haamizu” (one who pinches, who creates division in the party, one who creates division among friends, one who indulges in back-bite. This meaning with exaggeration is of “al-hoomzah).
“al-mihmaz”, “al-mihmaaz” (a pointed thing made of iron, a sort of spike which is fixed to a rider’s boot which he uses to spur the animal).

Raghib says that “al-hamz” means to wring or back-bite.

Ibn Faris says its basic meaning is to press or wring.

“hoomzah” and “hammaaz” (one who finds faults.

Surah Al-Mominoon says:

Surah Al-Qalam says:

Surah Al-Humazah says “humazah” in (104:1). The meaning of the word is the same in every place i.e. “those who create or intend to create division with their machinations”.

Maulana Apeedullah Sindhi says that it means “a person who perceives the darker side of everything and who finds fault with everyone’s work and has no appreciation for any of the good things in the universe, or appreciates any good work”. For example, this is a capitalist mentality. A capitalist thinks, because he has so much wealth and he possesses all the good things of the world, and whoever is poor in comparison possesses no quality.

He-M-S

“al-hams” (secret voice, a slight sound of a tread.
“al-hamees” (the sound of the camel’s tread).

The Quran says:

“al-hams” (to chew food with the mouth closed so that no sound emits. It also means “to wring, to beat forcibly and repeatedly”.
“al-muhamasa” (for a group to murmur quietly among themselves).
Ibn Faris says "ہم" (hum) word basically means “to melt”, “to flow” and “crawl slowly”.

"ہم" (al-hum): sadness and sorrow.
"ہم" (hum) and "غم" (gham) differ in that "غم" (gham) is the feeling of sadness that is produced after some event has taken place, and "ہم" (hum) is the pain which one experiences at the thought of some catastrophe which is about to take place {T}.

"ہم" (hamahu) and "ہم" (ahammah): made him sad and restless.

Surah Aal-e-Imran says:

3:153 A party that is disturbed by its own thoughts

Here the meaning is that the people of this group were not actually experiencing some misery, but they were being troubled by the thought of what could happen.

"ہم" (al-humm): to intend to do something, to resolve to do something {T}.

"ہم باہم الشیء" (humma bishaiyi): intended to do something but did not actually do it {M}.

Surah Yusuf says:

12:24 The governors’s wife decided (in her heart) to entice Yusuf and maybe Yusuf would have become inclined too if Allah’s thought had not come clearly before him

The governors’s wife only had her passion before her and nothing else that would stop her from her evil intentions, but Yusuf had Allah’s thought that prevented him from going along with her desire. Whenever there is a tie between human desire and a permanent value, then a momin sacrifices human desire in favour of the permanent value. This is what belief in the permanent values means.

Surah Al-Momin says:

40:5 Every nation tried or made schemes to hurt their messenger, or intended to

"ہم" (al-himmah): a deed for which firm intent is made, firm intent, beginning of intent {T}.

"ہم من الأمور" (al-muhimmaatu minal umur): very important matters {T}.

Huna

"ہنا" (huna), "ہنا" (hahuna): here, at this place.
"ہنا" (inna hahuna qaa’idoon): we are seated here (5:24, 69:35).
"ہنا" (hunalik): there.
"ہنا" (hunalika da’a zakariyya): Zakaraiyya called out there (3:37).

33:11 The time came to call out the Momineen there
He-N-A

(al-hani’u): anything in possessing which there is no harm and which has no bad effect. This word is used to mean “food” although it is also used for other things {R}.

(ta’aamun haniyun): delightful food.

(al-tahni’ah): against the law, to congratulate {T}.

Surah An-Nisa’a says:

4:4 Eat it happily (bring it readily to use)

Hunna

(hunna nisatun): they are all women.

(zarabahunna): he thrashed all those women.

(ghulamuhunna): the slave of all those women.

Surah Al-Baqrah says:

2:187 They are like clothing for you

Surah An-Nisa says:

4:25 Bring them into nikah with the permission of their owners and give them their Mehār

Huwa

(huwa rajhulun): he is a man.

(huwal laahul...): indeed it is Allah (59:22).

He-W-D

(al-haud): to claim to be close towards the truth with ease and facility {T, M, R}.

The Quran says:

7:156 We look towards you (refer to you, turn to you)

(al-huud): Jews {T, M, R}.

(haad): he became a Jew.

(yahuda): it was the name of one of Yaqoob’s sons {T, M, R}.

The Quran says:

2:111 Except those who are Jews

Surah Al-Ma’idah says:

5:69 And the people who became Jews

For details see heading “Moosa”.

QES-Norway  Lughat-ul-Quran  Volume IV  Page 193 of 276
The nation of Nouh was replaced by the nation of Aad (7:69). Details can be found under the heading “Noah”. Towards this nation, his brother Hoodh was sent as a messenger (7:65). These people were physically very strong and were well built (7:69) and had fertile lands (26:134). They were ahead of the nation of Noah in terms of their development and their culture. They used to build very strong forts (26:169) and used to build monuments in mountains (26:128) i.e. technically advanced. They also had knowledge and wisdom (46:26) but were oppressive. They used to hold the poor and the oppressed in their iron grip (26:130).

Hoodh delivered the same message to them that Nouh before him had given to his nation, i.e:

7:65 O my nation, bow before Allah’s laws. None other than His laws are worth following.

As usual, there was opposition to this message (7:66) and they became so blind in their opposition that their wisdom too did not serve them (46:26) and they had to be destroyed by a destructive storm (41:42) and their roots were uprooted (7:72). The Quran has called this nation as “Aad, the first” (53:50).

What was the relationship between nations that were destroyed through natural calamities and their deeds can be found in the book titled Jooy-i-Noor under the heading “Noah”.

He-W-R

“haaral bina’a haura”: he demolished the building.
“fahaar”: so it was demolished.
“inhaar”: to blow up and demolish.
“wahuwa haa’iroon wa-haa’iroon” (tahawwar): he was demolished.
“inbaar” (tahawwur): for something to fall into the pond or well.
“tahawwarar rajul”: the man entered the situation without thinking, i.e. fell into it like the banks of a river cave in suddenly {T, M, R}.
“tahawwur”: the edge that falls down {T, M, R}.

The Quran says:

9:109 On the edge of a bank that will fall and which can take you down with it

He-W-N

“haan”, “yahooon”, “huna”: to be insulted, demeaned.
“haana”, “haana”, “huna”: to become easy. This word appears for softness and facility and also for insult and demeaning {T}.

Ibn Faris says that it basically means, peace, quiet, and contentment.

Raghib says that when man adopts humility then this humility is commendable, but if some powerful force creates humility in a man forcibly then there is an element of insult in this act, and this is bad {R}.

“hawwanash shaiya wa’ahanahu” (al-hayyan): easy.
“al-hawana”, “al-mahana” (al-mahana): weakness and feebleness, insult and hatred {M}.
“hayyin” (imra’atun haunah): a content woman who works with dignity and with ease.
As was his habit that he walked softly and with ease.

Surah An-Nahal says that when anyone of these desert dwellers is told about the birth of a girl, then his face becomes sad and he tries to avoid facing other people and thinks:

16:59 Should he let the girl (about whose birth he has been given the news) live or bury her out of fear of ignominy or insult

These thoughts accompanied the birth of a girl-child at that time and is still prevalent in many cultures across the world.

The Quran says:

25:69 And he will abide forever within, humiliated. (This contains the element of insult and infamy.)

It means that there is neither furtiveness nor fear for them, because they are not weakened and demeaned, but are dominant over all (3:138). If this holds a meaning of speed, then this means that they adopt a medium instance and do not preen (31:17-18). If "yamshuna alal ard" means "power" and "dominance" in this world then it would mean that their government is not oppressive.

As said earlier, Surah Al-Fajr says that when man faces the punishment or shortage in the means of sustenance, then he says "rabbi ahanun" (89:16) which means "my Sustainer has demeaned me for nothing".

The Quran says that Allah never demeans anybody for nothing. Every man’s deeds make him successful as well as demeaned. You were demeaned because you had plenty of sustenance but:

89:17 You did not respect those who were left alone in a society

89:18 and did not encourage others to feed those who suffered some setback.

89:19 You used to collect all inheritance and gobble it up, and used to collect wealth from all directions

Then the Quran concludes (89:21-22) that due to your such deeds, you are now reaping the consequences of your earlier wrong system which was based on human exploitation.
ٌ (hawaa’in): every empty space especially the space between the earth and the heavens. It also means “coward” {T}.

ﺍﻟﮩَﻮَیٰ (al-hawa): human desire or wish.

ﮨَﻮِﻳَہٗ (hawiyyah), ﺑُﮩْﻮَﺍہُ (yahwahu), ہَﮩْﻮً (hawyan): to like, or love.

ﮩْﻮیٰ ﺍِﺳْﺘَ (istahwa), ﺑَﮩْﻮَﺍہٗ ﻭَﮩْﻮَاءً (istihwa): (6:71) he wanted to fell him, to bring him down, take away his intellect, or garnish his desire for him.

ﮨَﻮً صَﺪْﺭُﻩٗ ﻳَﮩْﻮِیْ (hawa sadruhu yahwi): his chest became bereft {T}.

Ibn Faris says that basically this root means “to be empty” and “to fall”.

The Quran says:

Human thoughts are called "ﮯ (hawa) as compared to the "ﮨَﮩْ (wahi) in Surah An-Najam:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Verse</th>

</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>54:4</td>
<td>This Quran (whatever it says) is not comprised by the personal thoughts of the messenger instead it is the wahi (from God) which is sent to him</td>

Surah Al-Baqrah says:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Verse</th>
<th>Translation</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>2:120</td>
<td>If you follow their personal thoughts after receiving the knowledge of wahi…</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

This makes it obvious that the Quran is not against all human desires (3:13). It is against the desires and thoughts which are not kept in check according to the knowledge of the wahi:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Verse</th>
<th>Translation</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>6:120</td>
<td>Most of them are those who, because they do not have the guidance of the wahi, mislead people away from the right path.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>20:81</td>
<td>And whoever followed the wrong path and was deprived of our Blessings fell into the depths of ignominy</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The wahi aims to take man up to higher purpose and loftiness, but man instead diverts from this path and follows his own self-interests. As a consequence falls into disrespect and lowliness:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Verse</th>
<th>Translation</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>7:176</td>
<td>If he (man) had followed Our Will (or Our laws), then We would have taken him to loftiness, but he clung to his desires (e.g. economic interests)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

That is, he gave up the wahi and instead started following his own desires and interests.

This is the lowly life that has been called “ﮨَﮩْ (haawiyah) (101:9-10), i.e. a life in which one’s intellect fails to show him the way and the man wanders around in difficulties and ignominies, i.e. “a lowly existence”. In the words of the Quran “ﻧَﺎﺭٌﺣﺎَﻣِﻴَۃٌ (naarun haamiyah) which means “raging fire” – an inner fire of unhappiness, discontent, frustration, negative thoughts, inner conflicts, hypocrisy, negative emotions, emptiness, self-gratification, absence of higher purpose of life, etc.
As such, if man lives according to the permanent values he can live a heavenly life, and if he becomes unbridled and rebellious (which is said as giving in to the devil) then it results in a hellish life.

It is important to understand that as per the Quran human emotions are not despicable, and it is wrong to think that by suppressing these one can attain some kind of “spiritualism”. The Quran simply says that when human desires and the guidance of the wahī are in conflict, then for the sake of higher ideals, these desires must be modified and brought in line with the permanent values or to be sacrificed if required. The emotions for a higher life are linked to the permanent values given by the wahī. To keep human desires within the bounds of the wahī is what leads to the human self-development. When the two are not in conflict, then satisfying the human desires is not condemnable.

Hiya

“hiba imra’atun”: she is a woman.

“hiba hayyah”: a snake (21:20).

He-Y-A

“hayya al-amra tahyi’ah”: he sorted the matter, readied it, or smoothed it {T}.

Surah Al-Kahaf says:

18:10 Make the right situation available for us

(al-hai’ah): some thing’s condition or situation or form {M}.

Raghib says “al-hai’ah” can also be felt, i.e its form etc. and it can be unseen too, i.e. the mental image or the feelings in the heart which are not before us palpably, but with insight we can glean them.

Surah Aal-e-Imran says that Isa said to the Bani Israel:

3:49 for you I will make a shape like the bird out of earth

(Literal meaning)

Figuratively it means “I will give you a renaissance which will enable you to rise from the dust and fly into the heavens”, i.e. “you will attain the heights of knowledge, intellect, and conduct”. Here the haiyat (form) is not palpable, but is meant figuratively (which can be seen through an insight).

He-Y-T

“haita laka” is the title of the Hurons which somehow travelled to Mecca and the people there started using it. Some think that it has been derived from the Hebrew word hailakh which means “come here”, or “come quickly” {Lane}.

Ibn Faris says that basically means to shout and “hayyat bih” means “called out to him”. Mujahid says it is a word which is said to instigate, i.e. “to buck up” {T}.

“haita” is also an exclamatory word.

“al-heet”: very low land {T}.

Surah Al-Baqrah says:

2:11 Present your evidence, bring it forth quickly
Khalil says that “haat” (haat) actually is derived from “aatayuti” (aata yuti), and its “‘” (alif) has been replaced by “‘” (he).

Surah Yusuf says:

| 12:23 | Come here | هَوَيْتُ لَكُنَّا |

( haajal ibl): he disturbed the camels at night (when they were at peace).
( haajial bahr): the sea became choppy and disturbed {M}.
( haajatif ibl): the camels became thirsty.
( haajan nabt): the vegetables dried up {M}.
( haajal baqaf): for a vegetable to be long and yellow and for it to dry up {T}.
( al-haa'ijah): land where vegetables (grow on it) have become yellow and dried up {T}.

The Quran says about the crop:

| 39:21 | then they dry up |

Ibn Faris says this word basically means “to flare up” and “for plants to dry up”.

( ramlun haalin wa aheel): sand in motion (blown by the wind).
( al-hatlu) and ( al-haal): sand that falls down.
( kaseebun aheel): sand dune whose sand falls down.
( al-huyuul): the specs which can be seen in the light that comes in through ventilators.
( al-haalah): the circle seen around the moon {T}.

Ibn Faris says that it means “to give without measuring a thing which can be measured”, that is, “to push something along, just like the way shifting sand shifts”.

The Quran says:

| 73:14 | The time when the earth or the mounts will shake up and mountains will become like sand dunes which fall down (because they have become loose) on their own |

This is a very appropriate likeness of big wigs at the time of the Quranic revolution, that is, seemingly they will appear very powerful like the mountains, but their power would have ended like a crumbling sand dune at the banks of a river. This is indeed the condition of the wrong sort of culture. It cannot face the vicissitudes of time and the moment it is faced with the Quranic revolution, it falls down like a crumbling sand dune.

He - Y - M

Ibn Faris says it means “extreme thirst”.

( al-huyaam): extreme thirst, a sickness due to which a camel becomes so thirsty that it is difficult to satiate it {T}.
( al-ahyam): the camel which is afflicted by the sickness of thirst and which cannot be satiated.
( haima'u): the feminine camel as described above and “ heem” is the plural form {T}.

The Quran says:

| 56:55 | You will drink (fervently) like the camels who drink thirstily as if they are afflicted by the thirst sickness |

QES-Norway Lughat-ul-Quran Volume IV Page 199 of 276
“رَجُلٌ ﮨَﻴْﻤَﺎﻥُ” (rajulun hai-mun): a thirsty man.
“_OPERATOR m-n BABY” (rajulun haayim), “Operator m-n BABY” (huyum): a surprised man.
“Operator m-n BABY” (haama fil amri yaheem): he was at a loss in the matter.
“Operator m-n BABY” (al-hiyyaam): the sand which if held in the hand does not stay but slips away gradually from the hand {T}.

Raghib says it means “dry sand”.

“Operator m-n BABY” (al-ha’i’ma): a desolate desert that has no water {T}.
“Operator m-n BABY” (haamatin naaqaatu thayeam): a she camel went around grazing at will in any direction.
“Operator m-n BABY” (la’ilun aheem): a starless night, and therefore travellers are lost and cannot fix their direction.
“Operator m-n BABY” (al-heem): lands which are porous or sandy, and absorb water {T}.

Let us view the above meanings and reflect on what the Quran has said about poetic mentality. The Quran has said that poetry is not befitting of a messenger (36:86). See heading (Sh-Ain-R). A messenger brings with him the revolutionary message of Allah, and he has a grand purpose before him. His every step leads towards this purpose from which he never dithers. He does not follow his own emotions, but traverses the straight path willingly and guided by the revelation. On the other hand, a poetic mentality is “Operator m-n BABY” (fi kulli waadin yaheemun), i.e. like a camel who is extremely thirsty and is wandering in extreme thirst in the desert of his own emotions (26:225). He wanders aimlessly and without direction because his thirst is unquenchable. All his life he wanders this way and his poetry produces no concrete results.

This is the difference between a Messenger and a poet. A poet wanders thirstily in a land of his emotions just like a camel in thirst whose thirst can never be quenched because he is suffering from a sickness. This journey is bleak because there are no landmark stars on the way. As against this, a Messenger calmly traverses on his way towards his fixed destination. Poetry is the following of emotions and messenger-hood is the following of truths. A Muslim was entrusted with the “messenger-hood”, i.e. not only to follow Allah’s laws oneself but take the message to others as well. But he gave this up and now wanders aimlessly and without direction, like a thirsty camel which wanders in a desolate place, but doesn’t find any place where he can quench his thirst. Thirst for him is like a sickness because the thirst is not real. How deplorable this depiction is. The irony is that this nation (of muslims) which has turned into a community of poets also has this book (the Quran) under its arm. It is like having the stream in front of one and still be in search of water for quenching the thirst. How could such a thirsty camel’s thirst be quenched?

He-Y-M-N ـ ۵ م ن

“Operator m-n BABY” (hai munit taa’iru ala firaakhihi): the bird spread its wings over its young ones in order to protect them.
“Operator m-n BABY” (hai mana ala kaza): he became his protector {T}.

Allah has called the Quran “Operator m-n BABY” (mahai-mun) of all previously revealed books (5:48). This means “the preserver of all truths noted in those previous books”. Even Allah is “Operator m-n BABY” (al-muhai’mun) himself, i.e. He protects the universe like a mother bird protects its young ones.

Ibn Faris says that “Operator m-n BABY” (al-mhai’mun) is derived from “Operator m-n BABY” (amn).
Hai-haat

(al-hai’hu): one who is removed to one side because of his dirty clothes.
(hai’haat) is a word which means “better if it is removed” {T}.

The Quran speaking in the words of the unbelievers of the life after death says:

W-A-D واد

Ibn Faris says the basic meaning of this root is heavy and harshness.

“واد” (al-waadu) and “وايي” (al-wa’eed): loud and harsh voice, the muttering of a camel.
“واد فلانا” (waada fulana): it burdened that man {T, M}.
“وادي” (wa’aed): the camels’ heavy tread due to carrying load.
“أدا بنتا يدا وادا” (a’adal binta ya’edan waada): buried the girl alive in the ground, and buried her under tons of earth, burdened her with the load of the earth. During the dark period, the Kunda tribe of the Arabs used to bury their daughters alive.
A girl who was buried alive this way was called “المؤوذة” (al-mau’oodat) and “الوايدة” (al-wa’eedeh).

The Quran says:
81:8-9 When the girl buried alive will be asked as to why she was buried alive

QES-Norway Lughat-ul-Quran Volume IV Page 203 of 276
The Messenger Muhammed used to make the women agree that they would not kill their daughters (60:12). It may be that the word “ﻕ٧ ﺛَ ﻗَ (qatal)” here means “to keep them without education” out of fear of spending money on them with no result. See heading (Q-T-L) and (Dh-B-H).

This refers not only to the girls during the dark era but all the girls (even in today’s world) for all times who are “buried alive” i.e. who spend their entire lives as cattle, like they are neither dead nor alive. They are buried in a way in their houses from where they cannot be go out and use their potentials. Until the marriage and divorce is according to the Quranic system (and not that which we think is the way), girls and women will continue to suffer and their abilities will remain un-realised. The women in the west have now managed to get some rights in terms of education, training, etc.

“ْﻡُ ﻓَ (wabaq): to be annihilated.

Ibn Faris says that “ْﻡُ ﻓَ (al-maubiq) means “anything that acts as a barrier between two things”.

Surah Al-Kahaf says:

Surah Ash-Shura says:

Ibn Faris says its basic meanings include the element of intensity.

This root also means “to congregate”.

"(al-watad): peg. The plural is "(autaad).

"(wadatada), "(yatidahu), "(watada): he drove a peg into the ground or wall.

"(al-meetad): the hammer with which the peg is driven.

"(al-watida): a profound or established (pegged) thing.

"(wattada fulanun rijlahu fil ard): they established themselves there.

"(autaadul ard): mountains.

The Quran has called the pharaoh as "(zal autaad) in (38:12), which means “having very powerful forces”. It is also used for someone whose pegs are driven far and wide. Mountains have also been called "(autaada) in (78:7) because they are pegged into the ground.

The terms of "(abdal) and "(autaad) which exist in the language of the Sufism, are not Quranic.

"(al-watir), "(al-witr): individual or individual thing, as against {T, R}.

The Quran says:

"(watarahu maalahu wa haqahu): he reduced his wealth and right.

The Quran says:

47:35 He will not reduce anything which you have earned with your deeds

"(watara): to avenge and commit excesses. It also means to separate a pair {T, R}.

"(al-witr): enmity due to killing {M}.

"(atra) which actually was "(watara) but was later changed, means “for things to appear so that there is a gap between them”. If such objects continue to come without gaps, they will not be called "wasana bil makaan": he stayed somewhere, became a resident somewhere.

"al-waasin": established and stolid and resident which does not move from its place.
"wasanan but": a statue which cannot move from its place \(T, R\). The plural is "ausaan" \(T, R\) as in 29:17.

Taj and Kitaabul Ashqaaq say that "wasan" means “a small statue”. As per this meaning, every system that is static and does not progress is "wasan", i.e. “a small idol of sorts”, which every dead nation worships.

The Quran is a code of life revealed for the entire mankind for all times and whenever it is given a practical shape (i.e. it is fully acted upon), then it creates an extremely dynamic society. Staying within the parameters of the permanent values of the Quran, a society stays with the times and moves ahead. Thus this system attains the shape of a dynamic movement and if it stops and becomes static at some point, then it turns into idol worship. This takes place among nations which suffer from mental and practical inertia. We consider that stone statues are not worth worshipping, but do not mind the hidden idols in the form of false beliefs in our hearts and minds!

“اَﻟْﻮَﺍﺟِﺪُ” (al-waajid): rich, strong, wealthy {T, M}.

“وُﺟِﻞٌ” (wajil): capacity, power (65:6).

The Quran says:

2:96 You will find them to be most greedy

This word has been used mostly in this meaning.

“وُﺟُﺪٌ” (wujdun) or “ﻣَﻮْﺟُﻮﺩٌ” (maujuud) are words which are not found in the Quran. These are the terms coined by the linguists.

“اَﻟْﻮَﺟِﺲُ” (al-wajs): secret voice or the voice of your heart.

“اَﻟْﻮَﺍﺟِﺲُ” (al-waajis): the thought that crosses your heart (mind).

“اَﻟْﻴِﺠَﺎﺱُ” (al-eijaas): to feel something in the heart and to keep it concealed. A passing thought in which there is no element of fear {T}.

The Quran says about Ibrahim:

11:70 he felt a little fear of them in his heart

W-J-F و ج ف

“ﻗَﻠْﺐٌ وَﺍﺟِﻒٌ” (qalbun waajif): a troubled heart (that beats fast) {T, R}.

The Quran says:

79:8 That day, hearts will be troubled and worried

W-J-L و ج ل

“اَﻟْﻮَﺟَﻞُ” (al-wajal): fear and worry.

“اَﻟْﻮَﺟِﻞُ” (al-wajal): fear and worry, to worry, to fear, one who fears and worries is called “وُﺟِﻞٌ” (wajil). The plural is “وُﺟِﻠُﻮْﻥَ” (wajiloon) as in (15:52).

“اَﻟْﻮَﺟِﻴْﻞُ” (al-wajeel), “اَﻟْﻤَﻮْﺟِﻞَ” (al-maujil): a ditch in which water accumulates.

“اَﻟْﻮُﺟُﻮْﻝُ” (al-wujul): old folk {T}.

Raghib says that “اَﻟْﻮَﺟُﻞُ” (al-wajal) means to fret in one’s heart or fret secretly {R}.

The Quran says that one of the characteristics of the momineen is:

8:2 When God is mentioned, they get a feeling of fear (lest they are not doing what He wants)
As mentioned at other places “fear of God” is “to fear the destructive results that wrong deeds bring”, or “to fear the destructive results if the guidance is not followed”.
Ibn Faris says it basically means for something to appear.

“وجاه الشيء” (wajhush shaiyi): against something or to be face to face {M}.

“الوجه” (al-wajhu): the part of anything that is seen first.

“الوجه” (al-wajhu) is part of the human body which appears first of all.

Since man’s face appears first, it is called “وجه” (wajhhu) {M, T, Lataif-ul-Lugha}. But later this word came to mean personality {M, T, Lataif-ul-Lugha}.

Verse (2:112) says “من أجل وجه الله” (mun aslama wajhahu lillaah). Here “وجه” (wajhun) means the entire person not just the face.

Surah Bani Israel says:

| 17:7 | Lest they make your condition very bad (they turn the condition of your leaders as very bad) |

“وجه القوم” (wajhul qaum): the head of the nation or very respected person of a nation.

“وجه النهار” (wajhun nahaar): the initial part of the day.

“الوجه من النور” (al-wajhu minad dahr): the early part of the era, i.e. part of the times (era) which appears initially.

“الوجه” (al-wajhu): rank, respect too.

“الوجه” (al-wajih): man with respect or rank.

“الوجه” (al-wajihah): a cloth which is similar on both sides.

About Moosa it has been said:

| 33:69 | a respectful man |

“وجه الله” (wajhun): purpose, object, the way which is adopted to reach the destination, course, direction, the destination towards which one is moving.

“وجه الطريق” (wajhut tareeq): the path which leads to the destination {L}.

“وجه الأمر” (wajhul amr): the purpose of something and the right way.

“وجه” (jihatun) and “وجه” (wijhatun) also means as above, or purpose, reason, raison d’etre.

“وجه” (mutawajjah): the place towards which one is going.

The Quran says about the deeds:

| 2:272 | Seeking the purpose ordained by Allah |

Generally it is translated to mean for Allah’s pleasure or to make him agreeable. This turns one’s minds towards the emotions of displeasure or pleasure. God is above such emotions.

“وجه الله” (wajhil laah): the purpose which Allah has ordained, the destination towards which the laws of Allah take us, i.e. every deed must be for the purpose as ordained by Allah, every deed of man should be for reaching the destination that Allah’s law has ordained or fixed for it.

Surah Ar-Room says:

| 30:39 | Whatever you give for the development of mankind is meant to take you to your intended objective |

This makes the meaning of the verse clear in which it is said:

| 28:88 | Whatever man does undergoes change |
This is what “ہلک” (haalaka) means, but permanence is enjoyed only by the deeds which are made to reach the destination which Allah’s laws have destined, or that every worldly way undergoes change excepting the way that takes one to the destination fixed by Allah {M}.

This is also meant by these verses of Surah Ar-Rahman:

55:25 Every path is subject to change excepting the one which takes one to the great development

This has been called:

92:20 Every nation in the world has its own objective in life and every individual too

2:148 The group of momineen is such that wherever in the world it may be, and in whichever sphere, its purpose in life focuses on the destination fixed by the laws of God

2:115 So whereever you turn, you find yourself according to Allah’s intend. (His laws are operational everywhere)

W-H-D

“الواحد” (al-waahid): the number “one”.

“واحد” (waahid) and “احد” (ahad) both mean “one” but there is a difference in their usage. When it is said “ما الذي مثلي أحد” (ma atani minhum ahad), it will mean “nobody from among them came to me”. But when it is said “جاءني منهم واحد” (ja’u nabi minhim waahid), then it would mean that “only one person came to me (not two)” {T}.

Ibn Faris has said that “هو وءاحيد قبيلته” (huwa wahidhu qabililatihi) means “he is outstanding among his tribe”.

Raghib prefers the meaning given above.

The Quran has used the term “وءاحيد” (waahid) to mean Allah too (12:39) as well as “احد” (ahad) as in (112:1).

Muheet says that He who is alone in His personality is “احد” (ahad) as well as “واحد” (waahid), and nobody shares His traits or qualities. As such “احد” (ahad) would mean without parallel, unique. The basic characteristic of a personality is, i.e. it is “unique”.

“قد هو الله أحد” (qul huwal laahu ahad) relates this uniqueness of Allah’s personality (112:1).

“الأحدان” (al-uhdaanu): arrows which are unique and unparalleled {T}.

“اللميحاد” (al-meehaad): a dune which stands alone and away from other dunes {M}.

“التسویدان” (it-tahadash shaiyaan): both things intermingled. Figuratively this word means “to agree”.

All Quranic teachings are based on the “Oneness of God”, that is, upon the fact there is only one power (Sovereign) which enjoys total domination and power. There is no other law or power except His. As such, in the world of humans too, His law must operate.

18:110 (Therefore momin is he) who does not include anyone else in the Laws of his Sustainer.

That is, a momin is someone who does not bow his head before anyone’s law but His (which He has revealed in the Quran). Also see heading (A-H-D).

(wahshiyin): inhabited and desolate place {R}.

(makaanun wahsh): vacant place.

(baladun wahsh): an area which is desolate and un-inhabited.

(baata wahsha): he spent the night hungry (he was with empty stomach) {T}.

(al-wahsh): the opposite of “al-ins (al-ins) {R}, that is “not familiar”, “wild”.

(zaalika min wahshin naas): this man is from among the lowly people and those who hate humans {M}.

The Quran says:

81:5 And when the “unfamiliar” are gathered

Here the word can mean “unfamiliar” as well as “wild animals” and “wild and uncouth people”.

W-H-Y

(al-wahi): quick indication.

(wa hait-ul-kitaab): I signalled you about that thing, informed you quietly

Surah Maryam says that Zakariya was told not to speak to people:

19:11 As such he signalled the people (used sign language)

Raghib says and Taj supports him in this, that “al-wahi” means a quick signal.

(sha‘iyun wahi-un): the thing that comes quickly.

(amrun wahiyun): quick matter.

(al-waha): to be speedy.

(auhal amal): he was fast in work.

(al-wahi): to write.

(wa hait-ul-kitaab): I wrote that book.

(waahin): someone who writes.

(al-wahyu): that which is written.

(au-ha): to order.

Johri says that “al-wahi” means “al-kitaab”, i.e. the Quran itself. Lataif-ul-Lugha, Ibn Faris and Raghib support this.

Surah Al-Ma’idah says:

5:111 Revelation sent to the companions

Hence here it means the written order that was given through the Revelation which, according to Raghib, was sent through Isa in written form.

Taj says in the afore-mentioned verse that to wahi towards the fellowship of Isa means that “God had ordered them” {T, R}, and this wahi was relayed to the fellowship through Isa (Jesus) {R}.

Ibn Faris says that anything which you impart to others, and they become aware of it is called “wahi” (wahhi), regardless of the condition you impart it in, may be secretively or otherwise.

Surah As-Sajdah says:

41:12 he imparted the wahhi in all the heavens

QES-Norway Lughat-ul-Quran Volume IV Page 213 of 276
To amr the wahi means “to appoint the laws made by God according to which everything in the universe carries on.

This has been related in Surah An-Noor as:

| 24:41 | Everything in the universe knows what its obligations are and it must do what has been ordained for it |

This is the wahi which is operative in all the things, i.e. the amr or “the will of Allah”, or “Allah’s law”.

About this, Surah Az-Zalzaal says:

| 99:5 | For this purpose, God has made wahi towards the earth (ordered the earth about it) |

Hence it is the law about the earth from God.

Surah An-Nahal says:

| 16:68 | God has made the wahi towards the honey bee (God’s law ordains that it should operate in such a way) |

Everything in the universe is operating according to Allah’s wahi (order). This wahi has been ingrained in everything. This is called “law of nature” or for living things it is called “instinct”. This law or order is not created by those things themselves but has been created by God.

Man is a part of the universe and therefore for it too it is necessary that it must live or exist as per some law which has not been created by him but is guided by some external source. As far as his corporeal self is concerned, it is guided by the same principles that apply to other animals, i.e. to eat, sleep, wake up, reproduction, sickness, death; all are similar and follow the same law. These laws are not self-made.

Humans have a social and civilized life too, aside from their physical life. They also have a Self consisting of their strong sense of identity, meta cognition, emotions and memory. For this man needs a law as well and that law must also not be self-made but given to it by some external source. This law too is called wahi, but difference is that everyone does not get this wahi individually. God willed that this wahi be given to a man who would relay it to others and that man used to be called a “messenger”. This wahi was particular to such messengers.

Nothing in the universe has the right to accept or reject the law which has been ordained for it, but man has been given the right whether he wants to live according to this wahi or not. This is because for the development of his personality, it is necessary that he exercises his right to choose how he wants to live. The reason behind no man getting the wahi individually but through the messenger is also to let man choose his own way, because the things of the universe which get the wahi directly and individually are not allowed to deviate from the wahi. They have to follow the wahi at all costs as it is inbuilt and other than man, none else has the freedom to choose.

Man has been given the right to choose which way he wants to live, but he has not been given the right to change the results of the deeds that he chooses to do, i.e. good deeds will get good results and bad deeds will inevitably get bad results in terms of their consequences, and nobody can change this. Man can easily take poison or throw it away, but he does not have the right to make the poison produce the result as a piece of harmless sweet would. Indeed the purpose of the creation of humans with a free will is to hold them accountable for what they do (45:22).

The messengers did not get this wahi due to their own efforts but got selected by Allah. No man can reach up to the wahi but the wahi comes from its place and reaches man, i.e. it is revealed by God. In other words, it is not a subjective thing but objective. Man through his efforts can indeed discover the secrets of the things in the universe, but the truths that he gets through the wahi are acquired only through the messengers. This means that through the wahi, truth manifests itself upon the messenger (and through him to mankind, a messenger cannot himself unveil the truth). This is called the revelation of the wahi.
Since wahi was revealed only to the messengers as far as this world is concerned, we can never understand in what circumstances or how it was revealed. We can only develop our belief through the use of our intellect and reasoning and rational thinking it is from Allah and passed on to us by the messenger (although we are able to see some of the evidence presented). Also through the results of the orders of the wahi, we can judge the pragmatic truths in the wahi. The messengers sometimes got this wahi secretly and sometimes openly, but we can only get the wahi through the messenger’s teachings.

This fact has been related by the Quran in Surah Ash-Shura:

| 42:51 | And it is not up to any human that Allah should speak to him, except that he received wahi, or is spoken from behind a veil, or that messenger has been sent to him who reveals the wahi, according to the plans of Allah |

In this it has been related how Allah “speaks” to man. Man is of two kinds, the messengers and other than the messengers (the common men). The first kind, i.e. the messengers, receive the message or wahi through the medium selected by Allah, like it has been said about the Messenger Muhammed. Or it gets received by a voice which is directly heard, like from behind a curtain (as in the case of Moses). As for the second category of humans, they only receive the wahi through the messengers. Now this message is within the Quran, not anywhere outside it. In a way this Quran has also been revealed unto us (3:71, 2:105). That is, it has been revealed to us through the Messenger Muhammed. Since after the Messenger’s death, wahi has been discontinued, and no man can now receive it directly – this is because the Quran is a complete book of guidance which deals with the human thought process.

Now only two fountainheads of knowledge are remaining for man. One is the wahi of Allah as contained in the Quran, and the second is man’s own intellect. No man can get any knowledge aside from these two sources. Meditation and other such ideas find no credence with the Quran. See heading (L-H-M). If the Quran and man’s intellect get together, they complete the human knowledge. The concept that the Messenger Muhammed received two kinds of wahi, one which is in the Quran and one which is out of it or in traditions only is a non-Quranic concept.

There is no mention of such a division of the wahi in the Quran (6:19). This was a concept which prevailed among the Jews and adopted by the Muslims. During the time of the Messenger there is no mention of wahi-matlu and ghair-matlu anywhere. At this point only these details about the wahi will be discussed. If more details are needed they can be seen in the book titled Iblees and Adam which discusses these things in greater detail.

Ibnul Anbari says that wahi is called so because the angel brings it secretly to the person towards whom it is sent.

“akhir an ilaih” (auha ilaih): to send as messengers.

“akhir al-rajul” (auhar rajul): he sent his trusted messenger to his trusted servant as an envoy {T}.

Abu Ishaq says that wahi actually means “i’laam fi khafa-in” (i’laam fi khafa-in). That is why the Quran says it is something to put in the heart.

“auhat nafsuhu”: there was fear in his heart, he fretted in his heart, and his heart developed a fear.

About Is’a’s mother, the Quran says:

| 20:38 | We inspired Moosa’s mother’s heart to feed the baby, and let the baby flow in the river in a box if she developed any fear | 20:38 | Ana’maina ila Am’ Moussen |
As mentioned earlier, "وَحاضرٌ" (wahyun) is anything that is sent toward anybody so that he or she becomes aware of it, or to send knowledge towards somebody no matter how it is done. Thus to send wahy towards Isa's hazaris or fellowship of Isa means to send order towards them (through Isa). In the same way, to send wahy towards the mother of Moosa would mean to send an order or news through somebody to her.

Wahi to messengers was particular only to them. To believe from the word "ﺍَوْﺣَﻴْﻨَﺎ" (awhaina) that a common human being could also receive the wahy like the messengers, is to go against the teachings of the Quran.

Note here that that which is called wahy to messengers, was received for the last time by the Messenger Muhammed, and is now safe in the Quran. After this no human being received nor will receive any other guidance directly from God as it has been copleted. Anyone who claims to have done so, is either deceiving himself or is trying to deceive others.

Since wahy does not include any human wish or thought, the Quran has called it "ﺍَﻟْﻌِﻠْﻢُ" (al-ilm) which is totally free of human thought (2:120) i.e. human beings do not think like the Quran and this is why no human being can produce verses like the Quran (2:23-24). At another place it has been said that there is no thought of the messenger himself in the wahy (i.e., it is entirely from God):

53:35 He does not say anything on his own but this is the wahy which has been sent towards him:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>53:35</th>
<th>He does not say anything on his own but this is the wahy which has been sent towards him:</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>وَمَـَا ﻳـَﻨْﻄِﻖُ ﻋَﻦِ اﳍَْ</td>
<td>ۉ ﻯٰ ﻩُ ﻩُ</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

He has been given this knowledge by the Great One (God). As has been said earlier, nobody except a messenger can receive this knowledge directly. Therefore the Messenger announces:

7:62 I know that (with the help of God) which you do not know

Therefore the truths that are revealed through the wahy are not discoverable by human intellect. The human intellect needs the light of the wahy like the eye needs the sunlight. The path which has been defined by the wahy is the dependable guidance and will always lead to the truth and to the direction of the self-development. Note that the words of the wahy too are not the messengers’ but God’s.

"الوَحْي" (al-wahi) also means the same as "الطَّرِيقُ الْمُعْتَمَدُ" (at-tareeq ul-mu’tamad), that is “dependable path” {Lataif-al-Lagha}.

W-D-D

ودد

"الوعد" (al-wudd), "الوداد" (al-wadaad): friendship, love.

Raghib says it means “to love something” and “to wish to belong to something”.

"النعْمَة" (al-mawaddah): love.

"الوَدُّ" (al-wudd): peg, although some think that it is a form of "الوَدَاد" (al-wadad) whose root is (W-T-D) {T}.

The Quran says:

| 2:96 | Every one of them so wishes |
| 19:96 | Allah the Kind, will create love (or good feeling) for them |
| 85:14 | Allah is very kind (who is very ‘loving’). |

Surah Ar-Room says about connubial relationship:

| 30:21 | created mutual love between you (made you join each other so that you became supportive of each other) |

QES-Norway Lughat-ul-Quran Volume IV Page 216 of 276
This verse points to the marital issues i.e. this is something which we need to use as a criterion to live happily within the contract of a marriage. If affection is missing then this needs to be worked at to create it through the study of the Quran.

Surah Al-Mumtahuna has used "مَوْدَّةٌ" (mawaddah) against enmity (60:7).

Surah Ash-Shura says:

| 42:23 | Tell them "I demand no compensation for it (i.e. for communicating this guidance)" (I just want relationship to be maintained) |

For its right meaning, see heading (Q-R-B).

Wadd

"وَدَّ" (wadd), "وَدْ" (wadè), "وَدَّ" (wadda'): something stopped, became static.
"وَدَّ" (wadda'): left, gave up.

W-D-Ain

"وَدَعَ" (wada'ah), "وُدُعَ" (wad'ah): something stopped, became static.
"وَدَّ" (wadda'): left, gave up.

Ibn Faris says that this root basically means "to give up" and "to empty".

- "توَدَعَ الفَرِيقَانِ" (tawada'al fareeqaan): both opponents ceased fire.
- "تَوَدَّهَ" (tawadda-hu): kept it in a safe place {T}.
- "تَوَدِّيْعُ" (taudi'us saub): to keep cloth in a safe place so that it is free of dust etc.
- "الْمُسْتَوْدَعُ" (al-mastauda): the place where something is kept safely.
- "إِلَّا قَزْىٰ" (al-qa'iyah): a tomb where the dead lies in peace.
- "إِلَّا قَزْىٰ" (al-qa'iyah): a quiet and stolid man.
- "إِلَّا قَزْىٰ" (al-qa'iyah): a tomb where the dead lies in peace.
- "إِلَّا قَزْىٰ" (al-qa'iyah): a quiet and stolid man.
- "إِلَّا قَزْىٰ" (al-qa'iyah): a quiet and stolid man.

The Quran has mentioned the dynamic and static condition of every living thing i.e. every living thing evolves in steps: see (11:6), (6:99)

The rule about the organic evolution is that everything stays in a certain place and state for sometime, and then from there it evolves to the next stage, and thus evolves to its completion. These places at which it in a way stops, are its stations, but even in this station a thing is not entirely static. Changes keep taking place in it, but that change is so imperceptible that we do not feel it. We feel the change when it has actually taken place and visibly manifests itself. We call it the next stage of that thing.

- "وَدَعَ" (wada'ah), "وَدَّ" (wadda-u), "تَوَدَّعَ" (taud'aa): to say goodbye to someone, to see somebody off.
- "وَدَعَا" (wada'ah), "وَدَّ" (wadda-u), "تَوَدَّعَا" (taud'aa): to say goodbye to someone, to see somebody off.
- "وَدَعَ" (wada'ah) along with "دَعَ" (da'at) means "luxurious living". The one who sees somebody off prays that "may God keep the traveller protected from the travails of the journey and makes him reach his destination comfortably". Later this word came to mean "send somebody off" or "see somebody off". Later it came to mean "to give up" or "to leave" {R}.

The Quran says:

| 93:3 | Your Sustainer has not forsaken you, and neither is he displeased with you |

QES-Norway Lughat-ul-Quran Volume IV Page 217 of 276
33:48 to give up or leave alone.
Ibn Faris says it basically means “to arrive” and “be familiar”.

Muheet says the basic meaning of this root is “to come close” and “to be attracted” {M}.

“َوُدَقٌ” (wadaqa ِilaih): came closer to him.
“َوُدَقٌ” (wadaqal matar): it rained from the sky.
“َوُدَقٌ” (al-wadag): rain, since it comes from the skies.
“َوُدَقَتْ” (wadaqatid ِa’abbatu) and “َوُدَقَتْ” (astadaqat): for the female four-legged to secrete as the male wants, or according to his wish.
“َوُدَقٌ” (wadq): the mist that is seen when it is raining hard.
“َوُدِيْقَةٌ” (wadeeqah): the shimmering in the air due to heat {R}.

Taj says that every type of rain whether it is light or heavy is called “َوُدَقٌ” (wadq).

The Quran has used the word “َوُدَقَتْ” (al-wadq) to mean rain, and when it comes out of the clouds (24:43).

Do you not see how they act like a thirsty camel who needs satiation and wanders from one concept to another in search of the concept that will satisfy them

For more details see heading (Sh-Ain-R).

“َوُدَقَتْ” (audiyah): he killed him {R}.
“َوُدَقَتْ” (audar rajul): the man was killed {T}.
“َوُدَقَتْ” (ad-diyah): the wealth which is given as compensation by the murderer to the heirs of the murdered {M}, i.e. money given in compensation for taking a life (4:92).

Leave those (who rebel against our laws) to us (leave them to us, do not worry about them, our law will deal with them) and leave their wives behind

The Quran says:
"وارث“ (warisa abah): he became heir to his father.
"ورث“ (aurasahu), "ابو“ (abuh): his father made him the heir.

Some say that “وارث“ (wars) and “ميراث“ (meeras) is in relation to inheritance or wealth and “يرث“ (irs) is with relation to descent.

"الوارث“ (al-wars): a fresh thing.
"الوارث“ (al-waaris) is a Godly trait {T, M}.

Ibn Faris says it basically means “to possess a thing and then for that thing to be transferred to others”. Thus for God to be “الوارث“ (al-waaris) is explained.

Raghib says real inheritance is something that does not impose any responsibility, and for which a man is not held accountable. Anything which is acquired without any effort is called "فادوارث كذا“ (qad warisa kaza). To give someone as gift to someone is called "اورث“ (awras). Inheritance is not confined to wealth only.

"وارث علما من فلاً“ (waristu ilman min fulanin) also means that “I benefited from that man in knowledge“ {R}.

Zikriah when he had prayed to God to grant him a son, said:

| 19:6 | Who will inherent me from the family of Yaqub? |

Here he meant inheritance of knowledge, not messenger hood, that is, messenger-hood is not hereditary as inheritance in other things is.

Messenger-hood is granted by Allah only. It is another matter that Allah may select a man for messengerhood whose father was also a messenger. This post was given to the son not as an inheritance but by Allah’s own criterion in making such a decision.

Surah Al-Bagrah says “الوارث“ (al-waaris) in verse (2:233). Here it means “inheritance“.

Surah Aal-e-Imran says:

| 3:180 | And the heritage of heaven and earth is for Allah |

Here "ميراث“ (meeraas) means “country as inheritance“.

The Quran says:

| 89:16 | These people collect the inheritance and gobble it up |
| 7:43 | This is the heaven which has been made your inheritance as a consequence of for your (good) deeds |

This means that heaven has been promised in return for your righteous deeds. This shows that not only those who inherit have been called as heirs, but also those who get the return for their labour and hard work have also been called heirs. This is an important point noted by the Quran for our consideration. Inheritance of the earth too has this meaning, for which capability is one of the must conditions (21:105).
“وارد” (al-ward): the flowers of any tree. The singular is “واردة” (wardah). Later this word was mostly used for the rose \{T, M, R\}, and even later to mean “the colour red or pink”.

The Quran says:

55:37 It will turn red like dihaan

For the meaning of “ديهان” (dihaan) see heading (D-He-N).

“وارد” (al-wird): port or jetty where animals drink, or for animals to reach the drinking spot, whether it is entered or not \{T, M, R\}.

Ibn Faris too says that this word means to reach something, like people or animals who reach their drinking spots.

“الموارد” (al-mawairid): water hole.

“المواردة” (al-mawairidah), “الواردة” (al-waridah): path, or specifically that path which leads to a water hole (water source).

“وارد” (al-ward): one who reaches the water hole \{T, M, R\}, or the man who reaches the water hole first and draws water for the animals in the caravan to drink \{T, M, R\}.

“واردة” (auradahu): brought him to the drinking spot.

“واردة” (al-waridah): path, or specifically that path which leads to a water hole (water source).

“واردة” (al-waridah): one who reaches the water hole \{T, M, R\}, or the man who reaches the water hole first and draws water for the animals in the caravan to drink \{T, M, R\}.

Surah Hoodh says:

11:98 How execrable is the drinking spot at which they land

Surah Maryam says:

19:86 We will drive the criminals to the jahannam like animals are driven to their wale hole.

Surah Yusuf has used the word “وارد” (waarid) to mean “one who goes ahead of the caravan and brings water (12:19).

Surah Maryam says about the jahannam:

19:71 There is nobody among you who can be waarid on her

This verse is taken to generally mean that all human beings will first enter hell, then the believers will be taken out and the unbelievers will remain there. As confirmation of this, the next verse (19:72) is presented. But this concept is wrong (not compatible with the rest of the Quran) because there is nothing to suggest that anybody will be taken out of “جہن” (jahannam) which is not a place or abode which one can leave after paying for his crimes or bad deeds. It is actually a state in which one trails behind in the evolutionary process, so getting out of this state after leaving this life is impossible.

It is for this reason that the Quran has said about the momineen:

21:101 They will be kept away from it, so far that they will not even be able to hear its sound

Therefore the aforesaid verse (19:71) refers not to all humans but only to those who made wrong choices in this life and who do not believe in the accountability and the life after death.

Verse (19:72) says “تَمَتُّمَ النَّعُوجَةُ اللَّذِينَ الطَّفَّاءُ (summa nunajjil lazeyenat taqu)." Here "تَمَتُّمَ (summa) does not mean “after this”, but is in relation to another thing. See heading Summa. Hence “نُجُواتٌ (nijaat) also means “to protect” or “to keep safe from punishment”. See heading (N-J-W).
But if one insists that in (19:71) “مَنكُمْ” (minkum) means “all humanity”, i.e. the believers as well as the unbelievers, then it is not necessary to enter “” (wird). It only means “to reach a certain spot”. This means that in order to reach jannah one will have to pass through travails whether worldly, or in the life hereafter. This criterion will have to be passed through at every step in this world to reach heaven. Anyone who is found weak or who escapes his trial, will land in the destruction of the jahannam. He who is stolid in misery and is careful, will be protected from this hell. At several places in the Qur'an it has been said that in order to reach jannah one will have to pass through travails, as in (2:214), (3:141), (9:16), and (33:10). This does not mean that in the life hereafter one will have to go through travails first and only then he will be able to enter jannah. It means that the messengers of truth will face travails at the hands of the opponents in this world. He who bears these travails of opponents of truth will be qualified to go to jannah. Such a person will go straight to jannah after death. Whether one goes to jannah or jahannum, is decided by the deeds one does in this world.

This can be said philosophically that the creative process is such that every creative idea before being manifested as a concrete thing is in a state of internal chaos or an internal churning. These are called labour pains. A successful genius is one who comes out of this internal conflict successfully, while the unsuccessful is lost in the struggle. If we look at history we find many unsuccessful thinkers or philosophers who are found to have been engulfed in this conflict. Messenger- hood is above this process, because it is not created by the messenger’s own thoughts.

W-R-Q

Ibn Faris says it basically means goodness and riches, and muddy color.

“ﺍَﻟْﻮَﺭَﻕُ” (al-waraq): the leaves of a tree.
“وزرة” (warq): means one leaf {T, M}.

The Qur'an says:

6:59 And even a leaf does not fall without Him knowing of it.

Abu Abeeda says that “ﺍَﻟْﻮَﺭَﻕُ” (al-waraq) means “silver”.
Abul Haisham says “ﺍَﻟْﻮَﺭِﻕُ” (waraqn), “ﺍَﻟْﻮَﺭِﻕُ” (al-wariq) and “ﺍَﻟْﺮﱢﻗَۃُ” (ar-riqah) means silver coin {T, M}.

Surah Al-Kahaf says:

18:19 So send one of you with the silver coin of yours

Muheet says tha in the olden days “وزرة” (waraq) meant the skins which were used for writing, i.e. parchments {T, M}. This leads to the meaning of leaves of a page or pages of a book.

W-R-Y

This root means both “to hide” and also “to be manifest”. It has both connotations of “hiding” as well as “making manifest”, like fire is a potential hidden within flint stones. When the fire comes out of them, it becomes manifest.

“وزرت النَّارَ” (waratin naar): the fire flared up.
“وزرى النَّارَ” (auran naar): the fire was stoked.
“وزرة توَرَيق” (warrahu taureeyah): hid him.
“وزرى توَرَيق” (araz zanad): fire erupted out of the flint stones.
“وزرى الخُبر” (warral khabar): hid the real thing and expressed it in another way {T}.
“وزارَى” (waaraahu): hid it.
“توارَى” (yuwaari): hide (5:31).
"تواري" (tawaari): hidden {T}.
"توريه" (tusuriyah): place to hide
"الوزراء" (al-wara’u): grandson {Ibn Qateeba}.

11:71 Ibrahim got the premonition of his son Ishaq and beyond Ishaq a grandson in the person of Yaqoob.

Torah is supposed to be from this root according to some {T}. If so, it would then mean “a thing which can give fire or light”. For the meaning of Torah the Book, see heading Taurah.

"وزراء دالك" (siwa zaalik): something beyond it {M}.

The Quran says:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Verse</th>
<th>Meaning</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>2:91</td>
<td>deny anything that is beyond it too</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>56:71</td>
<td>have you ever wondered about the fire which you light up</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>100:2</td>
<td>the horse whose hooves send out sparks when they hit the ground</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

"وزراء" (wara’u), "وزر" (waryun): both in front and back {T}. At different places in the Quran, the meanings of this word will be determined as per the context.

W-Z-R

"وزر" (al-wazar): high and safe mountain, a mountain which can be sought for refuge, any sanctuary {T}.

The Quran says:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Verse</th>
<th>Meaning</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>75:11</td>
<td>There is no place where they can run away to and seek refuge</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

"وزر" (al-wizir): heavy load or burden, very big responsibility. The plural is "اؤزار" (auzaar).

Ibn Faris says this root has two meanings. One is of “sanctuary” and the second one is “heaviness in something” or “something being burden-some”.

"وزر" (wazar): he lifted the load.
"وزير" (waazir): one who lifts the load {T}.

The Quran says:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Verse</th>
<th>Meaning</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>6:165</td>
<td>No one will lift someone else’s burden in the hereafter:</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Everyone will have to fulfil his own responsibility and nobody shall be punished or rewarded for someone else’s deeds. Nobody will have a share in the returns of any one’s deeds. This is a great principle of the Law of requital which the Quran has described here. One will be responsible for himself only and get the returns for his own deeds only, unlike today’s happenings in which somebody labours and somebody else reaps the benefits. Somebody commits a crime and others pay for it. One makes the mistakes and others pay for it. This all will not happen in a Quranic society or in the life hereafter.

"الوزراء وزراء وزراء أخرى" (la taziru waazirah waazir ukhra): he who sows will also reap will be the unchangeable principle there.

"وزير" (wazir), "موزائر" (muwaazir): he who is responsible, he who shares the burden.
Raghib says “المنوار” (al-muwazarah) means “assistance” and “وزير” (wazir) means “assistant” as well as “someone who shares the burden or bears the load of the leader” {R}.

The Quran says:

20:29 Make someone share the burden from among my family

وَأَجْعَلْ لِيْ يَّدِينَ مِنْ أَهْلِي

The Quran says: 47:4 until war gives up its weapons (or lays down/surrenders its weapons)

حَتّٰيَ تَضَعَ اﳊَْﺮْبُ اﳊَْوارِا

W-Z-Ain وزع

وزعُ “وزع” (fattaza’a): so he stopped.

وزعُ “وزع” (al-wazizah): someone who prevents or stops. It is also used to mean leader or ruler. It also means “someone who enforces the law “and also “an army strategist” and “administrator” or “commander” {T, R}.

Surah An-Namal says about the armies of Suleman:

27:17 They were organized and very orderly

فَهُوَ يَوزَعُونَ

It means that they were administered that they obeyed orders, and were never rebellious, nor did they ever oppress anyone.

The same Surah relates the prayer of Suleman:

27:19 O my Benefactor, stop me all from the things which prevent me from thanking you for your Benevolence, give me the courage to use all my capabilities towards the path ordained by you.

رَبﱢ ﻧِﻌْﻤَﺘَﮏَ ﺮَ اَنْ اَﺷْﮑُ اَوْزِﻋْﻨِﯽْ

Scholars say that here “وزع” (au zi’ni) means “the power”, “the understanding”, and “to make fond of something”. When someone is prevented from following the wrong path, then it means that he is given the capability of following the right path or given the guidance.

Surah As-Sajdah says about the dwellers of jahannum:

41:19 They will be stopped

فَهُوَ يَوزَعُونَ

For its meaning, see heading Jaheem under (J-H-M).

W-Z-N وزن

وزنُ “وزن” (al-wazn): to weigh something with a hand, to assess something with a hand {R}.

وزنُ “وزن” (wazn): for something to be light or heavy.

وزنُ “وزن” (wazan), “يزن” (yazin): to weigh, to weigh and give {T}.

Ibn Faris says that its basic meaning is stolidity and balance and proportion, and also for making two things equal in weight.
The Quran has given a lot of importance to "wazn" and given it a particular meaning. By deliberating on the universe one can easily understand that this whole system is founded on balance. If the balance between things is disturbed, then the whole system will go awry.

55:7 God has created the universe and kept a balance in everything

The mutual gravity between planets is just one example of this great fact. Since man is also a part of the universe, it is essential that his world too carries this balance.

55:8 In order that you do not transgress balance

Social and economic life always follows the principle:

55:9 Uphold the social and economic balance and never let the social balance go awry

Obviously this balance cannot be upheld simply by having a law which in fact is words. It is also necessary to formulate a practical system which upholds this value. This is why the Quran has not only given us the code of laws but has also given us "al-meezaan" or the practical system to establish this balance. In other words:

57:25 A system which truly determines the "weight" or value of everything.

But no system in the world can be stable if not backed by power or authority and therefore it is said:

57:25 for this we have given you the iron (or the sword)

This is what a true Quranic system is, i.e. the code of permanent laws from Allah and a system in order to establish this code, and the sword too was given in order to implement this system. About iron it is said:

57:25 Its strength does away with the forces or elements which create chaos and disharmony in society

Thus this strength is the cause for the benefit of mankind. The characteristics of this system is that anything acquired in it is begotten according to one’s efforts and deeds:

101:9 He whose scale of intent and (good) deeds tips will live a luxurious life and whoever’s scale is light (as against the other scale) will live a life of misery and ignominy

"mawazeen" is the plural of "meezaan". In this system everything will be weighted (or valued) correctly (7:8).

18:105 the balance will not be raised for those who worked against the system as there will be nothing to weigh

15:19 according to a particular proportion

"wazeenar raya": a man with a very correct and weighty opinion.

"raajij-ul-wazn": a man who’s opinion is very intelligent and wise.

"auzan-ul-qaum": the best or most respected person in the nation {M}.

"meezan-ul-watan": the best or most respected person in the country {M}.

(\textit{wasatatut dananeer}): the best coin \{T\}.

(\textit{al-wasitah}): medium, intermediary and the reason or cause for anything \{M\}.

(\textit{al-waseet}): intermediary who intervenes between two opponents \{T\}.

The Quran says about the horses in a battle:

\begin{tabular}{|c|c|}
\hline
100:5 & they enter the ranks of the enemies \\
\hline
\end{tabular}

The Quran says about the nation of the Muslims:

\begin{tabular}{|c|c|}
\hline
2:143 & Thus we have made you a balanced community so that you guard the conduct of all mankind \\
\hline
\end{tabular}

For a nation to be able to do this it must be international in its status and equidistant from every nation. So that everyone is equal in its eyes, just as the centre is at an equal distance from every point within a circle. It is obvious then that this position can be attained only by a nation which never moves an inch away from justice. Only such a nation can oversee the deeds of mankind. Thus "\textit{ammati wast}" means a nation which enjoys a central position internationally which oversees the deeds of all nations internationally and resolves all international disputes with full justice. The Quran had fixed this place for the nation of the Muslims. It is noteworthy that the Quran had suggested this system for the resolution of international conflicts at a time when the world was even unaware of the concept of the internationalism.

\textit{Ibn Faris} says the meaning of this word is “opposite to poverty and strictness”.

\textit{Raghib} says "\textit{wusuh}" is the power which is slightly more than needed for the work assigned.

The Quran uses "المسير" (al-musih) opposite to "المقتدر" (al-muqteer) in (2:236), which means “he who receives abundance in sustenance”. The same meaning is in Surah An-Noor:

24:22 well to do people

The Quran says:

<table>
<thead>

</tr>
<tr>
<td>7:42</td>
<td>abundance is a life of heaven</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

This verse refers to the abundance or happiness in this life as well as the development in the human personality which in the life hereafter enables man to traverse higher stages of evolution. This is heaven which encompasses the heavens and the earth (57:21).

Raghib writes that verse (2:286), (6:153), (7:42), (23:62) means that “this is the fruit of following Allah’s guidance”, i.e. “to be in heaven”.

In support of this meaning at another place it is said:

<table>

<tr>
<th>Quranic verse</th>
<th>English translation</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>2:185</td>
<td>Allah only orders that which is not beyond man’s capacity</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

This is the general meaning attributed to this verse, but in certain places the former meaning seems more appropriate, which is to live according to the teachings of the Quran. This results in the development of the human personality and in turn expands a person’s abilities and understanding.

W-S-Q

"W-S-Q" (wasqa), "يَسِيقُ" (yasiqu), "وَسَقَ" (wasqa): to join things, to gather different things, to carry a load, to take something inside.
"W-S-Q" (wasqa) (nuaaqah): she-camel kept the sperm in its womb and closed the womb’s mouth, i.e. became pregnant.
"W-S-Q" (musaqaat al-ibl): the camels gathered together {T, R}.

Nawab Siddiq Hasan Khan writes that the words in which W-S-Q appear have the connotation of intensity and gathering {Al-ilm-ul-Ashqaaq}.

IbnFaris says the basic meaning is to pick something up.

The Quran says:

<table>

<tbody>
<tr>
<td>84:17</td>
<td>night and everything which it gathers (darkness, moon and the stars)</td>

"W-S-Q" (wasq): a camel load, or sixty.
"W-S-Q" (itasaaq): to get everything and for its elements to gather {R}.

The Quran says:
84:14 For the moon to be full

وَاﻟْﻘَﻤَﺮِ اِذَا اﺗﱠَِﻖَ

"ittisaqul qamar": for the moon to be full, complete and even. This condition prevails from the 13th to the 16th night of the month.

W-S-L

 куда: to reach something eagerly with liking, according to the meaning this word is more particular than the word "waseelah" (with a Saad) because "waseelah" with a Seen means "to reach something eagerly" while "waseelah" with a Saad only means "to reach something" [R]. It also means "status", "value" and "high rank" [R]. It also means "anything through which closeness to something is acquired".

qurbah: to be near somebody or close to someone with regard to rank or place {T, M}.

tawassala ilaiyya bikaza: he came close to me through that thing [Ibn Qateeba].

Taj and Muheet say "waseelah" (waseelah) with a Seen, mean "rank, stage, closeness, and relation".

I have let the word “waseela” remain intact because that is the prevalent meaning. According to the meanings of the word “waseela” that I have given earlier, the meaning of this verse would be: “Believers, protect (or observe) the laws of Allah, and seek rank or closeness to Allah”. The way to do it to struggle (to follow) in His path at your utmost, and thus you will be successful in attaining the purpose of life. In other words, this is the way to attain position with Allah and continue struggling in this way.

If this word, “waseela”, is translated to mean “means” (as it is generally done), then the verse would mean “seek the means or medium through which you can acquire rank or closeness to Allah, and struggle in this path”. In both meanings the meaning is the same, that is, “struggle or conduct jihad purely for Allah’s Deen and this will make you close to Allah. But generally this verse is taken to mean that in order to reach close to Allah, certain “means” or medium is required, and that waseela or means is thought to be one’s religious godfather or priest. Therefore one cannot get closer to Allah without this godfather or mentor figure.

When “waseela” was taken to mean the “means” or “mentor”, “jaahidu” is taken to mean “jihad” against one’s self, which is termed as the greatest jihad or struggle. This would mean that the way of life which has been revealed to us to banish idol worship by establishing a link directly between man and God through the Quran has now become advocate of seeking some man’s intervention on behalf of people with God.

Allah had announced that:

But for this there is the condition that:
They should be faithful to Me, and have faith upon Me, so that they are guided (to the right path).

Hence the issue is very clear. Anybody who has faith on the laws of Allah and obeys them, gets the guidance for which people seek a spiritual guide. There is no such spiritual guide other than Allah himself. (18:17). His laws can be obeyed by establishing His laws in practice. The characteristic of this system is that, no other power intervenes between God and his servants. This is the freedom from all else for enforcing which the Messenger Muhammed had been sent (7:157). But instead of enjoying that freedom we bind ourselves with the chains of personality cults so that no part of our thought or deed was allowed to remain free. Remember, man can only exist with his head raised high when he instead of bowing to human beings, bows to Allah’s laws only.

The Quran says:

"أُوْصَدَاقةً (ausadal baaba) and "أَصْدَاهُ (asadahu): he closed the door.

"أَوْصَدَ يَدَيْه (ausadil qidr): he covered the pot (with the lid) {T, R}.

Ibn Faris says it basically means to join one thing with another.

Verse (104:8) says "أَلَمْ يَعْلَمُ وَيْقَةَ مُؤْصِدَةٍ (Innaha alaihim musadah). For its meaning see heading (A-Sd-D).
Ibn Faris says that its basic meaning is to describe something. It also \( \text{اصفة} \) \( \text{(as-sifah)} \) is a sign which always accompanies something.

Almost everyone in this world agrees that God is there, but the difference lies in what they think God is or how He is? Nobody’s intellect can tell him for certain as to how or what God is like. God is beyond the comprehension of human intellect, therefore only that can be held true about God which God himself relates, and there can be no other source for what he says but the revelation which in its final form is contained in the Quran. Therefore the concept that the Quran presents about God is the only true one. Any concept that is in conflict with the Quranic concept will not be true.

Therefore, after relating such concepts (that are produced by the human mind) the Quran says:

| 6:101 | God is far above and free of the concepts these people produce about Him |

This is the reason that the Quran even invites those people (who believe in God) to have faith and accept Islam, so that you have the right concept of God, and this can only be the concept that God has explained about Himself and which is now preserved in the Quran. This is through His attributes. In other words, we are quite incapable of understanding much about God. Nobody who is finite (man) can really understand the infinite (God). Therefore God has only related His attributes, and we can have an idea about Him through these traits. God is All Knowing, Aware, Seer, etc. But God who is all these things, is actually what? We can neither comprehend nor make someone understand. As per the Quran what is detailed in the Quran is enough for the human self-development in this life – it is about what we do in this life with Allah’s attributes serving as a model.

Scholars say a female camel instead of a she-goat is meant here \( \text{T} \). However, this signifies the superstitions that were prevalent there before the advent of Islam.

We say sometimes when some big religious personality passes away that the man has met \( \text{وصل} \) \( \text{(wisaal)} \). This concept has come from the Hindu concept of Vedant, which says that man is part of God which unfortunately has been imprisoned in this corporeal self. After parting with this body, man’s soul will rejoin with its whole (God). For this rejoining the word ‘wisaal’ is used, i.e. that he becomes rejoin with God. This is the teaching of the modern day Muslims, or at least in some parts of the muslim world. All these concepts are non-Quranic. Similar is the concept of ‘urs’, which has come from the Christian concept of monasticism, which means “to wed”. Christians believe that the nuns are wedded to Christ. whom they think is God, and in a way they are the brides of God. This concept seems to have made inroads in sufism within the muslims, where it is thought that if a religious person or elder dies, he is reunited with God. All such concepts are non-Quranic.

(auas) and “(wassa): to make agreement or promises, or to make someone the owner (after one’s death).
“(al-wasi): one who makes out a will, and also one who is advised.

The Quran says:

<tr>
<td>2:132</td>
<td>Ibrahim ordered his sons to do it (took this further up to them)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4:11</td>
<td>Allah orders you about your children</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Surah Yasin uses the word “(tauseeyah) in (36:50). Surah Al-Asr describes one of the characteristics of the group of momineen:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Verse</th>
<th>Translation</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>103:3</td>
<td>They advise each other to be patient and follow the right path</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

But as per the connotation contained in the root’s meaning, it also means that due to the truth and stolidity, they are joined together. The cause of mutual bond between them is true and strong. The reason for their being strong is that they share the same ideology of ‘Iman’ and work together for the establishment of the system for the good of mankind.

“(moos): one who makes a will (2:182).

The Quran says:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Verse</th>
<th>Translation</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>2:180</td>
<td>Those who face death, and who leave behind them inheritance (or wealth), must make out a will for their parents and other relatives according to the proscribed rule</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

This shows that it is one’s duty to make out a will for the parents and other relatives, but if someone cannot make a will due to some reason, or the will does not cover the entire inheritance, then God has apportioned shares. This is the reason that while relating about those shares, the Quran has repeatedly said:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Verse</th>
<th>Translation</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>4:11</td>
<td>After completing his will or after repaying any loan</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

This order is so plain and straight forward that there is no cause for any deliberation on this, but it is said that inheritance can only be made for one third of the inheritance, as well as for the heirs. A tradition (not any verse of the Quran) is presented in support of this contention, because obviously there can be no hadith that is repugnant or opposed to the Quran. But in order to prove that this tradition is right it is even... said that a hadith can over-rule the Quranic verses. Therefore this hadith has cancelled the relevant verses of the Quran. This concept is a direct contravention of the Quran.

Remember, no verse of the Quran has been cancelled – a detailed study of the Quran indicates that everything contained in the Book is required at some stage of our individual and collective life. No verse within it cancels any other verse nor does anything outside it can cancel any verse within it. Every word of God stands solidly as the truth. For more details see heading (N-S-Kh). Even if the Messenger Muhammad had said it, it is possible that due to some exigency the Messenger had advised someone at that time to make out a will for one third of his inheritance in somebody’s favour. If that is so then it was a temporary thing and does not enjoy permanence and is not applicable as far as the Quranic injunction is concerned.

Also note that laws about inheritance will be employed only if the deceased has extra wealth. If a society is established in which one hands over his extra wealth to the Quranic state, see heading (Ain-F-W), then there is no question of any inheritance, which is the ultimate objective of the system. The Messenger Muhammad himself had done so, neither did he keep wealth more than what he needed nor did he leave an inheritance. He did not accumulate any property nor was there a need to be distributed. Thus the laws of inheritance need not be applied to him. This will be the condition of all momins when a Quranic society is created. Till that time every momin should make out a will for the inheritance he leaves behind. It is his duty indeed and he has full right to do with his inheritance as he wills. The fact is that one can understand his affairs himself. A man gave his elder son higher education, sent him to London for education, made him do law, he is now doing well and very happy. Recently another son was born to him, all expense regarding his bringing up, education are still to be made, i.e. will have to be made. According to the law the will he can bequeath all his inheritance to this child, but if this will is not made out then the elder son stands to get half of the inheritance, although his father has already spent a lot on him. After giving the right to will his inheritance as he likes, the Quran has also said that if someone’s will is not just, then the court has the right to arbitrate between the heirs according to laws (2:182). The will has been given so much importance by the Quran that in Surah Al-Mai’dah it has itself related the procedure for evidencing or witnessing (5:106).

“al-mauzunah” (al-mauzunah): armour, i.e. whose clips are linked to one another, or the thing which jewels are sewn onto, or the thing which has been arranged by layers (i.e. one upon another).

“sareerun mauzun” (sareerun mauzun): a double woven bed {T, R, M}.

The Quran says:

56:15 double woven beds (or beds decorated with jewels)

Ibn Faris says this word basically means to press and make something spread out in order to make it level or smooth.

The Quran says:

48:25 which you trample unknowingly

33:27 a land which your feet have not trampled

This relates to the Messenger Muhammed as in the early days of spreading the Deen of Allah he used to be busy day and night. To sacrifice one’s rest at night in the achievement of one’s purpose is obvious evidence of keeping one’s emotions under control as continuously thinking rationally within the revealed values of the Quran, especially when this sacrifice is made not for any personal gain but for the good of the mankind.

The Quran has mentioned “qazai witr” (qazai witr) in (33:37) which means “to fulfill the need” i.e. “to cut off relations”, or “to decide that marriage is no more needed-not working”. This is what decision “to cut off relations” means.
("al-want"): homeland. It figuratively also means “the place where cattle and goats are tethered”.

("wattana bihi").

("yatin").

("autan"): to stay or reside.

("istaunahu").

("wattanahu").

("tawattan bihi"): he made it his homeland.

("al-watinu minal herb"): battlefield {T, M}. The Quran has used this word in this very meaning.

Surah At-Taubah states:

9:25 Surely Allah helped you in many battle fields

(W-Ze-Ain)

("wa’ad").

("ya’id").

("wa’d’un").

("wa’idah"): to make a promise, whether of a good thing or bad. If the good or bad is not specifically mentioned with "wa’ad" then it means “a good promise”, and if not then "au’ad" is used to mean “a promise about a bad thing”.

Lataif-al-Lagha says that "al-mee’aad" means “the time or place of the promise” {T, M}.

"mau’id"): promise or pledge, and also the place of promise or the time of the promise {T, M}.

Surah Al-Kahaf uses this word to mean the time of fulfillment (18:58).

("al-wa’eed"): for the male camel to murmur at the time of attack. This word is used to mean “a threat”.

("au’adahu").

("tawa’adah"): to threaten somebody {T, M}.

Surah Al-Baqrah state "wa’adna moosa" in verse (2:51). This includes both fixing a time period by Allah and for its acceptance by Moosa.

("muwa’adah"): to have a mutual pact.

“Allah’s promise” means “the results of acting on Allah’s laws which never change”. Similarly unchanging and inevitable are the results of being rebellious to those laws and are called "wa’eed".

The Quran says that the good results of good deeds are also called “wa’ad” as in (24: 55), and for the bad results of wrong deeds too as in (9:68).

Surah At-Taubah says:

9:114 This was only due to (in honour of) a promise which he had made.

Wherever in the Quran it appears that “Allah promises you” or “Allah had promised”, then it will mean the inevitable result that will be produced by acting on Allah’s laws. In other words the phrase is expressing the inevitable result of acting upon His law. It is not like some of us (humans) make promises with each other. This also shows that when it is said that “Allah’s promises are true” then it means that the result of Allah’s laws are inevitable and these can never be otherwise.
"وَعَظَ" (wa’az): to tell someone of the good and bad results of a thing to soften one’s heart.

Ibn Faris says with reference to Khalil, that “الوَعَظ” (al’wa’iz) means “style”. It also means to talk of good so that one’s heart is softened.

Muheet says it does not mean “to reach” but “to order” i.e. “to order someone to stop him from doing something which will produce bad result”

Raghib says it means such warning in which a threat is also implied {R}.

The Quran has often used the word “مَوْعِظَةٌ” (mau’izat), and even the Quran has been said to be “مَوْعِظَةٌ مِنْ ﺑِرﱠﮑٌمْ” (mau’izatun mir rabbikum) in (10:57). This includes the meaning “to make others aware of the execrable results of wrong ways and to prevent them, and to order individuals to stop from wrong things within a system”.

Surah An-Nahal says:

| 16:90 | Indeed, Allah commands for justice and balance… He admonishes you so that you may take heed. |

Here the word “امَر” appears first i.e. first Allah orders you to be just and kind, and “يَعِظُكُمْ” (ya izukum) appears at the last, therefore for those who are mumineen “امَر” and “عَظ” is the same thing. Here it must be understood that Allah’s order is not the order of some dictator. Allah orders but also explains the purpose of that order, and fairness of the order, as well as its benefit. Order and understanding together constitute “وَعَظ” (waaz).

Surah Al- Bagrah says:

| 2:231 | The fair book (the Quran) which God has revealed is to make you fear of wrong deeds, and thus makes you abstain from them. |

For the pious it is “مَوْعِظَةٌ” (mau’izat) (2:66). In any case this book will be used to warn everybody (not just the pious).

About the hypocrites it is said:

| 4:63 | ignore them and keep warning them of the results of their bad deeds in a nice way |

As such, in case of “waaz” to non–muslims, it would mean “advice in respect of invitation towards Deen” and for the muslims, “the orders contained in the Quran and directions issued by an Islamic System”, the benefits of which have been explained in such a way that one leans towards them.

Ibn Faris writes that it basically means “to peep” and “to jut out”.

"الْوَافِدُ" (al-wafid): the sand dune whose peak overhangs.

"الْوَافِدُ" (al-waafid): the camel which goes in front of all others.

"الْإِفْاَدُ" (al-eefaad): for something to be high and to overhang, to walk fast, to hurry up.

"بُﻬُمْ ﻋَﻠَﯽَ ﺍَﻭْﻓَﺎﺩٍ" (hoom ala aufaad): people who are in a journey.

"الْإِفْاَدُ" (al-eefaad): to send someone as an envoy.

"وَﻓَﺪَ ﻓُﻼَﻥٌ" (wafada fulaan: he went to the king as an envoy[T].

"الْوَافِدُ" (al-wafd): the people who reach the king’s court for congratulating him on an auspicious occasion[M].

Raghib says "الْوَافِدُ" (al-wafid) are those people who go to kings for fulfilling their need {R}.

Surah Maryam says:

19:85 The day We will collect the pious before rahman as “wafid"

بوَمْ ﺗَﻌَـِـِـْ اِﻟْﻤُﺘﱠﻘِﲔَْ اِﻟﯽٰ اﻟﺮﱠﲪْٰﻦِ وَﻓْﺪاً

According to the connotation of the meaning ‘wafid’ encompasses loftiness and greatness, closeness, respect, and the receipt of gifts or accoutrements for nourishment etc. It can also mean that the pious will be kept ahead of all (at the time of rewarding for good deeds). Here too the element of respect is present.
The Quran says:

\[
\text{17:63} \quad \text{full return or compensation (from which nothing has been taken)}

Surah An-Nisa says that if a husband and wife are at loggerheads with each other then try to make amends between them:

\[
\text{4:35} \quad \text{Allah will create harmony between them}

Surah Hood says:

( wafash shayu wafiyaa): the thing was completed, became excessive or in abundance.

( wafiyun waaf): completed and in profusion.

( au faani haqqi): he fulfilled my rights completely, did not reduce a bit.

( waffa): the foregoing, i.e. to give fully [R, M].

( istaufa fulanun haqqahu): he fully realized his rights.

( al-wafiyu): the man who fulfills rights and realizes them fully too. It also means “very faithful”.

( al-wafaan): to fulfill a promise, to respect an agreement.

( al-waafaat): death, i.e. to complete one’s days on earth.

( tawaffah-ul-laah): Allah gave him death [R, M].

( al-waif): high ground.

( al-muwafi): something which appears suddenly [R, M].

In the Quran “( eefa’ay ahad) (fulfilling a promise ) has come opposite “( naqaz) (breaking of a promise), i.e. fulfilling a pledge has appeared opposite to breaking a pledge (16:91, 3:43).

( wuffiyat) has been explained by “( la yazlamoon), i.e. “not to fall short of”, or “to be found lacking”.

Surah Hood says:

11:109 And indeed We will surely pay them in full of their share without being diminished.

This explains “( taufih), i.e. to complete without any deduction or reduction.

Surah An-Nahal says:

16:70 Allah creates you. Then He gives you death and makes some of you reach old age in which the organs weaken.

These meanings describe the various phases in a man’s life as childhood, youth and old age, but if “( yatawaffakum) is taken to mean “gives you death” then it would actually mean that some people die even before old age is reached and some die after reaching old age.

Surah Al-Anaam says:

6:61 Until death comes to you and our agents give you death

According to the physical laws created by God, his days are over and he dies.

About Jesus it is said in Surah Al-Ma’idah:

5:117 Then when you gave me death, You were overseeing them.

“(mutawaff): one who gives death.

“( Inni mutawaffika): Allah says to Jesus that these people (the opponents) are making schemes to arrest you and crucify you but We are also scheming against them and our plan is surely better than theirs.

3:53 Result of my (Allah’s) scheme will be that they will neither be able to arrest you nor crucify you but you will die your own death (in time).

History tells us that before they could lay their hands on Jesus, he had migrated from there according to a plan. This was God’s scheme that was successful. More details can be found in the book titled Shola-e-Mastoor.

"الوقب" (al-waqb): a depression in a mountain or rock in which water has accumulated.
"الوقبة" (al-waqbah): a high hole that is a man or two men’s length in smooth ground in which water has accumulated. Thereafter "الوقب" (al-waqb) was used to mean any hole. It also means to enter something and disappear in it.
"وقبة الشمس" (waqbatish shams): the sun set.
"وقبة الظلم" (waqabaz zalaam): darkness fell, i.e. people and everything entered in it and disappeared \( T, M, R \). Raghib says it means “to disappear”.

The Quran says:

Maulana Apeedullah Sindhi writes that “غَﺎسِقٍ اِذَّا وَْبِ” (ghaasiqin iza waqab) means “the thing that sets and creates darkness by setting”. It also means anything whose absence halts development, like when the moon goes down. It is harmful for the plants. We seek the protection of God from the ills of life so that He protects us and provides us with better accoutrements of life \( Al-maqaam al-Mahmood \).

"الوقت" (al-waqt): the limit of time fixed for some work, therefore this word is not used for indefinite time \( R \). Indefinite time period cannot be called "الوقت" (al-waqt). Any deed for which a definite period is fixed is called "الوقت" (muwqatt).
"الوقت" (al-qatuwat) and "الوقت" (at-tauqeet): to fix the time.
"الوقت" (al-meeqaat): fixed time or place.

“وَﻗَﺪٌ” (waqad): fire, and for the fire to be bright.
“وَﻗُﻮْﺩٌ” (waquud): the wood which is used to start a fire.

The author of Lataif-ul-Lugha has said that "الْحَطَﺐُ" (al-hatab) means “the wood that is used as fuel for the fire” and the wood is called "وَﻗُﻮْﺩٌ" (waquud) when it is lighted for the fire.
“إِﺳْﺘَﻮْﻗَﺪَ” (istauqad): to light a fire {T}.

Roohul Ma’aani says it was a custom with the Arabs to light a fire on top of a mountain when a battle was announced. This was called "دار العرب" (naar-ul-herb) or the fire of war (5:64).

The Quran says:

2:17 He kindled a fire

Surah Al-Mai’da says “وَﻗَﺪَ” (auqad) against “أَﻁْﻔَﺎَ” (atfa) in verse (5:64), which means “to extinguish the fire”.

Surah Al-Qasas while relating the story of the Messenger Moosa, the Pharaoh said to Hamaan:

28:38 O Haman, kindle for me (a brick) on clay…

“وَﻗُﻮْﺩٌ” (waquud): fuel (2:25, 66:9, 85:5).
“مُﻮْﻗَﺪَﺓٌ” (mooqadatah): the fire which is alighted (104:6).

Basa’ir says that “مَﻮْﻗُﻮْﺩَﺓٌ” (mauquzatu) means an animal which has been killed by a blow with a stick or with stones, and which is not slaughtered as done now., and that the stones with which the animal has been killed are not sharp {T}. Before the advent of Islam or in the era of ignorance this sort of killed animal used to be eaten.

Ibn Faris says this word basically means “to kill with a blow of the stick”.

“مُﻮْﻗَﺪَﺓٌ” (mauquzatah): an animal which has been killed with a blow of the stick. The Quran says such an animal is forbidden to be eaten (5:3).

Abu Saeed says “الْوَﻗِِّﺪَ” (al-waqzu) means “to hit behind the neck so hard that it topples the mind” {T}.

The Quran has also declared that “الْمَﻴْﺘَۃُ” (al-maitatu), i.e. the animal which is dead as forbidden (for eating). This has been explained by saying that this is not incumbent on the animals which die a natural death only, but it also includes those animals which die of suffocation or who die due to some blow.

“الْمَﻮْﻗُﻮْﺩَﺓُ” (al-mauquzatah): that which falls from a height and dies, or which dies due to being hurt with the horns of another animal, or which has been hunted by the carnivorous animals. But if the animal is slaughtered according to the Islamic way, then it will not be forbidden (5:3).

“الوقر” (al-waqr): heaviness in the ears, or loss of hearing {T, M, R}.

The Quran says:

6:25 And there is deafness in their ears

“الوقر” (al-wiqru): heavy burden.

“الوقار” (al-waqaar): seriousness, greatness.

(jananoon waqir): a courageous heart which is not raffled {T, M, R}. This too clarifies the meaning of “وقار” (waqar).

The Quran says:

71:13 What has gotten over you that you do not ask Allah for seriousness or sobriety?

Here the reference is to the condition in which man is not ruffled by every little thing but a solidity of the sort in which the jolt of death too is unable to ruffle him. But this meaning will be true only when “لله” (lillah) is taken to mean “من الله” (minal laah), otherwise it will mean “why don’t you believe in the greatness of Allah?”

“وقر” (waqqara): to respect someone.

“утَعْرِوهُ وَتَوقَرْوهُ” (tu'azziru'hu wa tawaq'qiruhu): strengthen it and respect it (48:9).

In Surah Al-Ahzaab the wives of the Messenger have been told:

33:34 stay within your homes with dignity and seriousness, and do not display any sort of nonsense

This is the meaning if the phrase is taken from “وقار” (waqar), but Abu Abeed says that this is from “وقار” (waqaar).

“مواقع الطين” (mawqfeet al-tayr): the places where it rained.

“وقعت الطير” (waqiqatu'il tayr): the birds alighted on the ground after flying in the air.

“وقع” (waqa'ee): the stones.

“الوقاخ” (al-waqax): battle days for the Arabs.

“وقع” (waqa'yatu): a hammer {T}.

“الوقاخ” (al-waqiyatu): an event which is distasteful and abhorrent {R}.

Raghib says “الأوقاخ” (al-wuquu'a) means for something to fall or be proven.

Zajaj says that anything which is sure to happen is called “وقاخ” (waqiyah) {T}.

The Quran says:

22:65 Allah (as per law) makes it rain when needed and He rations it so that it may not start raining at its own when it is not needed

W-Q-Y

وقى

(“waqsh shaiyee ‘a baqhih aqba aqaaba”) to protect something; to oversee and supervise, to save one from harmful and painful thing.

As such, when a horse walks carefully due to the absence of a horse shoe or due to some injury in his toe or due to pain in his foot or due to the land being hard, then it is called “وقى الفارس من الح.postMessagepartum (“wafaqal farasu minal hafa” {T}.

“وقى” (waqyah): carefulness or a preservative {L}.

“سراج واق” (sarjuw waaq): a saddle which is just right for the horse’s back and it will not injure or hurt him.

The Quran has used the term “وقى” (waq) to mean “one who saves from harm or protects”.

13:37 There will be none to save or protect you excepting Allah

Malakum min allah wa la wai

At another place the matter has appeared to mean “to be careful” and “to protect oneself”, like “فاطروا النار” (fattaqun naar) in (2:24) which means “protect yourself from hellfire” or “be careful about it”.

“واتفا ان=allah” (wattaqul laah) appears in the Quran time and again and means “observe the laws of Allah” i.e. “to oversee them and obey them and live according to them”. This meaning has been made clear at another place. In Surah Al-Ma’ida, “عذاب” (udwaan) has been used against “خوف” (taqwa).

Since “عذاب” (udwaan) means “rebellion”, thus “خوف” (taqwa) means “the obedience of Allah’s laws”.

In Surah Aal-e-Imran this has been made clear:

3:101 O, ye who believe, observe the taqwa of Allah as taqwa must be observed

3:102 follow Allah’s guidance during your entire life

3:103 all together should follow the Quran given by Allah

لا تقولوا لا تقولوا الا الله و سلموا

مأذونا قبلاً بِمَا جَآَبَهُمُ اللَّهُ
These examples make clear that "wat taq-ul-laaha (taqwa)" means to observe the laws of Allah (the Quran), and to live as per the dictates of the Quran. That is why those who do "ghaaween (taqwa)" have been declared so against "ghaaween (wattaqu)" in Surah Ash-Shura (96:90-91). "ghaaween (wattaqu)" are those who leave Allah’s laws and follow their own desires or other laws, hence the muttaqeen are those who follow Allah’s laws. Regarding this complete coordination with the laws of Allah, surah Saad says “muttaqeen (tasla)" (muttaqeen) as against ”fujjaar (fajir)" (38:28). "fajir (fajir)" is something that explodes and separates.

With reference to disintegrating and separation and integration, surah Ash-Shams says that Allah has put both these traits in human personality:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>No.</th>
<th>Passage</th>
<th>Translation</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>91:8</td>
<td>If a man wants, he can stick to the code of life given by Allah and thus achieve crystallization of his personality, and if he wants he can move away from it according to his wishes and create confusion and chaos in his personality.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

About these two groups it is said in Surah Muhammad that one group is such which follows its own desires and wishes, but the other group is of those people who follow the revelation. This second group finds its taqwa (47:17), but only he can achieve it.

Here “yatazakka (yatazakka) means “development of personality” (92:17-18), i.e. whoever donates his surplus wealth for the sustenance of humanity, provides for his own growth and development (2:219).

As such muttaqeen are those who avoid the wrong way of life and develop their own personality by following the Quranic values and by avoiding the bad deeds. This is what it means to remain with the permanent values of the Quran i.e. to read, understand, and then accept these values willingly and bring one’s thoughts and deeds in line with the Quranic teaching. This is like “sticking in a way like the saddle fits the horse’s back without hurting him”.

The Quran has stated in the beginning that it is "hudal lil muttaqeen (muttaqeen)" (2:2), i.e. it guides those who wish to stay away from the wrong path and wish to adopt the righteous path i.e. the path defined by the Quran. Anyone who wants to be destroyed by following his own desires or anyone else’s, can have no interest in the right and wrong of life. The one who is bent upon committing suicide it is useless to advise him about the benefits of living a righteous life.

While studying the Quran, it is important to see the context in which the righteousness (muttaqeen) is being referred e.g. whether it is about following the permanent values or to take precautions from the destructive effects of various events.

For example:

- "wacina azaabun naar" (2:601)
- "quwa anfusikum" (66:6)
- "myn yuqa shuha nafsihi" (59:9)
- "waqihimus sayyi'aati" (40:9)
- "mun taqas sayyiaat" (59:18).

In all the above verses the meaning is to save or avoid from harm by following the Quran. The term "wattaqu (wattaqu)" in (59:18) means to avoid the adverse consequences of one’s deeds. This means “save yourself (from the consequences) of breaking the laws of Allah, or avoid rebellious to them. This very thing is called "taqwa (taqwa)" and whoever upholds the laws of Allah is the most respectable in Allah’s eyes (49:13) and benefits from the good effects in the long run.

The word taqwa is a very comprehensive and frequent term in the Quran and this taqwa is so important that it has become a word in its own right, which has been used by the Quran to create more words related to it. It does not mean “abstinence” since “abstinence” is at best a negative virtue, i.e. it is the absence of not doing something which is not good or a sin. But taqwa has the connotation of saving oneself from the... pitfalls in life and to observe the laws of Allah all during one’s adult life. This means that along with negative virtue, it also has a positive side or deed which is more important and dominant.

As mentioned above, the term taqwa is very comprehensive and cannot be explained by one simple sentence. A man with taqwa possesses the traits of high moral character and this aspect encompasses both the mind and the physical conduct. The definition of character is very difficult and western scholars too are not united on any one definition, but the Quran has an easy explanation to this human aspect. According to the Quran, there are two levels of a man’s life. One is the level of animals whose demands and functions are the same as any animal such as self-preservation, self-assertion, and procreation. The urge of self-preservation is so strong that no individual gives preference to another where this is concerned. The second level is one which may be called “human life”. In this life the main purpose is the development of human Self (see N.F.S).

This development can be achieved through upholding the permanent values which have been given to us through the Quran. The Quran acknowledges that the demands and needs of the first or animal level must be carried out but if it so happens that those values come in conflict with the permanent values, then the permanent values should prevail. This is called taqwa which is character, not national but individual character. This must be followed and at some stage even if one has to sacrifice one’s life to uphold the permanent values then he should do so. The Quran says that those who think that the physical life is everything and they do not believe in the human character are in denial of of their own “Self” (45:24, 47:13, 59:19). To believe in the human Self and to be aware of the inner thought process is the trait of a believer or a momin. This is the level at which a momin accepts Allah with all His attributes as a model and refers back to the Quranic permanent values to seek guidance in this life. This is what helps him to sign post his character development as noted in (35:10, 14:24).

The Quran also acknowledges that self-interest should generally be kept in mind and that it is only a demand of the intellect to save oneself from loss, and one who knowingly goes into loss is generally thought to be foolish. But for a believer the preservation of the developed Self is more important than any animal level instincts. When the animal instinct and upholding the permanent values clash, one should uphold the thing of greater benefit, that is, “human Self” and sacrifice the thing of little value i.e. “animal instinct”. This is why the Quran declares that the Quranic believers are those who are extremely self-conscious, understanding, analytical, rational thinkers, and continuously aware of the permanent values e.g. (3:189), (8:24), (25:63). They continuously refer their thoughts to the Quranic values and evaluate these thoughts and then take decisions – this is important to understand as the decisions taken in line with the Quranic criterion will benefit in the long term i.e. encompassing this life and the life to come (59:18).

Therefore to conclude:

The Quran does not simply make a verbal appeal to man to uphold the permanent values, but it appeals based on reasoning and logic and tells the human intellect how it is good, advantageous, and beneficial for itself to do so. This is the reason that it invites man to believe in one Allah based upon reasoning and logic (12:108). And the basic characteristic of believers is that they do not believe in the Quranic values blindly, i.e. without the use of intellect, reasoning, and logic (25:73). This is what "taqvi" (taqwa) according to the Quran is, and those who adopt it are declared “muttaqeen”.

(tawakula), (tawakala): people started delegating each other’s work to one another.

(itikal alaihe fee amrihi): he trusted him in his affair.

(au kalu ala akhikal amad): I left everything completely to your brother.

(al-wakeel): supervisor or one who looks after the affairs of another {T}. It also means “one responsible for something” {T}.
We are used to "تَوَکَّل عَلَی اللہ" (tawakkul al allaah) meaning delegating all work to Allah and not doing anything on your own. This meaning of "تَوَکَّل" (tawakkal) is against the Quranic meaning because at every step the Quran advocates continuous struggle with strong resolve and Iman in the permanent values.

If you throw a man into the sea he will drown if he cannot swim. If you throw a piece of iron into the water it will sink immediately, but if you build a ship out of iron sheets according to a particular design then the contraption will float on the water, and it will also carry many people.

We sail ships on the sea with equanimity and also board such ships with complete equanimity. Where does this equanimity come from? The equanimity is born of the belief that the ship will not sink because it has been built according to the laws of Allah in which a ship built to a certain size and design will not sink. These laws can be fully relied upon, and they will not deceive us if followed honestly. This hope will not diminish or disappear. This support will not give way. This is what "تَوَکَّل" (tawakkal) is.

The Quran says that in the same way that Allah’s laws about things in the universe can be relied upon, and they shall never deceive us, so do social laws of Allah given to us through the Quran can be relied upon, and they will never deceive us. If human beings follow those social laws then good results will definitely come out of them. This is called "تَوَکَّل عَلَی اللہ" (tawakkal al allaah) and in these meanings Allah is "الوکیل" (al-wakeel) or one whose laws can be fully depended upon. (azm) or the solid intent of doing something is a necessary condition of this "تَوَکَّل" (tawakkal) (3:158). The group of believers is one which has full belief with intent on the laws of Allah. Such people are called "متوکِلین" (mutawakkileen) as in (3:158). Anyone who believes in any other law is a mushrik (one who attributes other laws to Allah’s laws) and cannot benefit in the long term (16:99,100). "وُکِلَ" (wakkala): to delegate the matter to someone (6:90).

Surah As-Sajdah says:

\(\text{وُلَتْ} \) (walatah), "خفَّ", "يَلِتْ" (yalituh), "أوْلَتْ" (awlatah): all mean “he lessened his right” \(\text{T, M} \)

The Quran says:

| 52:21 | We shall not depreciate their deeds |

| 52:21 | We shall not depreciate their deeds |

This has also been written under the heading (L-Y-T), (W-L-J).

W-J-L

ولج

\(\text{وَلَجَ} \) (walaja), "يَلِجُ" (yalju): to enter \(\text{T, M} \).

Raghib says "الوَلِيجَ" (al-wuluj) means “to enter a narrow space”.
Some think it means “to enter slowly” \(\text{T, M} \).

\(\text{وُلِيجَة} \) (al-waleejah): bosom friend, sincere friend, a man who is not your kith or kin, but who is very reliable to you (who is in a way insider to your clan), confidante (9:16).

Surah As-Saba states “ولج” (walaja) against “خَرَج” (kharaja) in (34:2).
At another place it is stated:

31:29 He makes the day enter night and night enter day.

يُوْلِﺞُ اللَّيْلَ فِي النَّهَارِ وَيُوْلِﺞُ النَّهَارِ فِي اللَّيْلِ
“الولد” (al-walad): whom somebody has given birth to. It is used for singular, plural, masculine and feminine.

The plural is “ الأولاد” (aulaad), “ولد” (wildah) and “ولد” (waldun) [T].

But it is also used to mean for a “foetus in the womb” [M].

“واليد” (al-waleed): a child, till it remains a young. It also means “slave” or “servant”.

“والدة” (wildah): the plural of “ولد” (al-walad).

“والد” (al-walad): father.

“والدة” (al-waalidah): mother.

“والدتي” (al-wildaan): mother and father, parents.

“ولد” (mauluud): the time and place of birth.

“ميلاد” (milaad): the time of birth [T].

Muheet says that “ثعلب” (at-tawallud) means “some organic thing to be produced without parents in the heat of summer”, like organisms are born in water [M]. This is probably a term of that time because we have later found out that even germs are not born without “parents”, although the process of their birth is rather different to that of “توليد” (tauleed).

At several places in the Quran it has been said that God has no “ولد” (wald) or father (4:171). This does not only contradict what the Christians believe that Jesus is the son of God, it is also meant by this that God has not created the universe through the process of “توليد” (tauleed), (or from a mother and father), but was created (parentless) by God. In pro-creation or “توليد” (tauleed), that which is born contains a part of the pro-creator (genes), and that part is reduced in the pro-creator, but in the process of creation, no portion of the creator is passed on to the creation. Therefore, “creation” does not produce any deficiency in the creator.

God is the Creator and He wants man to be creative too. As far as birth is concerned, it is a biological process which both animals and humans share. Man attains the level of humanity when he is creative but procreation only gives it an animal level (although for reproduction this too is necessary). Man should see as to how much “creation” he has made, not how much he has pro-created, how many kids he has produced. Creation is a duty for the human beings. This is the reason that the Quran accepts that beside Allah, there are other creators. It calls Allah as “الخليق” (ahsanul khaaliqeen) or the “best of creators”, i.e. “He, whose creation is the best ” (23:14).

The Lataif-ul-Lugha says that “ولد” (al-wald) means “the son” as well as “his son”, i.e. “grandson”, but “ابن” (al-mauluud) only means “the true son” (who is direct).

While giving the orders about inheritance, the Quran says:

4:11 Allah instruct you this in regards to your children

“ولد” (aulaad) is the plural of “ولد” (walad) and therefore not only means “sons and daughters” but also their sons and daughters. If some deceased’s son is alive then he will be the deceased’s “ولد” (walad). But if a man has died, and his son is alive (that is, the grandson) then he will be the “ولد” (walad) of the deceased son and he will inherit from the grandfather’s inheritance. Similarly a man’s children will also inherit, or will be included among the “ولد” (aulaad). Similarly only the living parents will not inherit but the grand-parents too.

Surah Al-Baqrah has stated that mothers should suckle their children for two years:

2:233 And the responsibility of their provision is on their father
The responsibility or of the upkeep of the mother and the child is on the father. The Quran has used the words “مولود لـ” (mauludun lahu) i.e. “he for whom the woman has given birth to the child”, thus if the father is present then these words will apply to him. If he is not present then these words will apply to whoever (male) takes his place.

\[\text{W-L-Y}\]

The Quran uses this root in the following opposite meanings:
- To face someone (2:115) and to turn the face away (2:142) and to become the ruler (2:205)
- Overwhelm and overpower (18:45), and helper or supporter (7:111)
- Heir (19:5, 17:33), a distant relative (4:33, 10:5).

One way is to bow willingly before an ideology or belief and make this the purpose of one’s life, which is called “إيمان” (imaan), and then follow it fully, this is called Islam. But the other path is to find ways and excuses to get around the first way. This is circumvention or avoidance. This is called “تولى” (tawall). As such in (2:137), this word has been used opposite to “إيمان” (imaan), and in (3:19) opposite to “آمن” (aslama). Also see (16:81-82), (4:80).

This word is used against “طاعته” (ita’at) which means “obedience”, thus “تولى” (tawall) not only means “to defect to another way of life” but also “to follow it partly and find ways to avoid it while remaining within a religion or a system”. That is why “تَوَلَّ” (tawalla) has been used against “صَلَّى” (salla) in (75:31, 32). “صلی” (salla) means “to follow completely or obey completely, to follow in somebody’s footsteps”. In opposition to “صلی” (salla), “تَوَلَّ” (tawalla) means to shun the Deen (way of life) prescribed by the Quran and in its place “to consider self-created practices as the way of life, and to consider this as the observance of the (real) Deen.

Ordinarily the Quran has described the relationship between man and Allah as friendly. If man follows the laws of Allah then Allah becomes a friend and wali, and the enlivening results accompany man. As a consequence through man’s following these laws, Allah’s universal program gets implemented (i.e. the universe becomes a better place). Thus man too becomes the “صلی” of Allah”. Therefore on one hand the Quran calls Allah the wali of man (2:257), and on the other hand has called the momineen as “أولياء” (auliya) of Allah, meaning “friends of Allah” (10:62).

“أولياء” (auliyah) is the plural form of “ولي” (waliyyun). Remember that there is no particular group of the auliyah of Allah. According to the Quran every momin is an aulia of Allah. It has been clearly stated as aulia of Allah:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>10:63</th>
<th>Those who have faith in the Quran and live according to its laws</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

Their characteristic, it says:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>10:64</th>
<th>They enjoy the pleasantness of life here (in this world) as well as in the life hereafter</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

Nobody can obviously see the life hereafter, but the life in this world can indeed be witnessed. Therefore auliyah of Allah are those who enjoy life in this world and make efforts to establish Deen in this world because it is through this system that successes in this world as well as in the hereafter can be achieved. This group of people has been called the “حرف الله” (hizbullah) or “the party of Allah” (58:22). Those who remove themselves from them or oppose them are those who live in rebellion to this system, and are hence “حرف الشيطان” (hizbush shaitaan) (58:19) i.e. those who follow their own desires. Any other concept of aulia of Allah other than this is non-Quranic and is borrowed from others.

In Surah Muhammed it has been stated that if the conditions of former nations are considered, then one can find out what happened to those who went against the permanent values. Those who are rebellious even now will share the fate of those rebellious nations. After that it is said:

| 47:11  | This is because those who believe in what the revelation has brought them, have Allah as their maula (friend, companion, benefactor), and those who oppose this way, do not have any maula |

This means that the nations which oppose the permanent values of the Quran cannot be saved by anyone from the destructive results of their deeds. Thus nobody can be their maula.

“أنت مولائي” (anta maulana): you are our maula (2:286).

But Surah At-Tahreem says:

| 66:4   | His maula is Allah and Jibreel and Saleh momineen |

Obviously the way in which Allah can be the maulah (friend) of somebody, none other can. Therefore the friendships of Allah, Jibreel and the momineen are obviously of different types. To consider them to be maula in the same way is wrong. Nobody’s friendship can provide any help against the laws of Allah.

| 44:41  | The day when no friend can help any friend |

The Quran has reiterated the fact repeatedly that momineen can be each other’s wali but a momin cannot be the wali of a non-momin. It is obvious that only those people can befriend each other who share the same purpose in life. Those who have different purposes in life will obviously have different paths to achieve them, so how can they be each other’s companions and confidantes? Non-momins can be co-operated within good things, but they cannot be made one’s confidantes. In this context see verse (3:27), (3:117), (4:89), (4:139), (4:144), (5:51-55), (8:73), (9:10, 23, 37), (47:12,13), (58:22) and (60:104).

W-N-Y

"الْوَنِٰى" (al-wana): tiredness, exhaustion.
"وَنِٰى" (wana), "يَنِٰى" (yani), "وَنِٰى" (wanya): to be idle, to weaken, to be weak and old.
"ناَقَٰئُثُ" (naaqatu), "إِنِّٰى" (waaniya): tired camel.

Ibn Faris says that this word basically means “weakness and senility”.

"الْمِيْنَٰة" (al-meena) and "الْمِيْنَٰةَ ﺍَ" (al-meena): port, place where ships rest after arriving.
"الْمِيْنَٰة" (al-meena): the pieces of stone which are used to make ceramics {T}.

Surah Taha calls upon Moosa and Haroon to go to the Pharaoh:

"وَهَبَ" (wahaba), "يَهَبُ" (yahabu), "وَيَبَ" (wahba), "هيَبَ" (hibah): to endow, to give.
"إِلَى” (al-hibah): the gift which is not given as compensation nor involves any interest of the giver.
"الْمُواَهِبَةُ" (al-mauhibah): a cloud which rains down over the place where it hovers.
"أَوْهَبْتُ ﻻَِﻣْﺮِ ﮐَذَﺍ" (au habtu li amri kaza): I dominated the matter (or amr) {T, M}.

The Quran says:

Allah has the trait of being "وَهَبَ" (al-wahhab) as mentioned in (3:7). Here it means that Allah bestows abundantly without expecting anything in return.

Surah Saad has used this word to mean “return”:

<table>

\textit{(al-wahn)}: to be found weak in some matter or weak in body.

\textit{(mauhun)}: a man who is bodily weak \{\textit{T}\}.

Surah \textit{Ale-e-Imran} uses \textit{(wahn)} along with the words to mean “weak and feeble” (3:145). This expostulates the meaning of this word.

\textit{(waahana)}: became weak and feeble.

\textit{(awhaana)}: made weak.

Surah \textit{Al-Anfaal} says:

\begin{tabular}{|l|}

This is said so because the Quran has considered it necessary to have both sorts of strengths, physical as well as mental (2:247), nor any weakness in character.

This shall result in:

This word is a static noun and has no verb $\{T\}$. This word is used to express pain and sadness, or punishment and misery, or a bad result.

- \text{\textit{al-weila}}: ignominy, destruction and annihilation $\{T\}$.
- \text{\textit{wayl}}: destruction (104:1).
- \text{\textit{weilaka}}: repentance (46:17)
- \text{\textit{ya-wailati}}: mixed emotions of shame and surprise (taken a back) (11:72).
When this letter comes at the end of a word, it associates the words property factor. It is used for both masculine and feminine.

"ghulami": my slave.
"nemati yallati": My favour which I … (2:40).

Sometimes it is removed or only implied like in "wali-ya deen". Here "ی" (ya) after "deen" (deen) has been removed and only "deen" (deen) is remained.

It is a word for addressing in the meaning of “O’ you”.

"ya ardubla'i": O’ Earth, swallow it.

Sometimes it is only implied:

"rabbi la tazarni farad": (21:89) (O my Sustainer, do not let me be alone. Here the word before Sustainer is only implied, not actually written.

After "ی" (ya), the word "ای" (ayyuhal) is added:

"ya ayyuhal lazeena aamau": O’ you, who believe (9:28).

"alyaas": to despair and lose hope.

"yaw'os", "ya'os": someone who loses hope.

"istayaas": lost hope {T}.

Surah Yusuf says:

Ibn Faris says that among the basic meanings we have “to know” or “to comprehend”. Raghib says that this is a figurative meaning.

Surah Al-Mumtahina says:

</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>60:13</td>
<td>the denial which is born of hopelessness</td>

Consider the above verse of Surah Yusuf once more. You will find a great principle about the rise and fall of nations in it. This verse says:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Verse</th>
<th>Translation</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>12:87</td>
<td>do not despair of Allah’s benevolence because nobody despairs of God’s mercy (rehmat) except those who do not believe</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

At another place this has been said as:
A momin believes in the laws of Allah, i.e. the result of righteous deeds and their veracity, and he traverses the righteous path with the belief that if due to some difficulty or due to some error on his part he may come to suffer a loss, this does not shake his belief and he never loses hope. He staggers but recovers, rectifies the wrong he has committed and once more starts following the right path. This is what is meant by not losing hope in Allah’s mercy i.e. referring all thoughts back to the Quran for guidance. One who loses hope is one who is following a path that is based on conjecture and speculation. When he meets failure then he stops right there and loses hope of ever reaching his destination, but he who believes in the path being correct which is determined in the light of the Quran never loses hope. This is the reason that the Quran says hopelessness and devilishness (Ibleesiyat) are akin. See heading (B-L-S). But Allah’s mercy is not invoked by sitting around and doing nothing.

It has been said:

| 7:56 | In order to be free of misery and to invoke benefit, call upon the laws of Allah and have faith that Allah’s mercy is near those who live a balanced life |

Another important issue needs our attention here. A man is engulfed in misery and he finds no way out, but he does not lose hope. He is not disappointed. He takes it as an inevitability of the events. He does not let hopelessness set in him. This man does not despair of Allah’s mercy and kindness. But if he decides when facing some setback that he is not able to face the challenge then despondence sets in. Anyone who has faith, and who is confident never lets despondence set in i.w. he has confidence and is therefore hopeful. But a man who loses faith in himself and lets despondence set in, becomes a victim of depression. He becomes frustrated and this might even in some cases lead to committing suicide. He who commits suicide considers himself valueless. He thinks there is no cause any more for him to remain alive. He falls from grace in his own eyes. Since all depends on materialistic means in a materialistic concept of life, therefore when those means come to an end for some reason, then one becomes despondent. However, the possibilities of human endurance and inner Self are infinite and none should say at any time, that I can do no more. He can acknowledge that he is out of materialistic means, but he should never lose faith in his Self.

“ sở” (kufr) is actually a denial of one’s Self and also denial of another Truth i.e. the denial of the infinitely developed Self of Allah as a model. Besides, by having hope in the human Self, one learns to feel the need for the permanent values which one gets through the revelation – these values prevent him from avoiding the tribulations in life and facing these trials and tribulations do not let him be despondent. He is not even afraid to face the physical death because he knows that death is only a taste for his Self (29:57) and he gradually develops the assurance based on evidence that his Self will survive to the next life. Note that why despondence or hopelessness is actually “ sở” (kufr) and how the Quran helps to replace it with Iman in Allah and turns it into hope and leads to real happiness.

Yajooj/Majooj

The nation on behalf of whose protection from attacks Zulqarnain had built a wall (18:94). Details can be found under the heading (A-J-J).

Yaqoot

“ (al-yaqoot) is a Persian word which is also used in Arabic. It is used for a hard and clear stones of different colours, usually red.

The Quran says:
As if they are yaqoot and marjaan

Ya laita

It is the compound of “یَا” (ya) and “لَايْتَ” (lait) which means “only if”. See heading “یَا” (ya) and “لَايْتَ” (lait).

al-yabsu: a thing which is wet and then it dries up.

shah to-yabas: a goat whose teats dry up and it stops giving milk {T}.

al-yaabisaatu: a place which has water and then it dries up {M}. In Torah the word (al-yabsu) has been used for the dry land.

The Quran says that Moosa was directed:

| 20:77  | Lead the Bani Israel by the way which was under water previously but which is now dry |

Surah Al-Anaam says:

Y-T-M

ی ت م

al-yutm: to become lonely and alone i.e. by oneself. This is its basic meaning.

Usma’i says that “یَتِيمٌ” (al-yateem) means sandy land which is different from the surrounding lands.

Ibnul Airaabi says that “یَتِيمٌ” (al-maitam) is said for anything which is lonely and by itself.

Raghib thinks that any unique and lonely thing is “یَتِيمٌ” (yateem) {T, R, M}.

durratun yateemah: a unique pearl which is one of its kind:

An orphan is also called “یَتِيمٌ” (yateem) because he is left alone.

Harraali says that for the father not to be present when he is needed is called “یَتِيمٌ” (yutim). This is why until the child attains maturity he is called “یَتِيمٌ” (yateem), but after maturity he is no more called so. As against this, a girl is called “یَتِيمَة” (yateemah) until she is wedded even though she may be adult. Among animals a young one is called “یَتِيمٌ” (yateem) if he loses his mother, because in animals it is the mother which nurtures the young. They do not really need the father after birth. If a human child’s mother dies, then the child is not called “یَتِيمٌ” (yateem). It is called “مَنْقَطِع” (munqati’un) or “عَجَّيْ” (ajji’yun). If it loses both mother and father then it is called “لوَطِيمٌ” (lateem). The plural is “یَتَامِی” (yataam) as well as “یَتَامَی” (yataama).

imra’atun mu’im: a woman whose children become orphans, i.e. whose husband dies {T, R, M}.

Lissanul Arb says that “یَتِيمَة” (yateem) means a woman who has no husband, i.e. he has either died or was not there in the first place. The Quran says “یَتَامَی النِّسآء” (yataman nisaa’i) in (4:127) and refers to such lonely women.
Keep these meanings of “yutama” in mind and then recall Surah An-Nisa’s verse which says:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>4:3</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>If you find that you will not be able to do “justice” with the yutama (will not be able to fulfill their rights), you can wed either two, or three, or four of them</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

After the advent of Islam the small group of muslims had to fight many battles in which many women became (imprisoned and were turned slave-girls (as was the practice). Many adult girls could not find husbands. This was a problem which needed to be solved quickly.

The difficulty was due to:
- the ordinary order of the Quran is to wed one woman (4:3)
- the muslim women were not permitted to marry the kaaﬁr (the unbelievers) or the mushriks (those who also followed other laws). They had to wed muslim men only and their numbers were greatly reduced as stated earlier.

To overcome this emergent problem the Quran had temporarily relaxed the rule for monogamy and said that these women who were left without husbands or had become widows or were unmarried can due to these exceptional circumstances, marry as advised in (4:3). Subject to one’s choice, these women were provided the protection (of a man or husband). This is the only verse in the Quran where polygamy or more than one marriage has been allowed. If such conditions do not prevail then the law of a single marriage i.e. one man to one woman will prevail.

“yatim” (yatma): to weaken or become feeble, to become unable or become tired, also to become an outcast.

“yatm” (yatm): sadness and worry and also to delay or neglect, because delay is made often in helping the orphans or they are neglected.

“al-yatam” (al-yatam): need or requirement {T, R, M}.

The Quran exhorts looking after the orphans and describes the reason for the destruction caused by the capitalist system.

89:17 You do not honour the yateem

Here “yatim” (yateem) does not only mean, those whose fathers are dead, it also means all those people who have been left helpless in a society. It means anyone who feels that he is alone in a society (can be physical or mental or both isolations) and nobody is there to help him and his misery is entirely his own (and not shared by anyone). Hence it means someone who feels that there is nobody to commiserate with him or help him. A society that does not respect such a person gets eventually destroyed. The Quran creates a society (& a world) in which nobody feels that he is left alone, and that there is nobody to help him.

That is why Allah has told the Messenger Muhammed:

93:6 Is not it a fact that he found you to be yateem and provided the means for your upkeep

This makes it clear that a “yateem” (yateem) is someone who is without sanctuary, and to provide shelter or sanctuary for such a person is the responsibility of the society that is established in the name of Allah based on the Quranic values.
“Yahya” (Yahya) has been said to be among the messengers of the Bani Israel by the Quran (6:85). He was the son of Zakariyah (9:7), a messenger with a book and a firm and a decisive man since childhood (19:12), and man of many righteous traits (19:13-15). Some think that John, as mentioned by the Bible, is the same person as Yahya. The Bible in respect of “John” says that “I tell you that verily nobody greater than John has been born who baptizes”.

Renan in his book, Life of Jesus, writes that the centre for John’s education was Judea but he was famous far and wide and Jesus had also visited him. He further writes, that John and Jesus established a strange but revolutionary system in the desert until in the year 29, John was arrested after which Jesus had returned to his homeland.

Y-D-Y

“الْيَدُ” (al-yad): hand (feminine). The plural is “الأَيْدِ” (aydin), but this word is used to mean so many things that it is not possible or relevant to mention all of them here. It is used as we use the word “hand” in Urdu, like place and honour, protection, expertise, power and authority, dominance and over-powering, helper, help and reply to call for help, a reward or favour.

This word also means “shame and chagrin insult”.

The Quran says about the Messengers:

38:45 They possessed both strength and insight

On the other hand, about their opponents it is said that they always tried to:

14:9 prevent them from speaking

Ibn Qateebah has said it also means that in their anger or frustration, they begin to wring or cut their own hands {R}.

This word will be translated according to the context in the Quran wherever it appears. The Quran uses the phrase “بَيْنَ يَدَيهِ” (baina yadaihi) at several places which literally means “between his both hands”, i.e. “in front”.

The Quran has called itself “مُصَدِّقٌ لِّمَا بَيْنَ يَدَيهِ” (musaddiqal lima baina yadaih). As such, “لَا مَيْنُ يَدِيَه” (lima baina yadaih) means that which is in front of it. The Quran calls itself the supporter of the moral values which had been sent before its advent and some of these were present in the society even at the time of the advent of the Quran, such as “do not lie” and “do not steal” etc. The Quran supported such values. It did not support the entire earlier books existing at the time because it considers these books as “’tampered with”. For the right meaning of “مصَدِقٌ” (musaddiq), see heading (Sd-D-Q).

The Quran has used this term, some of these are noted below:

51:47 We have created the heavens (the planets or space) with power and authority

9:29 (the people with the book act according to it in return for) living in peace which it enables them to

25:27 to chew one’s hands (one’s fingernails) in anger

2:95 all that their hands have sent before them (effects of their deeds as per the Law of requital)

2:195 do not destroy yourself with your hands
49:1 In reference to orders and decisions

For explanations regarding cutting of the hands of a thief, see heading (Q-Th-Ain), and “يُدٍّ بِثْحَاء” (yadi baiza) in the heading (B-Y-Zd) and (Zd-M-M).

ى س ر

“اليسر” (al-yusr): ease, abundance, the abundance of comforts, strength, well-being economically. It is the opposite of “عصر” (usr) which means “paucity” {T}.

“ياصر” (yasira) and “ياصر الأمر” (yasuril amr): the matter became easy, made the work or matter easy.

“ياصر” (yassara): made this issue easy

“ياصر” (yasuril): became easy, became available easily {T} (73:20, 2:296).

Ibn Faris says it basically means “to open and be easy”.

“اليسار” (al-yasaar): left hand, to the left side. It is the opposite of “يمنين” (yameen) {T}.

“اليسار” (al-yaseer): easy, small thing {T}.

“اليسار” (al-maisaratu) and “اليسار” (al-yasaar): strength, well-being, free from need {R} (2:280).

“اليسير” (al-maisir): gamble, chance, the camel which is won or lost in gambling {T}.

The Quran has used “يُسر” (yusr) against “عُسر” (usr) in (2:185).

Surah Bani Israel says:

17:27 talk to them politely (softly)

Surah Al-Ahzaab says ""يَسِيرةً" (yaseera) in (33:14) which means “at least, very few, few in number, for some time or few in number”.

Surah Al-Baqrah says about drinking and gambling:

2:219 There is a great sin and some benefit in both of them for the people, the sin in both is far greater than the benefit.

""ميسير" (maisirun), has come from ""يُسر" (yusr) which basically means “ease”. Although the Arabs call every type of gambling ""ميسير" (maisar), but if it is not confined to the particular type of gambling which is played by arrows in a certain manner and in which a camel’s meat was divided accordingly (win or lose), then it would mean any wealth or riches that a man gets easily.

Although this type of wealth that is acquired easily is generally welcomed, it produces laziness and slackens the will to work. See heading (A-T-M). Such earnings are more hurtful in the long run than the benefits derived. Therefore, this sort of wealth has been forbidden to acquire.

As such it has been called ""رِجْسَ مِن عَمَلِ الشَّيْطَانِ" (rijsoon min amalish shaitaan), that is, “a work of the devil” (5:90). This has been said to be a hurdle in the system of salaat advocated by the Quran (5:91). The Quran teaches that a man should earn through his efforts, and whatever is more than his needs, should be made available for the sustenance of others (2:219).

Obviously wealth, if acquired easily without much effort, will make a man habitual of such effortless acquisition and will thus weaken his abilities as the human Self develops when it participates actively in meeting the challenges of life. The easily acquired wealth increases the lust for more wealth, and instead of sharing it with others, man is always trying to grab whatever he can for himself, like any gambler wishes to do. Therefore any wealth that is acquired without much effort is ""ميسير" (maisar). Under the capitalist system most large businesses are based on the exploitation of the labour class especially those in the so called developing world and actually comes under “مَﻴْﺴِﺮٌ” (maisar). If one goes deep into the basic meaning then he will find that the entire capitalist system is “مَﻴْﺴِﺮٌ” (maisar). In this system every man endeavours to reap the benefits of the work of others and those at the lower end of the society become poorer with every passing day. This is the state of the world as we see it today.

The Quran has said that if you want to acquire real ease and comfort in life, then face difficulties:

| 94:5 | Indeed, in hardship, there is ease |

The individual or nation which is shy of facing difficulties can never really acquire ease which creates real happiness, although he can attain “ﻳُﺴْﺮٌ” (yusr), i.e. “easy money” which makes it habitual of laziness and weakness and which ultimately leads to self-destruction.

Yaqoob

Иعقوб

Ibrahim’s son was Ishaq and his son was Yaqoob. Allah has mentioned him among the messengers.

| 2:136 | And We gave the revelation to Ibrahim and Ismail and Is-haaq and Yaqoob |

His (Yaqoob’s) title was Israel and his descendants were called Bani Israel (descendants of Israel).

Surah Aal-e-Imraan says:

| 3:92 | Except of which Israel had forbidden for themselves |

Surah Maryam says:

| 19:58 | The progeny from Ibrahim and Israeel |

Yusuf was his son.

Ya’ooq

یعوق

This was the name of an idol of the nation of Noah (71:23). The Arabs were well familiar with this name. The tribe of Banu Hamdaan used to worship an idol of this name as well.

Yaghoos

یغوش

It was also an idol of the nation of Noah (71:23) and the Arabs were familiar with this name as well. The tribe of Banu Murad used to worship an idol of this name.

Yaqteen

یقطين

(al-yaqteen): a vine which spreads out on the ground, like that of melons, gourds, etc. Some say that “یقطين” (yaqteen) means a gourd vine, and also that “یقطينه” (yaqteenah) means gourd {T, M, R}.

Taj-ul-Uroos says that a plant with the life of one year is called “یقطين” (yaqteen) and that every big leaf is called “یقطينه” (yaqteen).

Y-Q-Ze

Y-Q-Ze

(al-yaqzha): awakening. It is the opposite of “naum” (naum) which means “sleep”. It has the connotation of astuteness (being wide awake).

(rajualun yaqizu), “yqa’iz”: a man awake. Its plural is “aiqaaz” (ai-qaz) as against “raqud” (18:18).

(abul yaqzaan): a rooster (the masculine of hen) {T}.

Y-Q-N

(yaqinal amra), “yatlaqahu”, “tayyqqanah): he came to know about the matter and found out the truth about it.

(yaqnun), “yqan”: for some matter to be evident and proven.

(yaqa’in): it is the opposite of doubt, i.e. for doubts to be removed and to be proven as true {T}.

Death too is called “yaqeen” because every living being has to face it, and daily events give testimony to this {T}.

Surah Al-Anaam says about Ibrahim:

6:67 He reached the truth after observing the universal laws

Surah Al-Hijr says:

15:99 You continue following the laws given by your Provider till your claims (that following this system will prove very rewarding) are proven as a truth

Thus “imam” (imaan) would mean “to trust someone that he is telling the truth” and “yaqeen” (yaqeen) would mean “for it to be proven as palpable truth” (74:47).

102:6 you will see it as a proven fact

The Quran says that the momineen have “yaqeen” (yaqeen) on the “akhirat” (aakhirah). This means that they have faith in the future results of their deeds (2:3). When they establish this system (of Allah), these results are factually made evident. This way their “imam” (imaan) turns to “yaqeen” (yaqeen) (2:2). This is what belief or faith in the “akhirat” (aakhirah) means. This way man travels from “imam” (imaan) to “yaqeen” (yaqeen) and has faith that in the life “akhirat” (aakhirat) too is a reality.

The distinction drawn between “imaan” and “yaqeen” (imaan) is only for the convenience of readers to understand the two terms otherwise “imaan” (imaan) is another name for “yi’in” (yaqeen), and “yi’in” (yaqeen) cannot be produced without “imam” (imaan). These two words are alternatives to express the same inner state of a momin: or one can say that “yi’in” (yaqeen) takes birth when the “imam” (imaan) is proven by the results:

Y-M-M

(al-yamaam): to intend {T, M).

(an-nayammum): to intend to do something, to intend {T, M} (5:6, 4:43, 2:267).

Also see heading (M-S-He).
“Y-M-N”

(al-yumn): profusion, not physically but in effect.
(al-maimanah): profusion towards the right side.
al-yaman): on the right side. al-yameen): right hand, on the right side. It also means “strength” /R/. yameen): to promise or to swear. The plural is “ayman” (aimaan). The Arabs used to strike their right hand over the other when they swore /T, M/.

Surah Al-Kahaf says:

18:18 On their right and their left sides
28:30 From the corner of the blessed valley (or from the right corner of the valley)

To mean “oath” the word “aimaanukum” has been used in (2:224).
For “marriage” the words “a’qadat aimaanukum” has been used in (4:33).
To mean “blessing”, the words “ashaabil yameen” have been used in (56:27), and also “ashaabul maimanah” in (56:8), but they can also mean “those on the right side”.

(at-tooril aiman): power (19:52).

Surah As-Sa’affaat says:

37:93 Ibrahim struck the statues (idols) with full might or power
37:28 they will say that you used to come to us with tremendous strength and means (and thus used to prevent us from adopting the path of the truth)

At several places the Quran has said “ma malakat aimaanukum”. Literally it means “whose possessors”. At some places this phrase means “those who are your subordinates or under you” as in (4:36). But at other places it means “slaves” and “slave-girls”.

Before Islam’s advent slavery prevailed in the Arab culture. Slaves used to work outside the home and slave-girls within. This was the society in which Islam made its advent. When the Arabs turned to Islam they had these slaves and slave-girls. Islam had made its appearance to free mankind but if it advocated freedom for all slaves (who were present in the society at that time) at once, then this would have created imbalance in the society as these freed human beings had nowhere to go to earn a living. Young women in such large numbers without husbands (the slave-girls), if let loose in a society, would certainly create chaos and would have given rise to more corruption in the society. Therefore Islam didn’t order them all to be freed from bondage at once, but closed the door to any more slavery for ever. At the same time it gave such orders for slaves and the slave girls then present in the society, that they would gradually induct as free men and women in the society as respectable equal human beings. Till they did so, they would be treated humanely. Whatever has been referred in the Quran under this term “ma malakat aimaanukum” has been said about these slaves and slave women. Thereafter, the door to further slavery was closed – the Quran at a fundamental level does not want any human being to be subservient to any other human being at a Self level (82:19).

Therefore there was no further need for these orders, although if a situation arises again in the future like when a nation accepts Islam and comes out of paganism, then the orders about slaves and slave-women would also apply to them.
As per the above meanings of "\text{ما ملکت ايمانكم} (ma malakat aimanukum) if we view various places in the Quran where the phrase has appeared, it will become clear that these orders are for the slaves and slave-girls of that time, and that’s all (not for all times).

7:29 \hspace{1cm} those who protect their chastity or go only to those women (for having sex) whom they possess

7:30 \hspace{1cm} ولذين هم للزوجين خليطون الأعلى الزوجة

Everywhere this subject has cropped up, the past tense has been used.

For more details, see heading \((M-L-K)\).

It is unfortunate that \text{Muslim} rulers in the past found it a convenient way to open the door to slavery and presented these verses of the Quran as an argument in support of their deeds.

\section*{Yahood}

This is the other name of the nation of \text{Bani Israel}.

For details, see heading “Moosa” and heading \((He-W-D)\).

\section*{Yusuf}

\textit{Ibrahim} was the father of \textit{Ishaq}, his son was \textit{Yaqoob} and his son was \textit{Yusuf}.

The Quran has mentioned the story about him in a single Surah. No other messenger’s story has been related in such detail in one go. In childhood his brothers had put him in an abandoned well (12:15). From there, a caravan took him to Egypt. Thereafter going through various stages, he became the leader of that nation in an authoritative way (12:56, 12:101).

He brought over his family, kith and kin to live with him in Egypt. In this way, the \textit{Bani Israel} i.e. descendants of \textit{Yaqoob} shifted to Egypt from \textit{Kan’aan}. Surah \textit{Al-Anaam} mentions \textit{Yusuf} while speaking of other messengers (6:85) and in Surah \textit{Al-Momin a momin} man of the court of the Pharaoh describes \textit{Yusuf} as a messenger (40:34). This shows that \textit{Yusuf} had communicated his message (about Allah’s system) to the nation of Egypt.

The story of \textit{Yusuf’s} life and his wonderful characteristics can be found the book titled ‘\textit{Jooy-e-Noor}’.
“\(\text{youm}\)” (youn): day, the time from sunrise to sunset. This word is used by the Arabs to mean a certain time or era. There is no distinction in it for day or night, morning or evening. It could mean “one year” or “a century”, “a thousand years” or even “fifty thousand years”. Like with “\(\text{waqt}\)” (waqt) and “\(\text{saa'}at\)” (saa’at), after “\(\text{youm}\)” (youn), “\(\text{iz}\)” (iz) is added and “\(\text{yoomaizin}\)” (yoomaizin) almost means the same thing as “\(\text{waqtaizin}\)” (waqtaizin) and “\(\text{saa'taizin}\)” {T, M}.

So, “\(\text{waqt}\)” (waqt), “\(\text{saa'}at\)” (saa’at) and “\(\text{youm}\)” (youn) are nearly of the same meaning, i.e. “time period”. The plural of “\(\text{youm}\)” (youn) is “\(\text{ayyaam}\)” (ayyaam) {T, M}.

Ibn Faris says “\(\text{youm}\)” (youn) means “day” and he has also said that figuratively it means “a great thing”. It also means “government”, “power” and “wealth” {R}.

3:140 And we alternate these ayyam among the people

Here “\(\text{ayyam}\)” (ayyam) means government and state {R}.

“\(\text{ayyam}\)” (ayyam) also appears to mean “the great and unforgettable events of history”, like “\(\text{ayyamul Arab}\)” (ayyamul Arb) which means “the era of the Arabs” {R}. At various places in the Quran (ayyamul-laah) has come to mean this.

14:5 And remind them of the ayyam of Allah

For the confrontation between the Pharaoh and Moosa, it has been said that these “\(\text{ayyamul laah}\)” (ayyamul-laah) occurred because:

45:14 So that a nation was punished for its (evil) deeds

Therefore some scholars say that “\(\text{ayyam}\)” (ayyam) means “the results of bad deeds” and “punishments” too {T}.

The evolution as created by Allah continues unbridled in the universe. About this the Quran says that when Allah, according to His will wants to bring forth some scheme, then He creates a complete blueprint for this plan in the world of amr. Then its implementation begins from the lowest stage:

Then that scheme rises up by going through its evolutionary stages. These stages are completed in “\(\text{younms}\)” (younms) which according to man’s calculations could be a thousand years long:

32:5 Then it will ascend to him in a day which will have the length of a thousand years of your count

Obviously here “\(\text{youn}\)” (youn) means either stage or era or evolutionary period. This “\(\text{youn}\)” (youn) is sometime fifty thousand years long as noted in (70:4). Researchers about evolution are better qualified to testify as to how long these evolutionary periods are.

Therefore, wherever the word “\(\text{youn}\)” (youn) is used in the Quran, it will not mean “a day” which is only 24 hours long. The meaning would be “time”, or “period”, or “era”, or some “stage”:

1:3 The era when all opponents (of Islam) are defeated and only the laws of Allah enjoy supremacy and dominance

Or this would mean “the era in which the results of men are compiled as per justice”, or “the time of manifestation of results”.
82:19 the era when predominance will only be to Allah’s laws

For more details, see heading (D-Y-N).

Yunus

Yunus is among the messengers of Bani Israel. His Hebrew name was Jonah which in Arabic became Yunus. The Torah mentions his story in the Book of Jonah.

His time is guessed to have been around 700 BC.

The Quran says:

In the Torah (in the Book of Jonah) there are details about him, but against the usual style of the Torah, it contains things about him which are not befitting a messenger. The Quran has only said that he became disappointed with his nation and came out intending to go somewhere other than that place and on the way boarded some boat. The boat was entrapped in some whirlpool. The sailors probably decided to throw some boarders into the sea (to lighten the boat and save most of the passengers). He too was thrown into the river where a big fish swallowed him, but ultimately he survived and reached the shore. See (37:139-146), (21:87-88).

Messengers have generally migrated to a place more conducive to their missions if their present place of abode was found not conducive to their mission. But this migration took place only when told to do so under Allah’s orders. It seems that Yunus migrated from his nation at his own accord, i.e. his decision to do so was not in compliance to Allah’s orders. It was before time. Therefore later he repented this decision (37:142).

Messenger Muhammed was warned not to be like the “Fish Man” (68:28) i.e. like Yunus. Also see heading (A-B-Q).

The Quran has also said that the dwelling Nainwa, which he was sent to as a Messenger had a population of over one hundred thousand. In other words it was a very big city of those times. The residents of Nainwa initially denied his invitation to accept Islam, but later accepted Islam and so avoided the punishment which would have befallen them if they had not (37:148). The residents managed to avoid destruction a bit by doing this, but after some time (in nearly 690 BC) they returned to the previous path again. Another messenger of the Bani Israel, whom the Quran has not mentioned but who is mentioned in the traditions of the Jews, warned them of the punishment from or wrath of God. They did not desist and as a result they were attacked on one side by the Babylonians and on the other they faced a big flood, and so the city of Nainwa was destroyed.

The Quran has called him "ذَﺍ ﺍﻟْﻨُﻮْﻥٌ (zan-nun) in (21:87) and also as "صاحب الخوّت“ (ashaab-il-huut).
Lillah-il-hamd

Thanks to Allah, Lughat-ul-Quran is hereby completed.

Thanks to Allah that by its completion the labour of my life has been protected in this book. I guess that in the presence of the Lughat-ul-Quran there will be no difficulty in comprehending the Quran.

This, however, is a human endeavour which is subject to errors. I have laid a foundation in comprehending the Quran and others can improve it.

Reflection and deliberation in the Quran can never end, and therefore there can be no last human word in this context.
